When the log has been adjusted, it rapidly advances to the saw, and in a very few seconds its water soaked sides have been trimmed by the sharp teeth. The carriage flies back to the starting place with the swiftness of the wind, and it is enough to make one shudder to see it go. You expect every instant that one of the men will be thrown off and terribly injured. They learn to balance themselves, however, though there are frequent accidents. One instant of inattention on the part of the head sawyer, who regulates the speed of the carriage by his lever, would send the carriage flying back to the end of the mill with tremendous force and probably kill both of the men. One of the men on the carriage, called the "setter," fixes the width of the board to be sawed on signal from the head sawyer; the other man is the second sawyer.

As I stood one day in one of these mills, watching the men flying forth and back on the narrow carriage, and almost expecting that one or both of them would be thrown off in the swiftness of their flight, I took out my watch and timed them, and I found that they traveled on an average on this little railroad not more than 20 feet long, 168,000 feet a day, or about 31 miles.

On Ships' Beds.

The Arundel Castle is the finest boat I have seen in these seas. She is thoroughly modern, and that statement covers a great deal of ground. She has the usual defect, the common defect, the universal defect, the defect that has never been missing from any ship that ever sailed—she has imperfect beds. Many ships have good beds, but no ship has very good ones. In the matter of beds all ships have been badly edited, ignorantly edited, from the beginning. The selection of the beds is given to some hearty, strong backed, self made man, when it ought to be given to a frail woman accustomed from girlhood to backaches and insomnia. Nothing is so rare on either side of the ocean as a perfect bed; nothing is so difficult to make. Some of the hotels on both sides provide it, but no ship ever does or ever did. In Noah's ark the beds were simply scandalous. Noah set the fashion, and it will endure in one degree of modification or another until the next flood. —"Following the Equator," by Mark Twain, in McClure's.

His Bluff.

When the young man called to ask for the old man's daughter, the latter naturally thought it was necessary to put up a good bluff, that being the usual method of procedure. Consequently he looked solemn, coughed once or twice as a sort of preliminary, communed with himself a minute or two, coughed again and asked:

"Can you support her in the style to which she has been accustomed?"

"If I couldn't," returned the young man promptly, "I ought to be ashamed of myself."

The old man's bluff was called.—Chicago Post.

Smoking in Germany is not a pastime. It is an art, and an art that has grouped about it a respectable number of industries. Every smoker carries a cigar case, a cigar clipper, matchbox and usually a little leather box for the cigar tips. The tips are collected by a society organized for the purpose in each province and are sold to the manufacturer for the benefit of charitable institutions.

"Only nervous" is a sure indication that the blood is not pure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures nervousness.

ABOUT THE WEATHER.

Mr. Wingleby Explains to Georgie About the Seasons.

"You see, Georgie," said Mr. Wingleby, whose youthful son had asked him how we came to have different kinds of weather, "the weather is put up in tin cans, a day's weather to a can, and usually they put up about a year's supply ahead, enough to last through a spring, summer, autumn and winter. In filling the cans they sort it all out as well as possible. Sometimes when they get a can full there may be a little left over, and whatever remains in this way they throw into one lot. When they've got pretty nearly all the cans full and the regular stock of weather has run out, they fill up from that lot of odds and ends. The cans so filled contain what is called variable weather, because it's mixed, but most of the weather they get pretty well sorted out according to the season.

"When they've got all the cans filled, they stack 'em up where they'll be handy to get at, and there's a man that does nothing but open them. Every day he cuts a can and pours out the weather for that day, and of course a great deal depends upon him. Sometimes this man gets careless and pulls down a lot of the wrong cans, getting them, say, from the July shelf in the month of April and likely as not getting down a week's supply at once, so as to have them handy on the opening table. Of course he discovers his mistake the first can he opens, but he is too lazy to put the rest back, and so he keeps on then until he has opened them all, and that's how it comes about, as it sometimes does, that we get a hot spell at a season when we ought to have nothing but cool weather.

"But of course those April cans are not lost. They must be around somewhere, and we get 'em later. Maybe the man will sprinkle them along with the hope that we won't notice them much, but as likely as not he opens them one after another together, maybe after some terribly hot spell in July or August, when they are sure to be a blessed relief, and if he does this we are pretty apt to forgive him his mistake in April."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Foremost Medical Company in the World in the Cure of Weak Men Makes this Offer.

HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissues and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N. Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of material.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

Chimneys narrow, chimneys crooked, chimneys covered and small and smoky and tall—everyone has puzzled old Santa Claus until he reached the right one—the easy chimney that's square and wide and low—down which he comes. SEWER ARBITRATION.

The Township's Motion to be Dismissed With Costs Unless Action is Brought.

At Osgoode Hall yesterday, re Township of North Monaghan and Town of Peterborough—Watson, Q.C., for the township, moved for order enforcing an award between the township and town by directing payments of costs. E. B. Edwards, (Peterborough), for the town, contra. The question between the parties was whether certain costs which the town agreed to pay included the costs of an action and injunction motion. The learned judge was of the opinion that the facts being in dispute, and a considerable sum of money involved, the question could not be properly disposed of upon a summary application, upon conflicting affidavits, and therefore directed that unless an action should be brought in one month, the motion should be dismissed with costs. If action so brought, costs of this motion to be disposed of by the learned judge himself after the final determination of such action.

"HISTORIC DAYS" OF CANADA.

A Beautiful Sequel to the Cabot Calendar.

The Cabot Calendar compiled by Miss Sara Mickle and Miss Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon was a new departure in the way of calendars and in originality of conception, beauty of artistic design, completeness of historical data, and revelation of the wealth of historic interest in the annals of Canada, was well worthy of the wide-spread interest and admiration it elicited. The sequel, so to speak, of this beautiful calendar is another by the same collaborators, for the year 1898, at hand through the kindness of Miss Fitzgibbon, which fully equals if it does not surpass, its prototype. An historical fact is given for every day in the year, and all the diurnal incidents are new as compared with last year, with the most important incidents red lettered.

Every page is an artistic gem in arrangement and illumination — crimson, blue and gold, and several subordinate tones. The beaver, associated with the Canadian coat of arms, is prominent, and the calendar compartments are flanked on the left by scrolls of the maple leaf in printemps green, interwoven with fleurs de lis. Every page of the twelve is also enriched with historic buildings and objects, like the quaint "Abitasion du Port Royal," the first permanent French settlement, Fort Garry, old Fort Niagara, first Parliament buildings in Toronto—1797, Chateau de Longueuil, etc. Among the page illustrations of special interest is that of the Drapeau de Carillon, the consecrated banner borne by Montcalm's army when Abercromby was defeated at Ticonderoga (Carillon). It was of this flag that Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke in France last summer as "The flag of the old monarchy, which his countrymen preserved as the apple of their eye, beloved by the French and respected by the English." The flag is now in Laval University and is paralled only once a year, at the feast of St. John, June 24th. Another notable page illustration is a sketch of a portion of a map of the world illuminated by Juan de la Cosa, and is the earliest map extant which shows the discoveries of John Cabot. This map bears the inscription in Spanish: "Juan de Cosa made it in the Port of Santa Maria in the year 1500." The calendar reproduction of this map was traced by Miss Fitzgibbon from a fac simile in the British Museum, the original being in Madrid.

Altogether the "Historic Days" of Canada is a most beautiful production, beautiful to behold and as useful and instructive as beautiful. It is a credit to the clever compilers, to the draughtsmen, Messrs. J. D. and Percy Kelly, the executants, the Toronto Lithographic Company and the publisher, Mr. William Briggs, all of Toronto. Price 75 cents—a small sum for a work of so much artistic beauty and wealth of concise historical information.

THE BAZAAR CONCERT.

Which was held in the Opera House Last Evening.

The Bazaar Concert, which was held last evening in the opera house, attracted even a larger crowd than usual to the sale of work for the benefit of St. Joseph's Hospital and the House of Providence.

Mr. D. O'Connell occupied the chair, and the programme was presented as follows:

Song.....Convent pupils
Recitation.....Little Carrie White
Vocal duet.....Miss L Jackson and Mr J Brown
Vocal solo, (comic).....Miss Levita Halliban
Recitation.....Miss Lily Simons
Vocal solo.....Jas Brown
Drill.....Convent pupils
Vocal solo.....Miss Annie Simons
Instrumental duet.....The Misses Doris Vocal solo.....Miss Jennie Riley
Vocal solo.....Miss Lily Jackson
Tableau.....Vision of Joan of Arc

One of the most interesting numbers on the programme was the rendition by little six-year-old Carrie White, daughter of Mr. Elerio White. The wee tot quite carried the audience away with her in her cute recitation, in which she related the troubles of her dollies.

The Bazaar is to be continued this evening, when a number of prizes will be awarded.

SANTA CLAUS AT KUTZBACH'S TWO STORES.

The Enormous Drawing Powers of Small Wares—Many Little Magnets Crowd These Two Stores.

If you or your children want to see Toyland, make a visit to Mr. C. F. Kutzbach's store on George street, or his branch store on the corner of Water and Hunter street. It will cost nothing to bring the children and will enable the little ones to pass a pleasant hour.

Never before has such a collection of toys and holiday goods been displayed in Peterborough, marked at such low prices. Mr. Kutzback believes that he is wise in keeping the little items of the toy and notion department to act as trade stimulators and crowd distributors. These, when sold at prices that would bankrupt any ordinary toy store, catch the crowds. While using the toys department in this way a sacrifice of profit is entailed for that department, but the store sustains no loss considering all interests. The idea is now pretty well abroad that toys of all kinds can be bought at Kutzbach's two stores cheaper than at regular toy stores, and when a merchant gets a reputation for selling the little every day purchases cheap he has scored a good point. Cutting the heart out of prices, of course, is not advisable, although this seems to be about what is being done in the toy line by Mr. Kutzbach. He states that he could just as well have larger profits, but having bought his large stock by the wholesale, he can well afford to make toys cheap to the little ones during Xmas times.

GOLDEN WEDDING BELLS.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Beavis Have Been Fifty Years Married.

On Wednesday, Dec. 15th, 1847, at the home of William Nelson, in the fourth concession of Otonabee, Adam Beavis and Janet Nelson were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. John Sanderson, of the then extensive Norwood circuit.

In the providence of God they have been allowed to enjoy fifty years of happy married life. Wednesday, December 15th, 1897, being the occasion of their golden wedding, their children and grandchildren, immediate relatives and several acquaintances were called to the homestead in Asphodel to celebrate an event which comes but once in a lifetime, and which but few married people are allowed to enjoy.

Of the seven sons and three daughters now living, all were present except Wm., of Vancouver, B.C. Of the eighteen grandchildren now living, all were present except Arthur Beavis, of Vancouver, B.C., and Wilford A. Beavis, of Beresford, South Dakota. Of the immediative relatives, Wm. Nelson, of Otonabee, and Mrs. S. Nelson, of Lakefield, brother and sister of the bride, and Mr. Jas. Carter, half brother of the groom, responded to the call. Rev. J. A. Jewell and wife, of the Methodist church, Hastings, and Rev. A. Campbell, former pastor at Hastings, and Mrs. Campbell were also present.

In the afternoon an interesting ceremony was performed, when Rev. R. B. Beavis, of Beresford, of South Dakota, baptised Mabel Holmes, infant daughter of William and Ida Christie, Peterborough, only great grandchild of the bride and groom, and Adam Stanley Laing, infant son of Eben and Annie Laing, of Norwood. The Rev. A. R. Campbell and Rev. J. A. Jewell assisted in the ceremony, baptising Earl Beavis and Mabel Elizabeth the two eldest children of Eben and Anne Laing. After the youngest daughter had read a beautifully worded address, signed by John W. Beavis, in which the love and esteem of the family were expressed, the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast. After an hour of social enjoyment R. B. Beavis was called to the chair and impromptu songs, recitations and speeches made the evening a pleasant one. Rev. A. R. Campbell, on being called on, said that the event we celebrated was one that could only be enjoyed once by a married couple, expressed his great pleasure at being present, said that he had been intimately associated with the worthy couple as their pastor, had mingled with them in their joys and sorrow, and in the great affliction that visited their home he had found them firm and true in their faith in God. In the more humble days of pioneer life their home was a welcome place for the itinerant minister—by industry and an unimpeachable character they had attained to some prosperity. They had always been true to their church, and as far as he knew had always stood by their minister. Mr. Campbell said if he and his wife were spared to celebrate their golden wedding it would give him great joy to see Brother and Sister Beavis there.

Mrs. Campbell spoke of the high esteem in which she held the bride and groom—referred in beautifully chosen and feeling words to loving remembrances of Melford and Mabel, and spoke of them as attentive and lovable scholars in Sabbath school. She had been with them in the last moments and would always cherish loving remembrances of their lives and character.

In responding, the bride and groom spoke of their gratitude to God in being permitted to live so long. Only three of those who were at the wedding fifty years ago were present to-night. Regrets were expressed at the absence of Will in British Columbia.

The hymn "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love" was sung, after which the Rev. A. R. Campbell led in appropriate words of prayer.

The Rev. J. A. Jewell was compelled to leave shortly after dinner to attend a wedding.

The bride and groom were the recipients of numerous valuable and appropriate presents.

GOOD FLOUR AND HOW TO USE IT.

A Talk on Bread, Breakfast, Cakes, Pastry, Pudding, etc.

Every good housekeeper will admit that to eat good bread, pastry and cakes, to serve up a toothsome plum pudding, or to make a success of Christmas baking, good flour is essential.

The ladies owe a considerable debt of gratitude to our enterprising townsman, Mr. C. B. McAllister, of the McAllister Milling Co., for the very useful, practical and interesting book on "Good Flour and how to use it," which he has just published. Mr. McAllister treats the subject of how to produce good flour in a practical and skilful manner and explains very clearly how the best results are obtained by a careful manipulation of the important ingredients forming the different varieties of wheat. The hard spring wheat grown in Manitoba, the soft spring grown both in Manitoba and Ontario, and the red and white winter wheat grown in Ontario only, has afforded this enterprising Company an opportunity of selecting the very best for making their fine leading brands, namely:—"Pure Cream," best household flour for bread, cakes and buns; "Crown of Gold," another household patent for bread and cakes; "Mascot," a purely pastry patent; "Klondyke," a family flour for general use; "Arrow Patent," a Manitoba patent for bakers' use, bread only. In presenting his book, Mr. McAllister explains the constituents and uses of the different brands of flour, and the large number of recipes and formulas contained in its covers are of exceptional value and are known to be excellent, having passed the ordeal of practical trial and been endorsed by housekeepers of experience. Its pages give information as to the preparation of food in its plainer forms as well as in what may be termed the ornamental character. In all the recipes the proportion of ingredients is given and the instruction is so plain that even the most inexperienced may not err. The McAllister Company propose to make distribution of the books, and will be glad to supply copies to all who may wish to have them, gratis. The book is artistically printed and bound in crimson cloth covers, and a copy should be found in every home.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Blue Rain prophets assert that Ontario is on the verge of direct taxation. This would indicate that they really believe that Mr. Whitney and his friends are coming into power.

THE criticisms of the Mail and Empire upon the finances of the Government, are in the jugular vein—it gives it to Mr. Harcourt "in the neck" by saying that "as a juggler of figures, Hon. Mr. Harcourt is easily first." Large isn't it?

HEAVY Opposition election policies—Mr. Marter's egg and tomato sauce policy; Dr. Ryerson's calf-with-a-cough policy; and Mr. St. John's piggery policy. Thus we have fish, flesh and—fowl, and "red-herring" to cross the scent and draw public attention from real issues.

OUR local contemporary, the Review, remarks:—"No one will be surprised that the Patron wing of the Liberal party lined up with the Government in the first division." Why shouldn't the Patrons do this? The organ insinuates or at least the inference is deducible, that the Patron members in the House were influenced by unworthy motives. But the fact is that the representatives of a body that is moved by motives of interest in the welfare of the Province and not by party considerations, pay a high compliment to the Ontario Government whose course they are able to endorse. The Opposition's antipathy to the Ontario Agricultural College, the only educational institution maintained expressly for the benefit of the farmer, is not the only means they have of taking a fling at the farmers of the Province.

HAMILTON GROANS

Mr. I. McFarlane, 246 Wellington street N., Hamilton, says:—"Was very bad with rheumatism for many weeks—cured with two bottles of South American Rheumatic Cure." Mrs. Phillips, sr., corner of Hunter and Gaith streets, Hamilton, says:—"South American Rheumatic Cure is the quickest relief for rheumatism I ever tried." Mrs. Parkin, Binbrook, says:—"I had sciatica so badly I could not put my feet to the floor; pains were intense. Great relief from one bottle—four bottles completely cured." Mr. J. S. Bates, Grandford, writes:—"South American Rheumatic Cure is the best remedy in the world for acute rheumatism. Have tried it and know." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

HISTORY AS A SUBJECT CLEVERLY CONSIDERED.

AN ABLE PAPER BY MR J. McCAIG, OF THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

A Paper Read at the Town Teachers' Association—The Subject of History Intelligently and Intelligibly Dealt With—Highly Spoken of by our Best Educators.

At the recent meeting of the Town Teachers' Association, one of the subjects presented was that of History, in relation to both teaching and learning, by Mr. J. McCaig, M.A., LL.B., History and Junior English Master in the Collegiate. The subject was so cleverly and comprehensively handled as to win the praise not only of the teachers present, but some of our most able and intellectual citizens, one of whom said that it was the most able treatment of the subject that had come under his hearing. It is therefore desirable that it should be placed before the readers of the EXAMINER, as suggested by members of the Board of Education:

HISTORY.

The treatment of the subject of history herein proposed, takes account of it from two sides—the theoretical and the practical. The former division will be concerned with an examination of the nature, value and importance of history, and the latter with the scientific principles underlying it. It will be seen that these phases are complementary. A teacher, to be successful, must have a full appreciation of the value of his subject as well as a proper method of presenting it.

The word "value" as applied to a subject requires some explanation. Our Public and High School curriculums embrace a number of subjects. If these subjects were equal and similar in value as instruments to mental development, it would only be necessary to teach one of them, and it would not matter which one was taught; but this is not the case. The group of subjects which are the basis of instruction should, whether they do or not, exercise and develop the different functions of mind—the intellect, emotions and will in such a way as to produce a well balanced and harmonious mind—one that will of it to promote his own good as well as to discharge the duties of citizenship intelligently, efficiently and honourably. A man's education should help him to feel and know the relations in which he properly stands to other men, as well as help him to provide for himself.

In saying that a man's education should help him to provide for himself it is not to be understood that it is to furnish him with any specific knowledge of which his subsequent life is the application. There is a perennial howling for the practical. Short-sighted people say: "Give the pupils something that will be of direct assistance to them in after life." It is to be hoped that this fallacy will soon not require ventilation among either parents or teachers. As a matter of fact we remember only the parts of our education that we use every day, and we use very little of it. A person could in a few months learn as much of any of these subjects as is required to carry on business, and many have acquired all this knowledge out of school. Must we conclude from this that the greater part of education is useless? Not by any means. The effect of study is knowledge, but it is the study rather than the knowledge that is important from the standpoint of the educator. The knowledge is important in that it is through building the fabric of organized knowledge in the mind of the pupil that mental development is secured.

Besides, this is practical. It is practical in a higher, wider, larger and more liberal sense than that in which the word is customarily used. The subject might be made concrete by an example. Of two parents, one puts his son at a trade on leaving the Public School; the other, after at least two years in the High School or Collegiate Institute. The latter boy will learn as much about the trade in two years after leaving the High School, as the former will in the four years of his apprenticeship. He will have besides greater possibilities for

PROGRESS IN THE FUTURE.

The former will be an artisan, labouring mechanically; the latter an artist, who sees all he does in relation to a larger whole, of which his work is a part. The reason is obvious. The measure of any one's success, apart from differences in natural gifts, is the measure of that one's power of concentrated attention and this power of attention can be acquired in no way so well as in study. The mastery of ideas calls forth the highest exercise of power on the part of the individual. The first lesson a student has to learn is isolation and self dependence and this calls for an exercise of the will. Another reason for the success of the student is that his traffic in ideas has given him a susceptibility to new ideas. In common phraseology he is quick to learn. This capacity is a quality of mind rather than a matter of content of mind. It is to be carefully remembered then that in speaking of the value of a subject we mean its use as an instrument to mental development.

This is essentially and peculiarly the attitude of the educator to a subject. It must still be remembered that mental discipline is secured by means of organized knowledge, is valuable for its own sake. It is due to the subject of history, on account of the high place it holds in this respect, to investigate its knowledge value as well as its descriptive value.

To be able to make a just estimate of the value of history, we must have a clear understanding of what history is.

History, in its broadest sense, is an account of man—of his progress within the time during which records have been preserved—in government, religion, art, science and mind. History may be universal or special as to scope. A universal history would give an account of man's progress and activity over the whole world; a special history would apply to his progress in a single country. Another way in which specialization has taken place in recent years is in treating of single phases of man's progress. We have his progress in government set forth in what are called constitutional histories; his progress in religion, in ecclesiastical histories, and his progress in art, science, literature and commerce in works devoted wholly to each. For school purposes we have text books that aim to be general in that they take account, more or less particularly, of the sum of the activities of man in the countries to which the histories pertain.

EARLY HISTORIANS

devoted a large measure of attention to wars, battles and conquests, and naturally enough, as the business of nations in early times was war to a greater extent than is the case now. Apart from the military duties which the acceptance of a feud or fief imposed on a baron under the feudal system, such vassals were practically monarchs within their own domain and we find them constantly at war with one another and even with the kings. This was particularly the case in the later middle ages. Out of this internecine strife, modern monarchies were evolved; feudalism was shattered and a centralized authority built upon its ruins. The case of Henry VII. of England will readily suggest itself. This centralization of authority made for peace within the realm itself, at least, and hence gave opportunities for the pursuit of the peaceful arts and for mental improvement. National and personal ideals have changed, with this change. We now have a commercial age—an age in which the

of a nation, rather than its cannons, constitute its chief strength. This, on the other hand, has been fatal to the power to which it owes its existence. The heightening of the intelligence, the spread of education and the growth of the sense of the responsibility of citizenship have left monarchy nothing but a name.

In sympathy with these changes history has widened. It has become more democratic. Green, who is perhaps the most representative general historian of the nineteenth century in England, prefaces his work by saying its aim is defined by its title—that it is a history not of the English kings nor the English conquests, but of the English people; hence he proposes to dwell on the constitutional, intellectual and social advance in which we read the history of the nation itself. But from whatever side a historian approaches his subject, it is still concerned with the ACTIVITIES OF MAN.

As such its value and importance to man could not well be over estimated. We recall Plato's dictum: "Homo sum;

After a cure by "Seventy-seven" you will feel fine. Not like a rag, all played out as if you had been drawn through a knot hole; as you do after other treatment; because "77" besides curing the Cold, tones up the system, braces you up, never lets you run down; is a tonic from start to finish. You will appreciate this when you consider how debilitating a Cold and especially La Grippe is.

humani nihil a me alienum puto," or Pope's modified version: "The proper study of mankind is man." In this light history should be of deep interest to men.

Besides indicating the interest of the subject, the investigation of the nature of history should enable us to understand its specific use as an instrument to education, that is, to see what part it will play in informing the intellect, affecting the sensibilities and in giving energy to the will power of the pupil.

The most indifferent teaching of the subject, as for example, making it simply a cramming of facts or events, will train the memory to some extent. The subject has the highest value for this purpose when properly organized and related. Another of the intellectual faculties which it exercises is the reasoning power. The study of every event in history involves the two essential functions of thinking, viz: analysis and synthesis. An event never exists independent of others before and after it, but is as necessary to these and to the whole current of history as of a chain is to the whole chain. A third faculty cultivated by history is the imagination. Its value in this respect resembles that of geography. The study of geography may bring before you the whole of a city or country; the reading of history may make the whole past of a country or the life of a single individual almost as real as actual experience. In one case you may be transported to the shores of the Bosphorus, to the city of the Sultan, with its domes and crescents, and sunny streets and lazy men with their pipes and red fezes, History may carry you back in time to the Saxon Harold, the good son of the good father. It can show you his shipwreck, and the wily Norman swearing him over the bones of the saints, the witan placing the crown on his deserving temples, while his treacherous brother is landing his big fair-haired Danes in the north; it can take you to the feast of the hard-eating, hard-drinking, hard-fighting Englishmen after Stamford Bridge, and to the Saxon mother, craving the body of her son after Senlac field. Or it can take you back to the

BRILLIANT AND PROFLIGATE

Prince John, the selfish and perverse King John, to Runnymede, to the desperate flight across the Wash, and to the final debauch and fever in Swineshead Abbey.

In the next place history appeals to the feelings, particularly the moral feelings. What boy in going over the story of Harold does not register inwardly the conviction: "Here was the stuff that men are made of," and what would he say of John? Throughout the whole of history the pupil is consciously or unconsciously deciding questions of right and wrong. It is not surprising to hear Bishop Stubbs saying that history is a great teacher of religion.

It will be evident that the will also, as well as the intellect and sensibility, is trained, and, indeed, chiefly as a result of the training of these two. There can be no doubt as to the influence of history in determining and encouraging right choice when we consider the fine examples of right action together with the lessons of the triumph of right that the current of history illustrates.

The specific value of history as an instrument of mental discipline has been shown by reference to the faculties to which it appeals. It is seen to have an important place as a discipline subject. It has in addition to this a value which is possessed by no other subject to the same extent and this is its value as a guide to the proper discharge of the duties of citizenship. This assertion of the high value of the subject might leave the asserter open to the impeachment of being over-fond of the subject were it not possible to substantiate the statement from a just analysis of the subject matter of history. It might be observed that in crediting it with this species of utilitarian value, that the subject is not utilitarian in a narrow sense. Its utility in assisting man in the the reverse of narrow—in his duty to the state and to his fellow-man. It is altruistic, not individualistic. It is not a means of making selfishness more efficient, but of obliterating self to the advantage of the whole of society. This side of education cannot be too strongly emphasized. The greed of a commercial age has deadened the sense of responsibility that is appropriate to a member of human society. The greed of a commercial age has begotten the problem of the present—the problem of social reform, but social reform is with us and is the centre about which all modern thought is accumulating. The era of brotherhood is upon us. Buckle says that in the history of reforms the church last yields to innovation—that changes are forced upon it rather than it leads. Is it not possible that education and educators may remain too long in old grooves and not keep pace with society, aiding and answering its essential feelings? To be definite, is it not possible that the mathematical and scientific branches on one side overbalance the literary subjects on the other? To the latter group the name "humanities"

DISCHARGE OF FUNCTIONS

IS GENERALLY APPLIED.

Is it not an opportune time to emphasize the humanities or humanizing subjects when the great throbbing heart of Christendom swells for humanity? Is education going to assist or retard the progress of the idea of the solidarity of the world?

Leaving this larger question aside, we must remember that, politically speaking, this is a democratic age. It is an age in which the people are supreme. All men have votes and have equal voice in determining state policy, regardless of difference of intelligence. It were well that political education receive some attention.

With regard to the way in which the study of history helps the citizen in this respect, it might be said in the first place, that present political conditions are fully understood only in the light of the past. By the study of the past a man will fully appreciate the political institutions under which he lives. He will value them more highly if he knows of the struggles by which they have been secured and maintained, and will be nerved to resist as his forefathers did. Secondly, history inspires patriotism and loyalty. Who does not understand and feel what a real thing patriotism is in thinking of the "Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled, Scots wham Bruce has often led."

OPPRESSION AND WRONG

Does not the poet Burns have Bruce appeal to his men on their history? Was the story of the struggle for Scottish independence known to the men who sang: "Wha wadna fecht for Charlie?" Did the Gordons at Dargai know anything of the siege of Lucknow? Did they ever hear of the Light Brigade, think you?

Besides inspiring man, a knowledge of history will sober and liberalise them. It should be impossible for a good student of history to be either a hide-bound conservative or a hair-brained radical. Consciously or unconsciously he stands for moderation. The students of history sees that in following ideas man sways between extremes. The good that is in an idea is and immoderation. All action is reaction If a pendulum swing too far to one side, it will likely go too far to the other side on the rebound. The civil strife of the time of the Roses was opposed to the national good. The turbulence of the governed was followed by a corresponding assertion of strength by the governors. Henry VIII was a hero in more respects than one, and the Stuarts were divinely instituted and divinely irresponsible sovereigns. The absolutism of the Stuarts called forth an Eliot, a Hampden, a Pym and finally a Cromwell. And lo! the greatest tyrant of them all. At the moment of his success he ceases to be the servant of the GUNNERY PRACTICE.

An Occasion When Quickness of Action Prevented a Fearful Disaster.

An officer of the United States navy relates the following as illustrating some of the perils of gunnery at sea:

"I came very near going up into the air in small bits on this last squadron cruise. We were at heavy gun practice at sea and but for the quickness of a gunner's mate would never have returned. As you probably know, the heavy guns in the turrets are fired by electricity, the gun being discharged simply by pressing a button. The officer in command of the forward turret on our ship during rapid firing practice was just about to press the button to fire one of our big guns when a gunner's mate was seen to grab at something on the wall of the turret and then fall in a heap on the floor. The officer pressed the button, but the gun was not discharged. When the mate came to, he was asked what had happened, and he informed the officer that the breech of the gun had not been locked and that what he grabbed at on the wall was the wires forming the electric firing circuit.

"When he saw that the officer was preparing to fire the gun and at the same time observed that the breech of the gun was not locked, the only thing that occurred to him to prevent the gun being discharged was to destroy the circuit, which he did promptly and effectively. When all this occurred, there was a charge of 250 pounds of powder in the gun, another charge of the same size in the turret ready to be served, and the passageway leading to the powder magazine was wide open. But for the quickness of the gunner's mate the gun would have been blown out inside the turret, the gases from the burning powder would probably have ignited the charge lying in the turret, this explosion would have ignited the powder in the magazine, and the chances are that the whole ship, crew and all, would have gone up in the air. A thought that has occurred to me is this: Suppose the accident had occurred, what do you imagine the verdict of a board of inquiry as to the cause of the loss of the ship would have been? Since his experience the department has adopted electrical means to prevent the discharge of any of the large guns until the breech is locked."—San Francisco Chronicle.

WOULDN'T BURN HIS BOOTS.

Though He Didn't Mind the Effect on His Stomach.

After he had sold his load of wood and had received $4.25 for it he strolled over to the little combination billiard parlor and barroom on the other side of the square. His faded old eyes lighted up and his new cowhide boots, larded generously in grease, squeaked exultantly as he thought of that drink he had been planning to get ever since he left the farm at daybreak.

"Jest one old snifter
Of that good old lifter," he cooed to himself, "and I'll be primed ter start fer home.

"About one finger of that old red eye will do the bizness, I calculate," he confided to the bartender, as he pulled a feverish red mitten from his right hand and jammed it down in his "pants" pocket. "I ain't a drinkin man—never was—but when it's so cold outside yer breath freezes ter s'waggin wheels ye's got ter resort ter some powerful remedy ter thaw it out."

The bartender agreed with him. For months he had watched the old farmers come in, order just one finger of whisky and drink a whole handful of fingers for the manifestly unfair expenditure of 10 cents. He had decided to put a stop to it, and the farmer with the new cowhide boots was the first victim.

The remedy he placed before him was powerful enough to thaw the Yukon. The old man poured his glass full—just as the bartender knew he would—and gulped it down in one big swallow. The effect was instantaneous. The victim gave one convulsive shudder, looked reproachfully at the bartender and whirled around four times. Then he sat down and hastily began to pull off his cowhide boots.

"What the mischief are you doing that for?" inquired the astonished bartender.

"Can't ye see them's brand new boots?" gasped the victim. "D'ye think I'm goin ter let them burn up tew?"—New York Press.

Sick Fish.

When a fish in an aquarium is ailing or injured, it is put into a reserve tank, out of sight of the visitors, and where it can be looked after at any time. The circulation of the tank is adjusted with great nicety to give the fish the greatest possible amount of water, and with the constant renewal of water the greatest possible amount of fresh air. A fresh water fish may be treated with salt water baths. The fish is fed on the food best suited to its condition or most likely to suit its fancy.

It may lie on the bottom of the tank motionless for hours, like a sick person in a bed. It may sometimes seem to be dead, but a closer inspection will show a feeble movement of the gill covers, which marks the fish's respiration. After all, the fish may die; oftener, under treatment, it recovers, and then it goes back to its place in the display tanks.—New York Sun.

How They Looked to Her.

I was visiting a friend's house with my little girl of 5 years. On being shown a photograph of English choir boys with their surplices on she exclaimed, "Oh, mamma, look at all these gentlemen waiting to be shaved."—People's Friend.

THE MODERN MANGLE.

Ironing Machines With a Daily Capacity of Many Thousands of Pieces.

Mangles in one form and another have been used for hundreds of years, but the steam mangle of the present day is essentially a modern machine. Steam mangles are made of various sizes, with rolls ranging in length from 48 inches to 120 inches. One of the rolls is of hollow steel and heated with steam. The auxiliary rolls are of iron, covered with cotton cloth and blankets or felting. Steam mangles are made also with two hot rolls. In ironing such things as sheets and tablecloths by hand, it is customary to iron one side only. Steam mangles with a single hot roll iron in that manner. With two hot rolls the steam mangle irons with a smooth finish on both sides.

Mangles are used only for flat articles; for things without buttons or buckles; for sheets and pillow cases, tablecloths and napkins, towels and handkerchiefs, and so on. Mangles of the largest size will iron of a hotel's washing, taken just as it comes, 14,000 pieces in a day; of small pieces, such as napkins, they will iron four times as many pieces in a day.

From the washing machine the things go to an extractor to be dried. The extractor revolves at a high speed, and the moisture is whirled out by centrifugal action. From the extractor, just damp enough to work well, the things go to the mangle. Such things as sheets are fed into the great ironing machine by two men, each holding a corner. There is a fixed table, as long as the rolls, attached to the machine on the other side. Two men receive the sheet there and fold it. In ironing small pieces like napkins and towels on such a machine they would be fed in by a row of girls standing on one side and be received by another row of girls on the other side. On the largest machines there would be six or eight girls on each side. American steam mangles are used not only in this country, but they are sold in all the countries of Europe as well.

A great many mangles are made with wood rolls of polished maple. Such mangles are sometimes operated by power, but commonly by hand. They are used in hotels and laundries and restaurants and for household work. Mangles with wood rolls are exported to the various countries of Spanish America and to South Africa and Australia.—New York Sun.

HE COULD KICK.

How a Mountaineer Convinced a Traveler of a Mule's Accomplishment.

At rare intervals along the mountain roads of West Virginia and Kentucky the traveler may come upon a blacksmith shop, but he is much safer in the shoeing of his horse if he will carry a few nails and tools in the bottom of his buggy. On a trip by Pound Gap on one occasion I found a blacksmith shop at the forks of the road and, as usual, a half dozen or more men sitting around it in the shade. My turnout needed some repairs, and as the smith was puttering about it inside I made talk with the men outside. One of them wanted to sell me a mule which he had hung up on the fence, and I started in for a dicker. After we had been talking for perhaps a quarter of an hour the smith asked me to step inside and show him something about the work he was doing. As soon as he got me away from the crowd he came close and grew confidential.

"You ain't thinkin uv buyin that critter, air you?" he asked in all sincerity.

"Well, I don't know. I want a mule, and that one looks all right," I said.

"You can't tell a mule by his looks, mister. Mules is fer all the world like women."

"What's the matter with him?" I inquired, quite ignoring the comparison.

"He ain't safe. Course I ain't got nothin ag'in the mule ner the owner, and I'd be glad enough fer him ter git the money fer him, fer he owes me fer the shoein uv him, but I don't like ter see a stranger tuck in an done up like he's tryin ter do you."

"But you haven't told me what's the matter with the mule," I insisted. "Will he kick?"

"That's his weakness, mister," responded the smith, letting his voice fall to a whisper. "You won't believe me, p'raps, but I'm tellin you he's the kickinest critter in the mountains. He shore is, mister, and I hope I may die right here of he can't kick the sody outen a biscuit and never crack the crust. He kin, mister, or I'm a brother ter him." Washington Star.

Tired of Quarreling With Conductors.

Much amusement was afforded the passengers on a Union station trolley car in Portland by a businesslike passenger, who demanded a receipt for his fare. "Do you think I'm dishonest?" asked the conductor. "I don't know," replied the eccentric man. "I've never been on your car when it was crowded." After making many sarcastic remarks the conductor signed his name to the piece of paper handed him by the passenger. The receipt was worded as follows: "Received 5 cents for fare from passenger riding from Elm street to Union station." On being asked why he wanted a receipt, the man said he was getting tired quarreling with absentminded conductors, who frequently asked for the necessary nickel after it had been paid. He also said that a few nights ago in Boston he had to get two passengers to prove that he had paid his fare. As the man was always placed in an embarrassing position on such occasions, he adopted the receipt method in order to save further trouble in the future.—Kennebec (Me.) Journal.

A Vanishing Type.

Only lately have Philadelphians begun to realize and reflect upon the disappearance of the Quakers as we knew them; only lately has it been brought home to us that a gradual obliteration of the old uncompromising orthodoxy has set in which means the ultimate absorption of the sect. Even now, rare as is the old garb on the streets where it was such a common sight not so many years ago, the assertion that the society is diminishing would meet with doubt and hesitation. We are so familiar with the Quaker, he is so necessary and potent a type in Philadelphia, that we would not accept the warrant even of statistics, yet, now that the visible limit has been reached, what can we do but awake to the change? We see few broad brimmed hats and drab bonnets where we once saw many. Of those who wear them, the most are old and trembling.

If there are young Quakers, how are we to recognize them? Not by their dress, at any rate, except in so far as plainness of cut and sobriety of color still rule the taste of Friends, whether wealthy or in moderate circumstances. The distinctive costume is being laid aside, with many of the distinctive customs. And why? Because the society is losing its control over its younger members? Because its rigid rules no longer suffice to hold in check the human spirit, with its unconquerable love of freedom? This is the common explanation, and the one desired by those who love romance.—Thomas Wharton in Lippincott's.

A Neat Compliment.

When the Prince and Princess of Wales were visiting an exhibition in London recently, on reaching the dairy department the princess remarked to the manager: "I have always heard that the best butter in England comes from Denmark. Is it true?" The manager hesitated a moment and then said, 'No, your highness; Denmark sends us the best princesses, but Devonshire the best butter."

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORN IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at 1

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

Watch her kindly, stars.
From the sweet protecting skies
Follow her with tender eyes,
Look as lovingly that she Cannot choose but think of me.
Watch her kindly, stars!

Soothe her sweetly, night.
On her eyes, o'erwearied, press
The tired lids with light caress.
Let that shadowy hand of thine
Ever in her dreams seem mine.
Soothe her sweetly, night!

Wake her gently, morn.
Let the notes of early birds
Seem like love's melodious words.
Every pleasant sound my deed,
When she stirs from sleep, should bear.
Wake her gently, morn!

Kiss her softly, winds.
Softly that she may not miss
Any sweet, accustomed bliss.
On her lips, her eyes, her face,
Till I come to take your place,
Kiss and kiss her, winds!

ENGLAND WANTED WAR.

Held Back From Fighting France In 1893 by the German Emperor.

The Gaulois, in Paris, recently related in considerable detail that during the Siamese imbroglio of 1893 England was on the verge of declaring war against France. The power that opposed the war most vigorously was Germany. In fact, said the Gaulois, the war was prevented by the German emperor.

"At that time," said the Gaulois, "Emperor William was at Cowes with his yacht. He had won a regatta prize from Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie and the Prince of Wales' Britannia. He appeared, literally as well as figuratively, to swim in English waters. It was as he sat at dinner in the house of the Royal Yacht squadron that he received from Count Hatzfeldt the news that the English government intended to declare war against France. The emperor rose from the table, laid aside his napkin and sent a dispatch empowering his embassador in London to protest against Lord Rosebery's programme. Moreover, he betook himself at once to Osborne House to announce to his grandmother that he never could approve such a course as regards Siam."

Sometimes Paris newspapers publish articles on European politics that lack all foundation in fact, and the amazing story told by the Gaulois might have been dismissed as one of them had it not been confirmed at once by the Koelnische Zeitung, probably the most trustworthy journal on the European continent. The Koelnische Zeitung's Paris correspondent was at Cowes with the emperor in 1893. As soon as the Gaulois had made its statement he corroborated it. Among the influential Englishmen at Cowes, he said, it was then common talk that the German emperor was England's ally against Siam and France. Lord Dufferin, then English embassador in Paris, had come to Cowes to conclude the negotiations for an alliance, but had been met with the emperor's blunt refusal to take the active part that England wished to assign him. The Koelnische Zeitung's correspondent asserts that the correctness of this statement is absolute and beyond question among the initiated who were at Cowes during the German emperor's sojourn there.

A BEE'S RESTLESS LIFE.

It Begins Work When Three Days Old and Dies at Forty-five.

G. W. Reynolds of Los Angeles, one of the oldest traveling men in the United States, has a ranch of which he enjoys telling even more than he does of the experiences through which he has passed during his half century upon the road. The ranch is near San Diego, Cal. The chief product is honey. This product is gained from two apiaries, which Mr. Reynolds visits every time his business permits him to go to southern California.

"In my apiaries, which are cared for by my son," said he, "there are 140 stand of bees. The honey season lasts from April to July. Last season my bees yielded 40,000 pounds of honey, which sells in that country in bulk lots at 4 cents a pound. Two of the hives gave over 500 pounds each. For ten years I have been interested in bees in a small way, and I take greater interest in them every year. A hive or stand of bees is worth $2.50. In it are the queen, the drones and the workers, a total population of from 20,000 to 25,000 bees.

"This very good sized colony," he continued, "resides in a hive or wooden box. In the hive are a dozen frames 12 by 7 inches. In these the bees make or deposit the honey, a foundation of wax having been first placed in each frame by the beekeeper, so that the bees may have something to build upon. The honey is taken out of the frames every other week during the honey season. While doing so there is little need of protecting the hands. The bees seem to be most inclined to sting one in the face. So, as a precaution, the man who is removing the honey from the hives wears a straw hat, from the brim of which is hung a silk veil, like they have to do up in the Klondike country to ward off the summer mosquitoes.

"The queen is an absolute monarch within her dominions. She is the undisputed boss of the job. An ordinary bee lives during the working season only 45 days. Young ones are being hatched out all the time. A bee goes to work at the tender age of 3 days and hustles like a veteran for 42 days. Then it is just naturally all tired out, I suppose, for it dies. The queen lives longer, and when a young queen comes into existence in the hive she drives the old queen out. Her loyal subjects follow her in her banishment, and that is what makes the swarms.

"In southern California the bees make water white honey when the black sage is in blossom. When the white sage is flowering, the honey has an amber tinge. In winter the bees make no honey. Seventy-five carloads of the article are shipped out of San Diego county in good years."—Denver Republican.

GREATEST OF COLONIZERS.

Much of the Earth Owes Its Settlement to the Finding of Gold.

It has been well said that gold is the greatest of colonizers, and this has proved especially true in the last half of the present century. To what lone regions the footsteps of man were attracted in the earliest times by the discovery of gold we may not know, but within the memory of living men great regions of the earth's surface have owed their settlement and occupation solely to the finding by search or accident of a few shining particles in the earth.

California was a remote and outlying province of Mexico, inhabited by Indians, gathered in missions or scattered abroad, and cattle barons and their dependents, visited by a few ships each year in search of a freight of hides, when the picking up of a few grains of gold in the banks of a mill race called the gold seekers from the four quarters of the earth and transformed a wilderness into a populous empire.

Australia was a corner of the earth selected on account of its remoteness from their former home as a place of banishment for British criminals when the gleam of gold illuminated it and filled the distant harbors with sails and their shores with cities.

South Africa might have remained forever a grassy waste, the home of savages contending with the Boers and the British for the possession of illimitable pastures, had not gold called the miner and those who follow him to build Johannesburg.—Kansas City Times.

SCHOOLS AND POLITICS.

A Scheme With Real Estate Trimmings That Won In Oregon.

"Speaking of schools in relation to politics," said the ex-boomer from Oregon, "always reminds me of a campaign in which I was interested some years ago. The Douglas county representative in the Oregon state legislature, realizing that his popularity was not exceedingly great, had been talking of building a new state normal school, presumably at Roseburg, the county seat and his own home. This caused great consternation among the 350 inhabitants of the little city of Drain, who had been profiting by the courtesy title of 'Drain Academy and Oregon State Normal school,' under which the school there had been run since 1885. The postmaster, who kept a drug store and sold school supplies, took counsel with his sister-in-law, who dealt in millinery and ran a boarding house for students, and she sought the mayor, at whose general merchandise emporium she was the principal customer.

"The mayor was a man who thought slowly, but to a purpose, and, having set himself the task of devising some way of circumventing the member from Roseburg, he passed the next three days in profound cogitation. He conceived a scheme whose various elaborations and ramifications were too diversified for him to handle alone, and he came to me for help. I had just gained considerable influence in the county through backing a projected railroad to the coast, and also as a real estate dealer and sawmill owner. With my business methods and the mayor's knowledge of the conditions confronting us our plans were soon put into operation. First, we suggested the candidacy of an ambitious young Drainite, a dealer in leather goods and hardware, for member of the legislature, taking all the wind out of his opponent's sails by heartily indorsing the talk in favor of a new normal school. Meantime we had a large grain field of the mayor's, which had begun to lose its fertility on account of overcultivation, surveyed into city lots, and as soon as our candidate had received the regular party nomination we put the town site of East Drain, with its streets named after conspicuous men of the state, on the market and gave one of its centrally located blocks for the new normal school.

"Well, everything came to pass exactly as we had planned. Our candidate was elected, and the building of the new normal school on the site we gave was authorized. We sold a sufficient number of East Drain lots to more than pay for the land and all expenses. The contractors on the new school were men who had aided the legislation authorizing it, and they got their supplies from the mayor, their hardware from the member and their lumber from me. My mill also supplied lumber for other buildings in East Drain, including a new boarding house for the milliner, who has prospered ever since. The postmaster's increased business soon warranted his moving into one of the two brick buildings in the city of Drain, and the former dealer in leather goods and hardware is still member of the Oregon legislature."—New York Sun.

The Bacon Folly.

It was inevitable that the Bacon folly should proceed to commit suicide by piling up extravagances. By some methods one can prove anything, and accordingly we find writers busy in tracing Bacon's hand in the writings of Greene, Marlowe, Shirley, Marston, Massinger, Middleton and Webster. They are sure that he was the author of Montaigne's essays, which were afterward translated into what we have always supposed to be the French original. Mr. Donnelly believes that Bacon also wrote Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy." Next comes Dr. Orville Owen with a new cipher which proves that Bacon was the son of Queen Elizabeth by Robert Dudley, and that he was the author of the "Faerie Queene" and other poems attributed to Edmund Spenser.

Finally we have Mr. J. E. Roe, who does not mean to be outdone. He asks us what we are to think of the notion that an ignorant tinker like John Bunyan could have written the most perfect allegory in any language. Perish the thought! Nobody but Bacon could have done it. Of course Bacon had been more than 50 years in his grave when "Pilgrim's Progress" was published as Bunyan's, but your true Baconizer is never stopped by trifles. Mr. Roe assures us that Bacon wrote that heavenly book, as well as "Robinson Crusoe" and the "Tale of a Tub," which surely begins to make him seem ubiquitous and everlasting. If things go on at this rate, we shall presently have a religious sect holding as its first article of faith that Francis Bacon created the heavens and the earth in six days and rested on the seventh day.—John Fiske in Atlantic.

Venice and the Horse.

It is said that some of the Venetians—those who have never been to the mainland—have never seen a horse in all their lives. A showman once brought one to a fair and called it a monster and the factory hands paid a shilling each to see the marvel.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Washing Day.

The drudgery of housekeeping for the workingman's wife comes on washing day, when there is no washing machine or wringer in the house. It's killing on women who are raising a family, especially at this season of the year when blankets and other heavy articles of the home must be cleaned for winter. Washing and wringing makes more aching arms and tired bodies than anything else a woman can do. Husbands might be a little more thoughtful. In hundreds of cases they could buy a new washer and wringer every year for what it costs to pay for doctor's bills and servants for their tired-out wives, whose health has been run down over the washboard and washtub. Take a hint, you man, and make time to see the two kinds of labour-saving washing machines made by G. Walter Green at his pump factory on Dickson's race. If you can't make time, ring up telephone No. 93, or address box 362, and have him send one over to your house.

THE LEGISLATURE

After a Midnight Session the Budget Debate Closes.

BUT A DIVISION WAS NOT TAKEN

The House Then Went Into Committee of Supply—Speeches by Opposition Leader Whitney, Patron Leader Maycock, and an Effective Reply By the Premier.

The budget debate has closed and the House gone into Committee of Supply without a vote. The leader of the Opposition and his followers fired all their guns and then gave up the fight in disgust, after the speech of the Premier, who handled Mr. Whitney without gloves until he forced him to admit that the trust funds held at Ottawa were available assets belonging to the province.

Mr. Whitney's Charges.

He said he cared not whether the Macdonald Government was lavish in their expenditure or not, the matter of importance to-day was whether the Hardy Government was conducting the affairs of the province in a careful business-like manner. He contended they were not. This statement was cheered by the Opposition. He stated that Mr. Garrow had spoken against the policy of the Governmens upon several occasions. This Mr. Garrow gave an unqualified denial and assured the House he was in entire accord with the Government. Mr. Whitney denied that he had repudiated Tupper, Thompson and Bowell as his political leaders. He was willing to admit he had been a willing follower of all these men. He then turned to the surplus and charged that the Premier at one of his political meetings had recently stated that the $5,000,000 surplus was all in cash.

Hon. Mr. Hardy: "I said nothing of the kind, I can assure my honorable friend."

Mr. Whitney continuing, said he was not prepared to prove it then, but he would return to the subject later. (Laughter.) He referred to Mr. Harcourt's statement that the cost of maintenance per head for patients in Ontario's public institutions was much less than that of similar institutions in the United States. He thought this proved nothing, since the cost of living generally in the United States was much greater than in Ontario. He denied that direct taxation was his policy. He said his policy was anything that would put a stop to direct taxation, which was sure to follow if the Government was permitted much longer to govern the province. Several of the gentlemen on the Government side had asked if the Opposition thought the people were taking them and their arguments seriously. Why had the session been called so soon then, if not because the Government was on the gallop to an election and wished to keep the Opposition off the stump, so that the people might not be fully informed as to the issues of the day. (Laughter.) He denied he had ever cast the Tastes of the province were "unreal, intangible and delusive." He said the Opposition agreed with the Government so far as the assets of the province were concerned. He contended strongly that every year of late the Government was spending more money than they received and that it was useless for them to longer contend they had a surplus. Before closing he desired to refer to the Simpson affair. He said Simpson had in March, 1893, appeared before the Public Accounts Committee and had gone home to get his books. Nothing was heard of him again until the following April, when a doctor's certificate was sent to say he could not return because of ill health. Neither Simpson or his books had been seen or heard from since.

He wished again to state that the province was practically at the end of its timber resources. This he believed to be true. He denied he had ever said the most of the good legislation of Ontario had been placed upon the books by Meredith and himself. If the Mail said so, the Mail was wrong. (Hear, hear.) He blamed the Government for having allowed Hon. Mr. Ross to remind the Opposition of the stand they had taken upon the Separate school question. He thought this subject, which was dead and in its grave, should not be called up again. He assured the House the reason he had advocated the separation of Toronto university from Government control was that the heads of that institution themselves had urged this course upon him. He had been told upon good authority that the heads of the university had expressed these views themselves to the Minister of Education.

Hon. Mr. Ross: "No such representation was ever made to me." (Cheers.)

Mr. Whitney continuing, said it was none of his concern. (Laughter.) He disclaimed any present connection with Sir Charle Tupper, Messrs. Montague, Haggart or Clarke Wallace, and said they had nothing to do with the coming Conservative campaign. He closed by calling upon the Government to bring down their timber policy as quickly as possible.

The Patron Leader.

Mr. Haycock followed, and again complained of the method of keeping the public accounts.

The Premier's Reply.

Hon. Mr. Hardy arose to reply at eleven o'clock and pointed out how ridiculous it was for Mr. Whitney to say the House had been called together because the Government feared to have the members of the Opposition upon the stump. If Mr. Whitney could hurt the Government by his speeches he would have a better opportunity of doing so in the House where the press would more freely report him than in the country. What had he gone all over the country charging, and what had he charged in the House? He had talked about poor old sick Simpson; he had charged the Government with having purchased a $12 field glass; and had made a scandal out of a $40 purchase. This was the class of argument the Government had to fight. (cheers) and he did not think such arguments were dangerous. As to the Simpson scandal, he read from the sworn evidence of Simpson before the Public Accounts Committee, to show Simpson had simply been called upon to send his books, which he had done. This was one of the great scandals the Government was responsible for. (Laughter.) Mr. Whitney had stated everywhere that the provincial audit was a farce. He had said the Dominion Auditor could not be dismissed except by the House, not by the Government, and gave the impression that the Provincial Auditor was a minion of the Government. This was a falsehood. The Provincial Auditor, who had started his duties under Sandfield Macdonald's Government, was subject to dismissal in exactly the same manner as the Dominion Auditor. (Cheers.) He pointed out the course of the Opposition regarding the boundary question, how Mr. Whitney and his friends had stood by Sir John Macdonald when he had passed a bill in the Dominion House handing over to the Manitoba Government the land in dispute, and which was afterwards awarded by the Privy Council to Ontario. The people of the province owed the Conservatives a debt in reference to this matter which they had at all elections since tried to pay back, and which they would again try to pay back at the coming elections. (Cheers.) What was all the trouble about? It seemed the Opposition made all the row because of the words "assets" and "surplus," the Opposition contending the "assets" were not "surplus," although they could not deny there was something there which had to be called either assets or surplus. (Cheers.) Then another cry was, "Oh, the Sandfield Macdonald surplus is expended." Who, but an idiot, did not know this fact? In a progressive province such as Ontario what else would be done with this money but expend it in needed improvements? As a matter of fact, it all went to pay for debts contracted by the Macdonald Government. He then read the Acts passed granting money by Macdonald's Government, showing that not one dollar of the Macdonald surplus had gone to the Mowat Government that had not been pledged. (Cheers.) The Macdonald surplus amounted to some three millions. It had gone, with millions more, granted by the Mowat Government, to railways, prisons, asylums, roads, etc. (Cheers.) Twenty-five years ago the Conservatives were crying "blue ruin," as they were to-day. They said the people could not "stagger" along much longer under the burdens of the Mowat Government without direct taxation. Yes, the Government was going right along with plenty of money for all legitimate purposes and direct taxation was as far off as it was twenty-five years ago. (Cheers.) The Opposition claimed that for the three years, 1894, 1895 and 1896, there were deficits amounting to one and a quarter millions. Now, the human ingenuity of man could not possibly make this statement agree with truth. (Cheers.) The Government had nothing to hide. In 1894 there was a surplus of receipts over expenditures of $50,559. In 1895 there was a deficit of $111,397, and in 1896 the deficit amounted to $153,845, but in all they did not amount to anything like what the Opposition claimed. This was but a sample of the way the Opposition misrepresented the facts and thereby hoped to gain power. Since Mr. Whitney had at last admitted that the four millions of trust funds at Ottawa were available for the purposes of the Provincial Government he had nothing further to say, and sat down amid storms of applause. The House then went into supply without division.

The Holiday Term.

Hon. Mr. Hardy, answering Mr. Whitney, said he would not be able to say until Monday next when the holidays would begin or end. It was quite possible the House would sit between Christmas day and New Year, but not open either of those days. He could not say at present this would be done, but at latest would inform the House on Tuesday. He announced that the new revised statutes would be distributed next Monday.

THE LIQUOR CASE.

The Ministers of the Town Hold a Meeting and Discuss it.

The ministers of the town met this morning at 10 a. m. in the Y. M. C. A. parlour to discuss matters in connection with the recent attack made on the Chief of Police in the discharge of his duty.

There were present Rev. Messrs. J. C. Davidson, Dr. Torrance, E. Vicars Stevenson, A. T. Dykeman, Wm. Bennett, Herbert Symonds, W. L. Armitage, J. E. Moore, S. J. Shorey, W. G. Clarke, O. C. Elliott and J. G. Potter. The Rev. A. T. Dykeman took the chair.

The Rev. Dr. Torrance thought that a resolution strengthening the hands of the officers of the law should be passed.

Rev. E. V. Stevenson said there could only be one opinion with regard to our position in the matter. We should strengthen and not weaken the hands of those whose duty it was to carry out the law. He was anxious to know, however, if it would not be well to wait to see what would be done at the meeting on Monday night, and then greater influence might be used by the different clergymen.

In an interview with Bishop O'Connor it was his Lordship's opinion that much more would be effected by watching the action of the council in this matter and then if any injustice were done all would have to do their duty.

Rev. Mr. Armitage said that if Mr. Hessel was faithful in the discharge of his duty, it was the duty of the ministers and all citizens to give him hearty support.

Rev. Mr. Shorey thought that the hands of the chief should be supported in his effort to enforce the law. In this special case he said that the hotel in question had had other convictions against it.

Rev. Mr. Davidson said that while he felt everything should be done to stand by the enforcement of the law, yet there might be another side to the question under discussion, and he felt that the ministers might put themselves on record as being ready to oppose the infraction of law, and then, if it were found that injustice were done, the ministers could then be called and make representations to the council.

The Rev. Messrs. Potter, Moore, Clarke, Symonds and Elliott were of the opinion that now was the time for the ministers to take action.

The following resolution, duly moved and seconded, was carried unanimously:

"We, the ministers of the town of Peterborough, believe it is the wish of most, in the best interests of all citizens, that the law against the illegal sale of liquor should be fearlessly and impartially enforced; and we hereby declare that those charged with the enforcement of said law shall have our strong and united support in the proper discharge of their duties."

DIAMOND DYES.

Have Revolutioned the Work of Home Dyeing.

The days of old fashioned home dyeing work passed away when the Diamond Dyes were given to the world. To-day the operation of colouring—making old things look like new—is easy and quick work when the Diamond Dyes are used. All over this American continent the Diamond Dyes are known as money and time savers. They lead all other dyes on the market, being first in power, depth of colour, fastness and brilliancy.

The cheaply made imitation and soap grease dyes are brought by some to experiment with, but they are never asked for a second time, as they prove defective and worthless. Diamond Dyes are fully warranted, never to fail when the simple directions are followed.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Whatever may have been the impression upon the public mind, it has been quite evident for weeks past that there would pretty certainly be a contest for the mayoralty. Mayor Yelland made no secret of his intentions of again entering the field and his published utterances of a few weeks ago seemed to imply a challenge to opposition, which, though it may not have been intended as such, yet it had the effect of arousing a feeling in the minds of some that the position of the mayoralty should not go by default. Different names have been spoken of as being probable candidates, but no definite announcement was made till Tuesday last, when Mr. A. L. Davis councillor for No. 2 Ward in the council of 1897, declared his intention of becoming a candidate for the mayoralty. While there appeared on the surface a public indifference in the matter of a mayor for 1898, yet the expressions of many citizens made it evident that there was a more or less of a determination that Mr. Yelland should not be elected by acclamation. Such opposition seemed to be inevitable in view of the warmth of feeling excited during the two last campaigns for the mayoralty. Mr. A. L. Davis, who has announced himself as a candidate, is a well-known citizen, enjoying the respect of the public to a very high degree. He has had a considerable business training and experience, having been for several years in mercantile business before entering the insurance firm of Cox & Davis. In his business transaction Mr. Davis has been found reliable and honourable and perhaps no one in Peterborough has had a larger individual business experience with Mr. Davis than has the publisher of the EXAMINER and in every transaction, whether verbal or written, he has been found to be the soul of honour—the event proving that the employment of written documents was an unnecessary formality. Mr. Davis entered the council for 1897 as the representative of No. 2 ward, polling the largest vote in the ward for that year and he has shown commendable attention to his duties in that position. Probably no person who has occupied the mayor's chair for many years has been more attentive to the routine of duty than Mayor Yelland, he being always come-at-able, when it was necessary to consult him on the town's business. His record as a citizen has been for many years before the people of Peterborough and as such he is held in the highest esteem and respect. He was for many years councillor for No. 3 Ward, and as every one knows, has occupied the Mayor's chair for the past two years. As between the two candidates, the people have an opportunity of deciding which will make the best mayor of Peterborough for 1898; which will best promote the town's interests, maintain, and, if possible, better its standing, and most actively and successfully promote its material interests. A council is wanted that will co-operate and assist the mayor in carrying out an aggressive campaign in the direction of upbuilding the town, enlarging the number of its labour-employing establishments, and keeping Peterborough in the place it now holds—that of the leading and most progressive town in Ontario. Peterborough has a past and present of which its citizens are justly proud. Now we must look to the future and what that future will be very largely depends upon the character of the mayors and councillors we put in charge of our affairs. Peterborough will have an opportunity of giving expression to its opinions on these matters and will have an opportunity of selecting from the candidates already named, and others who will doubtless in due time come out as candidates, a council that will meet the conditions demanded in the interests of the town.

—— TO THE ——

Peterborough Bookstore.

Santa Claus has just been heard from. For the information of the Old Folks as well as the Young Folks, we are at liberty to publish the following:—

DEAR MESSRS. STRATTON & CO.

Just a line by telephone to say that I expect to be at the Peterborough Bookstore next week. Isn't it too bad after getting within a 100 miles of Peterborough to find the snow all gone and no sleighing. I've had to hitch up my reindeers to my bicycle and shall drive straight to the Grotto 417 and 419 George Street. Tell the policemen to have the streets all clear for me, as the deer are very frisky after doing so little work during the journey. Won't it be jolly to meet all the dear children in the Grotto again? Put this in the newspapers and let the children know about my reception in the Peterborough Bookstore all next week. "So long" till I see you and all the dear children. So long, so long.

Your faithful old friend,
SANTA.

The Holiday Smoke

A Box of Cigars makes the most welcome Christmas Gift conceivable. The funny men have made lots of money on holiday cigar jokes, but the funny men don't know this store. Come to us and buy a box of Cigars for "him." We'll give you a really good Cigar—we haven't any other kind.

Pipe Tastes Vary

No two men want exactly the same kind of pipe and tobacco. Th re are a thousand "mixtures" and many smokers mix two mixtures to get just the right flavour, or else; then it tastes wrong unless its burned in the right pipe.

We have in stock all the good mixtures and all the good kinds of pipes—Meerschaum and Briar in Plush Cases, the Genuine Own B.B.B. Morrell Mackenzie Pipes, etc., all to be sold at about Half the Regular Price, as our stock is too large and must be reduced.

The programme on New Year's night will be in charge of the club. A Banker's Experience.

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection" of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Hawson of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne Avenue, Toronto, "It proved effective. I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

AN OTONABEE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Maggie Kindred and Mr. Thomas S. Brackenridge.

"Braeton Farm," Otonabee, the home of Mr. Charles Kindred, was the scene of an exceedingly pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th, when his daughter, Miss Maggie, was united in marriage to Mr. Thos. S. Brackenridge, a prosperous young farmer of Westwood, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Liddy of Keene.

At 6 o'clock, to the peals of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Lizzie Kindred, the bride entered the dining room on the arm of her father. She was prettily gowned in fawn satin cloth, with coral trimmings to match, and wore the usual bridal flowers. The duties of bridesmaid were most acceptably performed by Miss Etta Kindred of Peterborough, who was gowned in Nile green and pink, trimmed with silk and chiffon.

The groom was assisted by his youngest brother Hugh, (a graduate of the Ontario Business College, Belleville.)

At the conclusion of the ceremony, and after the young couple had received the congratulations of their relatives and friends, who were present in large numbers, all repaired to the dining hall, where a sumptuous fowl supper was served.

The bride, who was one of the most popular young ladies in Otonabee township, was the recipient of many valuable and useful wedding gifts.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome beaver cap, and he also presented the bridesmaid with a very pretty opera scarf.

Mr. and Mrs. Brackenridge will reside in Westwood, and their hosts of friends join in extending to them their best wishes for a happy wedded life.

New Footing and Edgings arrived at Mrs. Appleby's 426 Water street.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful: active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artizans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

Shaking Sensations. Strong Evidence from Belleville that there is a Cure.

Mrs. Jas. A. Rose, Geddes St., Belleville, Ont., says, "To me life has been made a misery for the last six or seven years because of heart trouble and nervousness, from which I have suffered all this time.

"My heart throbbed, and seemed to rise into my throat, causing a sensation of suffocation. At times I had to walk the floor, and often then would have a sensation of falling down from a high place such as falling down stairs.

"This would be followed by dizziness, my eyesight would become blurred and dim, so that many a time I knew not what to do. Gradually I grew weak, my blood became poor, and my entire system run down. My nerves were so unstrung that I could not sleep.

"All the medicine I used and all the doctoring I did was without effect, when providentially I heard of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and started using them. The results were so wonderful that I cannot refrain from speaking about them.

"I got stronger from the first dose, and am now like another person. The action of my heart is all right, my blood is enriched, and my whole system toned up to its normal condition of strength and vigor.

"To my mind there is no medicine in the world so good as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for all who suffer as I did." 219

A DARKY'S PRIZE MENU.

But His Friends Weren't Betting Against a Sure Thing.

Three negroes not long ago made a bet among themselves that each could name a supper that would be better than the others could name. They put up $1 apiece, and the one that named the dishes that would constitute the best supper should take the $3. They drew straws as to which ones should be the first and the last to make up the menu for the imaginary meal. The first man said he couldn't think of anything better than greens boiled with hog jowl. For side dishes he would take corn bread, souse, black eyed peas, and wash them down with buttermilk. The other two smacked their lips.

"Well, for me," said No. 2, "I'd take fried chicken, hot biscuits, buttered 'n spread over with preserves—'n den, 'n den—let's see—yes, 'n 'simmon beer 'n ginger cakes."

The mouths of the other two spilled water, and it was apparent that they were hungry. It came No. 3's time.

"W'y, youse niggers don't know what's good," said he. "Tell me, fools, what's better'n possum baked wid sweet 'taters scattered all roun' it, swimmin in de gravy? Hey? 'N den after youse done nibbled at de bones tell they ain't no more meat on 'em dere set de water millyon starin you in de face lik'. Hey?" And with that he started to pick up the money.

"You leave dat money alone," the other two yelled in chorus. "We warn't bettin ag'in no sure thing."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The two most critical times in a woman's life are the times which make the girl a woman, and the woman a mother. At these times, Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription is of incalculable value. It strengthens and invigorates the organs distinctly feminine, promotes regularity of the functions, allays irritation and inflammation, checks unnatural exhausting drains, and puts the whole delicate organism into perfect condition. Almost all the ills of womankind are traceable to some form of what is known as "female" complaint. There are not three cases in a hundred of woman's peculiar diseases that Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription will not cure.

Simultaneously a young Cornish lady had three suitors, representing the church, the army and the navy. The reverend gentleman had a great advantage over his rivals, being always "on the spot." Referring to his rivals in conversation with the lady on one occasion, he made the highly interesting observation that there were "land rats and water rats."

"And cu-rats," retorted the lady.

Needless to say the parson had to look elsewhere for a wife.—London News.

SIX BURNED TO DEATH.

Patrick Leahy of Ottawa and His Five Young Children Cremated in Their Burning House.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 18.—One of the most heart-rending catastrophies that ever visited Ottawa took place yesterday morning on Friel street, near Clarence. Fire caused the death of Patrick T. Leahy and his five young children, Thomas, aged 8, Mamie, 7, Katie, 6, Maggie, 4, and Patrick, 2. Frank, aged 5, was saved. The fire bell rang at 3.15, and in spite of a prompt response from the reels and hose wagon, it was evident that the house was doomed. It was not, however, until the arrival of Chief Provost that it was learned the family, or the best part of them, were in the doomed building. The chief at once ordered the door burst open and himself made a rush into the house.

A terrible scene met his gaze. The stairway was burned down, and lying at the foot was the body of an apparently ten-year-old girl, burned to a crisp.

Mrs. Leahy tried to quench the fire, exhausting her efforts in this direction and had barely time to escape from the house with one child.

Story of an Eye-Witness.

The account as told by Joseph Boulez, who rescued Mrs. Leahy and her child from the kitchen roof of the burning building, is as follows:—

Mr. Boulez lives in the house opposite, and shortly after 3 o'clock was awakened by a woman's screams. Getting up he saw that Mr. Leahy's house was on fire. On reaching the fire a few other men were there. He obtained a ladder and saved Mrs. Leahy from the roof of the kitchen of the building and carried her to his own house. While taking her there Mrs. Leahy told him what she knew about the fire. She said she had been awakened by Mr. Leahy, who told her it was getting daylight and that she should get up at once. She did so, and, seeing the house full of smoke and the light of the fire, at once took in the situation. She could not descend by the stairway, and with one child, climbed out on the roof of the kitchen. Her screams also awakened Mrs. Clark and Mr. Anderson, living at 67 Friel street. Mr. Anderson tried to enter the burning house by way of the kitchen, but the fire was so severe in the front part that he was unable to do so, and devoted his energies to saving his own house.

A Horrible Suspicion.

The suspicion entertained by some, that Leahy stole the key of the fire alarm box and set the house on fire while temporarily out of his mind, was greatly strengthened later on in the day, when the startling discovery was made that the keyhole of the box had been plugged with a small stone. Even had the key been found it would have been impossible under the circumstances to open the box.

A MIGHTY CHANCE.

Made Well and Active After Years of Suffering.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND WAS THE GREAT LIFE-GIVER.

New life, health, vim, energy and activity are some of the blessings Paine's Celery Compound bestows on those who are now helpless, weary and half dead.

If you are a martyr to rheumatism, tortured with neuralgia, distressed with dyspepsia, or laid low with kidney trouble, that infallible life-giver, Paine's Celery Compound, will restore you to perfect health and give you a long lease of life. Mrs. Page, of Arnprior, Ont., after years of suffering, experienced the happy and mighty change that Paine's Celery Compound alone can give to the afflicted. She says:

"I have been for many years a great sufferer from rheumatism and a complication of other troubles. About a year ago I was prevailed upon to try a course of Paine's Celery Compound, with a result so marvellous that my most intimate friends and neighbours could scarcely believe me to be the same woman. Formerly I could only move about with the greatest caution; now I am well and active and my general health is good. I believe Paine's Celery Compound will do all that is claimed for it."

Telegraphic Anomalies.

At a recent meeting of the British chamber of commerce in Paris M. J. Hemebryk, one of the vice presidents of the Liverpool chamber of commerce, made an interesting statement and sought the support of the Paris chamber in his endeavors to obtain acceleration in the delivery of telegrams in France. He said that telegraphing from Liverpool he could obtain a reply from his New York house in three minutes, while from his house in Paris it took five hours. There were countries, like Austria, which were even worse, the time for a reply being sometimes as much as six or seven hours. There could be no greater condemnation of the present system than the practice which was commonly followed by Liverpool merchants. When they wanted to obtain a reply quickly from, say Havre, they would telegraph to Havre through their New York office, and they could thus obtain through New York a reply in half an hour which it would take them four or five hours to obtain direct. The blame could not be attached to the English postoffice, for he had ascertained that, as a rule, a telegram handed in at any English office left the United Kingdom within 15 minutes of being handed in.

The Paris chamber agreed to give the subject its most earnest consideration, with a view to taking steps to obtain reform.—Paris Messenger.

The Profits of Monte Carlo.

The merchant whose losses are the result of untoward and unforeseen changes in the market receives sympathy and help, but what bank or private friend will advance money to a gambler? The betting man who has staked his last shilling and lost it is pronounced a fool and has put himself beyond the reach of practical compassion. The sharper who has fleeced him has neither gratitude nor pity. He uses his victim as the butt of his ridicule. And the victim himself, who has risked his money on mere chance, or on baseless information, or on fraudulent representations, freely pronounces himself a fool, judging himself in the light of the issue. To fancy that we shall be exceptions and win where others have lost, that we shall be the solitary lucky ones among the thousands unlucky, is a folly to which we are all liable, but it is none the less a folly.

It is stated that the winnings of the table or bank at Monte Carlo last year amounted to £800,000—that is to say, this was the net sum lost by those who played. Yet each gambler who stakes his little pile fancies he will be the one to win. There are some thousands of bookmakers in our own country. Out of whose pockets do they pick so comfortable a living? Out of the pockets of their dupes, who so bountifully contribute to the maintenance of their worst enemies.—Good Words.

THE DEAF HEAR.

DR. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE

Working Wonders in Toronto.

Gave MRS. BINDON her hearing when Specialists failed.

About 3 years ago, Mrs. Bindon, of 11 Maitland St., Toronto, was attacked with la Grippe, which affected her hearing to such an extent that she was completely deaf. It was a serious affliction and she tried many remedies and consulted a prominent specialist on ear diseases, but derived no benefit. By a happy circumstance she was led to use Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, and before she had completed 3 boxes her hearing had partially returned.

She persisted in the application of the remedy, so confident was she of ultimate cure, and by the time 12 boxes had been used her hearing was completely restored. For 8 months now she has been free from deafness, and no emancipated sufferer was ever more delighted than Mrs. Bindon. On Sunday she goes to church and enjoys the service, a thing she was unable to do before Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure gave her back her hearing.

FORMING A CLUB.

They talked of travel, art and books,
Gave politics some rubs,
Of music spoke and drifted last
To the theme of woman's clubs.
"I've joined my sixth," she said, with pride.
"Each seemed so good a choice."
And on the word he courage took His treasured hope to voice.

"Oh, Phyllis, dear—forgive the name—
But will you make it seven
And join a club I know about?
Its charter comes from heaven,
Its fee is drafts on Cupid's bank,
Its dues are kisses sweet,
Its membership is limited,
But not its times to meet.

"Already half the number's got.
A single smile from you
Will fill the list and found for aye
This happy club of two.
Nay, sweet, look up! You think you'll join!
Oh, bliss that crowns my life!
You shall be all the officers
And be, besides—my wife!"

An Undeveloped Idea.

Some years ago, according to the Boston Transcript, an inventor who had devised a new sleeping car took his plans to Mr. Pullman. The latter, after looking over them, said: "There is an idea there. I will give you $100,000 cash for your patents." The inventor was a poor man, and he would not accept the terms. He said that if the idea was worth $100,000 to Pullman it was worth millions to him. The car was built and proved a financial failure, and it is believed that even to this day the inventor does not know where the "idea" was whose presence Mr. Pullman discerned in the working plans.

We know the great cures of Hood's Sarsaparilla are genuine because the people themselves write about them.

The Master Key.

A doctor who prescribes a dozen different remedies for the symptoms of one disease is like an old-time turnkey lugging about a ponderous bunch of keys, each one to open a different door. When anyone's blood is thin and watery and poisoned with bilious impurities this condition will show itself in every part of the body and the average doctor gives one medicine for the stomach, another for the head, a third for the lungs and so on; as if each particular symptom was a separate dungeon of misery to be unlocked with its own particular key; but the scientific, experienced physician looks deeper and seeks the one master-key which unlocks them all.

Thirty years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., found the wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" which has since made him famous: It is the perfect master-key which unlocks every torture chamber of weakness and pain caused by faulty action of the digestive system. It gives the stomach and blood-making glands power to produce the healthy blood which drives out all impure disease germs and waste products, and builds up healthy tissue, solid muscular flesh and nerve energy.

Mr. J. W. Brittin, of Clinton, Dewitt Co., Ill., (P. O. Box 475), writes: "For over a year I was troubled with 'liver complaint,' had no appetite, could keep nothing on my stomach and had severe pains in my stomach and bowels. I doctored with home doctors but did not obtain relief until a friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking four bottles I think myself cured, as I can eat anything I want and my food never hurts me. Thanks for your medicines. I cannot say too much in favor of them."

For constipated conditions Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best simple, comfortable laxative. They never gripe. Accept no substitutes or imitations.

A CRUEL OPERATION.

THE PROCESS BY WHICH TORTOISE SHELL IS PROCURED.

Fires Set on the Living Turtle to Separate the Bony Layers of the House In Which He Lives — A Business That Struck an Observer as Heartless.

There are many articles of daily and hourly use constantly passing before our eyes and through our hands about the production of which we know comparatively little or nothing. An interesting example of this is tortoise shell, from which combs and hairpins are made, besides a multitude of trinkets for the dressing table, the desk and the pocket. Fierce crusades have been instituted in recent years against the slaughter of birds for the procurement of their plumage for hat trimmings, and yet I venture to say that the process of procuring tortoise shell is a cruelty to animal life which far exceeds that to which birds are subjected.

In the eighties I happened to be down in Bluefields, on that awful Mosquito coast, and at the invitation of one Manuel Latona, who was the owner and captain of a small schooner, went with him to the cay El Roncador for tortoise shell. This cay gets its name (which in English would be the Snorer) from the exceedingly angry surf, which can be heard for a long distance breaking over the reefs. This is the cay on which a couple of years back the historic old ship Kearsarge was wrecked and battered to pieces. El Roncador is nothing more or less than a typical coral island, such as is found throughout the southern seas, three-quarters of a mile long, perhaps, and not more than a quarter of a mile across its widest part. Surrounding the island is a reef, inside of which the water is smooth and rather shallow, and at the bottom of this shallow water there grows a peculiar kind of sea grass which is a dainty food for the turtle tribes. There is also found on the top of the water inside the reef a sort of small blubber fish, called in Spanish dedalos, or thimble fish, which is perhaps the greatest delicacy of the entire turtle menu.

The turtle whose shell is valued in commerce is a small species known as the hawk bill. There are other varieties which come to El Roncador to spawn, but they are not molested. During the night the turtles crawl up on the shore to lay their eggs, each female depositing on an average about 70. To do this they dig holes in the sand about two feet deep and after laying the eggs cover them over so deftly that it is almost impossible for a novice to find them. These eggs are really delicious when roasted, but the turtle fishers are careful not to destroy those they do not take for food, so as to promote as much as possible the increase of this valuable sea reptile. At night the fishers conceal themselves along the shore as well as possible, and when the turtles come up out of the water on the beach they rush forth and turn them over on their backs with iron hooks, leaving them secure in this position until morning.

The tortoise shell of commerce is not, as is generally believed, the horny covering or shell proper of the turtle; it is the scales which cover the shield. These scales are 13 in number, 8 of them being flat and the other 5 somewhat curved. Four of those that are flat are quite large, sometimes being as much as 12 inches long and 7 inches broad, nearly transparent and beautifully variegated in color with red, yellow, white and dark brown clouds, which give the effects so fully brought out when the shell is properly polished. A turtle of average size will furnish about eight pounds of these laminæ, or scales, each piece being from an eighth to a quarter of an inch in thickness.

It is the method by which these scales are loosened which is the repulsive part of the business. The turtles are not killed, as that would lead to their extermination in a very few years. After capturing them the fishers wait for daylight to complete the work. The turtles are turned over again in their natural position and fastened firmly to the ground by means of pegs. Then a bunch of dried leaves or sea grass is spread evenly over the back of the turtle and set afire. The heat is not great enough to injure the shell, merely causing it to separate the joints. A large blade, very similar in shape to a chemist's spatula, is then inserted horizontally between the laminæ, which are gently pried from the back. Great care must be taken not to injure the shell by too much heat, and yet it is not forced off until it is fully prepared for separation by a sufficient amount of warmth.

The operation, as one may readily imagine, is the extreme of cruelty, and many turtles do not survive it. Most of them do live, however, and thrive, and in time grow a new covering, just as a man will grow a new finger nail in place of one he might lose. The peculiarity of the second growth of shell, though, is that instead of reproducing the original number of 13 segments it is restored in one solid piece.

To see the operation of taking the shell from the living turtle once is about all a man of northern breeding wants of it, and if the helpless reptiles had the power of voicing their sufferings under it their cries would tell of as heartless a business as man has yet engaged in.—New York Post.

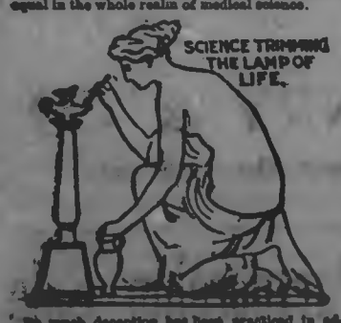
HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective nerve-vitalizer and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy tissue and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

This "Trial without Expense" offer is limited by the company to a short time, and application must be made at once.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N. Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

Duration of Human Life.

That the human being was intended for greater length of life than is usually attained in our artificial existence is probable from the fact that he does not reach his full and complete development until his twenty-fifth year. The life of most of the low animals is reckoned to be about five times their maturity in a natural condition, and, although disturbing causes interfere with human life in the present day, yet within certain limits man is subject to the same laws as every other type of existence in either the animal or the vegetable kingdom.

Nature has assigned to him a certain period during which he should attain to a sound physical and mental maturity, and any attempt to curtail that period by early forcing is and must be necessarily productive of lamentable results. The boy or girl may be developed under a system of steady "cramming" into a highly accomplished man or woman, long before full age has been reached, but it may be accepted as an axiom in almost all instances that the earlier the development the earlier the decay. The lesson to be learned from the records of those who have lived to advanced years is that moderation in all things, whether physical or intellectual, is the secret of long life, and that it is easy by systematically violating this rule to produce an artificial old age.—Nineteenth Century

The Bloody Meadow.

Tewkesbury, where a famous battle was fought during the war of the roses, is in Gloucestershire, at the confluence of the Avon and the Severn and 180 miles from London. The battle was fought on the Bloody meadow, just outside the modern town, and, according to local tradition, one knight in every year on the anniversary of the conflict the adherents of the white and red roses meet and fight the battle over again.

Among the Vosges peasant children born at the new moon are supposed to have tongues better hung than others, while those born at the last quarter have better reasoning powers. A daughter born during the waxing moon is always precocious.

Sturdy as an Oak.

An Oak lives long after the man that planted it dies. Just so insurance; it lives after you die, and those that follow you get the benefit of its protection. When you plant an oak be sure you plant a good one. When you plant insurance be sure you plant good insurance in a good place. The Canadian Order of Foresters gives good insurance at a low price. There are 10 reasons why you should place your insurance with them. Here they are:

THE C. O. F. IS

1. Purely CANADIAN.
2. National in its character.
3. 25,000 strong.
4. Fixed Premium. No death Assessments.
5. Gives $500, $1,000, $1,500 or $2,000 insurance.
6. Over $1,500,000.00 paid to members and their dependents since organization, in 1879.
7. Careful medical selection. Death rate for the 17th year of its history only 4.94 per 1,000.
8. Has a larger Surplus on hand for each $1,000 risk than any other Society of the kind in Canada.
9. SECURITY OF INVESTMENTS. Not a dollar of our Surplus invested outside of Canada.
10. Premiums and Interest accruing therefrom used ONLY FOR PAYMENT OF DEATH CLAIMS.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realizing that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

HIS ONLY HOPE.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Harry Stuart After all Other Remedies Failed.

LONDON, Dec. 13th.—In nine-tenths of the homes of London, the all-absorbing topic of conversation is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Thousands of happy, grateful men and women, are telling of their rescue from Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Paralysis and other kidney diseases hitherto called incurable. All tell how how Dodd's Kidney Pills cured, after all other means had failed.

Harry Stuart, 164 Mill street, told our reporter to-day that a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him completely of long standing kidney disease and lumbago. Doctors could not cure him. Neither could other remedies. Dodd's Kidney Pills were his only hope. THEY CURED HIM. They never fail to cure any case of Kidney Disease.

A FEW DON'TS.

Advice That Has a Direct Bearing on Health and Happiness.

Perhaps you have all heard or read the advice contained in these few "don'ts," but it is good enough to be repeated over and over again. We take them from a paper that seems to think as we do about it:

Don't catch cold. Catching cold is much more prevented than it is generally supposed to be. Keep your feet warm and dry, your head cool, your chest well protected. Avoid exposure with an empty stomach. Take care not to cool off suddenly when you are heated. Keep out of drafts, wear flannels and be careful generally.

Don't sleep in the same flannels that you wear during the day.

Don't wear thin stockings or light soled shoes in cold or in wet weather.

Don't neglect personal cleanliness, but use the bath with moderation and in accordance with your general health. The daily cold bath is all right for the rugged, but it is a great tax upon the vitality of weak persons and should not be indulged in if the results are at all doubtful. Tepid water is always better for those that are not in robust health. Judge for yourself.

Don't keep the sun out of your living rooms and your sleeping rooms. Sunlight is absolutely necessary to put in proper condition the air that we breathe.

Don't neglect your house drainage. The first condition of the family's health is a dry, sweet atmosphere.

Don't forget that Dr. Good Habits, Dr. Diet and Dr. Exercise are the best doctors in the world.—Philadelphia Times.

Converted.

Small Boy—What'll I do with this money box?

Mamma—Put it away, of course. It has a shilling in it that your aunt gave you and some change your pa and I put in.

"Not now. There isn't any money in it now. I spent it."

"Spent it? What did you do that for?"

"Why, the clergyman preached so hard against hoarding up riches that I got converted and spent what I had."—London Fun.

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

HISTORY AS A SUBJECT CLEVERLY CONSIDERED.

state deputed to readjust the constitutional balance and he becomes the special agent of the Almighty. He goes to Ireland to assist the righteous judgment of Heaven; he goes to Scotland to scatter the enemies of God; he returns to England to tell the only fragment of constitutional government left in the realm that the Lord has done with them. The was bad; the irresponsibility of the Stuarts was bad; the theocratic absolutism of Cromwell was no better. And so on adown the ages, man's progress towards an ultimate good is much retarded by departure from his path on either side in pursuit of half goods. It would be hard to understand why the recognition of this principle alone is not an effective way of giving a man political experience—of teaching him to receive warily and slowly the latest political doctrine—of teaching him to look into the intent of things before following head down in the wake of any political party.

The study of history again should give one a sympathy for what is good and a hatred of what is base or false whether in the action of states or of individuals. According to Froude "history is a voice for ever sounding across the centuries the laws of right and wrong. Opinions alter, manners change, creeds rise and fall, but is written on the tablets of eternity. For every false word or unrighteous deed, for cruelty and oppression, for lust or vanity, the price has to be paid at last; not always by the chief offenders, but paid by some one. Justice and truth alone endure and live."

Another thing that history makes for is religious toleration. If one looks at his own history, to go no farther back, he is forced to the conclusion that he is what he is in religious leaning by reason of ancestry and training. A man is perfectly sincere—because his leaning is the result of training—when he professes strong attachment for the denomination to which he belongs, just as he is sincere in expressing his thankfulness for being an Englishman, Irishman, or Scotchman. A little reflection will show him that he deserves neither blame nor credit, for his choice has

NOT BEEN EXERCISED.

To go farther back it would appear that circumstances, chiefly political, and of no significance from a religious standpoint, have either set rolling or greatly strengthened new religious movements. Religious cosmopolitanism and toleration contribute to the solidarity and stability of any nation. A Scotch minister is reported to have said that "it wad be nae use o' the French to pray for the Lord wadna understan' their gibberish ony way." It would be hard for such a man to understand what the universal brotherhood of man means.

This perhaps sums up what can be said for history both on the side of discipline and on the side of knowledge. For purposes of discipline alone it is perhaps inferior to classics, mathematics or physical science, but it still develops memory, thinking, the imagination, the moral and religious feelings, and the will; while for guidance value in the performance of the duties of citizenship it transcends all other subjects. In this age of too much attention cannot be paid to subjects which develop and heighten the intelligence of the citizen. It is a question with many people whether universal suffrage is the unmixed good that blatant demagogues are so fond of representing it to be. The number of voters who can neither read nor write is alarmingly large at every election. This number must become steadily smaller with compulsory education. It is true on the other hand that among people pretty well educated the interest in public questions is not as great as it should be. Hence the value of history will always be great. It is impossible to pay too much attention to a subject that makes the young man old in political experience and in his regard for justice and right—that makes him politic, wise, tolerant and sober-minded. Its importance is being more and more recognized. It is being given greater emphasis in our High and Public schools. There is room for more of it in the Public schools. It should be begun earlier as it is a study peculiarly adapted to the early years of

A PUPIL'S LIFE

With regard to the teaching of history it may be said that until comparatively recent years it has not been scientifically treated. On account of its being a record of facts more or less patent to all and more or less easily comprehended by the ordinary reader, it does not offer to the student of methods the same chances for investigation as are afforded by such subjects as mathematics or science which involve greater exercise of the logical faculty. Mathematics and classics are traditionally the basis of education in the universities of the old land. The application of physical science to the industrial arts has given to this study an overbalancing importance in an industrial age while the subjects of English literature and history have but recently struggled into a place. It is not many years since English literature was a kind of optional subject on the curriculum of the University of Toronto. Later it became connected with the French and German department. It is now

CONNECTED WITH HISTORY.

The subject of history has run a similar course. It was a short time ago connected with economics, and is now coupled with English literature but has besides attained to the dignity of a separate honor department of itself which is a significant tribute to its importance. The course includes ancient and modern history. It takes account of the constitutional, ethical, social and economic progress of Europe generally and of England particularly. It seems a natural arrangement to study these phases in their relation to other phases and to have the light of general history on them. Economic theory for example can be most clearly understood in the light of and the interest of history will give life to an otherwise abstract and uninteresting subject. It is evident that the subject is winning its way though it has been somewhat neglected and rather poorly taught. Teachers have gone about their work in a perfunctory way. Want of knowledge explains want of interest, and want of interest want of success. Its teaching, however, can be put on a scientific basis and it is time that this should be recognized and made known.

History being a record of facts is essentially a memory subject. Memory is controlled by the laws of association. The establishment of a scientific method will therefore be the discovery of the associating principles in history. It is scarcely necessary to say that the loading of the mind with disconnected facts is not giving a child a knowledge of history as no fact exists alone in history. Neither need it be said that disconnected facts are not knowledge in the true sense. The refused to buy the Irishman's house until he had seen more than the sample of brick which Pat carried in his coat tail pocket. The knowledge of a particular fact is no test of of the pupil's knowledge of history. Both for knowledge and for mental discipline it is necessary to have the great diversity of the facts of history organized, related and unified and it is the work of the teacher to build up this fabric of organized knowledge in the mind of the pupil.

A great deal is said and written in modern times about evolution. There is no subject to which the theory of evolution is not being applied—man, animals, the world, institutions, etc. History is an evolution. Every fact is related to an antecedent fact or event and is basal to a subsequent one. History is dynamic not static; it represents progress, not rest.

This being so the idea of time or succession is essential to history, for progress cannot be conceived of apart from the idea of time. Each event is either before or after another. Hence is indissociably joined to the idea of progress in history. The question of the importance of teaching chronology in connection with the facts of history has been much discussed. It has been claimed that too much attention has been paid to dates. It is probable that we are swinging too far the other way now by paying too little attention to them. Only general principles can be laid down for guidance. It would be impossible, and unwise if possible, to TEACH ALL DATES.

THE IDEA OF CHRONOLOGY

How then are we to select the important ones? The importance must be determined in the light of the content of history. History is divisible into movements or periods, the rise and fall and climax of which should be marked by dates. Even in such cases as these we must remember that the time at which a movement began or ended is not absolute. The dates 1066 and 1492 are more or less absolute; the former marking the beginning of important political and social changes in England, the latter the beginning of relations between the old and new worlds. A revolution is said to have taken place in England in 1688. It would be truer to say that there was a revolution taking place in England from the time the Stuarts gave forth the theory of divine right. The departure of James II was an incident of the revolution and an evidence of the strength of it.

Another thing that might be said about dates is that they are more important in earlier than in later teaching. The more important relation of that belongs to history is somewhat difficult for young children. It is suited to the later development of the pupil. On the other hand the memory may be strongly appealed to in young pupils and the time relation be made to take the place to some degree of the causal relation. This does not mean that the causal relation should not be used or the logic exercise of history neglected at any stage in the teaching of it. It is a mistake on the other hand not to train the memory of young pupils as this faculty is strong in early years; it is indeed imperative to store the mind in early youth to furnish food for generalization and reflection in later years. Generalization is a mature function; it is useless to talk broad generalities to children and a mistake to expect them to make perfect causal relations. The time relation is of more importance in teaching the history of our own country than in the teaching of English or ancient history. A second is that of place. An event must have a local habitation, so to speak. An essential to the full realization of an event is to know where it took place. When a man undertakes to tell you a story he will always be at considerable pains to tell you exactly where the facts related occurred. A second man in telling you the same story will likewise confide to you the exact locality or theatre of action—a different one of course—which practice goes to show that a narrator feels that vividness is promoted by telling the place. The place relation is no less essential than useful. With regard to the place relation it might be noticed that, as in the case of dates, it is not of as great importance at one time as another. A place may be simply,

RELATING ACTIVITY

A THEATRE OF ACTION,

not having any influence in determing th outcome of the action. On the other hand it may be of great importance, as in difficult military operations, in deciding the fate of armies or the question of political supremacy. Such places as Quebec and Gibraltar will readily suggest themselves in this connection. The minute geography of such places should be gone into. A teacher with a gift for map drawing and a lively imagination can create great interest in events connected with such places. In the third place the character of a country may determine the character, occupations, political divisions and political institutions of a people. In such cases the geography should be made an intimate part of the history. Geography should be more particularly attended to in connection with the history of our own country than in that of foreign countries. A third relating principle in history, and one that is that either time or place, is the principle of cause and effect. This is the logic exercise of the study; it is organic, intimate and wholly internal. This relation and that of time and of place constitute the activities by which the facts of history are unified. All that can be asked about an event is, when was it? where was it? and why was it? and the answer to these questions is all that can be known of it. It is on the skilful manipulation of these activities that the success of the teacher depends. It is by them that the chain of history is to be welded with no link missing.

To make the causal relation calls forth the highest exercise of the powers of the pupils. It is not alone the best activity for discipline but it is the best for knowledge. The pupil learns to expect that like causes will produce like effects, and that men or nations reap what they sow. A nation declines through opulence, slavery or sloth, and grows strong through industry, independence and boldness.

POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS

are the outcome of the character and conditions of a race and public men are more or less the product of their age, reflecting its strength and weakness. With regard to the teaching of causal relations to younger pupils it may be said that they are not interested in movements but are intensely fond of studying men and action. Where the mature student sees movements and tendencies with certain men associated with them the child sees men acting and shaping movements. The mature student sees men in movements; the young pupil sees movements in men. It would be well then to exalt the biographical aspects in early teaching. The nature of the child is dramatic. The teacher strongly felt the need of being dramatic who, in teaching the discovery of America, represented the following conversation as having taken place between Columbus and the Indians:—

"Are you the Indians?"

"Yes, we're the Indians."

"Are you Columbus?"

"Yes, I'm Columbus."

"Well, we're discovered at last."

MANTLES AND JACKETS

.... AT ....

ROBT. FAIR'S.

During our Quick Reduction Sale before Christmas perhaps there's no department in our store where the Reduction will be more sweeping than in MANTLES AND JACKETS.

Last winter when we were closing out our matchless stock of Coats, &c., we did not hesitate to mark $12 and $15 garments at $5 and $6, in order to keep none over for another year. We propose this season to hew just as close to the line—let the loss be what it may. It sometimes pays to lose. A loss now accepted will enable us to clear out our whole stock in this department in a short time. Here are some of these Mantle Sacrifices:—

FOR $5 00 A lot of Ladies' German Tweed Coats, perfect fitting garments, formerly sold at $8.50.

FOR $6 25 A lot of Tailor-made German Coats, well finished, formerly sold at $10.

FOR $8 50 Ladies' Stylish Rough Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold at $12.50.

FOR $4.00 Ladies' Black Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold for $6.50

FOR $8.50 Ladies' Black Golf Capes, Lined with black and white checks, formerly sold for $12.50.

FOR $7.50 Ladies Coloured Golf Capes, formerly sold at $9.50.

The balance of our Misses and Children's Jackets are also all reduced on a par with the above changed figures ranging at $4, $4.50, $4.75 and $5, or about $3 to $4.50 off former selling prices.

This is the way we have of keeping our Stock fresh. There is no reason why the Handsome and Useful should not combine in Holiday presents.

THE LEGISLATURE

Resume of the Proceedings of the Week Just Past.

WILL MR. MARTER AGAIN LEAD?

The Best Speech of His Life Made in the Legislature Last Week Has Set His Old-Time Followers Thinking—The Mistakes and Blunders of the Opposition.

Whatever hope may have animated the Conservatives in the Legislature of their obtaining power in the near future was utterly shattered last week, as much by internal strife and jealousies as by the crushing exposure at the hands of the Premier and Hon. Mr. Ross. It seems Mr. Marter is again anxious to take the reins of leadership and it is said upon good authority he has a fairly strong backing from Conservative members, though if it came to a vote Mr. Whitney would carry the day. Yet there is trouble. Mr. Marter, when forced to resign his leadership, felt he had not been given sufficient opportunity to display his ability. He had made no telling speech in the House, but gave it as his reason he had not had time to prepare one, what with organization, etc. He determined some months ago to show his fellow-Conservative members they had made a great mistake in removing him and placing Mr. Whitney in the post of honor. He spent days, weeks, months, at preparing a speech. That speech he delivered in the Legislature early last week. It took him over three hours to say all he had prepared and it is not going too far to say it was the best speech he ever delivered in or out of the House. Many, in fact most, of the Conservative members, Mr. Whitney excepted, thought the speech very powerful, and several, in congratulating Mr. Marter afterwards, remarked that perhaps they really had made a mistake in asking him to resign. Between Mr. Marter's speech and the terrible mess Mr. Whitney has made of it during the week the Conservatives may, as predicted before, go to the country with some other leader than Mr. Whitney yet.

The Opposition for years have denied strenuously that the four million dollars held as trust funds by the Dominion Government at Ottawa for the Province of Ontario were to be considered as assets of the province. Year after year for nearly a quarter of a century the financial critic of the Opposition in delivering his remarks upon the budget would protest that the capital held and debts due by the Dominion Government to Ontario, bearing interest, and the collections by Ontario paid over to the Dominion Government in 1889 and 1890 on common school fund account should not in any sense be considered as part of the assets of the province. Upon the contrary, by some remarkable method of reasoning, they contended that there were debts which should be charged up against the Provincial Government. What was the consternation in the ranks then may be imagined when Mr. Whitney innocently and candidly admitted during the course of the debate that these funds were properly considered assets and unknowingly knocked the largest plank in its party platform from under his own feet. The leader was not the only one upon the Opposition side who seemed anxious to put his foot into it. They all seemed to get rattled after Mr. Whitney's break and between admissions, trivial and false statements and harsh words, succeeded as never before in making themselves and the party appear most ridiculous. First came Mr. Matheson, who got into hot water over the "prison labor" question. He did not want to have any of the products of prison labor placed upon the open market, but when asked what he would do with prisoners he advised such a brutal course of treatment that his own followers frowned him down. Then Mr. St. John cropped up again with his piggery and made his bosom friend Mr. H. Clarke Wallace ridiculous by describing the pig inspector in such terms as to leave the House under the impression that this official was none other than his friend. When the House opened Mr. Whitney boasted he was going to kick up a great row and make himself heard all over the country before the session closed. He was going to talk when he liked and say what he liked. He was not going to allow the Premier to dictate to him in anything. He was a free man and was bound to have his say. He intimated he would have something important to say, something which would make the Government tremble, and when the time arrived for him to formulate his grave charges they simmered down to a complaint that one of the Government inspectors had purchased a $12 marine glass and presented it to the captain of one of the lake steamers who had rendered valuable services to the Government, and who might have sent in a bill for a much larger amount with perfect propriety. When the Premier found that the mountain had produced so small a mouse he refused on Friday night to continue the debate and so crushed the Opposition with the few remarks he did make they permitted the Speaker to leave the chair and the first item of the yearly estimates to pass without a kick or even a whimper. The Opposition, so loudly brave and belligerent upon the stump, crawled into their holes at the end of the second week in the House and prayed the Premier to let them have a long Christmas holiday.

COLEMAN'S CASE.

Progress of the Trial on Saturday—The Crown Closes Its Case—Will Not Be Finished Till To-day.

Brampton, Dec. 20.—There was no prospect of the evidence in the Coleman trial going to the jury Saturday. Coleman, in his evidence at Orangeville in June, testified that James Small and James Dick were present in Hamilton's office at Shelburne on the evening of November 23, 1896, when he saw Mrs. Stevenson sign the famous order. The Crown evidence was to show that neither Dick nor Small could have been in Hamilton's office on this date, because they were at auction sales in the country, too far removed from Shelburne to make Coleman's statement possible.

W. J. Robinson, Sam McDowell, Frank Mulligan and D. A. Thompson were at George Robinson's sale, nine miles from Shelburne, on November 23, and all remembered seeing Small, who is a one-armed man, there as late as 4 p.m.

Robinson also saw Small in Dundalk as late as 6 p.m. A. J. Calhoun, a Dundalk store clerk, remembered seeing Small in Dundalk between 6 and 7 p.m. on the 23rd. On the same date there was an auction sale at Mrs. George Tate's in Mulmur.

George MacAllister, the auctioneer, saw James Dick there, so did George Lanting, the sale clerk, up to as late as lamplighting, and Robert Erskine, a hired man with James Dick, was at the sale with his employer and drove home with him, arriving there between 7 and 8 p.m. To witness' knowledge Dick was at home until 10 or 11 p.m. Dick's home is 15 miles from Shelburne.

Erskine admitted that Dick might have had time to drive to Shelburne before 8 o'clock.

This closed the case for the Crown.

The Defence.

Mr. Hugh White, of Shelburne, was the first witness called for the defense. He said that he was accustomed to call at Hamilton's office, that he called on the evening of Nov. 23, and noticed several people in the office, among whom were Mrs. Stevenson, William Stewart, Mr. Small and Mr. Coleman, and as he was going out he met Dick coming in. He called in on this particular occasion to see about an engine and he was only in a few moments.

Adam Loudon, one of the accused, was the next witness called. He said that he went into Mr. Hamilton's office on the night in question, that he saw Mrs. Stevenson, Billy Stewart, Mr. Small, Mr. Coleman and Mr. Sammons in the office, that he recognized Sammons and spoke to him. Mrs. Stevenson was talking to Mr. Hamilton when he went in. When he came out these parties were still there.

Thomas Gallagher, Hamilton's clerk, was the next witness called. He said he made out a statement of Mrs. Stevenson's account about a week before Nov. 23, and that it came to $158.78. He also said that Mrs. Stevenson objected to this, as she did not want a $66 note in which was included a mortgage held by Hamilton. He gave evidence as to the account in the book and said it was not all entered by him. Mrs. Stevenson might have been in after Nov. 23 objecting to the account.

James Small, another of the accused, gave evidence to being in Hamilton's office. He said that he went to Hamilton to borrow $5, and while he was there Mrs. Stevenson came in; that he might have been at Robinson's sale, but did not know it by that name; said that he was in Shelburne the evening of the 23rd, but he went from there to Shelburne, where he saw Hamilton in his office, and Mrs. Stevenson and her brother, Billy, were also there. While he was there the order was drawn up and signed.

Mr. Johnston again asked for bail for the prisoner Coleman, as he wanted to go home. The Crown declined, so the prisoner went back to jail. The case will likely go to the jury Monday.

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure should be kept in every home; if used rightly would save a world of trouble.

CAUSE OF THE CRISIS

Organized Attack on the Dominion Government.

EDGE OF THE CURTAIN RAISED.

A Bad Element Coming to the Surface With Demands for Railway Subsidies—The Point of Divergence Was a Refusal to Recognize Mr. C. N. Armstrong—Expulsion of Jobbers.

Montreal, Dec. 20.—(Globe Special.)—Though Mr. Tarte made light of it at Levis on Friday, there is a crisis in the Liberal party with which all lovers of good government should be made acquainted. Loyalty to the party has kept silent many Liberals who knew what was believed the Langelier episode, but their loyalty has been abused to such an extent that it is time to raise the edge of the curtain. The fact is that some of the worst elements of the Mercier regime are coming to the surface, and there is now at Quebec a struggle for mastery in which the whole country is interested. The notorious Baie des Chaleurs Railway, or its more high-sounding successor, the Atlantic & Lake Superior Railway, is again the centre of one phase of the fight. The Montreal correspondent of Le Evenement, a Conservative paper of Quebec, hit the nail on the head when he wrote: "The point of divergence, probably, was the refusal of Sir Wilfrid and Hon. Mr. Tarte to have anything to do with Mr. C. N. Armstrong, whose name was mixed up with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway matter. Mr. Tarte took such a firm stand against subsidizing Mr. Armstrong's railways that dissatisfaction, at first concealed, became public, and matters were embittered." When the bye-election in Nicolet came on the company tried to hold up the Dominion Government and obtain a subsidy by force. Mr. Prefontaine, who is a director, played a curious role for a Liberal member of Parliament. It looked as if there might be no contest. Mr. Prefontaine offered his support to the candidate who might be chosen by the Conservative convention, and afterwards intimated that this candidate would withdraw if the Government would give a subsidy. Sir Wilfrid refused to make any such promise. The Quebec end was carefully fanned by Mr. Pacaud of Le Soleil, and all the blame for Mr. Langelier's dissatisfaction laid at the door of Mr. Tarte. If Mr. Tarte were driven out of the Government, then the Atlantic & Lake Superior Railway might get a subsidy. Mr. Pacaud, Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Prefontaine, M.P., are a strong trio, but so far have been unable to force the hand of either Local or Federal Government. One of the first acts of the Marchand Government was to cancel the guarantee for $3,000,000 which Mr. Flynn gave the company, but the most desperate efforts have since been made to compel Mr. Marchand to restore a guarantee which would ruin the province. This railway grab is an example of the sinister motives which impel most of the attacks upon Mr. Tarte. The crisis has many ramifications, but if the other phases are sifted some sort of a job will be found at the bottom of many of them.

REV. MICHAEL FAWCETT DEAD.

Career of One of the Old Stalwarts of Canadian Methodism.

Guelph, Dec. 20.—The Methodist church of Canada has lost one of its pioneer ministers in the person of Rev. Michael Fawcett, who died here on Saturday. He was in his 83nd year, and was ordained 57 years ago. He was in active work for 45 years, and since his superannuation, 12 years ago, has been connected, more or less actively, with St. Paul's Methodist church in this city. During his long ministry he filled some important pulpits, such as Brampton, St. George, Markham, Oakville, Grimsby, Yonge Street Centre and number of other city churches. In 1872 he was a traveling missionary in the Northwest, where he spent four years. He was a landmark in Canadian Methodism, possessing great force of character, and was one of the best preachers of his day. His kindly sympathy and cheerfulness made him universally esteemed. Deceased leaves two sons and a daughter—Dr. William Fawcett, of Chicago, Rev. Joseph, of Magnolia, Ill., and Mrs. Young, of Winnipeg.

NEW JUDGES.

Barristers of Victoria, Ont., and Victoria, B.C., Appointed to the Bench.

Just as soon as His Excellency the Governor-General gives his approval to the Order-in-Council, J. A. Barron, ex-M.P.P. for North Victoria, will be made judge of the County of Perth.

Had His Leg Smashed.

Hespeler, Ont., Dec. 20.—Allen Groff, a farm hand employed by Absolin Snyder, about three miles north of here, on Saturday morning was engaged in felling a tree, which toppled towards him, instead of falling the other way, and in trying to get out of its way, he slipped and fell, the tree falling across his right leg, resulting in a compound comminuted fracture. He was removed to the Galt Hospital Sunday by Dr. Lockhart, of this place, who has charge of the case.

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—How Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. FURNISS.

THE LUMBER QUESTION.

Considerable interest has been aroused in Ontario over the lumber question, and information as to the nature of the legislation proposed by the Government to meet the conditions that exist with a view of meeting the new conditions connected with the lumbering interests of Ontario, is anxiously awaited. It is known that the conditions to be met, arise out of the action of the United States in imposing a duty on lumber, with a retaliatory rider, and these conditions are sufficiently grave, the lumbermen of the Georgian Bay district, especially, think, to warrant them in asking the Ontario Government to prevent by every means the exportation of saw logs cut on Crown lands. The reason why this request is made is because the retaliatory clause of the Dingley Bill makes it impossible to ask the Dominion Government to again impose the old export duty, inasmuch as the retaliatory duty mentioned adds to the present duty, $2 per thousand on sawn lumber, an addition duty equal to the export duty imposed upon logs sent out of Canada. Under present circumstances, that is with Ontario logs admitted free to the United States and a duty of $2.00 per thousand on lumber, it seems plain that the sawing of lumber, in the Georgian Bay districts especially, will not be continued to the same extent as heretofore, since, it must be remembered, that American capitalists owning mills across the border, have purchased limits from the original owners. An export duty or its equivalent seems to be necessary to equalise conditions and to relieve the Canadian lumber operator from a competition which it seems at present impossible to meet; and it need last only so long as the retaliatory clause remains in the United States tariff law. In the event of the retaliatory clause being eliminated, it would seem to be the proper thing to suggest the cancelling of the prohibition to export logs and then to urge the Dominion Government with which the power only rests, to put an export duty on Canadian logs of the same amount as the United States export duty on lumber.

The object to be aimed at is to place the American and Canadian holder of timber limits on a footing of equality. This is due, not only to Canadian owners, but to Americans, who have transferred their saw mills to Canada, and who are, like Canadians, placed at the great disadvantage of $2.00 per thousand.

Canadians cannot effectively complain of the $2.00 duty imposed by the Dingley Bill, for they have no right, as foreigners, to do so, but they have very just reason to complain of the retaliatory clause, since that precious piece of tariff-mongering imposes a penalty upon Canadians for the exercise of our rights, for we have, without doubt, as much right to impose an export duty, or its equivalent on logs as the Americans had to place a duty of $2.00 per thousand upon lumber. However, so long as this unneighbourly retaliatory power remains a part of the United States tariff law, it would not be a wise nor fair policy for this province to continue to permit the raw material of logs to enter the United States market free and at the same time leave Canadian manufacturers of the same raw material at the disadvantage of competing in the same market, burdened with a tax of $2.00 upon every thousand feet of sawn lumber. It is not to be supposed that Canadians wish more than to be dealt fairly with, and there is, perhaps, little sympathy with a demand for absolutely and for all time forbidding the export of logs. The question of exporting logs is largely geographical, inasmuch as logs cannot be profitably exported from any part of Ontario except the Georgian Bay district. Though we cannot speak with any authority as to the feelings of lumbermen upon this subject, yet there is no doubt that what they most want, is free entry of forest products to the United States market, and they would regard this as so great a double return, as to make them willing to agree to the free exportation of logs. It is evident that this course would be more to the interest of both limit holders and workmen. Free entry of forest products to the United States, would also be in the interest of farmers and settlers, as it would provide a large market for an enormous quantity of forest products other than pine such as hemlock, spruce, tamarac, cedar, poles, posts, ties, etc., etc., and would increase the value of our forests and provide work to an extent considerably greater in importance than the sawing of any logs that could possibly be exported.

The policy of preventing, under present conditions, the exportation of logs, would not interfere with the settlers selling anything off their farms. As a matter of fact, that being a Dominion affair, the Ontario Government would not have jurisdiction.

In any action we take, we should avoid making any offer to the United States. If they find to be onerous any conditions we may impose, to maintain our timber and provincial interests, let them do the offering. If the exportation of logs on Crown lands is prohibited, and we are relieved from competition in the Lake Erie markets with lumber from our logs sawn in Michigan, Canadians can pay the $2.00.

In any legislation, providing for the sawing in Canada of all logs cut on Crown lands, it has been suggested that provision should be made that the power to alter the regulation by Order-in-Council should not be interfered with, so that in case the "retaliatory clause" is dropped by the United States, or in case of Sir Wilfrid Laurier succeeding in getting a reciprocity treaty, including logs and lumber, the new regulations could be abolished.

It is pretty certain that the adoption of a policy like that indicated would send all Michigan mill and planing mill owners and all handlers of pine on the northern tier of States, in hot haste to Washington to get a change in the legislation in regard to Canadian lumber.

The Ontario Government, in passing an order in council, compelling all lumbermen to employ only Canadians and to purchase all supplies in Canada, have taken a step in the right direction and one that should have been taken by the Dominion Government long ago and we do not doubt that the attention and deliberation given by the Government to the subject will merit the approval of all thoughtful citizens, when definite action is taken. There is reason to believe that when the legislation on the subject is brought down in the House it will be such as will merit not only the approval of the public but of the interests concerned.

Comparatively few persons have an intelligent knowledge of the nature of the order in council of the Ontario Government, issued on September 15th, 1897, amending the Crown timber regulations in respect to the employment of Canadian labour in lumbering operations. The following are the essential provisions of the order:

No licensee or holder of a permit, engaged in cutting and removing logs or timber on Crown lands or driving the same in Canadian waters, or no person employed by such licensee, shall employ in any such operations any person who is not a resident of, and domiciled in Canada, excepting the manager of such lumbering operations and the head bookkeeper or accountant.

In case any such licensee or limit holder, or any person employed by him, gives employment in such lumbering operations to any person who is not a resident of Canada, such licensee shall have his license suspended and held in abeyance, and it shall not be again issued except by order-in-council and then subject to such conditions as the Lieutenant-Governor in council may impose; and all timber or logs cut on territory included in the license, shall be deemed to have been cut in trespass, and shall be liable to seizure and to such penalties as trespass calls for.

All horses, cattle, sleighs, all provisions, tools, hardware, such as chains, axes, saws, etc., and supplies or materials of any kind whatsoever, required or used in connection with taking out sawlogs or timber from Crown lands, shall be purchased in Canada, and all timber or logs cut contrary to the provisions of this clause of the order, shall be liable to seizure, and the license shall be suspended, and not restored except by Order-in-Council, and then only on such conditions as the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may approve.

So far as it goes, this Order-in-Council is in the right direction, and indicates a desire on the part of the Government to do what lies in their power to maintain the interests of our Province in regard to our timber resources, which are of the greatest importance and can only be dealt with after fullest consideration, and with all the information obtainable.

GOUGH :-: BROS.

Matchless as have been the Decimated Prices which have ruled during our Extraordinary Sale of our Fortunate Purchase from the Mc-Kenna-Thompson Company, of Montreal, this additional saving of TWENTY PER CENT. should appeal to everybody during this Holiday month, coming as it does at a season when everyone wants to give Presents at a Little Cost. This makes the Buying about ALL YOUR OWN WAY. You have a "Corner" now in Clothing buying, if you want to take advantage of it. Not even Cost is to be asked in many cases. No matter how hard it freezes or how much thicker the ice gets, you have nothing to fear in the way of Higher Prices—so long as this sale lasts at GOUGH BROS.

Our Reason!

We have a Special Reason for offering this Extra Reduction. You may guess, however, that part of the reason is to sell off as much Winter Goods as possible. One partner says: "Sell at Cost." The other says, "Go ahead, make it 20 Per Cent. better, and trust to your past record for results."

Anyway, you have our offer in Black and White. You'll find us a regular Unincorporated Society for the Clothing of Men, Youths, Boys and Children who want the most for their money, and want it right away.

BE AN EARLY BIRD. The time of all times to buy for future use is now, and the place of all places is—

GIVE FURS

You cannot help obeying this order if you but choose here!

Other things may disappoint. Furs will not. An article of Fur is useful, handsome and always gives delight—moreover by beauty of design, richness of material and workmanship, every piece is invested with a charm of its own, far more subtile and intimate than that of any other form of art or utility, because no other is so closely connected with ones daily appearance and comfort.

THIS LARGE AND SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPED FUR STORE OFFERS A RARE CHOICE OF ALL CLASSES OF FURS FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON:

—A woman's wardrob is not complete without a Fur-lined Wrap. Rich roomy garments for the opera, party, and out-door wear. From $15 to $60 embraces everything in this department, but a woman's eyes are needed to appreciate the values. The garments are 30 inches and three-quarter lengths, richly lined and trimmed in the fashionable Furs, plain, twill and brocadecloth outsides.

RUSSIA IN THE EAST.

The Great Power Takes Quiet Possession of Port Arthur.

CHINA DID NOT RAISE A PROTEST

The Czar's Navy Simply Needed a Winter Station in the East—No Demonstrations Intended Against Germany, Japan or Any Other Power—Sir Frank Lockwood Dead—Cable News.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—It is announced that a Russian squadron under Rear Admiral Reounow has entered Port Arthur, on the Chinese coast, with the entire acquiescence of the Chinese Government. The squadron intends to remain at Port Arthur throughout the winter. This is due solely to the need of a temporary winter station and involves no question of forcible occupation or hostile demonstration, or any intention against China, Germany, Japan or any other power.

Various Ideas About It.

London, Dec. 20.—The correspondent of the Times at Pekin says: "China approves of the Russian fleet wintering at Port Arthur, being persuaded that this action is taken in the interest of China and necessitated by the German occupation of Kiao-Chou."

A despatch to the Times from Shanghai says the occupation of Port Arthur (by Russia) cannot fail to provoke popular indignation in Japan, where public opinion is already excited over the Kiao-Chou affair.

According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai, the high officials of the Chinese Court have advised the Emperor, in view of the further complications, to remove the court to Nanking (the "southern capital"). The despatch says it is reported there that overtures have been made to England to exercise protection over the Yang-Tse Valley and the West River, and that numerous rumors are current regarding the activity of the British squadron in Chinese waters.

Telegrams from all the continental capitals show that Russia's step at Port Arthur is regarded as tantamount to a permanent occupation and a reply to Germany's action.

The Novoe Vremya pretends that Japan has no cause for complaint, since China is only giving the same shelter to Russian ships as Japan had hitherto so kindly afforded. This view is not held in Berlin, where the papers are already taking of the possibility of Prince Henry having to shake his mailed fist at Japan. That is supposed to be secretly backed up by England. Some of the Berlin papers express anxiety, but most of them welcome the news from Port Arthur as justifying the German position at Kiao-Chou, if not as actual evidence that Russia and Germany are acting together. Curiously enough, Emperor William visited the Russian Ambassador on Friday night on his return from Kiel, ostensibly to congratulate him on the name day of Emperor Nicholas. The visit lasted an hour. There is no doubt now that the Emperor and the Ambassador discussed current affairs.

The Paris papers, without pretending to be deceived by Russia's innocent explanations, are pleased with the action of the ally of France.

The burden of Viennese comment is, What will England do?

The British fleet now in Chinese waters consists of one ironclad, nine cruisers and 18 smaller vessels.

The Times, commenting editorially this morning on the situation in China, says: "Instead of the Kaiser's mailed fist, we have Russia's velvet glove, but the grasp is not less vigorous and unyielding. Great Britain ought now courteously to invite China to extend the same privilege to the British fleet at Chusan."

IS THE KAISER MAD?

The Saturday Review Says the Name "William the Witless" is Not Strong Enough to Represent the Truth.

London, Dec. 20.—The general opinion of Kiel is voiced by a diplomat's remark: "It is a great pity that Germany, having an easy, safe and simple, though slightly piratical piece of work on hand, should not be able to perform it without setting the whole world laughing."

The papers are full of comment on the subject. The Times says: "The august utterances are worthy of heroes of melodrama, and would seem high flown to modern ideas if uttered by Philip II. as he despatched the Armada; or, by Columbus, as he started to carry the dominion of Spain over the oceans. The Kaiser evoked memories of Metz and Sedan to encourage Prince Henry to keep a stout heart as he faces the perils of the Suez Canal, and the terrors of the China Sea. Prince Henry's peroration was closed by a specimen of almost Byzantine self-abasement, unique in the annals of modern Europe."

The Saturday Review thinks the nickname of "William the Witless" is no longer adequate, adding that he is "stark, staring mad."

Continuing, the Saturday Review remarks: "In spite of the ominous fact that he has alienated the newspapers and professors, insulted the greatest nobles, when they ventured to disagree with his extraordinary activity, until the court is deserted, and known throughout Germany as the court of parvenus, the poor creature continues to take himself seriously, as a sort of drill-sergeant of providence."

THE PHILIPPINES SUBDUED.

Spain Supposed to Have Conquered One Set of Rebellious Subjects.

Madrid, Dec. 20.—At the meeting of the Cabinet Saturday Prime Minister Sagasta read despatches from Manilla announcing the surrender of the remaining insurgent leaders and the complete pacification of the Philippine Islands. The chiefs of the insurgent Government have agreed to make personal submission to the Queen Regent, and will sail for that purpose on Dec. 27. A fitting escort will accompany them to Spain.

When the news of the end of the Philippine rebellion became generally known the public were delighted. Enthusiastic crowds thronged the streets, and many of the residents illuminated and bedagged their houses. The Government ordered that all the public buildings be decorated in honor of the occasion.

Several of the warships that are now at the Philippines will be ordered to proceed to Cuba.

THE GRAECO-TURKISH WAR.

King George of Greece a Traitor—He Made a Bargain With Russia and Fulfilled It.

London, Dec. 20.—Henry Labouchere is the author of a sensational article in Truth, the authority for which is a well-known foreign diplomat. The article says: "Greece was involved in the war with Turkey owing to the endeavor of King George to bluff the Czar into hurrying the marriage of Princess Marie. The Czar declined to interfere and King George, knowing that Russia was most desirous that there should be no disturbances in the south of Europe, played with the war party until it got beyond his control. The Czar then warned King George that the Turks would occupy Athens and that his dynasty would cease to reign. King George finally entered into an arrangement with Russia, the latter promising that the Turks should not go beyond Thessaly, provided no real stand was made against them, that the Greek forces in Epirus would not seriously operate against Janina and that the Greek fleet would remain inactive. All these agreement were carried out, the Crown Prince, Prince George and Colonel Vassos all having secret orders from the King."

The Daily Chronicle, which continues to champion the cause of the Greek royal family, professes to know that the story is untrue; but it is generally believed.

The Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Greece, otherwise the Duke and Duchess of Sparta, will soon leave Athens to be absent for a year. Prince Constantine is suffering from severe nervous depression, and he and his wife, the Princess Sophia of Prussia, will go to the Riviera, and then to Germany and England.

PHOTOGRAPHING COLORS.

The Long-Looked For Result Said to Have Been Attained.

London, Dec. 20.—Prof. Lippman, of Paris, has given an interesting lecture before the Photographic Society in London on the process of photographing objects in natural colors. He declares that he has solved the problem of directly fixing colors with a single exposure.

After the sensitive side of the plate or film has been rendered grainless transparent it is brought into contact with a metallic mirror. The contact is effected by a falling slide from behind with mercury, which, after the exposure, is let down into a reservoir, the plate being taken out for development, which is managed in the ordinary way. The result is a negative upon which, as the process of drying goes on, the colors appear true and bright in proportion as the exposure and development have been correct. Several specimens were shown, and the effect obtained was excellent.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney disease.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realising that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

For Catarrh in any form use Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure.

Varsity Glee Club Concert.

The Varsity Glee Club, which is booked to appear in the Opera House on Wednesday night, is entering upon its annual tour better equipped in ability and musical resources than ever before. About five years ago the club appeared in Peterborough and the music-loving people have very pleasant recollections of the pleasure they gave. The club opened their season in Lindsay on Friday night in a brilliantly successful manner. One of the many Peterborough ladies interested in the club, Mrs. W. H. Moore, was in Lindsay on Friday and speaks very highly of the splendid entertainment given by the Varsity boys. There is no doubt that the entertainment the club will present on Wednesday night will be in every way worthy of the liberal patronage it is hoped it will receive.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Mr. Robert Emmerson, of Otonabee, on Saturday.

The death of one of the oldest, if not the oldest, resident of Otonabee occurred on Saturday last, when Robert Emmerson passed away at the age of 73 years and three months.

The deceased was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Cumberland county, England, and came to Canada with his parents when four years of age, consequently being a resident of Canada for 69 years. For the first three years the family resided in Smith township and then moved to Otonabee, where land was taken up. Six years later the family removed to lot 14, con. 13, which was constituted the homestead and where deceased has resided ever since.

Only two months ago his wife was laid at rest. Six children survive, viz.: Mary, who lives at home, Mrs. M. Brackenridge, of Westwood, David, Wm. and Lucy, of the homestead, and Charles, of Assiniboia, N.W.T.

Of his brothers and sisters the survivors are Edward, of Alameda, N.W.T.; Thos., of Ashburnham, Mrs. D. D. Henderson and Mrs. Jas. Bennett, of Otonabee.

The cause of death was consumption, from which the deceased had been a sufferer for the past two years.

Mr. Emmerson had been a consistent Reformer all his life, and was a member of L.O.L. No. 49.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Liddy, of Keene.

Passed with honours—Misses Brodigan, Jewell and O'Connell, and Messrs. Cragg, Elliott and Hammond.

Passed—Misses Bogan, Brown, Buchanan, Clarke A., Clarke E., Coveney, Crabe, Doris, Erskine, Fitzgerald, Fraser, Lynch, Martin, Middleton, O'Reilly, Reid, Primeau, Rosebrough, Thompson, Tighe, Twomey, Weir and Wigmore, and Messrs. Bennett, Clarke, Forde, Hendren, Leahy, Smithson, Walsh and Wildman.

The four who failed will be allowed to write on the papers of 1898, without attending the Model School during the term.

Eight received extensions for six or twelve months, chiefly on account of inability to gain admission to either Normal School. This was done in accordance with the recommendation of the Education Department.

PERSONAL.

Miss Eva Deane has been quite ill in Kingston. She is now convalescing.

Mr. Lionel King is home for his Christmas holidays from Trinity University, Toronto.

We are sorry to say that T. S. A. Matchett, of Hunter street, is ill at his home with an attack of pleurisy of the lungs. We hope to see him out again soon.

Mr. Wm. Kelly, of the Chicago Tribune, son of Mr. John Kelly, Rubidge street, arrived home on Sunday to spend a few week's holidays with his parents, after a three years' absence.

Mr. Wm. Warne, of town, who has spent the past term at the Model School, Cobourg, has successfully passed the third class professional examination. He has returned for the holidays, and will assume control of a school in Otonabee at the beginning of the year.

Mr. Robert Renwick, of Harvey, will remove with his family, next week, to the county of Kent, where his son removed three years ago. Mr. Renwick has resided in Harvey for a great many years, being one of the oldest settlers, and in his removal one of the old landmarks of the county will disappear. His many friends in Peterborough and Harvey regret his departure and hope that his new home in the more thickly settled West may be fully up to his expectations.

A Microbe's Work.

A microbe is about the smallest thing one meets in a day's journey, but it can do more harm for its size than anything known. Boils, pimples, etc., are simply microbes in the skin, which cause irritating blood disorders, if not stopped at once; and it is they that prevent wounds healing also. "Quickcure" kills the microbe immediately after application, and any sore heals rapidly where "Quickcure" is used.

For the next three weeks we will sell our fresh stock of new Grenoble Walnuts, Soft Shelled Almonds, Sicily Filberts at 2 POUNDS for 25c.

Why buy old and inferior stock as sold by several town grocers when you can get the best and freshest Nuts for less money.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Arthur Burns Taken to Smith's Falls on a Charge of "False Pretences."

Mr. D. O'Connell returned on Saturday night from Smith's Falls, where went to defend Arthur Burns, who was taken there for trial on the charge of obtaining goods under false pretences.

As the result of the preliminary hearing Burns was committed for trial and will be brought before the county Judge at Perth on Thursday, when Mr. O'Connell will again appear for him.

THE PETRIFIED MAN.

The Greatest Marvel of the Age now on Exhibition in Peterborough.

The immense number of people who viewed the petrified remains of the half-breed guide, now on exhibition at 348 George street, testified in strong terms to its power as an attraction. The many expressions of praise and admiration heard on all sides was deservedly gratifying to the management. Those who may have had doubts in the beginning as to its genuineness, were at the conclusion of their inspection, the loudest in praise of the subject.

Owing to the great cost of transportation and the excessive custom charges, $280, and the warmth of the specimen's welcome here, the management has decided to continue the exhibition three days longer, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th, 21st and 22nd of Dec. This will positively be the last appearance of the petrified man in town, and those who have not yet seen it should avail themselves of this opportunity.

THEIR ANNUAL TREAT.

St. Paul's Choir Spend an Evening with Rev. Dr. Torrance.

The members of St. Paul's choir at this season of the year always look forward with pleasure to a special event in the nature of a very pleasant evening spent at the residence of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Torrance, annually.

On Thursday evening last the members, accompanied by their organist, Mr. John Crane, responded to an invitation to the manse, and spent several hours very enjoyably indeed. Parlour games were introduced and specially prepared music was sung during the evening, at the close of which refreshments were served.

NOVEL LICENSE CASE.

Opinions of the License Department Asked by Magistrates.

Colborne, Dec. 16—On the 8th of Dec. inst, Wm. Gilliland, an employee of T. Burns, a licensed shopkeeper, of the town of Cobourg, was tried before Magistrate Algar and Male for selling liquor without license.

It appears from the evidence that Burns sent Gilliland to Colborne to take orders for ale and other liquors; these orders were sent or taken, to Burns at his licensed premises, where the liquor was put up and assorted in different parcels and labelled with the names of the different customers and sent to Colborne, and there delivered, payment being made on or after delivery.

It was contended by Mr. Hunter, who appeared for the prosecution, that the sale took place in Colborne, and that Burns' license would not justify a sale in that village. Mr. Haverson, solicitor for the Licensed Holders' Association, defended Gilliland, and argued that the sale was completed at the licensed premises in Cobourg, where the liquor was appropriated to the various purchasers, and that what took place was not an offence under the License Act. He cited an English case of Platts vs. Beattie, decided by the Queen's Bench Division in 1890, upholding this contention. The magistrates, with the consent of both counsel, referred the matter to the License Department. The department advised that no offence had been committed. The magistrates, therefore, dismissed the charge.

CHURCH CHIMES.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The musical features of the service was very good in the George street Methodist church yesterday. In the morning the anthem "O, Worship the King" was sung with fine effect, the tenors taking the solo in unison.

In the evening the anthem entitled "The Billows Swell" was sung with taste and expression, the shading being particularly well done, Miss Clara Ballegbem taking the solo in her usual finished manner.

During the offertoy the sixteen male members of the choir rendered a chorus entitled "Heavenly Missions." The splendid manner in which they acquitted themselves reflects the greatest credit on themselves, as well as on Mr. Schneider's ability as a trainer.

Santa Claus Latest Telephone

—— TO THE ——

Peterborough Bookstore.

Santa Claus has just been heard from. For the information of the Old Folks as well as the Young Folks, we at liberty to publish the following :—

DEAR MESSRS. STRATTON & Co.

Just a line by telephone to say that I expect to be at the Peterborough Bookstore next week. Isn't it too bad after getting within a 100 miles of Peterborough to find the snow all gone and no sleighing. I've had to hitch up my reindeers to my bicycle and shall drive straight to the Grocers 317 and 319 George Street. Tell the policemen to have the streets all clear for me, as the deer are very frisky after doing so little work during the journey. Won't it be jolly to meet all the dear children in the Grotto again? Put this in the newspapers and let the children know about my reception in the Peterborough Bookstore all next week. "So long" till I see you and all the dear children. So long, so long.

Your faithful old friend,
SANTA.

HOCKEY.

At a meeting of the O.H.A. Executive Friday night at the T.A.C., after a long drawn-out session, the schedules in the different series were arranged for the coming season, and are printed herewith.

There were present:—President A. F. R. Martin, in the chair; Past President J. A. McFadden, Secretary Alex. H. Beaton, and Messrs. A. Cressman, E. P. Brown, F. J. McLennan, W. A. Boys, Lionel King, F. W. Tiffin, and A. A. Macdonald.

A pleasant little presentation to Past President McFadden took place before the meeting, when he was made the recipient of a handsome pair of Persian Lamb gauntlets, and a cap to match, in appreciation of services rendered to the association.

The sub-committee was appointed, who for this year will be Secretary Beaton, A. F. R. Martin and E. P. Brown, and these gentlemen will have the bulk of the business to attend to, but the work has been left in competent hands.

The privilege of printing the new rule and regulation books was granted to the Griffiths Corporation, who will be the only firm handling the hockey rules this season. The rules, as amended, have been properly copyrighted, meanwhile the interim copyright protects the association and the publishers.

The schedules are of course subject to revision, but it is probable that the matches will be played according to the plans and dates formulated last night, and which are as follows:

EAST PETERBOROUGH LIBERAL CONVENTION.

A convention of the Liberals of East Peterborough to nominate a candidate to contest the East Riding in the approaching Provincial elections will be held in Norwood to-morrow (Tuesday), Dec. 21st. Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, will address the convention on behalf of the candidate, and the present representative of the East riding, the candidate selected and others will also give addresses. It was expected that Mr. Stratton, of West Peterborough, would have addressed the meeting, but having made an important engagement in Toronto before the date of the convention was fixed he will be unable, much to his regret, to be present. However, he arranged that Hon. Mr. Dryden should take his place at the convention.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance of the Liberal electors of the riding.

BRYCE'S CHRISTMAS PUBLICATIONS.

"Young Canada," "Child's Magazine," "Scallywag" and "Windsor Magazine."

Mr. Wm. Bryce, publisher, Toronto, always has something bright in the way of Christmas books for the youngsters, and this year his supply is worthy of special attention.

"Young Canada" is a beautiful illustrated magazine for the young, full of most interesting reading, profusely illustrated with several very fine coloured plates, copies of celebrated pictures. A feature of "Young Canada" is the combination—interest with instruction—making its 475 octavo pages one of the most appropriate and charming presents for the young—useful as well as entertaining.

"The Child's Own Magazine," for the little ones, has a wealth of illustrations and of contents that make it a delight for the smaller members of a family.

"Windsor Magazine."—The Christmas number of this excellent magazine is a treasure house of holiday reading, amply and beautifully illustrated. The Christmas number commences a new volume, and with it is presented the splendid novel of Grant Allen, "The Scallywag," well illustrated. The Christmas number and the supplementary novel contain nearly 400 pages. This magazine for Christmas, with the accompanying volume, is well worthy of attention. William Bryce, publisher, Toronto. A Banker's Experience.

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection' of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Hewson of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne Avenue, Toronto, "It proved effective. I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful; active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

Mr. Jas. Barry, 20 Hunter Street E., Hamilton, Ont., says: "For the past five years I have had Bright's disease of the kidneys in its worst form. My kidneys were in such a frightful condition that they discharged blood.

"I was unable to work, and most of the time could not sleep. I became so excited and suffered such fearful pains in my back, that I was unable to do the least thing. I was in the hospital, where I was treated by several physicians, and I also took many kinds of medicine, but without relief until I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Speckman's drug store last January.

"Since taking them I have been getting better rapidly. I can now work without inconvenience. They restored my strength, removed the pains from my back, made my kidneys healthy and strong, so that they are able to perform their work easily and well, thereby carrying off all the poisonous secretions which before used to mingle with my blood, and became diffused through my entire system.

"I am only too happy to give this testimony as to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, so that others may be benefited by their use as I have been." 289

SEALING QUESTION

The Correspondence Between Ottawa and Washington.

SIR WILIFRED LAURIER'S LETTER

The Proposals Made—The Government's Position—Compensation for Suspending Pelagic Sealing—The Canadian Proposal for a Commission to Take Up All Subjects of Dispute.

Washington, Dec. 18.—After the return of the Canadian Premier and the Minister of Fisheries from Washington last month an authorized statement was given out from Ottawa of the contents of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to the proposition of ex-Secretary Foster, the American negotiator in the seal conference. This was confirmed by Sir Louis Davies in a public address at Toronto, in which it was added that in return for a settlement of the fur seal question satisfactory to the United States Canada would expect among other concessions a reciprocity arrangement which would admit into the United States, free of duty, lumber, coal, fish, barley, eggs, potatoes and other farm products. The communications exchanged between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Foster are now for the first time published, and are as follows:—

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Letter.

"Privy Council, Canada, Ottawa, Nov. 24th, 1897:—

"Dear Mr. Foster—Your memorandum embracing the substance of proposals made by you at a conference held between you and myself, Sir Louis Davies and Mr. Adam of the British Embassy, has been submitted by me since my return to Ottawa to my colleagues. Your second proposition practically embodies the suggestions made by myself and my colleagues, and meets, I need hardly say, with the full approval of the Canadian Government. Though the regulations prepared by the Paris tribunal for the killing of seals in Behring Sea and in the Pacific Ocean have been made revisable only at the end of five years, we are quite willing to enter at once, and without waiting for the end of the period fixed, into an agreement to review the whole seal question, for the object of settling by treaty stipulation, not that question alone, but of all others in which at present the relations between the two countries are not as satisfactory as they ought to be, viz.: the protection of the fish in the waters of rivers and lakes contiguous to the United States and Canada, the subject of reciprocal immigration, commercial reciprocity, or any other unsettled question between the United States and Canada which either Government may see proper to bring forward. This proposition, however, is made by you contingent upon and subject to the conditions contained in the first: 'That the Governments of Great Britain and the United States agree at once to a modus vivendi providing for a complete suspension of the killing of seals in all the waters of the Pacific Ocean and Behring Sea for one year from December, 1897, and for a suspension of all killing of seals on the Pribyloff Island for the same period.' There are difficulties in agreeing to that proposition which I fear will be found insuperable. Immediately on my return I requested my colleague, Sir Louis Davies, to obtain information as to the number of sealers who are fitted out for the coming year's operations, and the approximate compensation it would be expected to be paid to them in case pelagic sealing was prohibited for a year. The information furnished is to the effect that the fleet is preparing, as usual; that the prohibition of pelagic sealing for a year would practically destroy the business for several years, because the masters, the mates and the crews, for the larger part belonging to other parts of Canada, would leave British Columbia. The sum which would likely be demanded as compensation is far beyond what it would be possible for us to induce Parliament to vote, even if we could recommend it. Under these circumstances, and in view of the finding of the experts at the late conference, that 'in the greater reduction of the pelagic catch of late years, compared with the gradual decrease of the herd, there is a tendency towards equilibrium, or a stage at which the numbers of the breeding herd would neither increase nor decrease,' and, further, that 'the diminution of the herd is yet far from a stage which involves or threatens the actual extermination of the species, so long as it is protected in its haunts on land.' I am in hope that you will agree to the proposition submitted at our verbal conference by Sir Louis Davies and myself, and not press for the immediate suspension of pelagic sealing.

The Last Year's Catch.

"The coast catch during the months of January, February, March and April as gauged by the catches of the past few years is very small. Last year the catch of the Canadian sealing fleet amounted to only six thousand and one hundred (6,100), and in the year before eight thousand three hundred and fifty (8,350). If the fleet, therefore, are permitted to prosecute pelagic sealing for these four months but little comparative harm would be done to the herd. Following these months is the close season, embracing May, June and July, during which, of course, no pelagic sealing can be carried on except on the Asiatic coast. It appears to me, therefore, highly probable that the joint commission suggested could finally conclude its labors before the time when, under the Paris regulation, pelagic sealing could begin in Behring Sea. If that commission reached a satisfactory conclusion, and the Congress of the United States approved of it, there would be no difficulty in obtaining the necessary Imperial legislation to carry out whatever recommendations might be agreed to with respect to the suspension or cessation of pelagic sealing in time to prevent prosecution of the business in Behring Sea next year. It is obvious, however, that any conclusion which might be reached by the joint committee must, to be effective, be ratified by Congress as well as by Imperial legislation, and unless the session of Congress, which opens in the coming month of December, and closes, I understand, about the 4th of March, ratifies any treaty which might be agreed to before its termination it would necessarily lie over for another year. This would involve the renewal of a suspension for a second year, with a further claim for compensation on the part of the sealers. I would also more strongly urge upon you the view here presented because pelagic sealing being at present a legitimate business, carried on under the sanction of the Paris regulations, cannot be stopped until the Imperial Parliament has enacted the necessary legislation prohibiting it, and as that Parliament will not meet until early in February next, it seems obvious that such legislation could not be hoped for until, at any rate, late in the month of February. At that date the result of the labors of the joint commission, if it was constituted at an early date, would be known and could be submitted for approval at the coming session of Congress. Under all these circumstances, therefore, we do not see how it is possible to agree to the suggested suspension, but we see no reason to doubt, if the appointment of a joint commission results in the submission of a treaty which Congress would ratify, the necessary Imperial legislation could be procured in time to carry out its recommendation with regard to Behring Sea sealing before the close season ends and pelagic sealing begins, and so attain the object you have in view. Yours respectfully,

"Wilfrid Laurier."

Mr. Foster's Reply.

To this communication Mr. Foster replied as follows:—

"Department of State, Washington, Dec. 2, 1897:—

"Dear Sir Wilfrid,—I received on the 30th ultimo, through the British Embassy, your letter of the 24th instant, in which you kindly communicate your answer to the proposition which I submitted in the conference which I had the pleasure to hold with you, your colleague and Mr. Adam of the British Embassy, on the 15th ultimo. Your answer is in effect a declination of my proposition and a renewal of the proposal made in the conference by Sir Louis Davies, and which at the time I stated my Government could not accept. The considerations in support of your colleague's proposal, re-stated by you, have been submitted to the President, and he directs me to express his regret that they are not of such a nature as to justify him in reversing the position taken by me in our conference. You intimate that if pelagic sealing is continued during the earlier months of the year the catch would not exceed 6,000, which, you think, would do little harm to the herd. This might be the case if it was in its normal condition. But such a catch now would be approximately equal to 30,000 in normal times, and in its present depleted condition would create a serious inroad on the herd. The state of 'equilibrium' contemplated by the experts, to which you refer, was at a still more depleted stage than even now exists. It is admitted that the industry is at present unprofitable for both the lessees and the pelagic sealers. Should the herd reach the equilibrium pointed out by you, it will have passed the period when negotiations will be of any avail. But in addition to the injury that a continuance of early pelagic sealing will do to the herd it will also entail on the United States the heavy expense of patrol during the entire summer, even though a settlement should be reached, as you think possible, before August, as the Victoria fleet will be at sea; an expense which for the past four years has averaged about $150,000 annually.

Time Could Be Arranged.

"In view of your statement that the Imperial Parliament will not convene till February, we would be quite willing to have the proposed suspension of sealing take effect at such a date in February as would enable the necessary legislation to be passed, provided a modus vivendi could be signed at once. Such an arrangement would, it is believed, obviate the legal difficulty to which you refer. There is no disposition on our part to embarrass the Dominion Government by asking impossible or unreasonable conditions. This is the more apparent when I recall the fact that four years ago, when the Paris tribunal rendered its award, that body 'in view of the critical condition' to which the herd was then reduced, recommended the two Governments to suspend the killing of seals for a period of two or three years. If such a measure was called for then, how much more reasonable is the request for a single season's suspension now, after four more years of disastrous slaughter of female seals during which period the experts agree that the herd has steadily declined."

There are three periods in all life—the time of the bud, of the flower and of the perfect fruit. It is thus that girlhood emerges into womanhood and womanhood into motherhood. Almost all of the ills from which women suffer have their inception in weakness and disease of the feminine organism, which bears the burdens of wifehood and motherhood. These disorders usually begin with puberty, childbirth or with the "turn of life." Thousands of women suffer silently for years in this way, rather than undergo the examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the majority of physicians. This is unnecessary.

It was that the manner of swearing witnesses at Orangeville court was irregular, that Coleman had never been on oath, and could not have committed perjury. His Honor held that in the interests of justice the case should go on.

London, Dec. 18.—According to the St. James' Gazette, private letters received here from Madrid say that General Weyler's reception there was most significant and that the Government is so alarmed by the menacing attitude of the populace that artillery has been stationed at concealed points commanding the main thoroughfares. The gunners, however, cannot be relied upon. The wildest rumors are current, with reports that preparations are making for the flight of the members of the royal family to France at the first sign of revolution.

OLD TIME MELODIES.

SONGS THE DARKIES USED TO SING IN THE OLD SLAVE DAYS.

Negroes of the Present Day Cut Them Into Scrappy Discords—"Masse Will" Visits Old Mose, and Together They Recall the Happy Old Times.

The old time plantation songs of the slavery days have about passed away, and the negroes now cut the original melodies into scrappy discords and minor notes. A negro had rather strike a minor note than to rub the waistband of his pants against a well filled table and eat. It seems that the peculiar tone holds a fascination for him which cannot be overcome. There is always something to interest you when you can hear a genuine old time plantation song as sung by the aged slave negroes, when heart and soul are united in the song.

I have spent many a pleasant hour listening to the quaint songs of an old gray headed negro on my grandfather's farm as he would rasp the screeching chords in accompaniment on his banjo. When he would sing, he would get a humming start with the chords, and begin with a long drawn out note, rear way back, pat his feet and shake his old gray head. He enjoyed singing, and I enjoyed listening. I would take him little pieces of colored paper and all the colored glass I could find to get him to sing for me and to repeat the farfamed verse of alliteration, "Did you ever see a possum in a papaw patch a-pickin up papaws and a-puttin 'em in his pocket to make a papaw pie for his papa?" This is the joy of his life, and it never grew old or tiresome to him to repeat it.

Mose was his name, and not long since I concluded to pay him a visit and to hear again the songs I had so enjoyed when a child. I found his cabin and he was at home, being unable to get about much. I shook hands with the honest old negro and sat down. The light which came into his face showed how welcome I was, and we had a long talk.

Finally I asked him to take the dusty banjo from the wall and give me a few strains of "Nigger Foot In Ashes" at a lively clip. He did as I asked, and the old time vigor came upon him again. After playing awhile I asked him to sing me the corn shucking song the "niggers" used to sing while they danced the "rabbit dance," after the corn was all husked and the white folks had gone to bed. He was in fine spirits, and, with his head way back on his chair and his feet extended to keep time with the banjo, he sang:

"Early one mornin on my massa's farm—
Cut dat pigeon wing, Lizy Jane!—
I heard dem chickens a-givin de alarm.
Shake yo' feet, Miss Lizy Jane!
Shake yo' feet, niggers; it'll soon be day.
Shoot along lively, Miss Lizy Jane!
Massa ketch us dancin, there'll —— to pay!
We got to dig taters and hoe dat corn.
Hit dat dubble shuffle, Lizy Jane!
You'd better be a-humpin, cos it soon be morn.
Shake dat balmoral, Lizy Jane!"

After Mose finished singing this song an eight inch grin played across his face from ear to ear, his eyes sparkled and the old negro was happy again as if the young folks had gone through their dancing while he sang. He said, "Massa Will, de best days ob de old nigger's life am done gone, but when I think ob de good old times we had befo' de wah dese bones ob mine gits young, and I want to git right up and hit de jig step ag'in like I use to do."

I told him I was something of a dancer myself, and that if he would cut down lively on the old "barnyard cackle" I would show him a few steps in jig dancing. This tickled the wrinkled faced coon, and he sang and played in earnest:

"Rooster in de chicken coop crowin fo' day,
Horses in de stable go nay, nay, nay,
Ducks in de yard go quack, quack, quack, quack,
And de goose goes filley-I-fee!

"Pigs in de pen keep a-squealin fo' slop,
Big dogs barkin like dey never will stop,
Guineas in de tree go pot-rack, pot-rack,
And de goose goes filley-I-fee!"

I stopped him because I was out of breath, and he laid back in his chair and laughed till his sides were aching. I pulled out a rabbit's foot and tossed it to him, and the effect was magical. He jumped "three feet on a rise and six feet on the stretch," and gave a whoop which was equal to a Comanche chief's. After his fright was over he told me, whatever I did, not to put any more of those hoodoos on him. I did not intend to frighten him, but wished to see if the superstition he had possessed in his young days had departed from him. I gave him a shining dollar for scaring him so, and 'Rastus was himself again. We had had a fine time in the few hours I had staid with him, and I asked him to pick up his banjo again and play and sing the tune he used to call "Mr. Kimble." His bony fingers raked across the strings again, and he sang the quaint song I had enjoyed often when a child:

"You can't guess what we had fo' supper—
Cum a rop-strop-bottle, Mr. Kimble!—
Black eyed peas and bread and butter.
Cum a rop-strop-bottle, Mr. Kimble!

"Beefsteak, ham and mutton chop—
Cum a rop-strop-bottle, Mr. Kimble!—
Make a nigger's lips go flippity-flop.
Cum a rop-strop-bottle, Mr. Kimble!"

And after each verse he sang the chorus:

"Keemo, kimo, kilgo, kayro,
Fleero, filro, flavoray!
Rop-strop eriwinkle, little yaller booger!
Cum a rop-strop-bottle, Mr. Kimble!"

Though age had left its telling mark on the person of Mose, his rich voice was as clear as a bell, and the minstrel of today cannot equal it for genuine melody. I was not anxious to leave him, but the day was far spent, and I had several miles to go, so I bade him goodby and left the faithful old servant with tears streaming down his husky face. He laid his rough hands on my head and blessed me, saying, "Masse Will, I'll soon be over dere in de land ob Canyan, but I'll remember dis visit to my dyin day."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NAPOLEON'S LAST WORDS.

The Dying Thoughts of the Man Whom Europe Feared.

On his deathbed Napoleon expressed his conviction that England would end like the proud republic of Venice.

With perfect composure he gave his last directions: "I desire that you will take my heart, put it in spirits of wine and carry it to Parma to my dear Marie Louise. You will tell her that I never ceased to love her and relate to her every particular respecting my death upon this miserable and dreary rock. You will tell my mother and family that the great Napoleon expired in the most deplorable state, deprived of everything, abandoned to himself and to his glory, and that he bequeathed with his dying breath to all the reigning families of Europe the horror and opprobrium of his death."

The second codicil of his will contained the direction, which was afterward complied with, "It is my wish that my ashes may repose on the banks of the Seine, in the midst of the French people, whom I love so well."

On the 5th of May, 1821, he who had for years kept all Europe in a state of feverish excitement terminated his earthly career.

After lying in state two days the body was deposited in a coffin composed first of tin lined with white satin, which, having been soldered, was inclosed in another of mahogany, a third of lead, and the whole in a fourth of mahogany secured with iron screws. After the ceremony an enormous stone was lowered over the body, resting on a stone wall so as to escape the coffin.

On the 12th of May Louis Philippe commanded that the ashes of Napoleon be conveyed to France. In his communication he said: "Henceforth France alone will possess all that remains of Napoleon. His tomb, like his fame, will belong to none but his country."

At 11 o'clock, Dec. 15, the first cannon was heard announcing that the remains of the emperor had reached French ground. Amid the vast assemblage the body was borne by 24 seamen to its last resting place in the Hotel des Invalides.

So closed the eventful career of the great Napoleon, whose memory can only perish with the records of the world. —Detroit Free Press.

ATHLETE AND SCULPTOR.

A Tale of James E. Kelly's Powers, as Related by a Friend.

Although he is not large physically, several good stories are told about the prowess of James E. Kelly, the sculptor whose bronze statues of Molly Pitcher, General Buford at Gettysburg, "The Battle of Harlem Heights" and "Sheridan's Ride" have brought him fame. A friend of his said of him:

"He has more courage to the square inch than any man of his size I know, and on several occasions he has been called upon to show it unexpectedly.

"One day an expressman, six feet high and strong in proportion, invaded his studio. The expressman had overcharged the sculptor, and the latter desired to refer the matter to the main office. When the irate expressman entered, it happened that a tall friend of the artist was visiting the studio. With an oath the expressman said that he had come for satisfaction.

"'I intend to smash you to smithereens,' he ejaculated, shaking his fist and advancing toward the sculptor.

"'Do not wait a moment,' answered Kelly.

"The big man sprang at the artist, and at this critical moment the tall form of the latter's friend vanished through the back door. Quick as a flash the sculptor jumped behind the enraged expressman, seized him by the back of the neck, and with all the strength he could summon pushed the burly fellow to the front door and kicked him into the street. It was all done so quickly that the bellicose intruder hardly knew how it happened. He fell on the sidewalk, and his face was bruised. He got up and ran away. The sculptor returned to his work, and after a few minutes his vanishing friend entered timidly from the rear.

"'What have you done with that Goliath?' he asked. 'You know I have heart trouble and cannot stand scenes, and so I went out to keep calm.'

"'Oh, there was no scene,' replied the sculptor. 'It was an act in three kicks and a push.' His heart trouble friend to this day thinks the sculptor is a piece of surcharged dynamite."—New York Commercial.

A GREAT PROBLEM.

The Missing Link Between Inorganic and Organic Life.

One great life problem remains which the doctrine of evolution does not touch. The origin of species, genera, orders and classes of beings through endless transmutations is in a sense explained, but what of the first term of this long series? Whence came that primordial organism whose transmuted descendants make up the existing faunas and floras of the globe?

There was a time, soon after the doctrine of evolution gained a hearing, when the answer to that question seemed to some scientists of authority to have been given by experiment. Recurring to a former belief and repeating some earlier experiments, the director of the museum of natural history Rouen, M. F. A. Pouchet, reached the conclusion that organic beings are spontaneously generated about us constantly in the familiar processes of putrefaction, which were known to be due to the agency of microscopic bacteria. But in 1862 Louis Pasteur proved that this seeming spontaneous generation is in reality due to the existence of germs in the air. Notwithstanding the conclusiveness of these experiments, the claims of Ponchet were revived in England ten years later by Professor Bastian, but then the experiments of John Tyndall, fully corroborating the results of Pasteur, gave a final quietus to the claim of "spontaneous generation" as hitherto formulated.

There for the moment the matter rests. But the end is not yet. Fauna and flora are here, and, thanks to Lamarck and Wallace and Darwin, their development, through the operation of those "secondary causes" which we call laws of nature, has been proximally explained. The lowest forms of life have been linked with the highest in unbroken chains of descent. Meantime, through the efforts of chemists and biologists, the gap between the inorganic and the organic worlds, which once seemed almost infinite, has been constantly narrowed. Already philosophy can throw a bridge across that gap. But inductive science, which builds its own bridges, has not yet spanned the chasm, small though it appear. Until it shall have done so the bridge of organic evolution is not quite complete, yet even as it stands today it is the most stupendous scientific structure of our century. —Henry Smith Williams, M D., in Harper's Magazine.

Copper Tempered by Mound Builders.

Ed A. Schloth has received from a friend in Savannah, Ills., a long and small spearhead, a small knife, an awl and a needle taken from one of the prehistoric mounds near that city. The tools are all of tempered copper, and when suspended by a thread ring like steel. They have been hammered out and tempered, and after having been buried in a mound for no one knows how long still retain their temper. The mound builders, who had disappeared from the face of the earth before Columbus discovered this country, knew how to temper copper, an art which no man on earth has now, although many have endeavored for years to discover the process. Such specimens are found in but few of the mounds opened, the implements found being generally of stone. Mr. Schloth has a fine collection of relics of mound builders and of the aborigines of this coast and values these tempered copper articles above them all.—Portland Oregonian.

Struck the Right Man.

During a visit to Massachusetts a distinguished author was invited by a friend to a meeting of an agricultural society, then holding its annual session in the town.

The invitation was accepted, and author and friend took seats near the door.

Nearly every farmer in the house had something to say. Finally the president, pointing toward the author, said:

"Everybody's given us a talk tonight, except the farmer down there by the door—I mean the brother with the hazel beard, the boots and the slouch hat. I can tell by his looks that he's a farmer, and nothing but a farmer, and I call upon him to take the floor and tell us how crops are in his neighborhood."

The man referred to was Hamlin Garland, but he was equal to the occasion, and rising he said:

"Yes, I'm a farmer, and I'm proud of it, but just now I'm doing a little literary work in order to get money enough to pay off my hands."—Atlanta Constitution.

A CLOSE OBSERVER.

THE YANKEE DRUMMER'S STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT EUROPE.

Information About London, Paris and Germany From a Big, Red Haired Man—He Says He Kept His Eyes Open—Do You Think He Did?

"Greater New York is going to be bigger than London," remarked the little man in the cross seat with an air of wisdom.

"No, sirve, it isn't!" said the big red haired man who sat alongside of him as he dusted an invisible speck from his new coat. "It won't be a marker to London. I've been there."

"What—to London?"

"Sure, I have. It was three years ago, and I know what I'm talking about. Now, it's a strange fact that there are some fellows in our business that'll travel all around and never see anything. I always keep my eyes open in strange towns. It gives a man things to talk about and it broadens him."

The little man began to eye his companion with new interest. He pondered his sage words for a minute and said:

"How'd it happen?"

"Why, it came about just after I left you at St. Louis. I returned to New York and brought back with me $60,000 worth of orders. That pleased the firm, I can tell you, for no one was doing any business in those days. Our foreign buyer was ill and as I was pretty well posted on what the trade wanted the firm said to me:

"'Here, Jones, you go over to the continent and do our buying this winter.' Did I go? Well, does a duck swim?"

"Where did you go?" asked the little man.

"London, Paris and Germ'ny."

"Say, what kind of a town is London anyway? I've always wanted to know."

"Well, I'll tell you on the level. It's a bum, two for a cent place. It's no good, and that's straight. I've been there. Don't you let anybody fool you about it. You can read all of this jubilee stuff you want, and if any one tells you London is any good you just tell him that Jones said it was on the bum."

The little man's face brightened up, evidently from the delight of getting authoritative statements first hand, and, with the air of a man who wanted to improve each shining hour and add to his stock of knowledge, he said:

"Tell me about London. Is it anything like New York?"

"Not a bit. I know all about the town. It's 25 years behind the times. It's like New York was before the war. Why, honest, now, there are whole rows of houses that look like they were falling down. The streets are dirty and crooked, and all houses are built flush with the street. I couldn't do any business there at all. They are a saving lot, those English."

"Did you see any fine buildings?"

"Not one, except a church or two. Now what I'm telling you is honest. There isn't a building in the whole town worth seeing, and if there was you couldn't see it half the time. It's a dirty, foggy place and not fit to live in. It's an old apple woman of a town. Everybody in London drinks ale or gin. I'm telling you straight, it's on the bum."

"Paris is bigger, isn't it?"

"Well—er—no. Not exactly bigger. London is a whaling big place and don't you make any mistake. I rode right straight ahead one day from 7 in the morning until 2 in the afternoon, and I was in London all the time. Paris is different. I got some great bargains there."

"Did you take your wife with you to Paris?"

"No; she staid in New York because I was going on business. I can tell you all about Paris, and you can rely on it, for I've been there."

The little man's eyes brightened in anticipation, and he said:

"Tell me all about it—everything."

"Paris," said the big man in the tone of a platform orator, "is all right, and you can say that I said so. You can live there and see the town on 16 francs a day—that is $3—good living too. Sleeping costs you 40 cents a night, and you get a room that would cost you $1.50 in New York. Interpreter? Now, that's nonsense that you've read. There were four of us in the party, and when we started out we hired an interpreter. When we'd taken about two of them French drinks—cognacks they call 'em, sort of brandies they are—we gave the interpreter the grand bounce and we didn't see him again. Three of those cognacks will make you talk French like a native. Fact, because I tried it. Four of them will make you feel as if you had taken a $10,000 order for goods that the firm wanted to get rid of."

"Did you see any interesting buildings or places?"

"Saw the whole outfit, and it's no great shakes. The Paris boulevards are pretty fine, though."

The little man looked disappointed at his friend's meagerness of detail. Then he remembered Germany, and he asked his friend what he had seen there.

"Now you are getting right into my stamping ground," said the big man. "Germany beats them all. I went to Berlin, and, say, I bought a line of satinets there that netted the firm $70,000. Now, what do you think of that? Was not that a good stroke? Oh, I tell you Germany is my stamping ground!"

"What interested you there?"

"Why, I saw everything, and how the Germans drink beer! If I hadn't been afraid that those satinets would go out of fashion, I'd have made a bigger stroke on them. Now, don't you let any one fool you about those places. Just come to me and I'll put you straight. I tell you I believe in traveling with my eyes open. What's the good of traveling if you don't learn something? I'll be out on the road in a month, and perhaps I'll run across you. Here's my station. Goodby, old man."—New York Sun.

AN EVERYDAY HEROINE.

The Country Maiden, the Wicked Stage Company and the Tailor Made Girl.

Four reckless persons had clambered into the stage, an old man, a middle aged woman, a young man and a tailor made girl. At Fiftieth street a dressmaker's little girl struggled in with a huge box. Town life was evidently new to her. Her rosy cheeks announced country air to the least observing. She held her money in her hand.

Looking dubiously about, she finally spied the money box and dropped in the coin. After this she waited expectantly. Nothing occurred, however, and she began flushing and paling with nervous indecision. At last she resolutely stood up, attracted the driver's attention and called to him:

"How do I get my change? I put a quarter in the box," she asked.

"Yese oughter a-handed it up," said the man. "Yese can't git it now."

"But it's all I have," protested the girl.

"Git it off the new passengers," yelled the driver and turned away.

It was all the money she had, but how could she "get it off the new passengers?" Every one in the stage had become interested, but no one volunteered any advice. Two tears rolled down the rosy cheeks.

The stage stopped, and an old lady scrambled in. As she took out her money, a 5 cent piece, the tailor made girl leaned over to her.

"Will you give me that for this little girl?" she asked. "She dropped in a quarter by mistake, and the driver said the new passengers might make it up to her."

The old lady beamingly handed over the nickel. She felt that the stage company was being rigidly but justly dealt with at last.

Then a man got in. This was harder for the tailor made girl, but she made the request again and handed a second fare to the grateful young person from the country. The whole stageful was now interested watching for a new passenger as a spider watches for a fly. A woman waved desperately from down a side street for the stage to wait for her, but the driver passed on unheeding and exclamations of disgust arose. Another corner, and another smartly dressed girl got in. The new arrival did not seem at first to understand the request, and, flushing, the tailor made girl repeated it and secured one more of the precious 5 cent pieces.

The little girl had reached her destination.

"I am so much obliged," she murmured to the heroic maiden who had been taking up fares in her behalf. "I ought to get out here, so I guess I'll let the other go."

"No, no, you must not," said the fair conductor, opening her purse. "Take this and I can get it from the next one who gets in."

"You are awfully good," murmured the unsuspicious little one with new tears in her eyes, and one of the men took the big box and handed it down to her when she had stepped out.

The stage rattled on and the tailor made girl looked unconcernedly out of the window. The next passenger was allowed to drop his fare unmolested into the box, unconscious of the little comedy that had brought the others together in a common interest for a moment, and the stage company was still ahead of the game.—New York Sun.

AN EVENING WITH DICKENS.

How the Great Author and His People Can Be Studied by Literary Clubs.

"For an evening with Dickens," advises Fannie Mack Lothrop, writing of "Evenings For Literary Clubs" in The Ladies' Home Journal, "one of the items of the programme might be a sketch of his life condensed into about 200 words. The Dickens drawings by Charles Dana Gibson might be cut from The Journal and hung up before the audience and the story of each character and incident illustrated told. The trial from 'Pickwick' could be arranged for individual reading or for a number to take part in it. A bright paper may be written on 'The People of Dickens' World.' In Dickens' works there are 1,550 separate characters, enough to people a whole village.

"Some of Dickens' poems have been set to music—notably 'The Ivy Green'—and would make a pleasant feature. Anecdotes of Dickens might be given by ten or a dozen members, each giving one. These might be interspersed through the programme. A member with any cleverness in photography might make a series of Dickens' lantern slides from pictures in standard editions of the novelist's works and give a magic lantern entertainment. The death of Paul Dombey would make a pathetic reading from 'Dombey and Son.' Mrs. Jarley's waxworks, as described in 'The Old Curiosity Shop,' could be given with some of the members grouped as characters in the famous show and designated, as Little Nell did, with a pointer."

NAMES OF PEARLS.

About Five Thousand Small Ones Can Be Bought For Nine Dollars.

Pearls are named according to their size. The very large are called paragon pearls; when the size of a cherry, cherry pearls; medium are called pieza pearls; smallest, dust pearls. The oval and long are termed pear pearls, while badly formed specimens are known as baroques. The value of pearls varies, of course, with the quality and general colors, but the piece, seed and dust pearls always have a market price.

The cherry and paragon are sold on an entirely different basis. If many fine ones are on the market at a time, they may be had at reasonable rates. Some years they bring almost any price. The last two years especially, the dealers say, there has been a great scarcity of fine pearls, although there is no falling off in the supply of the small stuff.

When a pearl exceeds one carat in weight, it is sold separately. Under that weight they are sold in parcels and become less valuable as they become smaller. The smallest dust pearls collected average about 5,000 to the troy ounce and are rated at about $9 per ounce. If, on the contrary, one paragon weighing an ounce (or 150 carats) was on sale, it would bring any amount from $30,000 to $200,000, according to quality.—Philadelphia Times.

How to Take Moonlight Photographs.

Moonlight effects in photographs have long been admired by the uninitiated and fully appreciated by both amateur and professional photographers for their beauty, and many plates, too, have been spoiled by snap shotters who have accepted moonlight as the real illuminator of these views and accordingly focused directly on this beautiful orb of night. Moonlights with the moon herself in evidence are really sun photographs—that is, pictures taken with a rapid exposure, the camera pointed toward the sun generally in the late afternoon or early morning and with clouds between the lens and the direct rays.

Many charming so called night pictures are taken by making two exposures, a short one in the rapidly diminishing afternoon sunlight, to get an impression of buildings and other dark objects and another longer one after dark to print in the gas and electric lights that line the long street or mark out the roads and winding pathways of a city park.—James B. Carrington in Scribner's.

An Old Catechism.

At a meeting of the Worcester Antiquarian society Senator Hoar said that when he was a boy in Worcester a catechism was in use of which the following is a sample:

Where is hell?
Under the earth—a place of darkness.
Who live in hell?
The devil, his angels and bad men.
What do they do in hell?
They curse God and sin continually.
Do you deserve to go to hell?
I do.

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

These are three periods in all life—the time of the bud, of the flower and of the perfect fruit. It is thus that girlhood emerges into womanhood and womanhood into motherhood. Almost all of the ills from which women suffer have their inception in weakness and disease of the feminine organism, which bears the burdens of wifehood and motherhood. These disorders usually begin with puberty, childbirth or with the "turn of life." Thousands of women suffer silently for years in this way, rather than undergo the examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the majority of physicians. This is unnecessary.

An eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., long since discovered a wonderful medicine that will cure all troubles of this nature in the privacy of the home. This medicine is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and imporant organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It makes them strong, healthy and vigorous. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones up the nerves. It banishes the indispositions of the period of impending maternity, and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It transforms weak, sickly, nervous invalids into happy, healthy wives and mothers. All good medicine dealers sell it, and no honest dealer will urge a substitute upon you.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

JNO. COLEMAN'S TRIAL

The Shelburne Perjury and Conspiracy Case.

TEST OF VALIDITY OF THE OATH

The Judge Grants a Reserve Case on the Point - The Prisoner's Movement on the Day in Question - Twibble Admits Conspiracy - Mrs. Stevenson's Story.

Brampton, Dec. 18.—When the court opened yesterday morning Judge McGibbon gave his ruling on the point raised the day before by Mr. Johnston, Coleman's lawyer. It was that the manner of swearing witnesses at Orangeville court was irregular, that Coleman had never been on oath, and could not have committed perjury. His Honor held that in the interests of justice the case should go on.

Mr. McLaren, of Orangeville, who administered the oaths at the forgery case, was heard as to how he had performed that office. The power had been delegated to him verbally by the clerk of the peace. Mrs. Stephenson, the private prosecutor in the perjury case, was in the box the greater part of the forenoon. She was clear and decided that Coleman was not present in Hamilton's office when she signed the order. She was also positive in her evidence detailing what Coleman had sworn to about being present in the forgery trial.

The first witness called in the afternoon was John McLaren, the Local Registrar of Dufferin. He said that he was called up by Mr. McKay over the telephone, and asked by him to assist him in his work at the Sessions, and he administered the oath to the witnesses on the day in question.

Mrs. Catharine Stevenson, the woman who laid the charge of forgery against John Hamilton, was the next witness. She gave evidence as to what the prisoners said at the trial in Orangeville. She spoke of Dick Small, Mrs. Strafson, Mr. Stewart and Mr. Hamilton as being present when the order was signed, and that Small said to put the figures up on the corner, where there was no blot. Mrs. Stevenson swore positively these men were not present, but under a severe cross-examination she admitted that she could not say it was impossible for any person to come in without her knowing it, but said it was improbable.

George Synott and Thomas Hand, the latter a tax collector of Everett, gave evidence to the effect that John Coleman was at home on the afternoon and evening in question.

The principal witness of the afternoon was Robert Twibble, one of the perjured witnesses at the trial of John Hamilton, but who made a statement to Crown Attorney McKay on receiving the promise that he would not be prosecuted if he turned Queen's evidence, and admitted in court to-day he had sworn falsely and perjured himself. He said that John Coleman and John Hamilton both met him at Booth's Hotel in Orangeville, and Coleman said: "You are to identify me, that I was in Hamilton's office, and I will identify you." Witness said that Hamilton told him to say that he was present in the office when the order was signed, and he would not forget him; said that he had not received any cash consideration from Hamilton for doing so, and admitted to Mr. Johnston that he had perjured himself for nothing. He went to Mr. McKay and made a clean statement of the whole thing.

Court adjourned till 9.30 to-day.

"MAD ARCHER."

Actor Terriss' Assailant Arraigned in the Bow Street Police Court.

London, Dec. 18.—Richard Arthur Prince, known as "Mad Archer," the super who last evening stabbed and killed William Terriss, the well-known actor, as the latter was open the point of entering the stage door of the Adelphi theatre, was arraigned at Bow street police court to-day charged with the crime, and was remanded until Wednesday next.

A surveyor named Graves, who accompanied Mr. Terriss to the theatre, told the story of the stabbing, substantially as cabled to the Associated Press last night. A policeman named Bragg testified that the prisoner had remarked that he had stabbed Mr. Terriss for revenge, as the actor had debarred him from employment for ten years past, and had forced him either to die in the street or be revenged upon him. The prisoner also accused Mr. Terriss of blacklisting him in connection with the theatrical fund. As the prisoner left the dock he was loudly hissed by those present in and about the court room. Prince was deadly pale.

ROYALTY READY TO FLIT.

Spaniards Are Angry—Murmuring of Revolt in Madrid.

London, Dec. 18.—According to the St. James' Gazette, private letters received here from Madrid say that General Weyler's reception there was most significant and that the Government is so alarmed by the menacing attitude of the populace that artillery has been stationed at concealed points commanding the main thoroughfares. The gunners, however, cannot be relied upon. The wildest rumors are current, with reports that preparations are making for the flight of the members of the royal family to France at the first sign of revolution.

FAILED TO KILL WEYLER.

That Was the Reason a Spaniard Was Dressed in Female Attire and Bound.

Madrid, Dec. 18.—The man who was found the other day in a ditch near Saragossa with hands and feet tied and dressed as a woman and who had travelled on the same train with General Weyler has confessed that he was tied and dressed in woman's clothing by three members of a secret society because he failed to assassinate General Weyler. The latter says he was warned of the plot and was conscious throughout the journey that he was being followed by an assassin.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Robson Brown, of Veletta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or ten bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I had lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says:—"I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for Erysipelas or Neuralgia."

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says:—"Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since."

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORN IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

TWO SPECIAL SERMONS FOR YOUNG MEN

DELIVERED BY REV. DR. TORRANCE AND REV. S. J. SHOREY.

They Exchanged Pulpits Last Evening And Addressed Themselves Particularly to the Rising Generation.

Rev. S. J. Shorey from the pulpit of St. Paul's church spoke from the text:—"And sent a messenger unto them, saying, I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down; why should the work cease, whilst I leave it and come down to you."—Nehemiah vi. chapter, 3rd verse. Nehemiah had undoubtedly a great work in hand but not, said Mr. Shorey, any greater or more important than any other man—the upbuilding of self to fulfil the divine destiny for which we were created. It is a serious thing to live and a serious thing to die, although the latter is but the meeting of the sea of time and the ocean of eternity. When an endeavour is made to impress the seriousness of life on young men they are liable to say that life is being taken too much in earnest and that all the sweetness and freshness of life is being squeezed out—that it is an aspect of affairs originated by the churches.

This is not the case, as the seriousness of life arises out of the dignity and grandeur of human nature and because man is made in the Divine image.

There are reasons why we are called upon to live a serious and responsible life. Young men must have a strong definite aim in life to be preserved from evil. Rules cannot be made to meet all conditions of life. Guard yourself against the things that will be hurtful, but it is vastly better if your ideal of life is so high that you will not be brought into contact with such things as doubtful amusements. So many questions are asked about these amusements. They may not be wrong in themselves, and yet may not be the best thing do. If not sinful, they are at least silly.

The whole remedy is to get young people to understand the grandeur and dignity of life, and have them say in the words of the text, "I am doing a great work." This conviction will make a man strong and fearless and in a position to say with Nehemiah that he would not come down from the high walls.

The remedy for the evils of this world is to keep men upon the high walls of endurance. The conception that he is doing a great work gives him courage.

Many young people start out in life without a clear sense of the responsibility, hoping to get through without making an utter wreck and ruin of it. Character may be lost, property may slip away and a man may lose his position, yet there is hope; but the wreck is past retrieving when the man goes down. The Divine purpose is to lift the man up and save him. Keep ye therefore on the high walls. Make this the superior consideration of your life and make everything else subordinate to it.

God created us for some serious purpose in life and the life of many young people have possibilities great and far-reaching. Plant your feet therefore on the walls of this Divine conception.

There is only one remedy for the many opportunities afforded the young people to come down from the walls to the plains of faults and follies.

Turn their their thoughts to something higher and better.

Be poor, if need be; be without place or power if need be, and if in such a course you have grown gray with unblemished honour, bless God and die. Turn your eyes upward to the sun and the shadows of life will fall behind you.

REV. DR. TORRANCE,

in the George street Methodist church, spoke from Psalms, cxix chapter, 9th verse:—"Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to the word."

It is not easy, said Dr. Torrance, to determine to what extent those solemn questions which relate to human life and human destiny, force themselves upon the minds of the great majority of young men. It must be admitted, of course, that the great majority act as though they did not concern themselves in the least about those solemn questions, but this by no means proves that there are not periods in the lives of all young men, when they ask themselves as to their positions in the present world and as to their prospect for the world to come. For even to the most superficial observer, this life of ours wears a strange and stern aspect. Its avenues are wreathed in darkness and its forms and courses are no less fantastic than they are spectral and obscure.

It would seem probable that those solemn questions which earth's great thinkers have spent their lives in considering—questions as to the meaning of this awful thing called human life—do to some extent force themselves upon the minds of the great majority of young men.

The words of the text contain a question—"Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way?" and an answer to that question—"by taking heed thereto according to thy word." The question of the text is simply the query, "By what means shall a young man make life worth living—by what means shall he fulfil the divine idea of his creation?" and the answer is—"by obedience to the word of God."

There are multitudes of young men who think that in order to make life worth living, they must indulge in sinful pleasures. Those young men who think that in order to make life worth living they must indulge in sinful pleasure, are much mistaken in the judgment which they form. Leaving out all those higher considerations which have reference to their relations to God and to the world to come, and viewing their conduct only with reference to the present life, they are much mistaken in the judgment which they form.

Early manhood is intended to be a preparation for mature years, and indulgence in sinful pleasures is certainly not a preparation, as the gratification of unhallowed passions deprives men of that self-restraint which is an important factor of success in life.

The text says that it is by obedience to the word of God that a young man makes life word living. It is religion then that is to enable a young man to fulfil the divine ideal of of his creation.

This statement will not be accepted by the majority of young men, whatever they may think about religion—however suitable for the old or for the sick or for those who are weak intellectually, they do not desire it for themselves. They despise piety as weak, or scan it as dull, or postpone it as unsuited for their time of life.

It is the religion of the Lord Jesus that produces the highest type of character which it is possible to attain. The Lord Jesus reproduces His character in those who come under His influence. There is much about the Lord Jesus which is calculated to recommend Him to young men and to lead them to put their case into His hands. He was Himself a young man. Alone of all young men on earth He passed stainless through the stormy time, which leaves in most of us many stains. Young men may come to Him with boldness. When young men come to Him and put their case into His hands He begins to mould their character like unto His own. He enables them to subdue passion. He brings them under a sense of their obligation to God and inspires them with high and noble aims.

.... AT ....

ROBT. FAIR'S.

During our Quick Reduction Sale before Christmas perhaps there's no department in our store where the Reduction will be more sweeping than in MANTLES AND JACKETS.

Last winter when we were closing out our matchless stock of Coats, &c., we did not hesitate to mark $12 and $15 garments at $5 and $6, in order to keep none over for another year. We propose this season as new just as close to the line—let the loss be what it may. It sometimes pays to lose. A loss now accepted will enable us to clear out our whole stock in this department in a short time. Here are some of these Mantle Sacrifices:—

FOR $5.00 A lot of Ladies' German Tweed Coats, perfect fitting garments, formerly sold at $8.50

FOR $6.25 A lot of Tailor-made German Coats, well finished, formerly sold at $10.

FOR $8.50 Ladies' Stylish Rough Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold at $12.50.

FOR $4.00 Ladies' Black Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold for $6.50

FOR $8.50 Ladies' Black Golf Capes, lined with black and white check, formerly sold for $12.50.

FOR $7.50 Ladies Coloured Golf Capes, formerly sold at $9.50.

The balance of our Misses and Children's Jackets are also all reduced on a par with the above changed figures ranging at $4, $4.50, $4.75 and $5, or about $6 to $7.50 off former selling prices.

This is the way we have of keeping our Stock neat. There is no reason why the Handsome and Useful should not combine in Holiday presents.

THE PRIZE TEA AND FREE GIFTS AT THE PEOPLE'S GROCERY. A DECIDED SUCCESS

Would you believe it, such lovely Tea for 20 cents a pound, and a handsome Present with every pound. I saw a large beautiful white and gold China Teapot given with 1 lb. of this Tea, to an old bachelor. Just think of that! While another young lady carried off in triumph a fine large blue and white Teapot worth more money than was paid for the pound of Tea. Why there was a regular rush to the tables to secure the prizes; gifts for nothing, yes and a whole lot to choose from. Another says: "Oh my, why are you giving away your goods for nothing? Well I want to sell a lot of goods. I want to advertise my business and work up a good trade. Stop now then! I see crowds of people in your store. Why last Saturday you must have done a rushing trade." Well so we did, and we heartily thank you for your kind patronage and favours, and I promise to do my best to deserve it. I see your advertisement in the Daily EXAMINER, with a graded list of Christmas free gifts for nothing. Just give me a pound of that tea, and I will take a set of those nice China Dishes for my little girl, it will make her so happy. Good Bye." This is what people are saying and doing. We have a large counter filled with free gifts, which every purchaser of one pound of Japan Tea can select from. THE LEGISLATURE

Logs Must Be Sawn in the Dominion of Canada.

THE GOVERNMENT'S TIMBER BIL

All Future Licenses to Cut Timber or Ontario Limits Will Contain a Manufacturing Clause and Thus Preserve Forest Wealth, Promote Home Manufacture and Employ Canadians.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—The Government announced its timber policy in the Legislature yesterday afternoon through Hon. Mr. Gibson, Commissioner of Crown Lands, who delivered an able speech covering the whole subject and giving fully the Government's reason for the course adopted. It is needless to say the speech was listened to by all the members of the House present with the greatest interest, and it was most noticeable that Mr. Whitney and others prominent in the Opposition were anything but pleased to find the Government adopting a course which would appeal to every fair-minded man in Canada.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said the members were familiar with the subject with which the bill he was about to introduce dealt, namely, the exportation of logs and the timber question generally. It should be held in mind that the exportation of logs had not become important until within recent years. Until the last three years exportation had not taken place upon a large scale. For the information of the House and country he would give the actual export of pine from 1880 to 1896 inclusive:

Year.	Feet exported.	Value.
1880	72,000	$ 784
1881	200,200	13,206
1882	2,082,000	20,280
1883	1,243,000	13,323
1884	1,641,000	11,397
1885	964,000	7,906
1886	378,000	2,284
1887	2,954,000	24,429
1888	6,349,000	49,000
1889	383,000	3,270
1890	10,834,000	94,254
1891	32,116,000	261,475
1892	36,699,000	312,281
1893	73,887,000	651,122
1894	125,837,000	1,050,550
1895	277,837,000	2,359,478
1896	211,745,000	1,859,360

In all the number of feet of pine exported since 1880 had been 787,481,000. It was an important fact that but little of this timber had gone from sales made by the Mowat Government. All the timber that had been exported as the result of sales by the Mowat Government had been 5,000,000 feet. No logs had been exported from the sales of timber lands during the years 1880 and 1896. The great bulk of timber exported had been taken from limits sold prior to Confederation, or by the Sandfield Macdonald Government, or by the Blake Government of 1872. All the logs exported under the Mowat Administration had been less than one-fiftieth of the total export. Until recently the subject of export of logs had been but of little importance to the province of Ontario; it had always been considered a Dominion Government affair and treated as a matter of trade and commerce. The country had agreed the matter should properly belong to the Dominion Government because international questions and treaties were involved. In 1866 the Dominion Parliament had fixed an export duty of $1 per thousand board measure and continued it until 1886, when the duty was increased to $2 per thousand. In 1888 the Dominion Government was authorized by Parliament to remove all duty on logs. These facts went to prove that the Dominion Government seemed to charge itself with the duty of dealing with timber and logs. There had been a measure of reciprocity in the past between Canada and the United States in the matter of timber. The policy of the Conservatives had been to remove the export duty on logs when the United States Government removed their import duty on lumber. This was the state of affairs until the passage of the Dingley bill, which imposed a duty of $2 per thousand upon lumber going into the United States. This was a reversal of policy of the previous Administration. The feature of this legislation which had caused irritation in Ontario, however, was the "automatic attachment" to the Dingley bill, namely, that should Canadians impose an export duty upon logs ipso facto the United States import duty should be increased on lumber to $4. The effect of this was that even should Canada impose an export duty on logs, the American lumberman would still have a great advantage dealing in lumber as against the Canadian. The Georgian Bay lumbermen were practically cut out of business by the American lumberman who own timber limits in Canada. The Dingley bill shut down the Georgian Bay mills whether they were owned by Canadians or Americans. The people of Ontario seemed to believe that it was all important the logs should be reduced to lumber upon Canadian soil, and yet it might not matter so much. It was surprising what a small amount was expended in proportion in reducing the log to lumber. Four-fifths of the total cost was employed in cutting down the timber, hauling it to the water and placing it in rafts, and but one-fifth was expended in reducing it to umber. Under present conditions the ntire four-fifths of the cost was expended in Canada, the money going for supplies and labor. The transfer of Ontario's lumber mill industry to Michigan was most distasteful to Canadians, and the question arose, "In how far were Michigan lumbermen themselves responsible for this?" It was well known most of them were opposed to this course and had exerted themselves to their utmost against having a greater duty than $1 per thousand imposed upon lumber going into the United States. They were all opposed to the "automatic" arrangement of the Dingley bill. This led him to speak of the so-called "secret" meeting the American lumbermen had had with the Government. Deputations were in the habit of waiting upon the Governments upon all subjects daily and the Government had never considered it its duty to inquire whether the press was represented or not. As a matter of fact, the Government had known nothing as to whether the press was represented at that meeting or not, but in order the proceedings might be used in future as a reference a shorthand reporter had been called in who had taken down word for word what had been said. His report would be laid before the House with others papers in connection with the matter. (Cheers.) The present holders of licenses had strongly urged that the Government had no right to impose new restrictions after they had purchased and paid for their limits. Before sales of timber had been made the conditions of the sales were printed and those who purchased could not see the justice of changing the conditions after the purchase. He thought there was a great difference between licenses already issued and those to be issued in future. (Cheers.) The Government had granted the right to cut this year and had been paid for that right. He considered it would be an outrage amounting to confiscation to impose restrictions upon those licenses. (Hear, hear.) Such a course would not be honorable (hear, hear); it would not be just. The Georgian Bay lumbermen were the people most injured and yet they themselves did not desire any such course. (Cheers.) Had such conditions been imposed no logs would have been taken out this year, which would have meant absolute starvation to many Canadian settlers and lumbermen laborers who depended upon the winter's work in the woods for their living. (Cheers.) Considering the whole question, coolly and dispassionately, the Government had concluded it would have amounted to confiscation to interfere with the present licenses, but as regards the future their course was reasonably clear. There was no doubt as to the sentiment in the country that there should be restrictions in favor of manufacturing in Canada. The Government should act in sober judgment in such a manner that in all future time they could defend their action. There were two sides to this, as to all other questions, for instance, while the present conditions injured the Georgian Bay lumbermen they did not seriously affect those of Ottawa district, but should an export duty be placed upon our logs the Americans might prohibit Canadian lumber and ruin the Ottawa lumbermen. The Government was therefore against anything resembling measures of retaliation. No one could complain, however, if the Government decided to have Canadian logs manufactured by Canadians in Canada. (Loud cheers.) The Government had already provided against Americans working in Canadian woods; the inspector had already deported a number of them (hear, hear), and the result was a great increase in the wages for Canadian woodsmen. (Cheers.) He then read the clauses of the bill, which provides that in all future sales of timber the Government should make it a condition that the timber should be manufactured in Canada. The Act to come into force April 29 next.

Mr. Reid asked if there were to be any restrictions imposed this year as to the cut.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said the Government had inquired into that matter, and since the cut would not be so large as within some years past they had not thought such action necessary. They had decided, however, to restrict the cut in future, but had not as yet decided upon the exact amount. The bill was then read a first time and House adjourned to give the members time to look over the bill.

FRANCE TO FOLLOW BRITAIN

China Protested Against the British Warship Daphne Entering the Harbor of Port Arthur and Russia Was, It is Said, Inspired by the Incident—London Press Opinions.

London, Dec. 21.—An unconfirmed report is current here that part of the British far-Eastern squadron will be stationed at Wei-Hai-Wei this winter. If true, this indicates that Great Britain is working with Japan. The latter still occupies Wei-Hai-Wei, pending payment of the Chinese war indemnity.

The evening papers are much disturbed over the situation.

"What do we get?" is the burden of their complaint, and they all insist on the necessity for immediate action.

Advices received here from Paris show France is awaiting Great Britain's action. If Great Britain follows the lead of Russia and Germany and occupies a seaport France will follow suit.

The officials of the Chinese Embassy here do not conceal the belief that the powers are intending to seize Chinese ports, and they discredit the report that Great Britain has been requested to assume a protectorate over the Yang-Tse Valley and the West River, saying they have no information on the subject, and would know if the rumor was true.

Sir Halliday Macartney, the English secretary of the Chinese Embassy, was asked if Russia's possession of Port Arthur would be temporary, and he replied that this plea was usually made a pretext for occupation.

The British Ship Daphne's Work.

Berlin, Dec. 21.—The Paris correspondent of the Cologne Gazette telegraphs his paper that he learns on reliable authority that the Russian occupation of Port Arthur was connected with the visit there of the British ship Daphne a week ago, when, in spite of the protest of the Chinese, the Daphne entered the inner harbor, allegedly to ascertain whether there were Russian ships there. China complained of the incident to the representatives of the powers at Pekin.

The British far-Eastern squadron is said to be at Talienwan, and, according to the correspondent mentioned, shortly expected at Port Arthur.

Newspapers Discussing It.

London, Dec. 21.—The newspapers are still busily discussing the "partition of China." The Daily Mail's despatch from Shanghai denying that Russia has seized Port Arthur probably means that the Russians have not yet actually landed.

The reports concerning the Daphne and the British fleet wintering at Wei-Hai-Wei are officially denied; but it is alleged, with some show of authority, that the Government knew of Russia's occupation of Port Arthur last Friday and that the Cabinet sat three hours discussing the situation.

Nothing Political, Russia Says.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—The Novosti declares the occupation of Port Arthur has nothing political behind it, adding: "It must be a matter of indifference to the powers who are not planning seizures of Chinese territory, as to which point the Russian squadron chooses for its winter station."

Japanese Squadron En Route.

Yokohama, Dec. 21.—Russia has notified Japan of the temporary occupation of Port Arthur, and a large Japanese squadron has left Nagasaki.

What Britain is Doing.

Berlin, Dec 21.—The rumor is current here that the British East Asiatic squadron has been ordered to sail for Quelpaert Island at the entrance of the Yellow Sea, presumably to occupy it. The tone of the German press is favorable to some such action on the part of Great Britain.

Quelpaert Island, which is 60 miles south of Corea, is 45 miles long and 19 miles broad. It is subordinate to Corea, and has been used as a penal settlement.

Barr is Back in London

London, Dec. 21.—Robert Barr, the novelist, who with four fellow-travelers was arrested at Suodiah, a port of Asiatic Turkey, in November, and detained in prison for twenty-four hours, has returned to London and has placed the facts of the case before the Foreign Office. He is still suffering from malaria, contracted in the Syrian swamps.

Prisoner of the Sipah Afridis.

Calcutta, Dec. 21.—According to advices from the front, Sergt. Walker, of the Scots Fusiliers, is a prisoner in the hands of the Sipah Afridis. Efforts are being made to obtain his release.

Pulling the Pension Fund.

New York, Dec. 20.—The Sun prints to-day, under scare headlines, unqualified charges of the grossest pension frauds. Statistics are given to show that not only are the pension rolls padded beyond belief, but with a pension roll aggregating the enormous total of 976,014, there are still 587,099 clamoring for pensions or increases in pensions already being paid and the crowd was increasing at the rate of 9,000 a week at the time of the last report of the Commissioner of Pensions. Last year, 32 years after the close of the war, 54,072 of these claimants gained admission.

Two Prospectors Devoured by Wolves.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 21.—The recent severe cold and heavy snowstorms have driven wolves and other animals from the interior to the coast. At Knight's Inlet, two prospectors, D. A. Peters and J. Craig, were devoured by wolves and cougars.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETINGS IN NORWOOD.

BAD ROADS CAUSE A SMALL ATTENDANCE.

Papers Read by Well-Known Local Men as well as Experts from a Distance—Dairying Discussed.

Norwood, Dec. 17, 1897.

The annual meeting of the Farmers' Institute was held in the town hall, Norwood, on the afternoon of Dec. 17th, but owing to the bad roads and the stormy weather the attendance was not large.

At the appointed hour Mr. F. Birdsall opened the meeting by explaining the value of Farmers' Institutes, urging that every farmer should be a member, so that he would receive all the annual reports. He put forward the necessity of having more butter factories, and also advised every farmer to go into sheep breeding.

Moved by J. B. Brown, seconded by Jas. Moore, that the County Council be spoken to in regard to a dog tax.—Carried.

Mr. R. S. Payne, Warsaw, read a paper on "How to Secure More Profit in Dairying," which took the form of an allegory, in which he showed that a great deal was lost in not feeding and caring for the cattle properly.

In discussing Mr. Payne's paper, Mr. E. Hawthorne said he thought that the trouble with a great many farmers was that they kept more cows than they can properly feed. He also advised that the farmer take more care in choosing their cattle.

Mr. N. H. Dean, B. S. A., was then called on, his subject being "How to Divide Money Among Patrons of Creameries and Cheese Factories." He said every farmer must study his work and see that he makes use of everything in connection with the dairy cow. He spoke of the great quantity of pork shipped, and said that the dairy was one of the principal factors in producing good bacon. Skim milk was one of the best things for raising the dairy cow. When calves are raised in the ordinary method they have not the constitution for a good dairy cow. Skim milk had a feeding value of from 20 to 25 per 100 lbs., whey from 5 to 6c per 100 lbs. Calves want to be kept in a nice thriving condition, and skim milk, with very little else, will do it. In order to understand how to divide the money among patrons of a creamery factory it is necessary to remember that the only thing taken out of milk is the butter fat. Every patron of a cheese factory should know something about the process. There are three systems of dividing the money, which are:

1. According to weight of milk.
2. According to weight of butter fat.
3. According to weight of butter fat and casein or curd.

The first system says that all milk is of equal value. Is this true? By a number of experiments made it is shown that some milk produced much more cheese than other milk, but by paying so much per hundred pounds all get the same. Therefore the first system is very wrong. Much money is spent in paying inspectors who go around watching if men are watering their milk. Much better results would be obtained if they spent the time in telling how to raise dairy cows. The abominable system of bringing people up in court should be done away with.

The second system at first seemed the proper one, but it was afterwards found not correct. The underlying principal of milk for cheese-making lay in the amount of butter fat in it, but experiment showed that the yield of cheese was not in proportion to amount of butter fat, but the amount of butter fat and casein. The casein varies very little, so that by adding two per cent to the amount of butter fat in milk a basis is reached which is approximately correct. In testing milk the cheesemaker should take a sample of each farmers milk every morning and test every two weeks or once a month. In that way the average amount of butter fat in each farmer's milk is obtained.

In sections where there are fifteen or twenty factories it would pay to hire a man for the season to spend his time going around testing the milk at each factory once a month at a salary of $250 or $300 per annum.

Mr. Jas. O'Reilly, of Percy, then read a paper on "Planting fruit trees." There are a few important points to be observed in planting an orchard—1st, the place; 2nd, the kind of trees planted; 3rd, care of trees after planting. In selecting a place care should be taken to select spot protected from the south and southwest west winds.

In selecting trees we want to be careful to choose hardy, healthy and productive ones, for we have to look out for the future. We have to compete in the English markets, as a result we want good shippers and good keepers.

As to planting, do not put nearer than 20 feet. Lay out plot regularly. If the soil is poor, dig deep holes, and fill in with good surface soil. Cut back your trees well, as much failure is caused by neglecting this. Mr. O'Reilly closed his paper by urging the use of mulches.

Mr. John McMillan, M.P., Seaforth, then took up the subject of "Breeding and Feeding Cattle." He said a farmer should first find out what he likes best, and be enthusiastic. We have to compete with all nations in the English markets. In keeping cattle, he does not need to do away with his common Canadian cattle, but let him secure a thoroughbred bull and never use anything else. A pure bred bull will often produce a better grade than some thoroughbred. Have the calves come from January to April, and never keep more than two or two and a half years. Take the calf from the cow as soon as dropped, and put on milk. Feed a little meal, composed of two bushel of oats, one of peas, ground. When about three weeks old, give a little linseed; also all the meal they will eat. As soon as it will eat clover hay, give it some. Do not let your steers out. During the winter feed on ensilage with meal on it. Never change quickly from one feed to another. In securing a male, select an animal with a nice mellow skin, as he will be a good feeder. It takes as much feed to put one pound on a scrub as it does to put three pounds on a good grade. Show kindness to animals. There is no pleasure on a farm for a man with a hard temper. The great law of kindness must prevail. A first class man will feed seven cattle with what a poor one feeds six.

All the horns should be taken off, as cattle hurt each other and cause more suffering in a few weeks than is endured in taking the horns off, which is only for a moment.

Changing a herdman is as bad as wasting a week's feed. Cattle should be fed regularly and at the same time each day, as the animals become restless. Feed them in same order. Animals want all the water they can drink and should have it before them all the time. For food I give 25 lbs. of ensilage, 10 lbs cut straw and 2 lbs. of meal. Watch the cattle and see that no animal can get more than it can utilize. Before shipping to English markets cattle should be let out every day for a short time to give them muscle so they can stand while going to Montreal and across the ocean.

The farmer who is going to make money is the man who sells all the grain and hay he can grow and only sells it in the shape of beef, mutton or horseflesh.

Mr. J. L. Squire, who was to discuss Feeding and Marketing of Hogs, wrote stating that owing to the misfortune which had befallen him he would not be able to take the part for which he was billed, but wished the Institute every success.

In the evening the hall was crowded to the doors, but unfortunately too many small boys were admitted and the order was not good. The President, Mr. F. Birdsall, opened the meeting and asked for a selection by the orchestra, but as the members of it were not present, the quartette by Messrs. Sherry, Pettigrew, McMillan and Roxburgh was called for.

An address was then given by Mr. John McMillan on "Our Boys and Farm Life." This, he said, is a very critical period in Canada's life. Our young men are very apt to get erroneous ideas of foreign countries. Our farmers should have a few ornamental trees, a well kept lawn and flowers to make home pleasant. All young men should not be kept on the farm, as many of our best men came from the farm. It must not be understood that a farmer does not need a good education, because he needs one of the best. A farmer is not doing his duty to his family unless he has two or three first-class journals. Let me say to young men, value education. Train your boys to do everything in a business manner. So that they will be independent then. More wealth will come out of independence in the Province of Ontario than all the gold of the Klondike. To-day we have the Agricultural College at Guelph, where our young men can go and get an education to fit them to occupy any public position. In conclusion he told the young men how to get settled on the farm.

Mr. Jas. T. Richardson then favoured the audience with a recitation which was well rendered and much appreciated.

Mr. H. H. Dean, B.S.A., was then called on, his subject been "Dairying in Europe." In his address he took the audience for a trip through Europe, visiting all the principal dairying countries, and related many interesting stories.

Miss L. Clancy then sang a solo very sweetly, which was much appreciated.

Miss L. Robson followed with a short but appropriate recitation.

Miss M. Pengelly rendered a solo in her usually pleasing manner.

Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., who was present, gave a short address of a general character, which was very interesting as well as instructive.

The meeting closed with "God Save the Queen."

OTONABEE CHEESE FACTORY.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the members and patrons of the Otonabee Union Cheese Company, was held at the factory on Monday evening, the 6th Dec., 1897. Mr. Robert Hanbidge was called to the chair and Mr. George Stewart acted as secretary.

The chairman, after having delivered his address called upon the secretary to read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were by motion confirmed.

A most satisfactory summary of the business of the past season was presented by the secretary, as follows:—

Total milk delivered 861,144 pounds, from which was manufactured 78,259 pounds of cheese, showing an average of 11 pounds of milk to the pound of cheese. The amount received for cheese was $6,675 49, being an average of .0853 cents per pound. The cost of manufacturing cheese was $1,370 66, and the net amount to patrons $5 304 83.

The following officers were then elected: President, Salesman and Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. George Stewart.

Board of Directors—Messrs. Robert Hanbidge, Sandy Matchett and the president.

Auditors—Messrs. Ormiston Stewart and Ernest Deyell.

Mr. E. Deyell then gave a few practical hints on the home care of milk, which called up a lively and profitable discussion, in which many of the patrons present took part, after which the meeting adjourned, well satisfied with the season's operations.

Montreal, Dec. 20.—Hon. A. C. Lariviere, M.P. for Provencher, Man., is in town on a private mission respecting the Manitoba School question. He will visit the various Catholic prelates of the Province of Quebec, to urge the necessity of keeping up the agitation for the restoration of Catholic separate schools. Mr. Lariviere contented himself with declaring that the rights of the minority would be eventually restored.

Funeral of Fire Victims.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—The funeral of Patrick Leahy and five children, who lost their lives in the fire on Friel street, took place Sunday afternoon from St. Bridget's church to the Catholic Cemetery. The church was crowded and a large crowd followed the remains to the grave.

MR. TARTE EXPLAINS

How Mr. Piche Got Possession of the Chapleau Letter.

IN AN UNENVIABLE POSITION

Men in the Liberal Party Who Would Go Far to Injure Mr. Tarte—The Minister, However, Concealed Nothing From the Leader—Liberal Members' Firm Support.

Montreal, Dec. 21. There are some men in the Liberal party who would go far in order to make a point against Mr. Tarte. Mr. Camille Piche, who is President of the Club Nationale, is one of them. During the past few days the Conservative papers have devoted a good deal of black type and big headlines to his story that he had some private correspondence between Mr. Tarte and Sir J. A. Chapleau which would condemn the Minister of Public Works. Mr. Piche did not tell how he came into possession of this correspondence, but the statement made by Mr. Tarte to-day places the President of the Club Nationale in an unenviable position. "Some time in the month of May or June last, if I remember aright," said Mr. Tarte, "I heard that Mr. Camille Piche was boasting of having in his hands a letter written to me by Sir J. A. Chapleau, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. My secretary, Mr. Gelinas, handles all my private correspondence, as I have entire confidence in him. After I heard this I asked him for the letter, and he, looking for it, could not find it. Mr. Gelinas told me at the same time that Mr. Camille Piche had been his guest at his house in Ottawa a few days before, dining and spending the evening there. As you will remember, the West Block had been destroyed by fire, and this explains why it was that Mr. Gelinas had taken some of my private correspondence to his house and kept it there. It explains everything; could anything be clearer?"

"But what is there in the letter that it should be considered so valuable by your enemies?" the reporter asked.

"You will pardon me," said Mr. Tarte, "for not making public the contents of a letter which was addressed to me by a gentleman in the position of Sir J. A. Chapleau. All I can say is that if this letter had been of a compromising nature it would have been published long ago. One thing I may say, though, is that since I entered the Liberal ranks I have never had any relations with Mr. Chapleau which were not with the full knowledge and had not the entire approval of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and several of my colleagues; and that these relations (and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had many relations himself with Sir Adolphe Chapleau) were of a nature to promote peace and harmony among the citizens of this country. Men of all shades of opinion will agree with me in saying that such broad-minded politicians as Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir J. A. Chapleau might very well agree as to the best means of promoting civil and religious liberty and settling irritating questions."

"Was there anything in the letter bearing on a coalition between Sir Wilfrid and the Lieutenant-Governor?"

"Of course neither I nor anyone else would have been able to arrange a coalition between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Chapleau without Sir Wilfrid's consent, but nothing of the kind has been contemplated. I am prepared to take before the Liberal party and before the country the full responsibility of my intercourse with Sir J. A. Chapleau, intercourse which, I say it again, has taken place with the full consent and knowledge of the Prime Minister and of several of my colleagues. And after all we can show the results of our policy. The Liberal party is in power in Quebec, and we have been able to re-establish peace and confidence everywhere."

Under the heading: "The true situation," the Patrie, Mr. Tarte's paper, says to-night: "So far not a single member of the House of Commons has approved of the attitude of Mr. Langelier. In spite of what the Soleil says, there is not a Ministerial member from the district of Quebec who does not continue as in the past his support of the Cabinet as at present constituted. Messrs. Savard, Rinfret, Godbout, Guay, Carroll, Ross Gauvreau, who were at Quebec on Friday and Saturday, have expressed their entire confidence in Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues. The provincial members elected for the affairs of the Province of Quebec do not seem to us to have the least desire to lay aside their role in order to conduct the affairs of the Dominion in place of Sir Wilfrid and the members of the Canadian Parliament."

DAMAGE CLAIM SETTLED.

Asked $50,000 From the C.P.R. and Took $3,600 and a Yearly Pass in Settlement—Other Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—First settlement on account of the fatality on C.P.R. at Stittsville some weeks ago, has been made. Among the four unfortunates who met death was Engineer Larondeau, of the Cannon Ball Express, and his widow claims $50,000. She had already issued a writ, along with others against the company. The company's solicitor has seen Mrs. Larondeau and effected a settlement at $3,600. The widow will, in addition, be given free transportation for a year to and from Montreal. It is understood the action instituted by Mrs. Peden, widow of the mail clerk who was killed in the same wreck, will go to the courts.

The Yukon Mails.

Postmaster-General the Hon. Wm. Mulock has authorized the despatch of a mail from Victoria to the several places, on the Stickeen route to the Yukon from Wrangel to Lake Teslin. The courier will leave Victoria about January 5. The mail will be confined to letters, the nature of the route precluding the conveyance of bulkier matter. Glenora, Telegraph Creek and Teslin Lake are the chief places on this route.

Increase of Mounted Police.

It has been decided to increase the force of police in the Yukon from 90, as at present, to 250, of which probably 100 will be stationed at Dawson. The balance will be stationed at Selkirk, Tagish, the Dalton Trail, the Stickeen and Hootalinqua route, and at one or two other points in the territory. The first detachment of thirty will be sent up at New Year's, sailing probably on January 5th.

New Money Order System.

Canada will adopt the postal note system in vogue in the United Kingdom. Mr. Mulock has been studying the question for some months, and is now considering the details, with a view of bringing the system into operation on July 1, 1898. Paper notes about the size of a bank bill will be printed on thin linen paper of the following denominations: 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80, and 90 cents, $1, $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $4 and $5. The cost of obtaining these notes will be one cent each up to 40 cents, two cents between that figure and $2.50, and three cents each for all above that. These postal notes will replace the postoffice money orders for the transmission of all small sums through the post. The present money order system is a cumbersome and indirect method, and wastes much time. Is will be continued, however, with some improvements, for the transmission of sums up to $100. These postal notes will serve a great public convenience, doing away with the payment of accounts in postage stamps, the postal notes being payable at any money order office without the identification of the payee or any condition other than the presentation of the note. It is expected that the rates, low as they are fixed, will give a small profit. The system is very popular in England. The number of notes issued in 1881-2, a year after the system was established, was a little over 4,000,000, which had increased in 1896-7 to 67,000,000 notes.

Major Walsh Lost Some Supplies.

Confirmation was received at the headquarters of the Northwest Mounted Police yesterday of Major Walsh's having lost some of his supplies, but not enough to cause him any serious inconvenience. He lost two boats, one packed, and some supplies near Big Salmon river. On November 17, at Skaguay, it had been raining for several days and everybody was knee-deep in mud.

A Showy Calendar.

Mr. John J. Howden, butcher, is greeting his customers with a very appropriately designed illustrated calendar for 1898. The rural scene, showing some fine fat specimens of Christmas cattle, depicted in the foreground is "right in line," while the other scenes are characteristic of the meat merchant, and are drawn to nature.

What to Buy for "Him."

One of the best things to buy for a man for a Christmas gift is something he would buy himself. A half-dozen of those small Parisian ties just received at LeBrun & Co's City Clothing Store, would suit him "down to the ground," as the saying goes. The fair sex have been buyers of these bright beauties of swell ties during the past week in considerable numbers. A silk muffler or a fine woollen neck scarf in bright or plain checks, will also be acceptable gifts, and LeBrun & Co. have a very nobby line full of them at close prices. 52

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Probable Candidates at the Coming Elections.

Interest in the municipal election increases as the date of the nomination, next Monday, approaches and new names will no doubt crop up during the week.

At present the names mentioned with any degree of certainty are as follows :—

No. 1 Ward—Messrs. Henry Best, Chas. Robertson and N. T. Leplante, members of the present council, and Mr. Wm. White, an ex-member. Mr. Wm. Redgis's name is also brought forward, but he is at present undecided as to whether he will allow his name to be placed in nomination or not.

No. 2 Ward—Mr. T. H. G. Deane is the only one of last year's members for No. 2 who will again go to the people. He was anxious to remain out this year but a deputation persuaded him to again take the field. Mr. Neill is positive in his desire not to run again, and Mr. A. L. Davis is out for the mayoralty. Mr. R. M. Roy was waited on by a deputation, but says he has no ambition to seek municipal honours. Mr. C. W. Sawers states that in response to being urged to come out he will do so. Ex-Councillor Harry Phelan has had enough of municipal politics, although strongly pressed to allow his name to be submitted to the ratepayers. Mr. H. Carveth is undecided, as yet, on the subject, as is ex-Councillor Hughes.

Ward No. 3.—Councillor Dawson announced decidedly that he is out of the running this year. Councillor Cobb is anxious to spend his evenings at home instead of at committee meetings, but on being pressed by his friends he will again go to the polls. Councillor McWilliams states that there is to be a great deal of money expended on the streets next year, and as he looked after this expenditure so well this year, and taken such an interest in the outlay, he would like to see the streets put in perfect condition, so he will again run. Ex-Councillor Sawers' name has been mentioned but he says he will not come out again. Ex Councillor Weir will again be in the field.

No. 4 Ward—Councillor Graham is the only one of this year's representatives who is positive about retiring. Councillor White's interest in the fire alarm system will again bring him to the front and Councillor Meldrum will announce his decision in a few days. Amongst the other candidates whose names are mentioned and who prefer giving no decided answer as yet are Messrs. Jas. Bogue and Thomas Moore, who has recently moved from Ward No. 1 to the North Ward. Ex-Councillor Mason has not the time to give and will not re-enter municipal politics.

POLICE INVESTIGATION TO BE HELD TO-NIGHT.

NO EVIDENCE WAS TAKEN LAST EVENING.

The Council Will Hear Witnesses Under Oath at Seven O'Clock To-Night and Decide on the Charges.

There was a big crowd in the council chamber last evening when the members of the council filed in and took their seats to hear and consider the charges against the chief of police, which Councillor McWilliams had stated would be laid.

Town Clerk Armstrong read the resolution which was passed at the last meeting of the council, whereby the members were called to meet in committee of the whole for the purpose stated.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, who was present with Chief Roussel, rose and asked the permission of the council to be present in the interests of the chief and also at any subsequent meeting when the charges were to be considered.

On motion of Councillor Meldrum and Neill his request was granted.

Councillor McWilliams asked the opinion as the mayor as to whether the council had the power to take evidence under oath.

Councillor Dawson—I move that the mayor do not give his decision until the charges have been laid in writing.

Councillor Neill—I move that we hear the charges.

Councillor McWilliams at this juncture handed in a list of the charges and the mayor asked the town solicitor about the point which Councillor McWilliams had raised.

The charges, as preferred through Messrs. Stratton & Hall for their client, Mr. Wm. McNairn, were then read as follows :—

To the Mayor of the Town of Peterborough.

I charge the Chief of Police with having committed the following among other offences:

1. I say that through undue anxiety to obtain convictions he has committed perjury.

2. I further say that through undue anxiety to obtain convictions he has prostituted the honour of young and irresponsible children by giving them money to incite them to crime and that in doing so he has degraded such children and himself has become a lawbreaker.

3. I further say that in order to unduly obtain convictions he has given weak and debased men money to incite them to commit crime and that in so doing he should reasonably know that he was hanging out inducements to them to commit perjury and that such persons in his employ did commit perjury.

4. I further say that he has introduced into the police office the sneak spy, or Yankee system of detecting possible offences and that such a system practised in a town comparatively so small as Peterborough breeds evils more pernicious than the offences aimed at.

5. I further say that when called upon to discharge his duty he has acted in a cowardly manner.

6 I further say that he has connived at the escape from justice of all ged criminals.

WM. MCNAIRN.

Peterborough, Dec. 20th, 1897.

Town Solicitor Edwards then stated that the Municipal Act was not positively clear on the point as to whether councils had the power to take evidence under oath. The council, however, had the power to appoint Police Commissioners, and they in turn could take evidence under oath, so that the intent and meaning of the Act was evidently that if there were no Police Commissioners, the council could act in their place and take the evidence.

Mr. Dennistoun asked the Town solicitor if he had consulted Section 477 of the Municipal Act before arriving at his conclusion, and at the same time handed him the statute book.

Councillor McWilliams stated that he had been called upon by two gentlemen who had made very serious charges against the Chief. If the council was to proceed with the investigation, evidence should be taken before the County Judge or County Magistrate. It could be said that the council showed partiality if the members were to take evidence themselves. This impression had been already conveyed to the citizens through the action which the clergy had taken in pronouncing upon the case before any evidence had been taken. They had created the impression that the council would be prejudiced in its dealings with the matter. He for one was not prepared to go into the matter as a councillor. If the charges were proven, however, it would be for the council to deal with the Chief afterwards. With regard to the prosecution of Mr. Graham, he wished to state that there were at present 27 licenses issued in Peterborough. In the last four years there had been 66 charges laid against the licensees, and of these nine were against the proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, and five of these had been dismissed —

Mr. Dennistoun—I take objection. It is not fair that the case be introduced in a speech, which ought to be a portion of the charge.

Councillor McWilliams—I am only giving my reasons for the stand I have taken in the matter. I am as strong a temperance man as there is in Peterborough, and perhaps the strongest. I do not know the taste of liquor, and would give every dollar I possess to prevent the sale of it. I am not here to protect the hotelkeepers, as has been said, and am prepared to stand by the police as long as they do their duty. I move to take the matter out of the hands of the council, as we might do an injustice to the Chief. I move that we take it before the County Judge.

The Mayor—"I think we are prepared to do justice here, and as I have been placed in my position to fulfil a duty, I am prepared to do it to the best of my ability."

Councillor McWilliams—The Judge is the proper party to weigh the evidence. He is accustomed to it, and others will say we are wrong, no matter what decision is arrived at.

The Mayor—"Well, I am prepared to take consequences, and act to the best of my judgment."

Councillor Dawson—I would like to ask Mr. McWilliams—

The Mayor—No, we have had quite enough discussion. You must not ask him anything.

Councillor Neill—I move that we go on.

Councillor Meldrum—I would like to know finally from the Town Solicitor, since he has read the section drawn to his attention by Mr. Dennistoun, whether we shall act legally in taking evidence under oath.

Mr. Edwards—I had no time to look into the matter after I was asked to be present, and I would prefer not to give an opinion on the matter at all, as my name has been dragged into the matter, although I was only doing my duty in conducting the investigation in the liquor cases. He would much prefer not having any part in advising the council what course to pursue, but there seemed to be no doubt that Mr. Dennistoun's reference was in vogue, and the hearing could take place before the County Judge. It could be gathered from inference, however, that the council could take evidence under oath.

Councillor Neill—I move for a vote on my motion. The council is prepared to do what is right.

Councillor Robertson—Wait until Mr. Dennistoun reads the section of the statute, which refers such matters to the County Judge.

Councillor Meldrum—The first thing we must thoroughly understand is whether it is legal for us to take this evidence. It would not look well if we made a misstep at the outset. The Chief has been here for many years and given eminent satisfaction and it would be unfortunate if we took a step which would hinder this investigation.

Mr. Dennistoun—The Chief instructed

Peterborough Bookstore.

Santa Claus has just been heard from. For the information of the Old Folks as well as the Young Folks, we are at liberty to publish the following :—

DEAR MESSRS. STRATTON & Co.

Just a line by telephone to say that I expect to be at the Peterborough Bookstore next week. Isn't it too bad after getting within a 100 miles of Peterborough to find the snow all gone and no sleighing. I've had to hitch up my reindeers to my bicycle and shall drive straight to the Grotto 417 and 419 George Street. Tell the policemen to have the streets all clear for me, as the deer are very frisky after doing so little work during the journey. Won't it be jolly to meet all the dear children in the Grotto again? Put this in the newspapers and let the children know about my reception in the Peterborough Bookstore all next week. "So long" till I see you and all the dear children. So long, so long.

Your faithful old friend,
SANTA.

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORN IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTION.

High Engine and Fire Room Temperatures on a Warship.

The great internal heat that rendered the Amphitrite inefficient was due to lack of provision for ventilation in the engine and boiler spaces. These regions became so hot that little useful work could be done in them, and the lack of air was such as to actually ruin the furnace draft, smoke coming out freely from the holes in the furnace doors. Aside from two small ash hoist tubes in the central part of the fireroom and a small escape hatch forward, there were no openings from the fireroom to the outer air.

The boilers reached nearly to the iron main deck of the vessel, and as the air above them and between the deck beams had no escape it became greatly heated and lay roasting in those spaces. It was impossible for a man to go on the gratings behind the upper parts of the boilers after they had been under steam a few hours, though the main and auxiliary stop valves were there. A board of officers that reported on temperatures in the vessel got at this place only by introducing a thermometer on the end of a long pole, and this thermometer, when fished out and taken to a place where it could be read, showed 202 degrees.

The superstructure containing the cabin and wardroom was directly above the engine and boiler rooms, with a light wooden floor laid over the iron main deck. At sea, with the doors closed, this habitation became exactly like a frying pan on a hot stove lid. The smoke pipe, partly uncovered for alleged ventilating purposes, passed through the center of the wardroom and by vigorous radiation contributed its full share to the general discomfort. The deck, in spite of its wooden sheathing, was so hot as to be painful, and I hesitate to say from memory the temperatures the board reported as being usual in the rooms, in bureau drawers, on the wardroom table and in other parts of the officers' quarters. It was as high as 112 degrees, and I think greater. Sleep was only a period of unconsciousness, induced by utter exhaustion, and was without restful quality.

The fireroom temperature was never below 150 degrees and often above 170, while the engine room ranged closely about 130 degrees. For the first 24 hours the men stood it well, but on the second day seven succumbed to the heat and were put on the sick list, one of them nearly dying. Before the voyage was ended 28 had been driven to seek medical attendance.

On the evening of the fourth day out our men had literally fought with fire to a finish and had been vanquished. The watch on duty broke down one by one and the engines, after lumbering along slower and slower, actually stopped for lack of steam. The ship was allowed to drift inshore on the tide and was finally brought to an anchor in St. Simon's sound. Though a warship of formidable characteristics and sent on this distant service, it is doubtful if the Amphitrite could have gone into action at that time or have steamed 100 miles farther to save herself.—F. M. Bennett, U. S. N., in Cassier's Magazine.

DOOLITTLE'S LITTLE JOKE.

How He Conferred an Honor Upon His Friend, Senator Fessenden.

The old senator was a great story teller and related many interesting and humorous accounts of what he had seen in public life. One of his favorite stories was at the expense of Senator Fessenden, a warm personal friend. The judge and Senator Fessenden had been appointed on a commission, with several others, to treat with the various chiefs of the Sioux Nation on an important Indian question of the day. It was long before railways had been introduced into the far west, and the members of the commission had to travel on horseback. Judge Doolittle was chairman of the commission, but at the conference shifted that duty to the shoulders of Senator Fessenden. The latter was highly pleased at the honor conferred on him and much "puffed up" in consequence. The judge had method in his madness, however, for he had heard of the peculiar reception tendered by the Indians to the spokesman of any party of visiting whites.

At the appointed time the two parties to the conference congregated. There were probably 200 Indian chiefs present, with their wives. Senator Fessenden advanced to do the honors for the commissioners, when, to his dismay, the whole body of Indians, squaws and all, advanced and, after embracing the chairman, gave him, according to their custom, a welcoming kiss. Judge Doolittle often said he thought that Fessenden never forgave him for the trick.—Boston Herald.

HE NEVER LOVED A LORD.

But His Five Girls Married Titles, All the Same.

It was evident that he was not only pretty well satisfied with himself, but that he didn't care who knew it.

"Five daughters," he said, "and every one of them married to a title. That's a pretty good record for a man who wouldn't be considered rich enough to buy more than one high grade title."

"I don't see how you did it," suggested the man who knew nothing except that the husband with a title was ordinarily quoted at a pretty stiff figure.

"Oh, it's easy when you know how," replied the self satisfied man. "So far as I am concerned I would have preferred to marry the girls to enterprising young Americans with no titles, but their mother insisted upon getting them something more fashionable, and when their mother insists I have to hump myself and see that things come the way she wants them. I confess it was something of a problem at first, but when I got it figured out in my mind and began playing the cards it was so easy that I was inclined to be ashamed of myself for not trying something harder."

The self satisfied man stopped long enough for the listener to suggest that he would be glad to hear the story, and then, in view of the fact that they were all married and publicity could do no harm, he told it.

"I took all my available assets," he explained, "and made them a dowry for my eldest daughter. Naturally there was a rush for her, and she was able to take her pick of five. I rushed matters as much as possible, got her married, gave up the dowry I had promised, and then steered her titled husband against the Stock Exchange, where I gave him some bad tips, took his trades myself through a broker and won back all the dowry and part of his ancestral estates. Then I gave the dowry to my second daughter, got her married and played the same game with her husband. I worked the scheme right through the family, until I finally married my youngest to a baronet yesterday. I got them to postpone their wedding trip for a few days, so as to give me a chance to win back the dowry before they had spent any of it, and by day after tomorrow I expect to be on Easy street again, without a care in the world. If girls must have titles, why, I am in favor of giving them to them, but I don't believe in contributing large fortunes to the support of the tottering monarchies of the old world, and, what's more, I don't intend to do it."—Chicago Post.

ARMORED PLANTS.

Thorns and Spines That Protect Plants From Their Enemies.

"Plants and Their Enemies" is the title of an article by Thomas H. Kearney, Jr., in St. Nicholas. Mr. Kearney says:

There are a thousand things that threaten the well being and even the life of every tree and shrub and lowly herb. Too much heat or too little works great harm to plants. Then there are all manner of wasting diseases caused by other tiny plants called fungi and bacteria. Many large animals, as horses and cows and sheep, live by grazing the herbage and grass or browsing the foliage of trees and shrubs. Of course they greatly injure the plants they feed upon and therefore many plants are in one way or another protected against such attacks.

Did you ever stop to think why thistles are so well armed with sharp prickles or why the ugly roadside nettles are furnished with stinging hairs? Notice cattle grazing in a field where thistles or nettles grow. See how careful they are to let those disagreeable plants alone. That is the reason for the stings and the spines. See this honey locust tree bristling with its horrid array of three pointed thorns. What animal is brave enough to try to rob it of its leaves or great pods? Hawthorns, too, and rosebushes and blackberry briers all have their sharp little swords and daggers to defend themselves against browsing animals.

Out on the wide, hot deserts of Arizona and New Mexico those odd plants, the cactuses, grow in great numbers. Some of them take strange shapes—tall, fluted columns, branching candelabra or mere round balls, like the melon cactus. They are almost the only plants that grow in some parts of that country, and there is always plenty of sap inside their tough skins. To the hungry and thirsty creatures that roam those dreary wastes in search of food and water they are very tempting. Were they not in some way protected these cactuses would soon be entirely destroyed, but nature has made them to be like strong forts or great armored battleships among plants. They are guarded by all sorts of sharp spines and prickles and fine hairs that burn when they get into the flesh.

Negation.

This was overheard on the Bangor boat:

First Woman—If I married a man what drinked and I knowed he drinked when I married him I wouldn't never say nothing about it.

Second Woman—I wouldn't neither. He's got so bad now that she don't never expect nothing different.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

SHORT WORDS.

They Are the Best When the Thoughts Are Worth While.

A dozen or less newspaper men were collected together, when somebody said something about Rudyard Kipling.

"I notice in the papers," said another, "that he is the best paid writer in the world at present."

"The Pall Mall Gazette people say they paid him $750 a poem for all they printed of his," ventured a third.

"And why not?" put in a fourth. "He is the best writer of English prose or verse now writing. That one line of his, 'A rag and a bone and a hank of hair,' describing a vampire woman, couldn't be stronger, I think."

"Good and strong," commented a fifth, "but Kipling is not the only man who has chosen monosyllables to give emphatic expression to his thoughts. If you will remember, Pope in his essay on 'Criticism' remarked, 'And ten low words oft creep in one dull line,' and before and after him there were others, who, as he, were scarcely dull and seldom crept. Hymn writers are strong in this. Take Watts in that well known hymn, for instance:

"Are there no foes for me to face?
Must I not stem the flood?
Is this vile world a friend to grace
To help me on to God?

"Shakespeare found one syllabled words good enough for him, and you all know that passage of Young's:

"The bell strikes one. We take no note of time,
Save by its loss, etc.

"Bailey's 'Festus,' that makes its reader feel as if he had 'eaten of the insane root that takes the reason prisoner,' has many examples, and this one you will recall:

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths.
We should count time by heart throbs. He most lives
Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

"And the Bible, the greatest of books, is filled with the short words. Right at the beginning of things we find, 'And God said let there be light, and there was light,' and at the end of things, so to speak, 'For the great day of his wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand?' and still further along, 'And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day, for there shall be no night there.'

"Oh, Kipling is all right! He knows he has plenty of authority for seeking short words when he wants strong ones."—Washington Star.

Stalking Human Prey.

The Goorkha, with his catlike facility for taking cover, aided by his small size and his sleuthhound persistence in following an evasive foe, has always been an annoyance to the stalwart Pathan.

On one occasion two Goorkha scouts were told off to drive away two Afghans who, from a neighboring summit, were "sniping" at a passing column. The column reached its camp after midnight, and when roll was called the two Goorkhas were missing.

Their comrades mourned them for a few hours, but at daybreak the two turned up, very tired, very hungry and very thirsty, but radiant.

"We got them both," they said.

Few men but Goorkhas would have enjoyed the sport of stalking enemies in their own country until they "got them both."—Pearson's Weekly.

A NIGHT SONG.

Under the white moon, Nita,
The lilies lie awake,
And red as blood in flower and bud,
And all for your sweet sake,
The eager rose o'erleaps the close
And climbs the columned wall
To hide his face in the drifts of lace
That over your lattice fall.

The dead sweet scent of the woodbine
Some languid breeze hath stirred,
And out of the dark, dew haunted park
Floats the pipe of a restless bird,
And far and faint the gurgle and plaint
Of the wood brook sounds alone
As I listen and pine for some answering sign,
Some whisper of thine, my own!

I lie with the lilies, Nita,
Under thy lattice bars,
And the infinite night brims over
With the glory of moon and stars,
And the wooing woodbine's passionate spice
Out of the darkness blows
And faints and dies with the mingled sighs
Of perfumed lily and rose.

Yet rest thee, my beloved, since
No prayer of mine may win
The crystal walls of slumber
That shut thee softly in.
But, oh, that the mystic angel
Who keepeth the pearly key
Of sleep would open some door of dreams
And lead thee, sweet, to me!

BUFFALO BILL'S START.

Mere Accident Made the Well Known Scout a Showman.

An old Nebraskan was speaking of Buffalo Bill recently, and incidentally he told how he came to engage in the show business.

"Cody was for years a government scout on the western plains," said the Nebraska man, "and it was when he conducted the buffalo exterminating expedition for the entertainment of the Grand Duke Alexis in 1870—I think it was—that he got his name. Cody at that time distinguished himself by the number of buffaloes he killed, and thereby earned his cognomen, which was given him by the duke. While he was well known as a scout, he would probably have never been widely known as a showman except for an accident.

"It was in 1881 that the people of North Platte, Neb., near which town was Cody's ranch, decided to celebrate the Fourth of July, and at the suggestion of John Kieth, who is a wealthy ranchman at Sutherland and North Platte and formerly claim adjuster of the Union Pacific, they selected a wild west show. Cody was one of the men most prominently interested in the scheme, and to him was left the work of securing the cowboys and Indians to help out the show. In North Platte at the time was an old stagecoach owned by Jim Stephenson of Omaha, who was the proprietor of the Deadwood-Sidney and other western stage lines. At the suggestion of Cody the Indians were to attack the coach and be repulsed by the cowboys and soldiers.

"That Fourth was the hottest celebration of American independence ever seen in Nebraska. The Omaha papers had men to cover it, and it attracted a crowd from all parts of the west. The programme which Cody and Kieth arranged included riding wild horses, shooting, rope throwing and all the other amusements and business proceedings of a western man.

"It was a few days after the entertainment, if such it may be called, that Matt Kieth, no relation of John, but an old time western man, told Cody that it was a big thing and ought to be repeated every Fourth of July. Cody at once said that it was something new in American entertainments, and he believed that by taking the aggregation east he could make money. The matter was discussed in North Platte, and finally Cody said that he would advance the money and start out. He did so, and his success is well known.

"When he first started, he had but a small show, but he has added to it. He got with him Major Burke, Sherm Canfield, Bill McCune, and last, but by no means least, Nate Salisbury. There was a quartet that cannot be beat, and with Cody boomed the business. Bill has made and spent a dozen fortunes and is today making money like a cranberry merchant."—New York Press.

THE KITTEN AND THE BEAR.

How Puss Frightened Bruin Up a Tree and Kept Him There.

Chris Burns, the veteran first sergeant of Troop D, had a kitten which, during the summer camping of the troop at the Lower Geyser basin, made her home within the sergeant's tent. Here, curled up on a pair of army blankets, she defied the world in general and dogs in particular. When the latter approached, she would elevate every bristle on her brave little back, her eyes would glow like live coals, and her tail would swell up threateningly. If dogs approached too near, she would hiss and exhibit the usual signs of hostility until the intruders had vanished from her neighborhood.

One day, when the camp was bathed in sunshine and every soldier in camp felt lazy, an inquisitive black bear came down the mountain side and, whether because he was in search of adventure or because attracted by a savory smell from the cook's fire, began to walk about among the white tents of the cavalry command.

Suddenly the kitten caught sight of him. Dogs by the score she had seen, but this particular "dog" was the largest and the hairiest dog she had ever seen. But she did not hesitate. It was enough for her that an enemy had invaded her special domain. Hissing forth her spite, while her little body quivered with rage, she darted forth at the bear. The onslaught was sudden, and one glance was enough for bruin. With a snort of fear, bruin made for the nearest tree, a short distance away, and did not pause until he was safely perched among the upper branches. Meanwhile the kitten stalked proudly about on the ground beneath, keeping close guard over her huge captive, her back still curved into a bow and her hair still bristling with righteous indignation, while her tail would now and then give a significant little wave, as if to say, "That's the way I settle impertinent bears."

The soldiers, who meanwhile had poured forth from their tents, could scarcely believe their eyes; but there was the bear in the tree and the kitten below, and there were those who had seen the affair from beginning to end.

And perhaps the strangest part of it all was that the bear would not stir from his safe position in the branches until the kitten had been persuaded to leave her huge enemy a clear means of retreat. Then he slid shamefacedly down from his perch and ambled hastily off toward the mountain.—Lieutenant Charles D. Rhodes, U. S. A., in St. Nicholas.

GUESTS FROM WAY BACK.

Some Amusing Stories of Their Blunders In Hotels of a Big City.

The clerks at several of the hotels tell amusing stories about some of the guests who come in from the rural districts. An aged couple came into the Moser and wanted a room. When informed that there was none, the woman turned to the man and snapped out:

"It serves us right. We will have to walk the streets tonight."

When asked for an explanation, the man said that they had arrived that morning and paid for a room at some house in advance for the week. He said they forgot to take the number and street and had looked for three hours for the house and then given it up. They had not the slightest idea where the place was.

A man [illegible] told the housekeeper at the Moser that he was going out and might not be back for supper, but she need not wait for him.

Another man came into the St. James and, seeing an advertisement on the blotter in the register headed, "A friend in need is a friend indeed," asked for the address.

"That's the man I've been looking for," he said. "I was robbed last night, and I want to borrow money to get home on."

A man at the Rosier apologized to the night clerk for keeping him up until 11 o'clock. He said he hadn't noticed how late it was.

A well dressed man at the St. Nicholas told the clerk that there was no oil in his lamp. It wouldn't light. A bellboy went up and turned on the incandescent and told the guest that he had forgotten to turn up the wick. He acknowledged that he had.

A man and woman were registering at the Moser when a hackman came and asked them for his money for hauling them up from the Union station.

"Why, you ain't going to charge us, are you?" asked the man.

"Sure," cried the hackman.

"Didn't you ask us if we wanted to ride?" demanded the man.

The hackman said he had.

"Well, then," exclaimed the man, "what do you want us to pay for?"

The clerk explained matters and the visitor to the city paid the bill. He remarked that that was the first time he had ever known of any one being invited to ride and then asked to pay for it.—St. Louis Republic.

Guarding Her Nerves.

A little east end maiden of 5 summers, whose clever sayings are the delight of her friends, recently dined with an aunt. At the beginning of the repast she gravely said to her relative:

"I'll take just one cup of tea, Aunt Lisa. I have to be so careful about my nerves. If I don't take care, I'll have nerves like a cat."

She got her tea, and it is scarcely necessary to add that when she had finished it she forgot all about her poor nerves and clamored for more.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Feeding a Baby Elephant.

In St. Nicholas F. Fitz Roy Dixon tells of a baby elephant that was captured by friends of his in Ceylon, after the death of its mother. Mr. Dixon says:

When Sidney was first brought over, virtually in order that she might be fed, the question naturally arose as to how she would take her nourishment. Of course the proper way for an adult elephant to take in water is by means of the trunk, which is furnished with two tubes running its whole length. But when a bowl of milk was placed before the baby elephant she did not know what to do with it. She dipped the tip of her trunk into it, and the lookers on thought that there would be no difficulty about her drinking at all, since she recognized the scent of the nourishment she had been accustomed to. But she was quite at a loss and set up a roar which seemed quite natural under the circumstances. Then some one suggested pouring it down her throat from a bottle, and this was accordingly tried, and after one or two ineffectual attempts she understood.

She was half starved when this was done, for she had had nothing to eat since the death of her mother, and her delight at being fed was most amusing. The only trouble was that it was difficult to satisfy her, and it was feared that the change of diet would disagree with her, but fortunately it had no ill effect.

A DELEGATE'S REPORT

Of the Y.P.S.C.E. Convention Recently Held in Lakefield.

At the meeting of the George street church Christian Endeavour last evening, Miss Maud Datcher, who was one of the delegates to the district convention in Lakefield recently, read the following report on the proceedings:

The convention of the different societies of Peterborough District, which meet annually to discuss aims and methods of work, and to keep in touch with one another on the various departments of work, met in Lakefield on Dec. 9th, and consisted of three sessions. That of the morning was taken up by the executive committee, and the convention proper opened in the afternoon, the president, Mr. Watson, in the chair. After devotional exercises, reports from the various departments were read. Attention was drawn in every report to the neglect of the different societies in replying to the circulars respecting their work, sent out by the Vice Presidents. One league recommended a register for visitors to sign their names in. Another sustains itself financially by one cent per week per member, while several take as their motto for missions, "Penny a week and a prayer." Pledge against use of alcohol and Bible course of study were also recommended.

This was followed by "Ideal Young People's Society—its Aims and Methods," the former being taken by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, the latter by Mr. W. Williamson. An ideal society must have an ideal before it—Christ. It must also have a foundation—Christ. The next then is individual responsibility—members should be responsible for their own actions and for the nearness with which they live to Christ. The next essential in an ideal society is a prfect organization, then perfect harmony. Such a society will then be able to do personal work and will certainly achieve results.

Mr. Williamson's paper on "Methods" was very practical and helpful. He said an ideal society will not use methods upon which God's blessing cannot be asked. It will have ideal officers and leaders. A society seldom rises spiritually above the spiritual life of its officers. The Lookout Committee should have invitations sent to the hotels of the town. Divide the town into districts and make each member of the committee responsible for a section. Members should stand in the hall of of the church to greet strangers and invite them to the meetings. They should work in conjunction with the church ushers. Meetings should be arranged for only six months ahead. New members should be placed on the programmes and some of the active members be prepared to take the topic on the shortest notice. Secretary should send a bright attractive notice to the pulpit every Sunday, not a stereotype announcement. Have five and ten minutes prayer meeting before the regular announcement. Active members should keep the quiet hour, that is ten minutes with God after rising in the morning. Have a workers' training class to carry on evangelistic work. Also a reading circle and systematic study of God's word. Distribute temperance literature; ideal way of raising money by systematic giving. Have a junior society and league choir. What we need is not more methods, but more effort, more prayer, more life, more fire and baptism of Holy Ghost. Individual work brings success.

In the discussion which followed, it was decided to have officers elected annually; topic cards printed a year ahead but leaders arranged for only six months.

The address of the afternoon was "Thy Kingdom Come," by Rev. R. N. Burns. The kingdom of God is not earthly territory but reign of divine righteousness and love in our hearts. Church is for the kingdom and not the kingdom for the church. It is not to take the place of but to master and control all earthly kingdoms. How far has this kingdom come already, and what are the needs of heathendom, and how are we going to make this kingdom universal? are the questions we must study. What are some things we can do to make this kingdom universal?

1. Pray.

2. Study missionary problems. Facts are the fuel that feed the fire.

3. Go yourself, if you are called. In mission churches one of every 25 offer themselves; while in Christian countries the proportion is only one of of 4,000.

4 If you cannot go yourself send a substitute.

1. Give generously. Before one can give generously he must give justly. The Jew recognized one-fifth as a just proportion.

2 Give individually.

3 Vicariously and, lastly, earnestly.

The session closed with a talk by Mr. Harrison to the Juniors.

The evening session opened with Mr. Williamson, the newly elected president, in the chair.

After devotional exercises by Mr. Cragg, an excellent paper on Social Work was read by Miss Mason. We should endeavour to break the formality that exists in the church; much good may result from a hearty hand shake. Sociability may be a powerful instrument in drawing young people and winning them for Christ. Look especially after the individual. Best results are obtained in this way. Members of this committee should be the best, wide-awake young people, having ability and judgment. Have a social evening once a month. Avoid cliques and sets. Have special committees to look after the many matters connected with socials. Do not let these be the means of raising money. Let us join hand in hand with the church and be ready always to do the pastor's bidding. Mr. Burns then exhibited and explained some missionary charts. In Christian land there is one minister to every 700; in heathen countries one missionary has 2,000,000. Amount expended for missions in 80 years would pay United State tobacco bill for only 54 days.

This was followed by an exceptionally good paper on "Literary Work" by Miss E. Might. This department, by arousing the mental powers brings life and activity into the devotional meetings. It will also increase the membership and provide a field of work for members who might otherwise find themselves unemployed. Its aim is to stimulate thought, develop reasoning powers and cultivate love of good reading. Science, the poets, standard authors, biography, church history, an occasional lecture or debate, all furnish food for that. A reading circle is an important feature Reading by course has a definite purpose not attained by hasty or cursory reading.

The address of the evening was Christian Citizenship by Rev. Mr. Burns. A Christian citizen should make a study of municipal system and look more fully into the question of law and order. He should endeavour to prevent election of corrupt candidates and the passing of corrupt laws; to secure fidelity on the part of officers entrusted with execution of the laws; to exterminate everything antagonistic to Christ and home; to secure reign of whatsoever things are lovely, honest, pure and of good report. Christian citizen is one who is true to Christ in all his relations to man. Some of the qualities he should have are stainless integrity, inflexible courage, spirit of self-sacrifice, faith in human nature, and last of all, faith in God. His duties are to take deep interest in affairs of his community, a broad view of public questions in a public spirit, cultivate a spirit of independence; to maintain and see that it is properly observed. He ought to vote right; conscientiously and intelligently.

This was followed by the question drawer, conducted by Mr. Burns, in which it was advised to put members on two or three committees; to not allow convenors to choose their own committees. To the question whether the pastor should attend the league, the speaker said he could answer only for himself. It was his duty, and if the pastor did not take an interest in the society, the members should endeavor to gain his interest in the work.

The convention closed with a consecration service led by Mr. Fisher, who in a few remarks said consecration means a complete surrender of ourselves. It is only then we are ready to receive the Holy Spirit. One filled with the Holy Spirit will not need urging to do the work. He gave as a motto for coming year, "All for Christ."

THE PETRIFIED MAN.

The Greatest Marvel of the Age now on Exhibition in Peterborough.

The immense number of of people who viewed the petrified remains of the half-breed guide, now on exhibition at 342 George street, testified in strong terms to its power as an attraction. The many expressions of praise and admiration heard on all sides was deservedly gratifying to the management. Those who may have had doubts in the beginning as to its genuineness, were at the conclusion of their inspection, the loudest in praise of the subject.

Owing to the great cost of transportation and the excessive custom charges, $200, and the warmth of the specimen's welcome here, the management has decided to continue the exhibition three days longer, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th, 21st and 22nd of Dec. This will positively be the last appearance of the petrified man in town, and those who have not yet seen it should avail themselves of this opportunity.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful; active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

BE WISE.

Try a Proved Medicine on the first DANGER SIGNAL.

On the first hint of heart or nerve trouble try a proved medicine, one that has cured others, and will cure you. Don't wait for the second danger signal, but take the right remedy in time.

Mrs. E. James, 86 Arcade St, Montreal, Que., says, "For several years I have been troubled with my heart and nerves. My heart would palpitate terribly, and when it did so, I could not go up-stairs without resting. I would have severe attacks of despondency, and got so bad at last, that for two weeks I could not go up-stairs to my room. My blood became weak and impoverished, due to an attack of la grippe. I would have a dull heavy pain in my heart, together with terrible headaches, and took remedy after remedy, but without avail.

"Then I heard of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and started taking them. From the very first I gained rapidly, and am now better than I have been for years. My heart and nerves are all right, and my whole system thoroughly toned and invigorated, the distressing symptoms from which I suffered having completely left me. I cannot too highly recommend these wonderful pills as they have made a perfect cure in my case." 220

OXFORD PROHIBITIONISTS.

They Denounce License Legislation—Preparing for the Plebiscite.

Woodstock, Ont., Dec. 20.—The Oxford Prohibition Association held its annual meeting Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall. Representatives from the various municipalities of the county were present and a good deal of enthusiasm was manifested regarding the Dominion plebiscite and also the approaching provincial elections. Rev. Dr. Mackay, President, opened the meeting, saying: "We will sing the grand old psalm that our forefathers so frequently sang when fighting against unjust laws." The 46th Psalm was then sung.

A resolution was passed characterizing the late license law legislation as not an honorable fulfilment of the Government's pledges or an adequate response to the people's demands. Another resolution called upon the friends of temperance to attend all meetings for the purpose of selecting representatives for municipal or parliamentary purposes, and to make their influence felt as Christian citizens.

A resolution was also passed committing the association to the selection of a candidate in the approaching provincial elections.

AN ACT OF TREACHERY.

Col. Joaquin Ruise, an A.D.C. of Marshal Blanco, Put to Death by Cuban Insurgents.

Havana, Dec. 20.—The killing of Lieut.-Col. Joaquin Ruise, an aide-de-camp of Marshal Blanco, the Captain-General of Cuba, by the insurgents under Col. Aranguerin, is confirmed. Ruise was recently sent to confer with the insurgents. He proceeded to the enemy's country on Monday last, having previously written a letter to Aranguerin announcing his coming. Last night a Consular employe, Senor Tosca, who had been commissioned by United States Consul-General Lee to make inquiries, returned from Campo Florido, three leagues distant from the insurgents' encampment at Tumba Cuatro. He says he met outposts of Aranguerin's force, and that the chief of the party confirmed the report that on his arrival Col. Ruise was met by Aranguerin and an escort of 19 men, who received him warmly. Ruise urged the party to accept autonomy, and congratulated himself that he would induce them to return with him to Havana.

The insurgents in camp had not been prepared for the visit by Aranguerin, and, seeing Ruise in his uniform, and learning the object of his visit, they demanded the application of the proclamation of Gomez and Rodriguez, which orders the inaction of the death penalty upon all persons what attempt to induce the chiefs of the rebellion to surrender.

In compliance with their demands a court-martial was formed and the sentence of death was passed upon Ruise.

Senor Tosca adds that Aranguerin stood aloof during the trial and allowed the death sentence to be carried out. Col. Ruise was executed with a machete.

The affair is the general topic of conversation in cafes, theatres and clubs. Col. Ruise was very popular here. It is understood that he offered his services to Marshal Blanco for the purpose of inducing Aranguerin to surrender, as the latter had been formerly employed by Ruise when he was constructing the Vento waterworks.

WOMAN HORRIBLY BURNED.

Mrs. Peters, in Saving Her Children, Received Fatal Injuries.

Walkerville, Ont., Dec. 20.—A sad accident occurred here Saturday morning, in which Mrs. Peters, of Lincoln avenue, was so badly burned that she will probably not recover. Her children also are badly burned, one seriously. No one knows exactly how it occurred, as Mr. Peters had left for work about fifteen minutes before, and Mrs. Peters has not been able to tell anything about it. It is supposed the children's clothing caught on fire from the stove, and in her efforts to extinguish the flames her own clothing caught fire. She ran out doors and rolled over and over in the snow and then ran into the house next door, occupied by James Chittlos, where the burning clothing was torn from her. Her hair was burned off and hardly a square inch of her body but is badly burnt. She was also burnt internally. She is now in the Hotel Dieu, Windsor.

ELLIOTT GETS FIVE YEARS.

Judge Masson Declines to Reserve a Case —Will Move for a New Trial.

Goderich, Dec. 20.—Saturday morning Judge Masson gave judgment in the charge of manslaughter against Frederick Elliott. Mr. Proudfoot, for the defence, offered a number of objections on which he asked the court to reserve a case for appeal, and presented two petitions, one by citizens of Bayfield and vicinity, and one by the jury which tried the case. His Honor declined to reserve a case, considering the objections scarcely arguable, but would give the petitions due weight. He then addressed the prisoner, pointing out the seriousness of the crime, and sentenced him to five years with hard labor in Kingston Penitentiary. Mr. Proudfoot gives notice that he will move for a new trial.

Ingram Was Badly Bruised.

London, Ont., Dec. 20.—Robert A. Ingram, brakeman on the Grand Trunk, Saturday afternoon stepped off one trolley car and was caught on the other track by a car coming in the opposite direction. He jumped on the fender and was shoved some distance before it could be stopped. He received some bad cuts about the head and also had his kneecap injured and will be unable to resume work for some weeks.

20 YEARS OF BONDAGE

Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills Loose the Shackles of Constipation and Stomach Disorders.

In summing up the causes of human misery it will be found that by far the greatest sources of disease originate in derangement of the Stomach and Bowels. People will abuse their stomachs and neglect the calls of nature till they bring on themselves her vengeance. To get back to nature's paths, to have the Stomach and Bowels once more fulfilling their function properly, to clear the system of all the results and consequences of poisons accumulating and circulating in the Blood is the work of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Thos. Miller, Lucknow, Ont., says that he was afflicted with Stomach Trouble and Constipation for about 20 years, during which time he tried almost everything he heard of, but to no purpose. Mr. H. Day, the popular druggist, sent him a sample of Dr. Chase's K.-L. Pills. The first dose he took did him good, and they have proved so effectual in his case that he recommends them to all those afflicted as he was.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET,
OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says :—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or ten bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I had lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says:—"I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for Erysipelas or Neuralgia."

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says:—"Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since."

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

How much property a man will leave when he dies depends largely upon his health. The man who suffers from ill-health stands little show of being a successful business man. The man who comes to his desk in the morning with a headache, who suffers all day from dullness and drowsiness, who goes to his meals without an appetite and tosses restlessly through the night without sleep, is not likely to leave a competence for his widow and orphans. Success is even more dependent upon health than upon ability.

Few men realize these truths. They think that everything can be accomplished by work, and that health is a secondary consideration. Work is useless unless it is good work, and good work is never done save by a thoroughly healthy man. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all health restorers and health preservers. It makes the stomach strong and active. It sends a man to his meals thoroughly hungry every time. It facilitates the flow of digestive juices and makes assimilation perfect. It invigorates the liver. It purifies the blood and fills it with the life-giving elements of the food. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It tears down inert, half-dead tissues and builds new, firm, muscular flesh. It does not build flabby fat like cod liver oil and does not make people more corpulent.

Mr. John Brooks, of Boylston, Mass., writes: "I write to tell you of the great benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs. The doctors said I was in consumption and could not get well. I took Cod Liver Oil and it did me no good. After taking it four months I heard of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and it saved my life."

MURILLO'S MAGDALENE.

I gaze upon thy soullit eyes upturned,
And oft I marvel that Murillo's grace
In holy thought and holy musing learned,
Conceived the wondrous beauty of thy face.
What glow of sacred genius in him burned
Which left on thee of stain of earth no trace!
Was face of mortal ever seen so fair?
Was face of mortal ever seen so sweet?
Lies on thy neck, unbound the flowing hair,
Which dried with golden threads thy Master's feet.
Methinks those eyes that saw thy risen Lord
Have held the glory in them evermore,
And high above all earthly thoughts they soar
To dwell in heaven and see the things of God!

MAN UNDER THE BED.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

When Colonel Northrop retired from the army, at the age of 50, and set up in bachelor apartments in town, he had several things to pride himself about. He had made an honorable record. No one in the Northrop family had ever disgraced the name. His windows were provided with burglar proof locks of his own invention, and he had a sang froid which nothing could startle him out of. The colonel was well satisfied with himself and the world at large, and those who knew him best said he ought to be.

At midnight one night Colonel Northrop came home from his club in his usual good humor, and, finding a couple of letters on his table, sat down to read them before going to bed. When finally ready to retire, he was half asleep, and he was no sooner between the sheets than he departed for the land of nod. Just one hour later by the clock he opened his eyes and sat up in bed, a thing which hadn't happened since his boyhood days.

Some sound had disturbed him, but just what it was he could not tell. The idea that any sound should thus influence him aroused his ire, and after a moment he sprang out of bed and lighted the gas. He meant to make a tour of his rooms and see if his celebrated burglar proof window locks were all right, but as he was ready to move he was jumped a foot high by the sound of a sneeze under his bed. It was a man's sneeze—a hearty, wholesome sneeze with a note of defiance in it. The colonel had boasted that nothing could startle him out of his everyday placidity, but a mere sneeze had done it, and he was furious about it. He dropped on his knees and looked under the bed, and what he saw was a man stretched at full length on the floor.

"Ha! You rascal, but I've got you!" exclaimed the warrior as he made out the form of the intruder.

"I guess not, colonel," was the cool reply.

An army revolver, endeared by old associations, reposed in a drawer not far away, and the colonel jumped for it and said:

"Now, then, you roll out here or I'll blow your head off."

"Go a little slow, colonel," replied the man under the bed. "I've also got a gun, and the instant you stoop down I'll send a bullet into you."

"You—you will?"

"I will for sure, and I guess I'll shoot at one of your legs as it is."

Acting on the impulse of the moment, the colonel sprang upon his bed, but 15 seconds later he was so mad to think he had jumped that he leaped to the floor with the exclamation:

"Come out here now or you are a dead man!"

"That's all bluff, colonel," said the intruder. "Pull on your trousers and sit down and take things easy."

The colonel obeyed. He obeyed because it suddenly struck him that he didn't look dignified without trousers and that he would need them anyway when he came to escort the man out doors and hand him over to the police. He sat down because his knees trembled under him and that very fact made him boil over with anger and chagrin. With the revolver pointed under the bed he queried:

"When did you get into this room?"

"About 11 o'clock, colonel."

"How did you get in?"

"Through that window to your left. You thought yourself smart when you put that wonderful catch on the sashes, but it did not bother me five minutes. I wish all windows were provided with such a soft snap."

"I say you never got in by that window!" shouted the colonel, who had repeatedly told his friends that he would give any burglar leave to work on his patent all night.

"Then I'm a liar and you are a gentleman! However, I don't blame you for feeling a bit sore. I heard of your patent and your boasting long ago, and I knew I could take you down a peg when I had a few minutes to spare. It was easy, colonel, dead easy."

"But what are you in here for?"

"Robbery, colonel. That's my trade, you know. I had a pal with me who took off a bag of stuff, while I staid behind to investigate further and was hidden under the bed when you came in. I was about to crawl out and go through your clothes when you awoke."

"Now, then, are you coming out?" thundered the colonel.

"Well, hardly—not just yet."

"Then I'll shoot you where you are."

"No, you won't. The minute I see your legs moving I shall open fire on them. From where you sit your bullets can't reach me, while I have a dead sure thing on your legs. Go slow, colonel."

The colonel was up on strategic positions, and he realized that the enemy had all the advantage. While furiously angry, he retained all his common sense and figured that he must temporize. If he was to capture instead of being captured, he must resort to diplomacy. He therefore controlled himself to say:

"You must see that you cannot escape, and it will be better if you quietly surrender."

"That's where we differ, colonel," calmly replied the man under the bed. "All I have to do is to shoot you through the legs and make my way out by the window. It depends on you, however. What's the use of being so peppery about trifles? A man of your age and habits should have perfect control over himself."

"You villain!" hissed the colonel between his clinched teeth.

"No use to call names. I might call you an old brag and blowhard, but that wouldn't help the case any. It's always better to argue a point. What is the exact time, colonel?"

"It's time I called in the police and had you out of this, and here goes"—

Click, click! It was the man under the bed getting ready to fire on the colonel's legs, and the colonel happily realized it and fell back into his chair.

"There won't be any police called in here before I'm gone," said the stranger in his cool, calm way. "After I'm out you can raise all the racket you want to, and no doubt you'll give it to the papers very strong. Make a hero of yourself if you can, but should you bear down on me too hard I might pay you another visit."

"You—you rob me, threaten me and would assassinate me!" groaned the colonel.

"Then don't threaten me. My desire is to treat you like a gentleman, but you make it impossible. When you get ready to talk like a reasonable man, I'll take my departure and you can finish your nap."

"But I'll call the police! Do you think I'll let you escape me?"

"I do, colonel. Let's reason a moment. You have done any amount of bragging about those window locks and you don't want your friends to call you down. People always guy a man who has been neatly done up, and you don't want to be guyed. The plunder is beyond reach of the police, and were I to be arrested and tried my identity might be revealed."

"Blast your identity!" howled the colonel.

"There you go again! You'd never do in my trade if you lost your head that way. About those window locks, colonel, the principle is all right, but not being a practical man you failed to apply it. I'll come around in a day or two and show you the defect and remedy it. And about your nerves, I've heard you spoken of as a man who wouldn't look surprised if the earth opened and took him in, but like all other clubmen you affect that. It's the proper caper, I've heard, but they ought to have seen you half an hour ago. Hold on, or I'll shoot."

The colonel had jumped up in his wrath to make a bolt for the door, but the man arrested him and he sat down with the muttered exclamation:

"Ye gods, but must I put up with this?"

"You must, colonel," said the man under the bed. "I've been ready to come out for ten minutes past, and you alone are to blame that I'm keeping you up. Why not hold on to that peppery temper of yours until we can come to a mutual understanding?"

"Let a robber go after he has plundered me?"

"That's what it must come to, colonel. As a soldier you see the situation. I can't get out on account of you, while you can't stir from that chair on account of me. We have got each other by the short hair, so to speak, but neither of us is happy over it."

"Should I let you go," said the colonel, after a moment's reflection, "I should always feel that I had disgraced my record. No, sir! I'll sit right here till doomsday but what I'll give you in charge."

"Still on the warpath, old man?" laughed the man under the bed. "There may be a question of honor involved, but I think you'd better waive it. The amount of stuff my pal took away won't fetch $200 at the outside figure. For such a sum as that are you going to have the police and the reporters overrun you with column after column in the papers and a caricature of yourself held up to the world? You are too sensible for that, old man. Never give yourself away for a cheap price. Besides"—

"Besides what?" snapped the colonel, who was rapidly taking the robber's view of the case.

"The family honor, you know."

"What do you know about my family, sir?"

"A great deal, colonel. You had a brother George."

"But he is dead."

"Well, hardly. He was supposed to have died several years ago, but as a matter of fact he is very much alive today."

"And you know him?"

"Like a book. He's the chap who carried off the swag just before you came in."

"You are lying, sir! I won't believe a word of it!" exclaimed the colonel.

"Off your base again! Your brother's middle name is Yates. He has light hair, blue eyes, small hands, a handsome mouth, and there is a scar on his right cheek from a wound received when a boy. The last you heard of him he was in Dakota. Am I right, colonel?"

"Yes, yes. Come out and tell me more," whispered the colonel.

"There's only this to say," said the man as he crept out and stood erect. "Your brother has gone to the dogs—that is, he is one of our gang. He didn't know that this was your den, of course, but he has helped to plunder it, and if I'm jugged he'll get the same dose, and the public will know his real name. Do you cotton to that, colonel?"

"And my brother George is a robber—belongs to a gang of robbers?"

"Straight goods, colonel. Sorry for you, but he's doing fairly well and may conclude to reform after he's made his stake. Can I go now?"

For answer the colonel pointed to the door leading into the hall.

"Thank you. I can find my way. Don't take it too hard, colonel. Of course I shall say nothing to George. Good night, old man."

At the door he halted to look back and say:

"Yes, sorry for you, but things do come about in a curious way. Good night."

But the colonel had his face in his hands and was weeping.

It is to the effect that Clay is not bound by the signatures obtained from him by Lord Nevill, because in substance they were forgeries.

Death of Alphonse Daudet.

Paris, Dec. 20.—Alphonse Daudet, the novelist and playwright, died at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening. He was dining with his family and was in excellent spirits, when he was seized with a sudden syncope. Physicians were sent for, but he expired almost immediately. Daudet was born at Nantes May 13, 1840. In 1875 the French Academy awarded him the Jouy prize.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realizing that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

TEN YEARS TROUBLED

With Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia—Suffered Greatly and Found No Relief in the Secres of Medicines Prescribed.

South American Nervine Was Recommended, and Before Half a Bottle Was Taken Relief Came.

Have Since Improved Rapidly, and Am Now Completely Cured—So says Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont.

What ills come to humanity from a disordered liver! Henry Ward Beecher has said that it was impossible for a man to hold correct spiritual views if his liver was out of order. The liver is so important a part of the mechanism of man that when it ceases to work with ease the whole man is unable to do his work aright. Can we not appeal to thousands, nay, tens of thousands, for a verification of this fact? Certainly it is, that Mr. David Reid, of Chesley, Ont., felt that the enjoyment of life had been taken from him, through the unhealthy condition of his liver. For ten years he says he was troubled with liver complaint and dyspepsia. Employing his own language: "At times my liver was so tender I could not bear it pressed or touched from the outside. Had tried a great many remedies without any benefit. Was compelled to drop my work, and being worse than usual, I decided as a final resort to try South American Nervine, which had been recommended to me by friends who had been cured by it. I got a bottle from A. S. Goodeve, local druggist, and commenced taking according to directions. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to go to work again, and I have improved steadily since. I can conscientiously recommend South American Nervine to any suffering from dyspepsia or liver complaint." This is Mr. Reid's story as he tells it in his own words. Were it thought necessary it could be corroborated by a host of witnesses. Mr. Reid has lived a long time in Chesley, and his case was known to be a very bad one. But that makes no difference to Nervine. This great discovery rises equal to the most trying occasions. Let it be indigestion, the most chronic liver trouble, as with Mr. Reid, nervous prostration, that makes life miserable with so many, sick headaches, that sap all the effort out of man or woman, Nervine measures to the necessities of the case. It is a great medicine and thousands to-day in Canada are happier and healthier men and women, because of its discovery. There is no great secret about it, and yet there is an important secret. It operates on the nerve centers of the system from which emanate all life and healthfulness, or if disordered, sickness, even death. Nervine strikes promptly at the nerve centers, hence, as with Mr. Reid, where ten years' use of other medicines had done no good, less than a bottle of Nervine brought about encouraging results, and a few bottles cured.

FAIRWEATHER & Co

POLICE INVESTIGATION TO BE HELD TO-NIGHT.

me to make the fullest investigation. He wants the charges investigated and disposed of. We had no idea what they were till we came here. Each of the charges requires evidence on it. Everyone should know that the council is unable to take evidence. The life of the council is almost at an end and many of the old councillors will not be back next year, therefore they should not attempt to go into the case. The Chief wants the case sifted. If evidence is to be taken, it must be done before the proper tribunal, where witnesses will be properly dealt with if there are any cases of perjury. The sections in the municipal act to which I have referred reads as follows :

477—(1). In case the council of any municipality at any time passes a resolution requesting the Judge of the County Court of the county in which the municipality is situate to investigate any matter to be mentioned in the resolution, and relating to a supposed malfeasance, breach of trust or other misconduct on the part of any members of the council or officers of the corporation, or of any persons having a contract therewith, in relation to the duties or obligations of the member, officer or other person, to the municipality, or in case the council of any municipality sees fit to cause inquiry to be made into or concerning any matter connected with the good government of the municipality, or the conduct of any part of the public business thereof, and if the council at any time passes a resolution requesting the Judge to make the inquiry, the Judge shall inquire into the same, and shall for that purpose have all the powers which may be conferred upon commissioners under the "Act respecting inquiries concerning public matters" and the Judge shall, with all convenient speed, report to the council the result of the inquiry and the evidence taken thereon.

So if evidence is to be taken under oath I respectfully submit that the County Judge is the proper person to take it. In no court in Canada would such charges as have been laid to-night be considered for a minute. I will illustrate if the clerk will read the first clause.

Mr. Armstrong did as requested and Mr. Dennistoun pointed out that neither name, time nor place was mentioned. So it was, he claimed, with the other clauses. This would have to be remedied before it came before a judge. Then his client would know what he had to meet. He was not trying to burke the investigation by pointing out these facts, but such charges should be made in the charges as to give full particulars. He was quite content to go before the judge on the understanding that Mr. McNairn, the prosecutor, would do this.

Councillor McWilliams—If Mr. Dennistoun will draft such a resolution I am prepared to move it.

Mr. Dennistoun—Such a proceeding would be most unusual. Let Stratton & Hall, the prosecutor's solicitors, do this.

Councillor Neill—Is there any expense attached to going before the judge?

Mr. Dennistoun—Certainly.

Councillor Neill—We had better hear the first charge then and know what there is in it, to see if we are justified in going before a judge.

Mr. Dennistoun—The Act provides that the judge be paid costs by the municipality, as a referee.

Councillor Dawson—How much?

Councillor Deane—Then we would be stuck for the costs whichever way the result went. I am not very anxious to see the council go to law, and hope we can settle the matter without taking evidence on oath.

Councillor Davis—We want our solicitor's opinion as to whether these charges are correctly laid.

Mr. Edwards—For the reasons which I have already stated I would prefer not being consulted in the case, but I might say that any person put on his defence has a right to have the particulars of the charges laid against him.

Councillor Davis—If we proceed illegally we may find that we are into law before we know it and have a big bill of costs to foot.

The Mayor—We will hear the evidence anyway, and settle the matter our own way.

Councillor Neil—Why couldn't we?

Mr. Edwards—There would be no harm in it.

Councillor Meldrum—We might ask the man who made the charges to put up the costs.

Councillor Best—In order to go before a Judge for the investigation we would have to rescind the motion which was passed by the Council authorizing a Committee of the Whole to deal with it.

Councillor Deane—We are in Committee now and can therefore only send a recommendation to the Council as to how to act.

Mr. Dennistoun—We will open up with the first charge anyway, and see if there is anything in it. We are entirely in the dark. Call Wm. McNairn.

Mr. McNairn was called and appeared. He stated that he did not come prepared to bring evidence before the Judge. He would not proceed at the present time.

Mr. Dendistoun—Give us an outline of your charges; we demand it to night.

Mr. McNairn—No.

Mr. Dennistoun—Perhaps you will go into the second charge?

Mr. McNairn—Not to-night.

Mr. Dennistoun—Do you know anything about these charges?

Mr. McNairn—I do.

Mr. Dennistoun—Any other than the first one?

Mr. McNairn—No.

Mr. Dennistoun—I know you don't.

Councillor Neill—There is nothing in these charges. There is no one here to explain them, and it is not for the Council to go another step in the matter.

Councillor Meldrum—I heartily concur. I think if these are the only charges we have nothing to investigate.

Mr. McNairn—I am not prepared to bring my witnesses here to-night, but I will do so any other evening that is named—to-morrow night, if necessary.

Mr. Dennistoun—The Police Magistrate took the evidence in the case in which you state the Chief committed perjury. Are you willing to have his testimony taken under oath.

Mr. McNairn—No, I would not believe him at all.

Mr. Dennistoun—Would you believe the Clerk of the Police Court—Mr. Armstrong

Mr. McNairn—Yes.

Mr. Dennistoun—Well, come on, then. He is here, and we will take up the case.

Councillor McWilliams—Mr. McNairn has a perfect right to bring his counsel here to conduct his case. It is not fair to put him up against a lawyer. It was understood that we could not go on with the case, and he did not bring his witnesses. Let them be subpoened for to-morrow evening, and then allow the case to go on.

Mr. McNairn—In the police court the Magistrate took the Chief's word against three of us on oath. I am not prepared to go on with this matter now, as I have no witnesses here.

It was moved by Councillors Meldrum and Neill and carried—"That we adjourn until to-morrow evening at seven o'clock, when Mr. McNairn is requested to be present with his witnesses."

Councillor Meldrum—I am at a loss still as to whether we can take evidence under oath.

Councillor McWilliams—I move that we ask the County Crown Attorney's opinion.

County Crown Attorney Wood—Mr. Edwards has given you his opinion that you have the power, only under the circumstances he does not wish to advise you as to what mode of procedure you should adopt.

Mr. Dennistoun—It would be a strange thing to take evidence on a charge of perjury without having it under oath. There is another tribunal where such charges should be investigated. Would this council try a man on a charge of perjury?

Councillor Best—No!

Councillor Neill—Yes; we would go so far as to see if there were any grounds for the charge.

Mr. Dennistoun—I ask you to do one of two things. Send the Chief to the County Judge for trial on these charges or else throw them out. I'll accept the list of charges as it stands and go before the Judge on it.

Councillor Best—Why should we do this? The charges are unsupported to-night.

Councillor Neill—We are bound to clear the Chief. We should hear evidence, if there is any we should let the case go to trial. We will hear it to-morrow night and if there is nothing it will be dropped and let the prosecutor take it to the Judge if he wants to.

Councillor LePlante—Why is Mr. McNairn in the case. His name was not mentioned in the original resolution calling this meeting.

Mr. Dennistoun—We don't want the case dismissed on such a technicality, as the Chief wants to clear himself.

Mr. Dennistoun—I would ask that the Chief be furnished with an amplified list of the charges before noon to-morrow.

The Mayor asked Mr. McNairn to see to this.

Councillor Davis—It would be well if our solicitor investigates to see, if we go on and take evidence under oath if the council will be liable for injury to anyone's character. We should know how to proceed in this matter.

Mr. Edwards—When the law gives the power to refer the matter to a judge surely the council is in a position to conduct a preliminary inquiry.

The council then adjourned until Tuesday evening.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Suggestions as to What Would be Welcome.

The holiday spirit is here. News from Santa Claus has been received by Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men, whose exhaustless stock and spacious well lighted store affords unsurpassed opportunities for a unique display of Christmas gifts, as well as for pleasant shopping. No part of this great store is without its special preparations. Presents for all, from Grandpa to baby. No matter how much better you think you are going to do by buying your Christmas giveables somewhere else, don't let go your money until you have seen Gough Bros—so says Santa Claus :

ARCTIC CIRCLE, Dec. 21, 1897.

My Dear Gough Bros :

My new travelling machine, which I have christened "Gough," is made especially for this trip to the Wonderful Cheap Men of Peterborough; and is the greatest hustler we have seen since electricity was invented. I would like you to get it patented for me at Peterborough as soon as I arrive. The big white bear and seals that tackled me so often other years, have no show against me this trip. Tell your mayor that I want exemption from the Transient Traders' Bylaw of the town, as I expect the freedom of your city during my visit to Gough Bros. Give my love to the little kids, and accept some yourself.

I remain,
Your faithful old friend,
SANTA CLAUS.

P.S.—I send you a few suggestions for the benefit of Santa Claus shoppers in Peterborough :—

Give grandpa a big, cosy storm ulster, to shield him from draught and cold, and get it at Goughs'.

Or give him a pair of Arctic overshoes to keep his old feet warm, and get them at Goughs'.

Give grandma a snug pair of those wool and felt slippers for the house, and get them at Goughs'.

Give father a warm house coat to take his comfort in while he ponders over his evening newspaper as he toasts his feet at the fire, and get it at Gough's.

Or give him a fur cap or a fur coat for the coldest days of February and get it at Gough's.

Give mother a dressy pair of kid laced shoes, a pair of fancy worked slippers, with pointed toes, and get them at Gough's.

Or give her a pair of wool lined felt gaiters, and get them at Gough's.

Give brother a dress-suit, if you would wish to be held in pleasant memory every time he makes a holiday call, and get it at Gough's.

Or give him a silk muffler for his throat or a few of those pretty Roman stripped or plaid scarfs or ties, and get them at Gough's.

Give sister a pair of those elegant pink slippers, with bows on the toes—the best is none too good for her—and get them at Gough's.

Or, give her a pair of skating boots, light soled and warm lined, and be sure to add a season ticket for the rink, and get them at Gough's.

Give the boys all an overcoat apiece, or an ulster or pea jackets. Be sensible and make them not only happy, but proof against this zero weather. If Gough is selling at "half price," as they usually do at this season, most parents can afford to go all over the boys with warm things—God bless the boys!—and get them at Goughs.

Or, get them all warm winter suits—they don't cost much at Goughs'. Before and after Christmas, and all the year round, let the rising generation wear Goughs' boys' suits—it will be a lesson in economy to them to hear the mothers tell them how cheap they can be clothed by Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men.

DAILY TEMPERATURE RECORD

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that.

.... AT ....

ROBT. FAIR'S.

During our Quick Reduction Sale before Christmas perhaps there's no department in our store where the Reduction will be more sweeping than in MANTLES AND JACKETS.

Last winter when we were closing out our matchless stock of Coats, &c., we did not hesitate to mark $12 and $15 garments at $5 and $6, in order to keep none over for another year. We propose this season to sell just as close to the line—let the loss be what it may. It sometimes pays to lose. A loss now accepted will enable us to clear out our whole stock in this department in a short time. Here are some of these Mantle Sacrifices:—

FOR $5 00 A lot of Ladies' German Tweed Coats, perfect fitting garments, formerly sold at $8.50.

FOR $6 25 A lot of Tailor-made German Coats, well finished, formerly sold at $10.

FOR $8 50 Ladies' Stylish Rough Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold at $12.50.

FOR $4 00 Ladies' Black Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold for $6.50

FOR $8 50 Ladies' Black Golf Capes, lined with black and white checks, formerly sold for $12.00.

FOR $7.50 Ladies Coloured Golf Capes, formerly sold at $9.50.

The balance of our Misses and Children's Jackets are also all reduced on a par with the above changed figures ranging at $3, $4.50, $4.75 and $5, or about $2 to $2.50 off former selling prices.

This is the way we have of keeping our Stock fresh. There is no reason why the Handsome and Useful should not combine in Holiday presents.

BLEZARD CHOSEN FOR EAST PETERBOROUGH.

THE SIXTH TIME A CANDIDATE.

The Unanimous Choice of the East Peterborough Liberals Yesterday —A Great Convention—Enthusiastic Nomination — Addresses by the Candidate, Hon. John Dryden and Mr. John Lang, M. P.

One of the most largely attended and enthusiastic nominating conventions ever held in East Peterborough assembled in the town hall, Norwood, on Tuesday to select a candidate to contest the riding at the approaching general provincial elections. The convention was remarkable for two things—one was the solid character of those in attendance, the best residents of the riding being largely in evidence in the gathering and the other was the representative character of the assemblage, every township in the riding, even the remotest, being represented, and the enthusiasm and confidence were in keeping with the other features of the meeting. The spirit of confidence and courage that animated those assembled struck the key-note of certain victory and there is no room for doubt that with the trusty, tried and true candidate selected, backed by a good cause that cannot be controverted, East Peterborough will again triumphantly return a supporter of the Liberal Government of Ontario.

Mr. J. M. Drummond, President of the East Riding Reform Association, called the meeting to order and and announced the first order of business, the election of officers. He spoke of the necessity of organizing thoroughly and at as early a moment as possible, and of not relying for success on the past record and large majorities in both the Provincial and Dominion elections—Mr. Blezard's majority of 400 and Mr. Lang's majority of 600. This was the first occasion on which the Liberals had had an opportunity of thanking Mr. Lang for the noble fight he had made, which was largely due to his energetic personal exertions.

OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected:
President—Mr. J. M. Drummond.
Vice-President—Mr. H. G. Buck.
Secretary—Dr. Moffatt.

The following township vice-presidents were elected as the nucleus of township executive committees:

Asphodel—Messrs Wm Buck, Wm Sharpe and Duncan Campbell.

Belmont — Messrs John Brown, Wm Johnston, and J F Purdy.

Burleigh—Messrs Alex Brown, William Hales, Wm Langford (South Burleigh).

Chandos—Messrs Jas Trotter, Wm Ratcliffe and Jas Mieorgan.

Douro—Messrs John Walsh, Wm Moher, Wm Lesson and John Allen.

Dummer—Jas Robb, E Hawthorne and Chas Nicholl.

Otonabee—Messrs Geo Stewart, Samuel Armstrong and Andrew Shearer.

Ashburnham—Messrs J C Sullivan, Jas Kylie and Wm Wright.

Havelock—Messrs Wm Mathieson, Jas Henry and Jas Bryne.

THE CANDIDATE NOMINATED.

Nominations were then called for a candidate.

Mr. John Brown proposed and Mr. Geo. Elliott seconded, Mr. Thomas Blezard, and there being no other nomination Mr. Blezard was declared selected by a unanimous standing vote, and when he came forward to address the convention he was received with a cyclone of hearty applause.

He began his remarks by stating that after the last election he had declared his desire to retire, as there were many others as well qualified, but he had been so urged by his friends that he was compelled so accede. He first became a candidate nineteen years ago and had then been assured that if he filled the breach then he would not be asked again; but he had been again and again urged into the field. He had been elected five times and he had every confidence that he would be elected again. (Cries of "You will" and loud cheers.) Mr. Blezard then referred to the various demands made upon the attention of a representative and pointed out that he had endeavored to watch over the interests of the riding and keep in touch with the people as well as their wants. He referred to his relations to the northern parts of the riding and of the expenditure that had been made upon colonisation roads. In that respect he had not been able to please everybody. In the expenditure on colonisation roads there was a great desire to be overseer and he had not always been able to meet the wishes of all who felt they had a claim to the position but he had tried to do what was right. At any rate he could say that the riding and the province got good value for the money expended upon colonisation roads. There had, during his representation, been expended in the northern part of East Peterborough the large sum of $55,000, and he had personally superintended the expenditure of a large portion of it. He had been on every road that had had Government money expended upon it and he again repeated that good value had been received for every cent of money spent.

Referring to the cry for a change raised by the Opposition, the speaker referred to the fact that there was evidently in his case, and he did not see why any different principle should apply to the Ontario Government. If he had given satisfaction as a representative, the electors saw in that good reasons why, after a service of nineteen years, he should again represent the riding. If, for the past twenty-five years, the Ontario Government had well and wisely ruled the province, there should be no change for the mere sake of change. He did not see anything to improve in the record and policy of the Ontario Government. Mr. Blezard referred to the results of a change, and questioned if the Opposition had the material to form a Government. They did not possess it in the present House, and if they got it, they would have to go to the country for it, and in the present humour of the country, if East Peterborough was any criterion, they had a poor chance of adding to either their numbers or of ability. Mr. Blezard paid an earnest tribute to the zeal and energy of the premier, and though the idea might seem disrespectful to the late leader, Sir Oliver Mowat he (Mr. Blezard) doubted if Ontario ever had a more capable, energetic and able premier than Hon. Mr. Hardy. He spoke of Mr. Hardy's promptitude and his anxiety to see both sides of a question that might be presented by the numerous deputations that waited upon the Government. Referring to the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Whitney, Mr. Blezard admitted that he was a clever man in a certain way. When Mr. Whitney spoke at Norwood he had a great deal of fault to find, but he took good care not to suggest any remedy. Mr. Whitney had made numerous statements at his sixty odd public meetings, but they were of such that he found it expedient when faced by those who knew the facts, to deny them in the House. What sort of a man was that for the premier of a province like Ontario? Mr. Whitney had evidently made these wild statements, which he was unable to face in the House, in the hope that there would be no session before the elections. Thus he sought to deceive the people and he had thus lost prestige and weakened his claim to be considered in the running for a premier.

NO DESIRE FOR A CHANGE

Mr. Blezard went on to say that he had an eye on the people of East Peterborough and kept their interests in view and he had had his reward in being loyally supported. He might say literally that he had grown gray in their service. There were only two members of the house, outside of some members of the Cabinet, who had been in the House as long as he (Mr. Blezard) had been. There were two dozen Liberals in this riding who were as capable as himself and had as good a right to the nomination and if he had been relieved of the nomination he would have been very happy, but it seemed that he had become public property and he had bowed to the people's will and would endeavour to serve them as faithfully in the future as in the past. Mr. Blezard concluded his address by again returning his thanks for the hearty nomination and said that he would have other opportunities to address the people, he would give way to Hon. Mr. Dryden, who, like himself, had to leave in time to catch the train for Toronto. On resuming his seat Mr. Blezard was greeted with enthusiastic cheers.

HON. MR. DRYDEN'S ADDRESS.

Hon. Mr. Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, was very heartily received. He began his remarks by pointing out that the audience was not apparently much struck with the cry "It is time for a change," or they would not have re-nominated Mr. Blezard, who had been their representative for nineteen years. This argument would apply to the Government as well as to Mr. Blezard, and the minister paid a tribute to Mr. Blezard's solid qualifications as a member. He seldom spoke in the House, but when he did speak he commanded as respectful and earnest attention as he did to-day. In the course of his nineteen years Mr. Blezard had made few enemies and retained his many friends, and no man could accomplish that without having a good record. By his past services Mr. Blezard had made himself "public property." That was what M.P.P. meant after a good member's name—"Made Public Property." Mr. Blezard had spoken last night to a Young Liberal Club in the City of Toronto, and he made a splendid speech, which was cheered to the echo. (Cheers.) Mr. Dryden said that he and Mr. Blezard had entered parliament at the same time and they had stood side by side both inside and outside the House. They had stood behind Sir Oliver Mowat in his fight for the territorial rights of the province and the revenues of the country were to-day benefitting by the results of the battles thus won. They had stood by Sir Oliver Mowat in the process of placing upon the statute book the best system of legislation enjoyed by any country in the world. Mr. Blezard to do all this and it must be a great source of pride and pleasure to come back to his constituents after so many long years of service and receive so hearty a welcome and an unanimous demand for further services. (Loud applause.) After referring to the change of personell in the cabinet, Mr. Dryden pointed out that the same principle of Government for the whole people animated them. He, the speaker, was proud to be a cabinet minister, not for the glory of it but that he might uphold and promote the interests of the farmers. The principles that had animated the Government in the past were their guiding motive now and such a view had received repeated endorsements of the people, not of Liberals alone but of good thinking Conservatives.

HAD FAITHFULLY HELPED

One of the foremost principles that animated the Government was the Equality in Citizenship, which meant that every man of whatever, country, race, creed, colour or social condition, should have the same right as a citizen. This principle would attract the best men of all parties, and in this respect the Government had not held it merely in theory but had crystalised it in legislation. This was shown in the Franchise Act, giving the franchise in the most liberal degree in the shape of manhood suffrage. This was the principle adopted in the educational system of the province. It might have its faults, but it had been pronounced the best in the world. It was based upon equality of citizenship. Nobody was so poor or lowly that he had not through our educational system a of the ladder. This was an exemplification of the equality of citizenship. The principle of equality of citizenship had been put into practice in the Factory Act, which protected employees in the matter of health and freedom from accident. These men are citizens, and deserve the protection of the state. Another application of the principle was the protection from long hours of girls employed in departmental stores. Another was the bakeshop bill, which was the bill of the speaker, that protected the journeymen bakers in their toil. These were evidences of the equality of citizenship, which the workingmen would appreciate.

The second principle is integrity in life—honesty in public matters as well as in private life. That was the animating principle of the present Government. Since Sandfield Macdonald's time the Government had expended nearly 100 million dollars, and there was no man who could point to any corruption in its expenditure. (Cheers.) The Opposition claimed that there were scandals, but they did not venture to attempt to fix one of them on a member of the Government or a member of the House; they pointed to trifling improper acts of subordinate officials. Reference was made to the Smith scandal in Ontario County, where he (Mr. Dryden) was charged falsely with selling an office, —a charge which the slanderer had to take back. The construction of the Parliament Buildings was an example of the application of integrity in public life and no grander monument could or had been raised to any public man than the Ontario Parliament buildings were to Hon. C. F. Fraser. (Cheers). Another principle that animated the Government from the beginning was what the speaker called true Canadianism—to develop the best resources of the country. The Opposition claimed that the Government was under the influence of American lumbermen, but last night in the House when Hon. Mr. Gibson brought down his timber bill compelling the cutting of Canadian logs in Canada and this action was only another assertion of true Canadianism. The Opposition would say that the Government had been driven to this, but the fact was that the Government was in honour bound to live up to the conditions of the timber licenses—they had to keep faith with those who had purchased the limits and the moment they could act they had acted and shown that they were alive to the interests of this province, and were prepared to carry out the principle of true Canadianism. (Cheers).

THEY LOOKED VERY GLUM

Another feature of the Ontario Government was progressiveness—a policy of developing the resources of the country, and he instanced the the aid to railways, colonisation roads and mining roads, and aid in developing the mining industry, which had last year yield five millions of dollars, whereas another inexhaustible mine—the farm—had produced a grand total of perhaps one hundred millions of dollars. It was the policy of the Government to help develop the farming interests. Much had been done in improving the quality as well as the quantity of farm product. Farming must change with the times as well as other industries. He dealt with the efforts made by the Government to help the farming industry and paid a high tribute to the efficiency of the Ontario Agricultural College and the work it was doing. Referring to the nagging criticisms of the college by the Opposition, especially the charge that it did not pay, Mr. Dryden claimed it was not intended to pay dividends 'any more more than any other educational institution or school. But it would pay in teaching the farmers to PRODUCE BETTER CROPS.

Reference was also made to the help given to the dairying industry by the dairy schools, travelling dairy, etc., the help in fruit growing, etc. He had stated these few principles to show that the country was governed by a Government that was animated by the principles of developing the resources of the country, and to show what sort of a Government their member (pointing to Mr. Blezard) they had delighted to honour had supported. (Cheers.)

Referring to the position taken by Canada in dairy products, Mr. Dryden claimed it was due to the encouragement given by the Government, and there was still room for expansion. He had been spoken to only on Monday by an American gentleman with reference to shipping Canadian fruit, grapes, peaches, etc., to the English markets, and with proper Government assistance, in co-operation with the cold storage facilities, provided by the Dominion Government, there was a great outlook for the development of the soil resources of Ontario.

The Opposition were referred to as adepts at the manipulation of figures, but their statements were in the main too ridiculous to deceive the farmers. He doubted if the people desired a change and a return to power of the party in alliance with Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Whitney had repudiated Sir Charles, but a man was known by the company he kept. Scathing reference was made to the petty character of the issues raised by the Opposition. The man who had butchered the pigs slaughtered at the Humber piggery for cholera, had struck for higher pay and being refused, loaded up Mr. St. John with the great piggery issue which was used as a herring to be drawn across the trail. Mr. Dryden, after appealing to the electors to elect Mr. Blezard by a greater majority than ever, resumed his seat amidst loud applause.

He and Mr. Blezard departed to catch the train for Toronto and Mr. John Lang, M. P., who very heartily received, gave a brief address, approving heartily of Mr. Blezzard and endorsing the policy of the Hardy administration. The meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, the candidate and the Hardy Government.

New Footing and Edgings arrived at Mrs. Appleby's 426 Water street.

Suffered Agony With Pains in the Stomach—Hood's Cured.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. MR. BLEZARD FOR EAST PETERBOROUGH.

Notwithstanding the desire of Mr. T. Blezard to retire from the representation of East Peterborough, he has again been compelled to yield to wishes urged by the Liberals of East Peterborough, and become a candidate at the approaching provincial elections. He was unanimously nominated at a great convention in Norwood yesterday. Mr. Blezard has continuously represented East Peterborough since the general elections of 1879, nearly nineteen years, and the people have had ample opportunity of becoming acquainted with his fitness for the position of representative, and the fact of his repeated re-election, as well as the fact that his services are still in demand, proves that in addition to his qualities as representative, he has many qualities of mind and heart, that give him an enviable degree of personal popularity. Mr. Blezard has always shown himself faithful to his representative trust. Few, if any, members of the House have given more constant attention to parliamentary duties, and, upon all committees of which he was a member, when the interests of the farmer were concerned, he was actively anxious to advance these interests and to give practical and intelligent advice. Mr. Blezard is a strong candidate, and has special claims to election by a large constituency. He has earned the good will of the electorate of East Peterborough in an exceedingly attractive manner. His own representative course, strengthened by the magnificent record of the Government he has so long supported, gives him claims upon the franchise of the electors of East Peterborough which will doubtless result in his triumphant election, whoever may be his opponent.

BENSFORT.

Mr. Geo. McLelland arrived home from the Northwest on Saturday last.

Mr. Geo. Smithson has rented the house formerly occupied by Mr. Daniels. He intends starting a repair shop in Bensfort.

Mr. James Wedlock gave a dance party at his house on Monday night, and, notwithstanding bad roads, dark night and other drawbacks, a large crowd of young people gathered and spent a most enjoyable time.

Mr. John Fletcher has again received the contract for carrying the mail between Bensfort and Centreville.

What is the matter with our reeve and councilmen? Why are they not making a move for the township election.?

Saturday night's frost was the most severe we have had this season. Rice lake and the Otonabee are both frozen over.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Harry Stuart After all Other Remedies Failed.

LONDON, Dec. 13th.—In nine-tenths of the homes of London, the all-absorbing topic of conversation is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Thousands of happy, grateful men and women, are telling of their rescue from Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Paralysis and other kidney diseases hitherto called incurable. All tell how how Dodd's Kidney Pills cured, after all other means had failed.

Harry Stuart, 164 Mill street, told our reporter to-day that a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him completely of long standing kidney disease and lumbago. Doctors could not cure him. Neither could other remedies. Dodd's Kidney Pills were his only hope. THEY CURED HIM. They never fail to cure any case of Kidney Disease.

HARVEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It seems as if winter had set in in earnest now. It snowed some on Saturday and again on Monday, which makes sleighing very fair.

There is not much lumbering being done here this winter as the Ratchun Co. are not taking out any timber, neither are they letting any jobs, but they will buy from the farmers and are offering fair prices from $3.50 to $4.00 per thousand for hemlock.

George Ray and wife, of Bridgenorth, returned home last week after making an extended visit to their friends here. It is reported that he has purchased a place here and intends to return and take up his residence here permanently.

Chas. Kemper has purchased the old Ray place and will move into it this week.

SAMUEL CLEARY.

Killed in a Frightful Way at the Eddy Company's Paper Mill at Hull —Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—A sad accident occurred yesterday in E. B. Eddy & Co.'s paper mill, when Samuel Cleary was suddenly killed. He went up to feed the ventilating air fans, so as to cool the room and tried to pull the driving belt off the shaft with a hammer. He threw it off with his foot, the belt touching the counter shaft and creating a higher velocity than the heavy iron pulley could stand. According to George Millen, the velocity was 1,000 times greater. So it smashed to pieces, parts of it flying in all directions. Cleary fell to the floor, a distance of about 25 feet. His neck was broken, his right arm was horribly lacerated and there was a large hole under the left arm, near the heart. Cleary was 33 years of age and leaves a widow and family to mourn his loss.

NICOLET ELECTION

Another Liberal Victory in Quebec Province.

STRONG TORY RIDING REDEEMED

One of the Worst Possible Combinations Against the Laurier Government Beaten—Local Interests Worked All in Vain Against the Popular Dominion Government —Montreal News.

Montreal, Dec. 22.—There was not much sign of a revolt against Tarte about the Nicolet election yesterday. Mr. Leduc, the Liberal candidate, was elected by a majority of about 175 over Mr. Beauchesne, the Conservative, and yet there was one of the worst possible combinations against the Laurier Government. In the first place, the county has always been overwhelmingly Conservative. Last May in the local general election, which carried Mr. Marchand into power by a sweeping majority, Mr. Ball, the Conservative, was elected by 256. It is true that Mr. Leduc was once before elected, in 1891, but there were two Conservative candidates, and he had a majority of only one. Mr. Boisvert, the late member, was elected by 138 in 1896, in spite of the Liberal landslide elsewhere. Local interests, especially the Drummond County Railway, were worked for all they were worth. For instance, when Mr. Beauchesne was definitely in the field it was intimated that he would withdraw and allow Mr. Leduc to be elected by acclamation provided the Government would subsidize the railway. But this bold attempt to take the Government by the throat on the eve of a doubtful election completely failed. On nomination day Sir Wilfrid referred to Mr. Prefontaine's "conspiracy," and distinctly refused to make any promise of a subsidy. Then it was considered a great political stroke to dub Mr. Leduc "Mr. Tarte's candidate," especially during the present family quarrel in Quebec, and so prejudice him in the eyes of the electors. That Mr. Leduc should have the handsome majority of 175 under the circumstances is remarkable. It shows clearly that the present "crisis" is not as serious as Conservative papers have led their readers to believe.

Mr. R. D. Robbins, 148 Cowan Ave., Toronto, says:—"I had a bad leg which was simply unsightly. From below the knee to the ankle was one great sore. Eight doctors treated me without benfit. I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured me, and all that is remains to be seen are the scars."

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. "My nerves were completely wastrung,' says Mrs. H. Church, Caledonia, Ont; "and palpitation, loss of memory and shortness of breath troubled me greatly. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

Boy Instantly Killed.

Hamilton, Dec. 20.—Saturday Robert Marshall, a 15-year-old lad employed at the Hamilton Cotton Mills, was instantly killed in the mill. He leaned over the guard rail of the elevator shaft to see if the elevator was coming up. At that moment the lift descended and broke his neck. Coroner Griffin ordered an inquest, and at 4 o'clock a jury was empanelled by P. C. Hay. The jury viewed the elevator and the body and adjourned to meet this evening to hear testimony.

THE LEGISLATURE

Another Non-Confidence Motion Rejected.

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY WAS 27.

The Opposition Defeated on the Transfer of Colonization Road Grants to the Municipalities—A Radical Proposal—House to Meet Between Christmas and New Year's—Session's Close.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—The debate in the Legislature yesterday was confined to the subject of the colonization roads. Mr. Reid (Addington) moved an amendment upon the motion to go into supply. The amendment advocated the policy of having colonization road money voted by the Legislature placed in the hands of the different municipalities for expenditure. He said under the present system this money was used for political purposes. Work was promised to Conservatives if they would vote for the Reform candidate or stay at home. He was not moving in this matter with any political motive (laughter) but because he felt deeply upon the subject.

Mr. Pattullo said the charge that this money had been used for political purposes was an old one, and had been answered many times like other charges against the Government. He thought before the Government was asked to hand its money over to the municipal councils it should be demonstrated that these councils were judicious in the expenditure of their own money upon roads. He contended that the money so spent by municipal councils was often largely thrown away and it was a matter of complaint not only in the country but in the cities. He instanced the case of Toronto, a center of intelligence where vast sums had been thrown away in an attempt to improve the streets under municipal control. Much of the money that had been spent by the municipalities in road making might as well have been thrown into the ditches and watercourses. He drew attention to the extraordinary amount of friendship the Opposition had of late been manifesting for the municipal bodies. This solicitude and admiration for municipal bodies was a new feature. Conservatives had not always been so anxious about them. When the Liberals were instituting the municipal bodies in Canada the Conservatives were their strongest enemies, they had called them "Sucking Republics. They were now courting the municipal bodies for political purposes. (Hear, hear.) He predicted that should the Conservatives ever gain power the very last thing they should do would be to adopt the policy laid down in the amendment. (Cheers.)

Dr. Meacham followed, and complained that the Government used the money against the election of Conservatives.

Mr. Stratton opposed the amendment because he had yet to learn that the municipalities desired to have the responsibility of expending the Government money for roads. The different municipal councils in his riding did not wish such money. The question was, "Did the people get good service for the money expended?" In his district the money of the Government was better spent and more value received than that of the township councils. This was a well-known fact and he challenged investigation. If this amendment had not been moved for political purposes why was it moved at this time? It was for political purposes and was buncombe to boot. (Cheers.) His only complaint was that the Government did not spend enough money upon colonization roads. (Hear, hear.) He believed the Government received good value for the money expended, the roadmasters were competent persons and it would be a great mistake to change the system.

Mr. Marter complained that colonization road money was now used for political purposes. He complained that only Liberals were given the handling of this money.

Mr. Farewell (Liberal) said in his constituency the money voted for colonization roads was an injury to him politically. One reason he opposed handing the money over to the municipal councils was because these bodies were in the habit of employing for such work only poor and indigent men who could not earn at anything else a day's pay in two. This class of men would be called upon to do the work the Government would pay for, with the result that colonization roads would not be so well constructed as under the present system.

Mr. Whitney said the expenditure upon colonization roads was a desirable and proper expenditure. What he objected to was the system of expenditure the Government had adopted.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said in reply, it had always been his opinion that in the case of an individual, corporation, council or government it was sound policy for them in each case to expend themselves the money for which they were responsible. (Cheers.) Take a lawyer spending the money of a wealthy client, he would spend more than if the case were his own. (Hear, hear.) This was one reason lawyers seldom went to law. (Laughter.) For the Government to turn over its money to the municipalities for them to expend it would be a confession of incapacity. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Marter had said the Conservatives had never quarreled with the fact that money was voted for colonization roads. He then read a resolution moved by Mr. Patterson (Essex), a Conservative, which had called for a reduction in the sum in the estimates for this purpose of fifty per cent. (Cheers.) Mr. Marter had challenged the Government upon this subject. This resolution would overwhelm the Conservatives. (Cheers.) The question was then put and the Government sustained by a majority of 27. Mr. Beatty, Parry Sound, a Conservative, voted with the Government, and all the Patrons. The House then went into Committee of Supply.

Waste Treadmills Again.

Hon. S. H. Blake introduced a large deputation to the Cabinet yesterday, representing the Prisoner's Aid Society, and acted as their spokesman. He said they wished to see more education given in the prisons and strongly urged that treadmills should be established in the jails.

Hon. Mr. Hardy: "I think the treadmill is an awful thing. It might have a bad effect upon the hearts of weak men. I think it would be going away back in the middle ages."

Hon. Mr. Blake: "It would stop many people trying to get into the jail club to spend a comfortable winter." He also wished to see the lightest sentence for drunkenness placed at three months, in order that the person might have sufficient time to get over his spree and lose sight of his bad companions. He also wished to see the Government compel the various municipalities to erect poor houses.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said the Government would consider the matters laid before them.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realizing that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

After Typhoid Fever.

"After I had typhoid fever kidney troubles ensued. I had terrible pains in my back, head and shoulders, and felt tired, drowsy and dragged out and had annoying urinary troubles. I have grown daily better since I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills. I have no pains of any kind, sleep well, feel rested; and the urinary troubles have completely disappeared." J. W. READY FOR CHRISTMAS.

Some Very Tasty Decorations For the Holiday Time.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy has apparently spared neither pains nor expense to make his Christmas displays of meat and poultry attractive. The meat window is profusely trimmed with evergreens, very tastefully arranged, whilst mottoes conveying Christmas greetings are strung in festoons from the corners to the centre of the shop. Some grand Christmas beef is shown and over 400 turkeys and geese have been laid in to meet the Christmas and New Years demand.

What to Buy for "Him."

One of the best things to buy for a man for a Christmas gift is something he would buy himself. A half-dozen of those small Parisian ties just received at LeBrun & Co's City Clothing Store, would suit him "down to the ground," as the saying goes. The fair sex have been buyers of these bright beauties of swell ties during the past week in considerable numbers. A silk muffler or a fine woollen neck scarf in bright or plain checks, will also be acceptable gifts, and LeBrun & Co. have a very nobby line full of them at close prices. cod

THE CHIEF OF POLICE WAS EXONERATED

AT THE MEETING OF THE COUNCILLORS LAST EVENING.

A Resolution to That Effect Was Moved by Councillors Dawson and Cobb and Was Carried—Arguments Counsel.

When the investigation into the charges against the Chief of Police reopened last evening in the council chamber, there was not even standing room, the crowd surging in behind the seats occupied by the councillors.

The proceedings were opened by the reading of the following correspondence as passing between the law firm of Messrs. Stratton & Hall and Town Clerk Armstrong :

S R Armstrong, Esq. Town :

Dear Sir,—Re Chief of Police investigation: We have been looking into the question as to whether the town council has power to subpoena witnesses to appear before them and give evidence in the matter of this kind. So far we have found no authority which would warrant such proceeding on the part of the town council. As your solicitor may perhaps know of such a power being vested in your council, we would be pleased if you would summon for us this evening the following witnesses, namely : Wm Morgan, Chas Phillips, Fred Barley, Michael Lavery, Benny Thompson, Chas Maddee, C Large, W A Brown, Edwin Clegg, Alex Elliott, Sam Ray, Jas Kendry, Fred Ray, Edwin Dawson, John Fraser, T Boddy, D W Dumble, J Knapman.

We have about 100 other witnesses, and as soon as a proper time and place are appointed and a competent person to take the evidence, we are instructed to proceed in the conduct of this matter.

Yours truly,
STRATTON & HALL

THE ANSWER.

Messrs. Stratton & Hall :

Dear Sirs:—Re Chief of Police investigation: I have just received your letter in regard to summoning witnesses. I do not know of any authority for me to issue such summonses, and as the time at which I have received your letter is so close to the time for the meeting of council I will not be able to see the mayor in regard to the matter. The committee last evening in its motion to adjourn until this evening said that "Mr. McNairn be then present with his witnesses" and gave no more instructions to summons witnesses.

Yours truly,
S. R. ARMSTRONG,
Town Clerk.

Mayor Yelland stated that it had been understood that the evidence in the case would be given to Mr. Denniston, so that he would have time to prepare a defence. He asked him if this had been done.

Mr. Denniston replied that the council had given instructions the previous evening that the particulars of the charges should be furnished him but he had heard nothing of them.

Councillor Dawson—I wish to ask if it is customary for the defendants to have to summon the plaintiff's witnesses?

TOWN SOLICITOR REMENTS.

Town Solicitor Edwards — The procedure I suppose would be the same as in the police magistrate's court. Both plaintiff and defendant would be at liberty to apply to the same source for subpoenas. Proceeding Mr. Edwards said.—"I attended the meeting of the councillors last evening, not as the town solicitor, but as an individual, who felt my name had been drawn into the matter under investigation in a manner I should resent, that is if the reports of the council last meeting were published correctly in the papers."

He then read a portion of the report, which stated that Councillor McWilliams had referred to "a third class pettifogger" as being connected with the case. If this was a fact he did not feel at liberty to advise the council in the matter of the investigation.

Councillor McWilliams—I know what he means all right enough, but we are not here to investigate that matter. The question is have we the power to take evidence under oath and to subpoena witnesses. I see there are telephone and telegraph operators' names on the list. They will not attend without being subpoenaed, and the question is, Mr. Mayor, whether you will take the responsibility of administering the oath, knowing the penalty to which you are subject if you are doing so illegally, and whether we have the power to subpoena witnesses.

Councillors Dawson and Cobb moved that the town solicitor be heard.

Mr. Edwards—I was not present at the meeting of the council when Mr. McWilliams made his remarks, but I ask the council whether the report of them is correct? I ask Mr. McWilliams if it is? Is the person referred to the town solicitor?

Councillor McWilliams—When the time comes you will have an opportunity to discuss all that with me. It will be before long, too.

Mr. Edwards—I think my question is pertinent to the matter at issue. I submit I have just as much right to take part as the Chief and just as much right to defend my name as he has. If in an investigation before a magistrate I find the son of a councillor there I consider it my duty to examine him just as any other witness and if I thereby excite the odium of the said councillor I demand the protection of the council, but if I exceed my duty then the remarks made may be taken at their true worth—at the meaning they seek to convey. The committee is assembled to consider the charges made on that occasion by Councillor McWilliams and the Town Solicitor is entitled to take part as much as the Chief and my duty is not to advise the council as to the course of procedure to be adopted. I ask Mr. McWilliams if he intended those remarks to be addressed to me and whether he still adheres to them.

Councillor McWilliams—I generally speak my mind pretty freely and if the cap fits you can wear it.

COUNSEL FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Mr. W. A. Stratton then asked to be allowed to speak.

On motion of Councillors Denne and Dawson he was heard.

Mr. Stratton—The matter of the charges originally arose in what took place in the police court between the Chief and Mr. Graham in reference to a liquor case which was being tried and I appeared there as counsel for the defendant. During the conduct of the case I charged that the Chief had corrupted children and degraded young men. Incidentally, it may have been said that he was persecuting the Oriental Hotel but the chief charge was that his office was being run as a sneak concern. Subsequently certain charges had been laid before the council and I have been instructed by several persons to lay before this body the general charges of which my clients complain. These are laid in exactly the manner in which a charge of slander would be laid in the High Court. In such a case no details are furnished in the first instance but you are brought into court on a general charge and afterwards details are furnished. We expected that the Chief would ask that the charges should be investigated before a competent tribunal. I am instructed in this case to give the details to the Chief at the proper time, so soon as it is referred to a competent tribunal. We have charged him with perjury, with corrupting young boys, with suborning to perjury, with malfeasance of duty in allowing a prisoner to escape and we are prepared to go before a proper tribunal—not to lay the charge before an incompetent court. It would not be fair to the Chief or to our clients. There is no law under which you can no precedents under which you can subpoena. You are a creature of statute. The law allows you to do certain things and Peterborough Bookstore.

SWEAR A WITNESS—

Santa Claus has just been heard from. For the information of the Old Folks as well as the Young Folks, we are at liberty to publish the following :—

DEAR MESSRS. STRATTON & CO.

Just a line by telephone to say that I expect to be at the Peterborough Bookstore next week. Isn't it too bad after getting within a 100 miles of Peterborough to find the snow all goes and no sleighing. I've had to hitch up my reindeers to my bicycle and shall drive straight to the Grotto 417 and 419 George Street. Tell the policemen to have the streets all clear for me, as the deer are very frisky after doing so little work during the journey. Won't it be jolly to meet all the dear children in the Grotto again? Put this in the newspapers and let the children know about my reception in the Peterborough Bookstore all next week. "So long" till I see you and all the dear children. So long, so long.

Your faithful old friend,
SANTA.

THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.

A Not Very Large Audience—A Good Programme Presented.

There was only a fair audience at the complimentary concert tendered in the opera house last night to Mr. and Mrs. T. Dunn, and those who were absent were the losers. A fine programme was presented, which opened with a well-played pianoforte duet by the Misses Hurley. Mrs. W. A. Sanderson sang with great acceptance two soprano solos, but she did not respond to the hearty encores she so deservedly received. Miss Lily Simons, the popular reciter, was compelled to respond to an encore for each of her selections. Mr. Bert D. Jones captured the audience with two artistically performed mandolin solos. He was rewarded with and responded to encores. Mr. Percy Owens had to appear twice as the penalty of his daintyand artistic performance of Paderewski's Minuet. But, as was to be expected, the treat of the evening was the singing of Mr. Dunn. He sang the "Bandolero" in fine voice and finish and to an enthusiastic recall gave "Off For Philadelphia" in a splendid manner. His singing of the "Gay Hussar," by Watson, which has so often charmed Peterborough audiences, and was sung by request, was a splendid piece of artistic vocalisation and well deserved the enthusiastic applause with which it was received. In Mr. Dunn's departure Peterborough loses a baritone that it will be exceedingly difficult to replace and no doubt in Chicago, where he is going, it will meet with hearty recognition. Both himself and Mrs. Dunn, who again gave evidence last night of being one of our most accomplished accompanists, will be distinct losses to the musical resources of the town.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful: active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

WET WEATHER.

The dangers of exposure to cold and damp vividly portrayed by one who has experienced them.

Mr. John Conboy, 250 Sidney Street, St. John, N.B., talked to our reporter about his experience with kidney trouble, and his recent remarkable cure by Doan's Kidney Pills. Mr. Conboy's statement reads as follows:—

"For a number of years I have been troubled with kidney weakness, brought on by heavy lifting and exposure to wet and cold; also a heavy strain whereby I wrenched my back. I experienced great pain in the chest, extending through to the small of my back and around the loins.

"Before taking Doan's Kidney Pills my blood became vitiated, and my kidneys were greatly deranged in their action. I suffered also from nervousness and general debility, and I am thankful to say that by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, assisted by Laxa-Liver Pills, I am wonderfully improved. I also suffered from constipation and liver complaint, but found Laxa-Liver Pills an excellent remedy, aiding Doan's Kidney Pills in their splendid work.

"I am glad to testify to the wonderful curative powers of these great remedies, especially when they are used in combination, and feel assured that anyone trying them will not be disappointed in the result.

MONCTON'S BAD FIRE.

The New Brunswick Town Suffers a Loss of About $40,000.

Moncton, N.B., Dec. 21.—Shortly after midnight Moncton's worst fire for many years broke out at the corner of Maitland and Wesley streets, in the business centre of the city, and for an hour it looked as if a general conflagration sweeping the east end of the city was certain. The property destroyed is: F. P. Reid Co., wholesale grocery, general book store, owned by Truro firm, Buddick's block, totally destroyed; George Vies, building, general wreck; the original Methodist church of Moncton, recently used as church, and formerly as Salvation barracks; Moore's barber shop, Horsenhorn's fur store, Connor's restaurant, P. A. McGowan's overhead residence; Mrs. J. G. Dobson's millinery store, all destroyed. In nearly every case the fire made a clean sweep, and not even a wall is left. Loss $40,000; insurance $23,000.

THEIR FAME WORLD WIDE.

Health, Strength, Happiness Mark Where Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Been Used.

Glencoe, Dec. 22.—From city to city, town to town, village to village and over the broad fields of the Dominion, the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the medical marvel of the century, the only infallible cure on earth for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Lame Back, and all other kidney diseases, is spreading.

London reported two wonderful cures by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, within two weeks. Glencoe has a case quite as startling.

W. J. Nugent suffered for years with Kidney Disease and Piles. Doctors couldn't help him. Every remedy he tried failed till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. A few boxes cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a unfailing cure for all diseases caused by impaired kidneys and impure blood.

PRONOUNCED GUILTY.

The Jury at Brampton Finds Against the First of the Shelburne Perjury Prisoners.

Brampton, Ont., Dec. 21.—In the Coleman perjury trial court opened yesterday morning at 10.30 o'clock, and the first witness called for the defence was Mrs. Hamilton, who gave evidence to the effect that Twibble called at their house on the Saturday before the trial commenced at Orangeville and told her to tell Mr. Hamilton not to go near the office, as he was watched, and also to tell her husband he was in the office the night Mrs. Stevenson was there; that he saw the order signed and knew all about it.

Mrs. Coleman was called, and swore positively that her husband left for Shelburne about 12.30 o'clock on Nov. 23, that he arrived home about 11 p.m., and told her that Hamilton had some queer times in his office; that he had a dispute with a lady in his office about an account and an order. This lady, witness said, from the description given by her husband, was Mrs. Stevenson, as she knew the woman, having had previous dealings with her.

This closed the case for the defence.

After lunch James Small was re-called, but nothing new was elicited from him.

At 2 p.m. Mr. Johnston opened his address to the jury, and went over the evidence very carefully. Mr. Johnston's address took two and a half hours in its delivery.

At 4.30 p.m. Mr. O'Leary began his address to the jury on behalf of the Crown. He reviewed the evidence as given by the witnesses in a very able manner. Mr. O'Leary closed after an eloquent address, lasting an hour and forty-five minutes, with a simple request for justice only at the hands of the jury.

Coleman Guilty.

His Lordship addressed the jury, and reviewed the evidence with them. His charge was to a certain extent against the prisoners.

The jury were out about an hour and returned with a verdict of guilty, with a strong recommendation for mercy. Sentence was not passed on prisoner.

It is not settled yet what case will be proceeded with to-morrow.

Suicided in a Hay Mow.

Ruthven, Ont., Dec. 21.—An old man by the name of John Williams, living at Mr. Frank Lypp's, went up into a hay mow and placed a string to the trigger of an old Zulu rifle, then placed the muzzle to his forehead and deliberately took his life by pulling the string with his foot. Death must have been instantaneous. No cause is attributed for the deed, but it is thought to be a case of despondency. He was a bachelor, about 70 years of age. He has two sisters and brothers living in this vicinity.

Killed in a Stave Mill.

Wallaceburg, Ont., Dec. 21.—Thomas Petes, son of David Petes, was instantly killed at Steinhoff & Gordon's stave and hoop mill here yesterday afternoon by being caught in a shaft. The body was terribly mangled.

For Conspicuous Bravery.

Hamilton, Dec. 21.—The Sanford gold medal, given for conspicuous bravery, has been awarded to Rev. Fred G. Scott, of Quebec, for saving a drowning man in the strong tide of the St. Lawrence River.

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat when he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that.

Business Dead in Jamaica.

New York, Dec. 22.—F. Croswell, who arrived from Jamaica on the Atlas Line steamship Allegheny to-day, said that owing to the depressed price of sugar in Jamaica business there was almost paralyzed. Many owners of sugar plantations were selling their properties at half their values and were leaving Jamaica. He stated that the yellow fever epidemic had been entirely stamped out.

The Massey Reward Paid.

Buffalo, Dec. 22.—The $250 offered as a reward by the Canadian authorities for the capture of the burglar who broke into the Massey residence at Toronto several weeks ago and stole valuable diamonds, was received by Specials McCabe and Coon of the Pearl street station yesterday afternoon. These two officers captured the burglar, who proved to be Hugh Van Zandt.

THE NAKED TRUTH.

G. W. Smalley Said Some Things Calculated to Make Yankee Ears Tingle—"Old and New England."

New York Dec. 22.—The New England Society of the city of Brooklyn held its seventeenth annual dinner last night in celebration of the two hundred and seventy-seventh anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims. Covers were laid for 150 guests, among whom were many ladies, the relatives and friends of the members of the society.

Among the speakers was Mr. George W. Smalley, who is a correspondent of the London Times. "New and Old England" was the subject of his discourse, and he caused quite a sensation by his broad handling of the diplomatic relations between this country and the countries upon the other side of the water. He referred to Cleveland's Venezuelan message, and declared that England had shown a great deal of forbearance in this affair. He declared also that the Continental powers had come to think of the United States as a menace to the peace of the world, instancing the interference of the United States in the Venezuelan question, the attitude of the United States toward Turkey in connection with Armenian affairs and Turkey's war with Greece; its attitude with reference to Hawaii, and latterly the strong sentiments that have been expressed by the American people against Spain's war in Cuba.

He said that so strong were the feelings entertained by the Continental powers against this country, there would certainly be formed a combination to oppose any action that the United States Government might attempt to take to enforce compliance with its wishes, and asked if it might not be well, under such circumstances, for the United States to get as close as possible to England, the Old and the New England.

Senator Hawley took occasion, when the excitement had subsided somewhat, to say that he was extremely sorry that Mr. Smalley had so misunderstood his own country, an expression which was loudly applauded.

Cupid's Lasso.

Into the way of the world Cupid discovers a man and a maid putting their heads together in some way. The gentleman throws his lasso over them and there you are: two people are made more or less happy for life. If she is a bright, healthy, cheerful wife they will be more and more so as the years go on. If she is weak and ailing and incapable there won't be much happiness for either of them.

A woman makes a grave mistake who enters upon the obligations and trials of married life handicapped by physical weakness or disease. It is her duty to be in the best possible condition to support the duties of wifehood and motherhood.

If every young woman who knows of or suspects any unhealthy condition in her physical make-up would seek competent professional advice she would save herself much future mortification and misery. Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., gladly answers confidential correspondence from women free of charge and gives careful fatherly and professional advice, to suit the individual case. He has, for thirty years been recognized as among the most eminent of living specialists in the treatment of diseases peculiar to women. His "Favorite Prescription" is the only proprietary remedy in the world designed by an authorized, educated physician specifically to cure female troubles. His great thousand-page illustrated book the "Common Sense Medical Adviser" will be sent free for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. For 50 stamps a heavier cloth covered copy will be sent.

Reuben Hladd, of Indianacook, Monroe Co., Mo., writes: "I am very thankful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did for me. I was all broken down from nervous prostration, but since taking your medicine I have had more relief than from all the doctors. Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a world of good."

ENORMOUS WEALTH.

VALUE IN POUNDS OF SOME OF LONDON'S GREAT PLACES.

The Underground Railway at £120 an Inch—The Bank of England—Immense Riches Represented in Mansions, Art Galleries, Churches and Bridges.

"Have you ever thought what London is worth?" remarked a valuer to the writer the other day, "and will you believe me when I tell you that all the money in the world piled up in one enormous heap would not buy the treasures which Londoners may gaze at will every day of their lives?"

There was "copy" in the idea, and I took my valuer friend round London on valuing intent.

We came to town on the underground. "Two thousand yards of this railway," said my friend, "cost £2,000,000, or, if you like to have it so, £120 an inch. If you wanted to buy this railway now, you would probably be asked £5,000,000 for it. There is another mile on the same line which would cost you something like £2,000,000, having cost a third of a million to lay down. But that is comparatively moderate. If the electric railway were put up to auction and you were fortunate to get it at cost price, you would need the wealth of seven millionaires to buy it. These 3½ miles of railway are worth quite £12,000,000 as prices go nowadays.

"Get out at this station and look at the monument. You would not buy it for £300,000. In five minutes you will be at the Mansion House, which cost a round £70,000 to build, but is now worth nearly £1,000,000. The Royal Exchange, as a building of bricks and mortar, is worth £200,000, but it stands on land worth £3,000,000. Not long ago land in this neighborhood was sold at the rate of £2,000,000 an acre.

"The Bank of England would probably fetch £4,000,000 in the market, but as there is always £20,000,000 worth of gold in the cellars its standing value is about £24,000,000. Go westward over Holborn viaduct and remember that that short stretch of highway is worth over £3,000,000. You would want nearly £2,000,000 to buy the general postoffice, which you have just passed, and the law courts, with the land on which they stand, are worth £2,500,000.

"Walk along the Strand and stand for five minutes on Waterloo bridge. The property you are here would make dozens of your friends millionaires at a stroke. Two million pounds would not buy those two hotels, and Somerset House, at building cost only, is good for £500,000. The bridge you are standing on was a disastrous failure when it was built, but it is worth now more than the £1,000,000 which it originally cost. There are seven bridges on either side of you, which cost between them over £4,000,000. The tunnels underneath the river are worth millions as a commercial property, and the embankment is now worth probably double the £2,000,000 which it cost to make.

"If St. Paul's were private property, you might induce the owner to sell it for £10,000,000, but the likelihood is very remote. Those tattered banners which you have seen so often would arouse pretty keen bidding at the sales, and if you got one for £10,000 you might think yourself extremely lucky. Westminster abbey is difficult to value. It is one of those things that cannot be bought, but the sales give us some idea what historic treasures are worth in the market, and I should not be surprised if the abbey—put up in lots—realised £50,000,000. Fancy putting a ticket on Jacob's pillar or the royal tombs!

"You have admired the magnificent exterior of the houses of parliament and the splendid interior, but you will perhaps be surprised to know that you could not erect these buildings today for £5,000,000. St. Thomas' hospital, and the Albert embankment running along the front of it, are worth together over £1,000,000, and the bridge leading to it cost £350,000.

"Perhaps you have never reflected what a privilege you enjoy in being able to visit so many places free. The British museum, which anybody can see for nothing, could not be bought up by all the millionaires in America. If it were absolutely empty, it would be worth £1,500,000, and it is full of priceless treasures, one collection alone being worth nearly £250,000. The National gallery is worth millions. It cost, with the new Tate gallery section, £250,000 to build, and has one picture which cost £14 an inch and 38 others which cost £1,700 apiece.

"The Albert hall and Royal aquarium are each worth about £250,000, but the Crystal palace cost more than three times the value of both these, the bill for the palace being £1,500,000. Earl's court, the great show rivaling the palace, has millions' worth of treasures which you can see for 1 shilling, and even when it is empty the 35 acres of gardens and buildings are worth £300,000.

"The hotels and public houses of London could not be bought up for £30,000,000, to say nothing of the land on which they stand. Two of them pay £450 a week between them in ground rent. Buckingham palace is not very gorgeous, but it is worth £4,000,000 as it stands, and if you wanted to rent it privately you would have to pay £4,000 a week for it. Devonshire House and Lansdowne House, in Piccadilly, would cost you £1,000,000, but you would not expect the picture galleries thrown in at this price. They are worth hundreds of thousands."—London Tit-Bits.

A CURIOUS POCKET PIECE.

How Railroad Engineers Transform Nickels Into Buttons or Spheres.

A Union Pacific engineer has a fashion of making unique pocket pieces for his friends. He runs a passenger engine west, and when oiling previous to a run he drops a nickel 5 cent piece into the brass oil cup on the crosshead of the piston rod. His run is 200 miles. When he reaches his destination, he unscrews the top of the oil cup and takes the nickel out. It has been metamorphosed into a curious little button with an evenly turned rim, within which on the one side is the countersunk head of Liberty, divested of her stars, and on the other side the V and the wreath. The edge of the crown is as perfect as if it had been moulded on an anvil by an expert silversmith.

The perfection of this is due to the even vibration the coin has been subjected to. The motion of the piston is horizontal, and it travels 48 inches, back and forth, with every revolution of the wheels. The interior of the oil cup is round, and the edges of the nickel as it travels back and forth in the oil striking the sides of the cup, are turned over and pounded into perfect roundness. Sometimes a nickel is left in the cup during the round trip, or 600 miles. When taken out, it is a nickel bullet, a perfect polished sphere. Who discovered this unique method of turning the edges of a nickel is not known, but many engineers know of it.—Tacoma Ledger.

Foretold the Wheel.

"There is no new thing under the sun." We hardly expected to find that Dr. Johnson approved on so up to date a subject as cycling, yet such is the fact, as the following extract will show, says an English paper:

Mr. Ferguson told him of a newly invented machine which went without horses. The man who sat in it turned a handle, which worked a spring that drove it forward. "Then, sir," said Johnson, "what is gained is, the man has his choice whether he will move himself alone or himself and the machine too."—Boswell, Year 1769, Page 207 of Globe Edition.

A NIGHT SONG.

Under the white moon, Nita,
The lilies lie awake,
And rest all tired of flower and bud,
And all for your sweet sake,
The eager rose o'erleaps the close
And climbs the spicy-mossed wall
To hide his face in the drifts of lace
That over your lattice fall.

The dead sweet scent of the woodbine
Some languid breeze hath stirred,
And out of the dark, dew-haunted park
Floats the pipe of a restless bird,
And far and faint the gurgle and plaint
Of the wood brook sounds alone
As I listen and pine for some answering sign,
Some whisper of thine, my own!

I lie with the lilies, Nita,
Under thy lattice bars,
And the infinite night brims over
With the glory of moon and stars,
And the wooing woodbine's passionate scents
Out of the darkness blows
And faints and dies with the mingled sighs
Of perfumed lily and rose.

Yet rest thee, my beloved, since
No prayer of mine may win
The crystal walls of slumber
That shut thee softly in.
But, oh, that the mystic angel
Who keepeth the pearly key
Of sleep would open some door of dreams
And lead thee, sweet, to me!

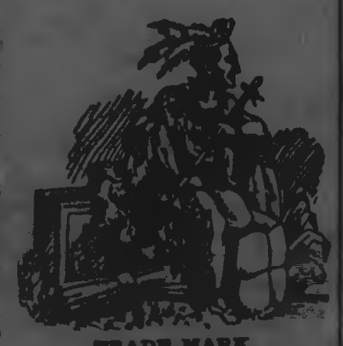
SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC



TRADE MARK.

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or ten bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I had lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says:—"I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for Erysipelas or Neuralgia."

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says:—"Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since."

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

"You have admired the magnificent exterior of the houses of parliament and the splendid interior, but you will perhaps be surprised to know that you could not erect these buildings today for £5,000,000. St. Thomas' hospital, and the Albert embankment running along the front of it, are worth together over £1,000,000, and the bridge leading to it cost £250,000.

"Perhaps you have never reflected what a privilege you enjoy in being able to visit so many places free. The British museum, which anybody can see for nothing, could not be bought up by all the millionaires in America. If it were absolutely empty, it would be worth £1,500,000, and it is full of priceless treasures, one collection alone being worth nearly £250,000. The National gallery is worth millions. It cost, with the new Tate gallery section, £350,000 to build, and has one picture which cost £14 an inch and 38 others which cost £1,700 apiece.

"The Albert hall and Royal aquarium are each worth about £250,000, but the Crystal palace cost more than three times the value of both these, the bill for the palace being £1,500,000. Earl's court, the great show rivaling the palace, has millions' worth of treasures which you can see for 1 shilling, and even when it is empty the 25 acres of gardens and buildings are worth £800,000.

"The hotels and public houses of London could not be bought up for £20,000,000, to say nothing of the land on which they stand. Two of them pay £450 a week between them in ground rent. Buckingham palace is not very gorgeous, but it is worth £4,000,000 as it stands, and if you wanted to rent it privately you would have to pay £4,000 a week for it. Devonshire House and Lansdowne House, in Piccadilly, would cost you £1,000,000, but you would not expect the picture galleries thrown in at this price. They are worth hundreds of thousands."—London Tit-Bits.

A CURIOUS POCKET PIECE.

How Railroad Engineers Transform Nickels Into Buttons or Spheres.

A Union Pacific engineer has a fashion of making unique pocket pieces for his friends. He runs a passenger engine west, and when oiling previous to a run he drops a nickel 5 cent piece into the brass oil cup on the crosshead of the piston rod. His run is 800 miles. When he reaches his destination, he unscrews the top of the oil cup and takes the nickel out. It has been metamorphosed into a curious little button with an evenly turned rim, within which on the one side is the countersunk head of Liberty, divested of her stars, and on the other side the V and the wreath. The edge of the crown is as perfect as if it had been pounded on an anvil by an expert silversmith.

The perfection of this is due to the even vibration the coin has been subjected to. The motion of the piston is horizontal, and it travels 48 inches, back and forth, with every revolution of the wheels. The interior of the oil cup is round, and the edges of the nickel as it travels back and forth in the oil striking the sides of the cup, are turned over and pounded into perfect roundness. Sometimes a nickel is left in the cup during the round trip, or 600 miles. When taken out, it is a nickel bullet, a perfect polished sphere. Who discovered this unique method of turning the edges of a nickel is not known, but many engineers know of it.—Tacoma Ledger.

Foretold the Wheel.

"There is no new thing under the sun." We hardly expected to find that Dr. Johnson aphorizes on so up to date a subject as cycling, yet such is the fact, as the following extract will show, says an English paper:

Mr. Ferguson told him of a newly invented machine which went without horses. A man who sat in it turned a handle, which worked a spring that drove it forward. "Then, sir," said Johnson, "what is gained is, the man has his choice whether he will move himself alone or himself and the machine too."—Boswell, Year 1769, Page 207 of Globe Edition.

A NIGHT SONG.

Under the white moon, Nita,
The lilies lie awake,
And red as blood in flower and bud,
And all for your sweet sake,
The eager rose o'erleaps the close
And climbs the columned wall
To hide his face in the drifts of lace
That over your lattice fall.

The dead sweet scent of the woodbine
Some languid breeze hath stirred,
And out of the dark, dew haunted park
Floats the pine of a restless bird,
And far and faint the gurgle and plaint
Of the wood brook sounds alone
As I listen and pine for some answering sign,
Some whisper of thine, my own!

I lie with the lilies, Nita,
Under thy lattice bars,
And the infinite night brims over
With the glory of moon and stars,
And the wooing woodbine's passionate spice
Out of the darkness blows
And faints and dies with the mingled sighs
Of perfumed lily and rose.

Yet rest thee, my beloved, since
No prayer of mine may win
The crystal walls of slumber
That shut thee softly in.
But, oh, that the mystic angel
Who keepeth the pearly key
Of sleep would open some door of dreams
And lead thee, sweet, to me!

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Robson Brown, of Valetta, July 28th, 1891, says:—

"I am sorry under the circumstances to write to you, but I feel it my duty, as I have been troubled with Dyspepsia for years, took dollars' worth of medicine and pills, but got no relief until I commenced taking your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I think I have taken 8 or ten bottles in all, and I feel as if I have got a new lease of life, I feel so much better. I was in the habit of keeping a bottle in the house so when costive I would take a dose or two with instant relief. Now I am troubled with costive spells very often, and it was the only medicine that gave me instant relief. It seems as if I had lost my best friend. Now I would like to hear from you by return mail, as I would like to have a bottle as soon as possible.

Mrs. H. Palmer, of Ridgetown, Ont., says:—"I was afflicted for a number of years with Erysipelas and Neuralgia in my face, and one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me entirely, and I would recommend it to others, either for Erysipelas or Neuralgia."

Mrs. Henry Hale, of Blenheim, Ont., says:—"Sloan's Indian Tonic cured me of Malarial Fever and Chills and Neuralgia. When I was down sick in bed I purchased a bottle of the Tonic and it cured me entirely, and I have not been troubled with Fever or Neuralgia since."

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORN IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

FAIRWEATHER & Co

THE CHIEF OF POLICE WAS EXHONERATED.

amongst those things you are not given power to subpœna witnesses or take evidence under oath, without which the investigation would prove a farce. We do no propose to become a party to any such theatrical affair. The parties who are laying the charges have not been injured in any way. I do not appear here with the good will of a single hotel keeper. Of two seen one had advised strongly against proceeding with the charges The charges are brought by parties not in any way connected with hotels. We are in the position that requires us to bring adverse witnesses, and not five out of the hundred needed will appear voluntarily. They will have to be paid before their attendance can be secured, as either through fear or some other cause they refuse to give testimony. Therefore we will have to have some proper tribunal to compel these men to come forward, and if they refuse to do so, or commit perjury, we will then be in a position to prosecute them. To illustrate the large number of witnesses required I will give some of the details of one charge. Some time ago the Chief gave a boy money to buy cigarettes, knowing that he was under sixteen, which was then the age set by statute in the matter. The boy went to Legros', and said that the Chief had sent him. He was given 50 cents by Legros for giving the information. He told the same story at Gordon's, and got 25 cents. He went to Ray's and of the shop. The lad looked much older than his years. He went to Clegg's and was put out. At Morgan's he was asked if he was over sixteen, and he said he was. He got the cigarettes told his story, and was given a quarter. He then went back to the Chief and said he could get no cigarettes, and was told to keep the money. This was the story told me, and if it is true—

WAS KICKED OUT

Councillor Neill—Have you declarations that this is true?

Mr. Stratton—No; as I have said, it is just what has been told me by my clients. I may be misinformed, but it should be cleared up.

Mr. Denniston—Do you state that this did not take place three years ago?

Mr. Stratton—I am not here for cross-examination, but am simply giving this example to show the number of witnesses which will be required in this case. I am instructed that these statements are substantially true. The Chief, it is alleged, has admitted before Mr. Fowler and Mr. Morgan that he gave the boy money. Quite a number of the council have expressed themselves one way or another in this matter, and no person accustomed to judicial procedure would advise prosecution before a tribunal which had shown an animus towards either party before the trial. If the Chief was not guilty, he should have the benefit of an unprejudiced tribunal. Further, we want this case to be brought before a judge who is accustomed to weigh evidence. There would be conflicting testimony, and we wish it to be sifted by a person competent to weigh evidence and know what is proper evidence. In a case like this, which is very grave for the Chief, as if proven, there would be no other case but to dismiss him, the matter should be referred to the County Judge, as he is the man appointed by statute. He is given the powers invested in a judge of the High Court. I submit that it would be wrong to compel a person to stand trial on such serious charges except before a competent tribunal. The witnesses of my clients are adverse. They will not appear except under compulsion. Whilst you have considerable power, you have not the power to issue a subpœna, or in case of default, to commit to gaol for contempt, so it would be nothing but a farce to attempt to prove these charges in the face of witnesses, whom the prosecution could not bring except by compulsion. When you directed Mr. McNairn to appear with his witnesses, you directed something which you had no means of compelling.

We received last night a list of charges signed by Mr. McNairn and the council decided that they disclosed no evidence sufficient to put the Chief on trial and moved that Stratton & Hall supply particulars of the charges. They had paid no attention to this request and I therefore claim that there are no charges before the council to be dealt with. The council should know that there are responsible citizens who make these charges in good faith and should ask Mr. Stratton to disclose the names of his clients, as he appears here simply as their solicitor.

The documents contains no charges that should necessitate an investigation. The Judge would refuse to try the Chief on the charge of perjury as the offence is governed by the law of the country and should be brought before another tribunal. Mr. Stratton has given some particulars about one charge and only one, I think therefore, we can safely assume there is but one charge of which he is in possession of particulars. Concerning this one the Chief says the boy came to him and stated that he could obtain cigarettes and offering his services, was given ten cents. Shortly afterwards he came back and said he was not able to get them and was then told to keep the ten cents. The Chief is prepared to take oath that he never at any other time gave any children money to do any such thing as charged. Even if true, this constitutes no offence for which he should be tried and he is now prepared to state that the boy was told to go to LeGros and nowhere else. The Chief admits this. There is no one more willing to court investigation than he and I ask you, gentlemen, to throw these charges out and in so doing exonerate him and if you do not see your way clear to do this, then sift the matter before a proper tribunal. The police commissioners in other places refused to deal with any charge of perjury. McNairn said last night he would have his witnesses here so that we could go on with the one charge anyway.

Mayor Yelland—In reference to what Mr. Stratton said about this not being a proper tribunal, I would like to say that the highest tribunal in the land is a jury of twelve.

Mr. Stratton—But you cannot summon witnesses.

Mayor Yelland—We don't want to go into law.

Councillor Neill—I move we take up the first charge. If the council won't pay the witnesses, I will.

Councillor Neil and Deane then moved that Mr. McNairn be heard.

Mr. Stratton—I appear for Mr. McNairn, and object to have the case taken up (1) on the ground that the council is not the proper tribunal; (2) that they have no power to summon witnesses; (3) that the witnesses in the case are adverse, and we cannot get them except under compulsion; (4) that it would be unfair to force the prosecution to open its case and only proceed with one charge, and then close to go on again some time in the future. Further, if any false evidence is given, there is no power to deal with the matter, and it would be farcical under the circumstances to go on.

Councillor Neill—I move that this be closed out and we exonerate the Chief.

It was then moved by Councillors Dawson and Cobb, "That this Committee report to the Council that the charges laid against Chief of Police Rossel have not been sustained, and that the Chief is exonerated from deserving censure in connection with any of the charges."

The motion was carried.

Before the Committee adjourned, Mr. Denniston pointed out that there were two sides to every question—it had been charged that the Chief had persecuted certain hotels, whereas by statute if he refused to prosecute, after receiving information, he would himself be liable to a fine of ten dollars. He was willing to swear that he had never instituted proceedings until information had been lodged.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Suggestions as to What Would be Welcome.

The holiday spirit is here. News from Santa Claus has been received by Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men, whose exhaustless stock and spacious well lighted store affords unsurpassed opportunities for a unique display of Christmas gifts, as well as for pleasant shopping. No part of this great store is without its special preparations. Presents for all, from Grandpa to baby. No matter how much better you think you are going to do by buying your Christmas giveables somewhere else, don't let go your money until you have seen Gough Bros—so says Santa Claus:

ARCTIC CIRCLE, Dec. 21, 1897.

My Dear Gough Bros:

My new travelling machine, which I have christened "Gough," is made especially for this trip to the Wonderful Cheap Men of Peterborough; and is the greatest hustler we have seen since electricity was invented. I would like you to get it patented for me at Peterborough as soon as I arrive. The big white bear and seals that tackled me so often other years, have no show against me this trip. Tell your mayor that I want exemption from the Transient Traders' Bylaw of the town, as I expect the freedom of your city during my visit to Gough Bros. Give my love to the little kids, and accept some yourself.

I remain,
Your faithful old friend,
SANTA CLAUS.

P.S.—I send you a few suggestions for the benefit of Santa Claus shoppers in Peterborough:—

Give grandpa a big, cosy storm ulster, to shield him from draught and cold, and get it at Goughs'.

Or give him a pair of Arctic overshoes to keep his old feet warm, and get them at Goughs'.

Give grandma a snug pair of those wool and felt slippers for the house, and get them at Goughs'.

Give father a warm house coat to take his comfort in while he ponders over his evening newspaper as he toasts his feet at the fire, and get it at Gough's.

Or give him a fur cap or a fur coat for the coldest days of February and get it at Gough's.

Give mother a dressy pair of kid laced shoes, a pair of fancy worked slippers, with pointed toes, and get them at Gough's.

Or give her a pair of wool lined felt gaiters, and get them at Gough's.

Give brother a dress-suit, if you would wish to be held in pleasant memory every time he makes a holiday call, and get it at Gough's.

Or give him a silk muffler for his throat or a few of those pretty Roman stripped or plaid scarfs or ties, and get them at Gough's.

Give sister a pair of those elegant pink slippers, with bows on the toes—the best is none too good for her—and get them at Gough's.

Or, give her a pair of skating boots, light soled and warm lined, and be sure to add a season ticket for the rink, and get them at Gough's.

Give the boys all an overcoat apiece, or an ulster or pea jackets. Be sensible and make them not only happy but proof against this zero weather. If Gough is selling at "half price," as they usually do at this season, most parents can afford to go all over the boys with warm things—God bless the boys!—and get them at Goughs.

All in a Nut Shell!

While all this strong talk about the Mayoralty and Holiday Nuts is going on, we want to have it distinctly understood that Messrs. Oke & Co. are the only genuine importers of Walnuts, Filberts, Dates, Figs, Grapes and other foreign and domestic fruits. N. B.—If you want a pure and unadulterated article of tea, that has been imported direct from the land of, its growth, and neither doctored nor mixed by middle men—Oke & Co. have it that way.

THE NAME THAT CUTS ICE DECEMBER 25th IS

SANTA CLAUS.

Accompanied by Kris Kringle and his numerous Brownee Helpers, and the Entire Holiday Management, His Arctic Highness will be "AT HOME" at GOUGH BROS., The Wonderful Cheap Men, all this week. Until Saturday Morning at One o'clock he will hold HIGH CARNIVAL in every department of this Big Store—when a breeze from the Arctic Ocean steals through the open door, then suddenly away he rushes, with a jolly mischievous roar!

EVERYBODY is invited to join the CHRISTMAS CARNIVAL at GOUGH BROS., and get an introduction to Mr. Claus. We are freighted with Gifts and Messages from Wonderland to FILL THE CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS.

But we have no time now to go into particulars—no time now to tell you all about our Fine Ulsters, Overcoats and Suits, Our New Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Our Cosy Felt Overshoes, Rubbers and Stylish Slippers, Our Swell Neckwear, Underwear and Nobby Furnishings. In the meantime, we advise all the Boys, all the Young Men and Women—and all the Old Folk, to make good use of the Precious time left—for this will be the most Wonderful, the most Phenomenal Price Splitting Week of Gough's Crowning Year.

CARD.—To our troops of friends all over the Town and County of Peterborough we send forth our Annual Greeting—wishing one and all a Merry Christmas, and may the New Years' sun shine upon you with double brightness.

.... AT ....

ROBT. FAIR'S.

During our Quick Reduction Sale before Christmas perhaps there's no department in our store where the Reduction will be more sweeping than in MANTLES AND JACKETS.

Last winter when we were closing out our matchless stock of Coats, &c., we did not hesitate to mark $12 and $15 garments at $5 and $6, in order to keep none over for another year. We propose this season to hew just as close to the line—let the loss be what it may. It sometimes pays to lose. A loss now accepted will enable us to clear out our whole stock in this department in a short time. Here are some of these Mantle Sacrifices:—

FOR $5 00 A lot of Ladies' German Tweed Coats, perfect fitting garments, formerly sold at $8.50.

FOR $6 25 A lot of Tailor-made German Coats, well finished, formerly sold at $10.

FOR $6 50 Ladies' Stylish Rough Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold at $12.50.

FOR $4.00 Ladies' Black Frieze Cloth Coats, formerly sold for $6.50

FOR $8 50 Ladies' Black Golf Capes, Lined with black and white checks, formerly sold for $12.50.

FOR $7.50 Ladies Coloured Golf Capes, formerly sold at $9.50.

The balance of our Misses and Children's Jackets are also all reduced on a par with the above changed figures ranging at $4, $4.50, $4.75 and $5, or about $2 to $2.50 off former selling prices.

This is the way we have of keeping our Stock fresh. There is no reason why the Handsome and Useful should not combine in Holiday presents.

"Honours" means one half in each subject, and 70 per cent. of the total.

"Passed" mean one-third in each subject and 50 per cent of the total.

In higher classes low marks are in some cases due to absence on account of sickness, of which there has been a great deal in the past two months.

School re-opens Monday, Jan. 3, 1898. It is hoped all pupils will be present as the work will at once be arranged for the term.

Pupils have been given a list of books required, and are to come ready for a full day's work on Jan. 3rd.

Pupils who fail to procure necessary books may be denied admittance to their classes or refused promotion until they do so, as teachers cannot be expected to advance pupils who have not the necessary books with which to prepare their lessons.

Council Meeting.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The council of the above township met on Dec 18th, at one o'clock. All the members were present, the reeve, Mr J McIntosh, presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The following communications were presented:

From Denistoun Peck Stevenson re damage to Mr F Prentice from passing of water on his property.—Received.

From Jos Hopkins, asking to be allowed to clear the highway of stumps and trees near Gibb's Hill.—Granted.

Mr F Wilson appeared and addressed the council re deviation on the Cavan boundary.

From the secretary of the Dominion Alliance enclosing a petition re License Law amendments.—Received.

Accounts were presented as follows:

Rev J C Davidson, conveyance of Mary Chase
Orillia Asylum	$ 7 80
Hatton & Wood	2 00
A McDonald	3 17
Dr Greer	7 00
Geo Leakie	10 00
J Brown	2 50
J A Armstrong	1 50
W Bell	00
J Grady	00
John T Lillico	1 00
G W Bennett	7 25

The following reports of commissioners were read:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit a statement of accounts as received from various sources for work that was necessary since our last meeting. Same has been properly certified and orders have been issued in payment therefor:

T A Redner	$ 4 00
China Hall	2 10
P Connal & Co	4 35
R Fair	4 35
Geo Matthews Co	2 00
J A Armstrong	2 00
W Anderson	2 00

And also in accordance with your instructions I employed Wm West to break the stones on the road east from the windmill, the amount for which is $3 50.

The account of Jas M Davidson as referred to the Board of Health at the last meeting I again refer to this council, as at a meeting of the Board called there was no quorum, and no action was taken with regard to the account.

The following gravel certificates have been filed by the road commissioners and paid: Jas Patton by D Galloway, $4; S G Bennett by J J Bennett, $16.70. All of which is respectfully submitted for your approval.

JOHN McINTOSH,
Reeve.

To the Reeve and Gentlemen:

Sir,—In accordance with your appointment your committee have let by public auction to-day the following jobs: Bridge at Erskine ave. to W Anderson for $10; culvert at Thompson's, another at J Armstrong's, and another at J Johnston's, to W J Hall for $46. Both contractors have satisfactorily completed their work, and I have certified to the same, and orders have been issued in payment. I also employed F Brewer to break the stones on the gravel road near lot 4 at a cost of $2. I do not deem it expedient to expend any money upon the construction of crib work at Park street at this time of the year. All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. HUNTER,
Chairman.

To the Reeve and Gentlemen:

According to your instructions I let the digging of a drain on the 13 con. near Mr. Foulsome's to Mr. Jackson's. This work has been performed but I find that the drain is not sufficient to satisfactorily carry off the water and would recommend a culvert also to be put in at the same place. The cost of digging the drain is $8.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) T. E. Bradburn.

The clerk read the following report on the work done by the road grader gang and by the road commissioner during the year:

Gentlemen:

In accordance with your instructions, I have completed a statement from the report of supplies from time to time by the foreman of the road grader gang and also from the time sheets and pay lists of the several highway commissioners. I may say that in this statement the number of rods of grading is approximate throughout the township and although not exact, nearly so.

The total number of days' grading is thirty-seven and a half, to this was added as various times when the condition required extra aid, to the amount of $60. The total outlay on grading was $261.20. The total number of rods of roads graded was 2240 or about 7½ miles, covering the cost at about $34.10 per mile. This includes about 2½ miles upon the Cavan boundary at a cost of $70.78, each township bearing a proportionate part of the cost which of course reduces the cost per mile to some extent.

In road district No. 1 there were certificates filed for 668 yards of gravel at a cost of $27.85 and the pay list shows in this division that the sum of $56.40 was expended in drawing, filling, etc., thus making a cost per yard spread upon the road of about 25 cents. In this calculation there is included 2 yards taken from the township pit, which although costing something does not nearly reach the cost of that taken from private pits, and if reckon at 10 cents per yard would increase the cost to 25 cents per yard.

In Road District No. 2 the number of certificates filed showed the number of yards to be 480, at a cost of $20 00, and the sum of $36.10 expended in filling and fronting would make a cost per yard of about 20 cents. In this division there was also 200 yards taken from the township pit, which if reckoned at 10 cents per yard would increase the cost to about 23 cents per yard.

In District No. 3 there were 157 yards of gravel drawn, costing $15.70, and an expenditure in filling, etc., of $28.80, less a cost per yard of 10 cents.

There were in this division 250 loads of earth and stone drawn, at a cost of $10, which with outlay of $27.50 for hauling would make a cost per load, spread on the road, of 15 cents. I also enclose an extract from the time book of the foreman on the grader showing the number of days grading on the boundary to be nine and cost $70.78.

All of which I respectfully submit.

GEO. W. BENNET,
Clerk.

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value in my case. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I

Business Now Takes the Place of Talk.

MOORE COMMISSION FINDS FRAUD

The Premier Tells Mr. St. John and the House All About It—Municipal Auditing—Second Readings—The Public Accounts—Conservative Caucus—Mr. Gamey is Ill Again.

Toronto, Dec. 23.—The proceedings in the Legislature yesterday afternoon were not of a spirited nature. Mr. St. John asked a question with reference to the Moore Lumber Co., which was answered by the Premier, after which several private bills were advanced a stage, and the House then went into Committee of Supply, when considerable progress was made upon the estimates.

The Moore Lumber Co.

Hon. Mr. Hardy, answering Mr. St. John, said investigations into the operations of the Moore Lumber Co. had been held at Parry Sound, Huntsville, Toronto, Detroit, Trout Creek and Burk's Falls, and a report made by the Commissioners June 3, 1895. The Commissioners were John A. Barron, Q.C, and J. B. McWilliams, Crown Timber Agent at Peterboro. The conclusion of the Commissioners was that logs had been cut and taken in addition to those properly accounted for. The Commissioners were of the opinion that Peter Sheehan, a culler of the company employed at the lumber camp, kept two different return books containing memoranda of the logs said to have been cut, in which, or in one of which, false entries were made. Sheehan fled from Canada after the discovery. The Commissioners reported they had no evidence before them to warrant the conclusion that Mr. Fleming, the head of the company, had suspected the state of affairs as reported until the fall of 1894 and after all the fraud had been committed. The Commissioners were of the opinion 10,861,616 feet of lumber and 4,851,191 feet of mill culls had been cut and taken and had not been accounted for. A settlement, after considerable negotiation, was arrived at by the payment of $10,861.61 upon the part of the company and the costs of the investigation, $696.

Municipal Auditing.

Mr. Haycock moved the second reading of his bill to provide for the better auditing of municipal accounts. It provides that auditors shall be appointed during the month of November or December and shall be permanent officers as in cities. It also provides that treasurers making payments to other municipalities shall send a statement of such payment to the head of the municipality receiving the payment; it also requires registrars of the municipalities to send statements of amounts paid in the same manner as treasurers. He said the passage of the bill would prevent defalcations, and that had there been such a law upon the statute books years ago, many a good Canadian would not now be in exile.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said the bill was an excellent measure. It was an enlargement of the Audit Act of last year and should be sent to the Municipal Committee, where it might be incorporated with the Audit Act. The bill would prevent defalcations. The bill passed its second reading and was sent on to the Municipal Committee.

Second Readings.

These bills were read a second time:—To incorporate the Canadian Consolidated Copper and Nickel Company.—Mr. Biggar.

Respecting the Shebandowan Mining Company, and incorporating the True Shebandowan Gold Mining Company, (Limited).—Mr. German.

Respecting the Consolidated Debt of the Town of Cobourg, and for other purposes.—Mr. Field.

Respecting the Railway Debenture Debt of the Township of Amabel.—Mr. McNaughton.

Respecting the Sisters of St. Joseph for the Diocese of Toronto in Upper Canada.—Mr. McKee.

Repecting By-law No. 205 of the Town of Rat Portage.—Mr. Conmee.

Respecting the Hamilton and Dundas Street Railway Company.—Mr. Flatt.

To consolidate the Floating Debt of the Town of North Bay.—Mr. Loughrin.

Respecting the Sydenham Glass Company of Wallaceburg (Limited).—Mr. Pardo.

The Public Accounts.

The Public Accounts Committee began business with a rush yesterday, and Mr. William Charlton was elected president by the largest number of members ever in attendance at such a committee. At once there was a request for the presentation of twelve accounts.

Mr. St. John has been this session added to the commjttee, so next Wednesday the piggery question will be taken up.

Mr. Garrow, a Government member, asked that Drs. Smith, Sweetapple, Messrs. Warner, Harris, appear to testify.

Mr. St. John asked that Messrs. F. Newton, William Newton, F. Dunn, R. Hunter, Thomas Whitehead, and D. Moore be asked to give evidence.

Conservative Caucus.

The Conservatives met in caucus yesterday and discussed the holiday question. They believe that the object of the Government in holding a session next week is in order to hold elections the last week in February. For this reason obstruction practices may be resorted to. No amendment will be urged to the motion to go into Supply this afternoon.

Mr. Gamey Ill Again.

Mr. Gamey, the oldest member in the House, after a serious illness, returned to Parliament last week. Yesterday he was taken ill when entering the Chamber, and to-day went back to his house. He will never return to Parliament again.

WAS HE MURDERED?

Some Somerville Township People Think That Was Young Lee's Fate—A Preliminary Trial.

Lindsay, Ont., Dec. 23.—The public are familiar with such details as have come to light concerning the fatal shooting of the young man Thomas Lee, in Somerville Township, on the 9th of November last. The father of the dead boy and some of the neighbors were not satisfied with the evidence given at the coroner's inquest by John Luff, who was with deceased at the time of the shooting, and they appealed to the proper authorities for an investigation, the result being that on the strength of the representations made County Magistrate Deacon issued a warrant for young Luff on a charge of murder. He was arrested on Tuesday of last week by County Constable Short, and was remanded till today. This morning the case was formally taken up before Magistrate Deacon, Mr. Devlin appearing for the Crown and Mr. Steers for the prisoner.

Edward Lee, jr., said he lived with his father, Thomas Lee, on lot 71, front range, Somerville Township. John Luff lived on lot 68, same range. On Nov. 9, about 8 o'clock in the morning, he went out hunting with his brother Thomas, the deceased. He told me to go one way and he would go the other, while my brothers, John and Caleb, were to go to the railway. I went north and he went south. It was about 10 o'clock when I got back to the house. On my way I crossed my brother's tracks in the snow going west towards the spot where we had agreed to meet. I learned of my brother's death from John Luff. He came to the house about 10.30 and said: "Tom is dead!" When I got to the place I found my brother dead. The body was lying with the neck and shoulders across a pole. The head and shoulders would be 15 inches off the ground. He was lying on his back. From the position of the rifle and the body it would be impossible for my brother to have shot himself. The wound was behind his right ear, and the bullet came out on the left side. The hair was a little scorched.

After some further evidence as to the finding of deceased and his clothes and gun, etc., the father, with the consent of the Crown Attorney, asked for an adjournment to Coboconk to procure additional witnesses on a date to be fixed by the court.

Arbitration Costs Money.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Representative Johnson, of North Dakota, has furnished the Congressional Record with an interesting statement of what it cost the United States Government to make an unsuccessful claim for damages before the Paris tribunal on the seal fisheries. According to Mr. Johnson's statement, Justice Harlan, of the Supreme Court, received $12,000, and Senator Morgan, of Alabama, received $12,875, as arbitrators. As counsel, James C. Carter was paid $20,000, E. J. Phelps $21,000, Henry W. Blodgett $12,500, and Frederic R. Coudert $15,400. As agent, John W. Foster received $15,000. Over $106,000 was paid for lawyers' fees alone. The total cost to the United States Government was $294,514. The original bills presented called for a much larger sum, but were scaled down by the Auditors of the Treasury to the sums mentioned, which were allowed.

Weak Nerves.

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. "My nerves were completely unstrung,' says Mrs. H. Church, Caledonia, Ont.; "and palpitation, loss of memory and shortness of breath troubled me greatly. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

Toronto, Dec. 22.—In order to handle the heavy traffic to the Klondike in the spring, the C.P.R. has made arrangements for the building of three large stern wheelers, to be used on the Yukon River. The steamers will be built in this city and the contractors will be kept busy getting them ready for delivery to the owners by April 1. Toronto, Dec. 23.—Private Stewart, of the 48th Highlanders, champion of the world, secured a decisive victory over Sergt.-Major Morgans, of the Royal Grenadiers, the 12-years champion of America, last night at Massey Hall before a large assemblage of enthusiastic spectators. Only two bouts were required, although near the close it looked as if Morgans would win the second engagement.

After Typhoid Fever.

"After I had typhoid fever kidney troubles ensued. I had terrible pains in my back, head and shoulders, and felt tired, drowsy and dragged out and had annoying urinary troubles. I have grown daily better since I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills. I have no pains of any kind, sleep well, feel rested; and the urinary troubles have completely disappeared." J. W. Douglas, Port Hope.

THE PERJURY CASES.

The Change of Venue From Orangeville to Brampton Invalid—The Prisoners Out on Bail Now.

Brampton, Dec. 22.—The court opened yesterday morning at 9.30, and the whole morning was taken up in legal reference to the validity of the order changing the venue from Dufferin to Peel. Mr. Johnston contended that the order is not valid on account of no provision being made for the additional costs occasioned by such change of venue.

The judge adjourned to look up the law in regard to the matter at noon.

This was sprung on the Crown in a very unexpected manner and was a great surprise to them.

The same objection was taken on behalf of the prisoner Coleman, who was found guilty by the jury last night, Mr. Johnston contending that he could take this objection at any stage of the trial, even after the jury's finding was recorded.

On resuming at 1.30 in the afternoon, His Honor sustained the objection raised by Mr. Johnston on behalf of defence in the morning, virtually holding that under the defective order made by His Honor Judge Macbrady, transferring the cases to this county, he had no jurisdiction to try the prisoners. The prisoner Hamilton was therefore released from the dock, his bail holding good for his appearance at Orangeville.

The other prisoners, Small, Loudon and Sammons, were severally arraigned, but under the direction of Mr. Johnston refused to plead, and took the same objections to the jurisdiction of the court as was held in the Hamilton case.

On behalf of the prisoner Coleman, Mr. Johnston made an application for bail, contending that, although convicted, he had a right to the same privilege as the other prisoners, and to his liberty in the meantime on substantial bail being given.

The Crown urged the fact that owing to the prisoner's conviction he had no right to be released, even on bail, but His Honor ruled that in view of the reserved case granted at the opening of the Coleman trial as to the doubt in regard to his jurisdiction in the matter, he would grant bail. The bail was fixed at $4,000, the prisoner offering his bail for $2,000 and four other sureties of $500 each.

This ended one of the longest and most sensational sittings of the General Sessions of the Peace in the county.

At a late hour in the afternoon bail could not be secured for Coleman, so if he is unsuccessful he will have to stay in jail.

The confidence of the people in Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to its unequalled record of wonderful cures.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionised the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realising that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

The Christmas "Forester."

"The Canadian Forester," the official organ of the Canadian Order of Foresters, has caught the Christmas spirit and has issued a charming Christmas number. It has a finely designed emblematic title page, embracing the maple leaf, overprinted with the stag's head and bearing the legend descriptive of the chief aim of the order—"Protect the Widow and the Orphan." The title page also gives the information that the membership is 28,000 and the surplus $287,000 or about $21 per member. The Christmas number contains portraits and brief biographical sketches of the officers of the High Court and Executive Committee, among the latter being that of Mr. F. J. Jameson, of Peterborough, fourth member of the Executive. The Christmas number also contains a large amount of interesting information, setting forth the wonderful progress of the Canadian Order of Foresters since its organization nineteen years ago.

An Up-to-Date Girl.

It is quite apropos that an up-to-date girl should be associated with an up-to-date establishment like the Spot Cash Grocery of Blewett & Martin. In the north window a jaunty new girl, attired in navy blue knickers, with explosively loud checked stockings, automatically wags her pretty head, lifts her veil, "winks her other eye" as she audibly taps with her daintily gloved finger the plate glass, irresistibly attracting the pedestrian, working a "mash" on every young man that passes by and attracting no end of attention to the splendid display the window contains, suggestive of the large stock of first-class goods the Spot Cash Grocery contains. It is one of the most attractive window ornaments that can be seen, and don't fail to see it at Blewett & Martin's Spot Cash Grocery, where all the old staff of the former shop is retained. Customers of the Palace Grocery will find all the old faces, and new goods, at the Spot Cash Grocery, where the up-to-date girl sweetly ogles the passers by.

McALLISTER'S KENNELS.

A Pair of Grand Sable and White Collie Dogs Come to Peterborough.

Mr. C. B. McAllister has purchased the grand imported sable and white collie dog, "Melphis," also the young dog, "Mountain Chief," from H. P. Hungerford's collie kennels, of Belleville. "Melphis" is the collie dog so much admired at the Toronto Dog Show by "Kit," of the Toronto Mail.

Mr. Hungerford has brad a lot of crackerjacks, and Mr. McAllister is a fortunate man in securing two good ones. These grand collies will be exhibited at the Peterborough dog show.

Mr. McAllister is to be congratulated on acquiring such fine stock, which will do much to advance the interests of dog fanciers in Peterborough.

What to Buy for "Him."

One of the best things to buy for a man for a Christmas gift is something he would buy himself. A half-dozen of those small Parisian ties just received at LeBrun & Co's City Clothing Store, would suit him "down to the ground," as the saying goes. The fair sex have been buyers of these bright beauties of swell ties during the past week in considerable numbers. A silk muffler or a fine woollen neck scarf in bright or plain checks, will also be acceptable gifts, and LeBrun & Co. have a very nobby line full of them at close prices. sed

A Work of Fine Art.

"It's a beautiful thing," is the natural thought when one takes out of its cover the finely artistic Christmas card of the Canadian General Electric Company. Upon a background of iridescent cloud, pierced with shafts of electric light, rests the Canadian coat of arms, surmounted by the beaver resting on a draped table with the British flag draping the shield, and a cavalry helmet, officer's sword and maple leaves clustered round the base of the shield. At the bottom of the card is the legend: "The Canadian General Electric Company wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. This Christmas card is a gem of high voltage.

The Eleventh Hour.

The eleventh hour has arrived. You haven't much time to do your gift shopping before Christmas, but you have a very convenient store and a very select stock to pick from at Frank Schneider's, the jeweler. His window dispaly is a picture full of suggestions, and is unsurpassed for beauty and effectiveness. Everything is marvellously low in price, consistent with the reliable quality of the jewelry. Mr. Schneider does not select articles as leaders, but the price of every article in his store is a leader in good value. Fashionable clocks and elegant watches, diamond rings and other precious stones, pearls and pendants. All the latest novelties in desk and toilet articles in sterling silver and china, chains, fobs, brooches, lockets, pins, purses, belts, shirt and waist buttons, hair combs, studs and thimbles, souvenir spoons, tableware in silverplate, gold and silver-mounted ebony canes and many other appropriate gifts and jewelry suggestions too numerous to mention. The beauty and effectiveness of Mr. Schneider's window display is heightened by a large oil painting suspended from the ceiling, which forms a beautiful background for the glittering contents of the window. It is a charming picture in oil of a rural scene, with two peasant women in the foreground, backed by shrubbery and a winding road, at the turning of which the lover watches the retiring rustic beauty. The drawing is good, and the young artist, Miss Stella Schneider, a most promising pupil of Mr. D. A. Shaw, has handled the subject very effectively, indicating artistic temperament and good instruction.

A MONAGHAN WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Lizzie Fowler and Mr. Harry G. Webber.

A pretty but quiet wedding ceremony took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. John A. Fowler, North Monaghan, when his second youngest daughter, Miss Lizzie, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry G. Webber, eldest son of Mr. Geo. Webber, of the same township.

The bride looked very attractive in a fashionable green cloth travelling dress trimmed with braid. She was assisted by her sister, who was similiarly attired. The sweet little maid of honour was the bride's little neice, Annie White, who was prettily attired in pink. The groomsman was Mr. Herbert McKee, of Smith.

Rev. J. G. Potter, B. A., of St. Andrew's church, performed the ceremony, at the conclusion of which the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding dejeuner.

Amongst the many beautiful presents received was a handsome Bible—a gift to the groom from his friends in the Murray street Baptist Sunday school. It was accompanied by the following address:

To Mr. Harry Webber.—

DEAR SIR,—The friends and workers in the Sunday School of the Murray street Baptist church have much pleasure in recognizing the occasion of your approaching marriage, and take advantage of the opportunity of giving expression to their estimate of the active, faithful and successful work you have accomplished in promoting the interests of the school. We have always been able to count on your presence, and have always felt that you would be in your place. In recognition of such faithful service, and in commemoration of the occasion of your marriage, we desire to ask your acceptance of this Bible, which, from what we have seen, you will make the rule of your life, coupled with the wish that you may enjoy many happy years of wedded life, to be closed with the reward that is given to those who faithfully follow the Master.

Mr. and Mrs. Webber drove into town during the afternoon, and left for Toronto and the west on the 5.25 G. T. R. express.

BAILEY—MONGRAW.

The Marriage Nuptials Performed by Rev. O. C. Elliott.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, 221 George street last evening, when Ada May, eldest daughter of Mr. James Mongraw, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter H. Bailey of Norwood.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. C. Elliott, pastor of the Park street Baptist church, the bride being assisted by Miss Lavinia Bailey, sister of the groom, while Mr. Arthur Coon attended the groom.

After partaking of a sumptuous repast the happy couple left on the midnight train for Norwood, where they will reside in the future.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful; active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artizans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

CURLS.

Kissing her neck and clinging round her ears
Straying adown her brow as though to gaze
Into her violet eyes, a sunny maze
Of sunny curls lay in its sunny ayers.

Parted her lips, and all the world grew gay
To hear the music at the gates of pearl.
Dimpled her cheeks, and lo! each pretty curl,
Shaking with sunshine, made midwinter May.

And I, who sate within a dusty den,
Brooding o'er books and kissing withered flow'rs,
Forgot my love and all my lonely hours
And watched her curls and loved the world again.
—J. J. Bell in New Illustrated Magazine.

STEPHENETTE.

"While I was watching the animals in the Luberon country I was alone whole weeks in the pastures with my dog Labri and the flocks, without seeing a living soul. From time to time the hermit of the Mont de l'Ure would pass by looking for herbs, and occasionally I saw the black face of a Piedmontese charcoal burner. But they were simple folk, silent from habit and from having lost the taste for talking, and ignorant of what was going on below in the towns and villages. So every two weeks when I heard the mule bells coming up the road which wound up the mountain I was very joyful. Then the sprightly head of the little farm boy or old Aunt Norade's reddish headdress would appear over the hill, and with it would come my fortnightly provisions. I always made them tell me the news of the country below—about the baptisms, the marriages. But what interested me the most was hearing about the daughter of my master and mistress, our dear Mlle. Stephenette—the prettiest creature for miles around. Without seeming to take too much interest I found out how often she went to the fetes, or the evening festivals, or if she had any new lovers. If they asked what difference all that made to me, I replied that I was 20 years old and that Mlle. Stephenette was the most beautiful thing I had seen in all my life.

"Now, it happened on one of the Sundays the provisions which I had expected did not arrive until very late. In the morning when they did not come I said to myself, 'It is on account of high mass.' Then toward noon there came a great storm, and I thought that the bad condition of the roads must have kept the mule from starting. But at 3 o'clock, when the mountain glittered with the raindrops in the sunshine, I heard the mule bells mingling with the sound of dripping leaves and the roar of the swollen streams tearing down their banks—the mule bells as merry and as gay as the great chimes on an Easter morning. But it was not the little farm boy or old Norade.

"It was—guess who—our Mlle. Stephenette, my friends—our young lady herself, sitting there among the wicker bags, all pink from the mountain air, so refreshing now after the storm.

"The little fellow was ill. Aunt Norade was home with her children for a holiday. The lovely Stephenette had told me all this in alighting from the mule, and also that she was late because the beast had lost his way. But to see her so beautifully dressed in her Sunday clothes, with her flowered ribbons and her gay skirt and laces, she seemed to have come home late from a ball, instead of having just made her way through the woods.

"Oh, the dear little creature! My eyes could never tire of looking at her. I had never been so near her before. After the flocks had gone into the valley in the winter she would sometimes, while I was eating my supper, cross the room quickly, rather stiffly and perhaps a little proudly, scarcely speaking to the servants. And now she was before me. All my own! Was it not enough to make a man lose his head?

"When she had taken the provisions out of the basket she began to look about her curiously. Lifting her beautiful Sunday skirt a bit lest it should be spoiled, she went into the fold. She asked to see the corner where I slept, with its bed of straw and a sheepskin. She saw my great cape hanging on the wall, my crook, my flint. It all amused her.

"'And you live here, my poor shepherd? How tired you must grow of living alone always. What do you do? What do you think about?'

"I wanted to say, 'Of you, mistress,' and I should not have lied. But my embarrassment was so great that I could not find a single word. I think she noticed it and took delight in doubling my uneasiness with her mischief.

"'And your very good friend? Does she come up to see you sometimes? Or the fairy Esterelle who flits about here on the top of the mountain?'

"She might have been the fairy Esterelle herself, as she tipped back her head and laughed merrily. And she made her visit seem more like an apparition by her haste to go.

"'Adieu, shepherd.'

"'Your safety, mistress.'

"And she was gone, taking the empty baskets with her.

"When she disappeared down the steep path, it seemed as though the pebbles rolling under the mule's hoofs dropped one by one on my heart. I heard them for a long time—a long time. And all the rest of the day I dared not stir, but sat as though I were asleep, for fear of awakening from my dream. Toward evening, as the depths of the valley grew blue and the animals grew restless and bleated in their impatience to return to the fold, I heard some one call from the slope. Our young mistress appeared, not so laughingly as before, but shivering with cold and dampness. At the bottom of the hill she had found the Sorgue swollen by the rains, and in trying to cross she had almost been drowned. The terrible thing about it was that returning to the farm at this hour of the night was out of the question, because the road is perplexing, and our young lady never could have found her way alone. I could not leave the flock. The thought of passing the night on the mountain troubled her sorely, most of all on account of the anxiety of her dear ones. I did my best to console her.

"'In July the nights are short, mistress. It will soon be over.'

"And I quickly built a large fire to dry her feet and dress, which were drenched with the water of the Sorgue. Then I brought her some cheese and milk, but the poor little thing gave no thought to warming herself or eating, and when I saw the great tears rise in her eyes I wanted to cry myself.

"In the meantime darkness had come completely. Only a glow was left on the crest of the mountains, a luminous mist on the side which faced the setting sun. I persuaded our young mistress to go into the fold to rest. After spreading a fine new skin on the fresh straw I bade her good night and went out to sit before the door. God is my witness that not one wicked thought came into my heart, despite the fire of love which was burning my blood. There was nothing but pride in thinking that in the corner of the sheepfold, next the curious flock which gazed at her as she slept, lay the daughter of my master, intrusted to my care—a whiter, more precious lamb than all the others. Never had the heavens seemed to me so deep, the stars so brilliant.

"Suddenly the little door of the sheepfold opened, and the lovely Stephenette appeared. She could not sleep. The animals rattled the straw in their restlessness or bleated in their dreams. She wanted to be near the fire. Seeing that, I threw my sheepskin over her shoulders, stirred the fire, and we sat down side by side without a word.

"If you have ever passed a night out under the stars, you know that in the hours when we sleep a mysterious world awakens in the silent solitude. Then the springs sing more clearly, the ponds kindle tiny fires on their surfaces, the mountain sprites come and go without fear, and there are rustlings and an imperceptible commotion in the air, which seem like the growing of branches or the springing of young plants. Day is the life of beings, night the life of things.

"All this is even terrifying to one who is not in the habit of seeing it. Our young lady was trembling from head to foot, and she clung to me at the slightest noise. Once a long, mournful cry floated toward us from the gleaming pond below. At the same instant a superb shooting star glided over our heads in the same direction, as if this moan we had just heard were the bearer of a light.

"'What was that?' Stephenette asked me in a low voice.

"'A soul entering paradise, mistress.' And I made the sign of the cross.

"She, too, crossed herself and staid for a moment in meditation, with her face turned toward heaven. Then, 'Is it true that all you shepherds are wizards?' she asked.

"'Not at all, my lady, but we live nearer the stars here than the people in the valley, and so we know better than they what is going on.'

"She was still looking up, with her head on her hand. She was like a little celestial shepherdess, sitting there with the sheepskin around her.

"'How far it goes! How beautiful it is! I have never seen anything like it. Do you know their names, shepherd?'

"'Yes, mistress. Here, just over us, is St. James' road (the milky way). It goes from France straight into Spain. St. James of Galice laid it out to show the way to the brave Charlemagne when he was waging war with the Saracens. Farther along you see the chariot of souls (Urna Major) with its four dazzling axles. The three stars in front are the three animals, and that quite small one opposite the third is the charioteer. Do you see that rain of stars all around it? They are the souls which the good God does not want in his house. A little lower is the rake, or the three kings (Orion). It serves as a clock to us. By looking at it I know now that it is past midnight. Lower toward the south is John of Milan, the torch of the stars (Sirius). The shepherds have this legend about it: John of Milan was invited one night with the three kings and the Pleiades to the wedding of one of their star friends. The Pleiades were in a greater hurry than the others, so they left first and took the highroad. See it up there at the very top of the heavens. The three kings cut across lower and overtook them, but that lazy John of Milan, who had overslept, was left far behind. In a rage he threw his stick to stop them. That is why the three kings are also called John of Milan's stick. But the most beautiful of all the stars, mistress, is ours, the shepherds' star, which lights us at dawn as we take out the flocks and at evening when we bring them home. We call it Magueloune, too, the beautiful Magueloune who runs after Peter of Provence (Saturn) and marries him every seven years.'

"'What, shepherd! Are there really marriages among the stars?'

"'Oh, yes, mistress.'

"And as I was trying to explain what these unions are like I felt something fresh and delicate weighing gently on my shoulder. It was her head, heavy with sleep, which leaned against me with a pretty rumpling of ribbons, laces and curly hair. She lay so without stirring until the stars paled—effaced by the rising day. I watched her—a little moved in the depths of my being—but sweetly guarded by this clear night, which has never given me anything but noble thought. Around us the stars continued their silent march, docile as a great flock—and at moments I fancied that one, the most delicate, the most brilliant of them all, had lost her way and rested upon my shoulder in sleep."—From the French of Alphonse Daudet For Short Stories.

OLD MAN AND YOUNG WIFE.

A Washington John Who Sees All Sorts. Weary of the Joy With a Bride.

"But of all married couples the old jay with the young wife makes me most tired. The old duffer tries to put on a dignified air when many people are around, but wait until he gets a chance to smile at his young bride. It's awful. The smile is that of a possum which has been treed and knows there is no escape. I mean that it's sickly. Half of them may be putting on with the innocent girl. Three days ago I had one of these old jays in tow. What do you suppose he said to his wife? I was taking them from the White House to the treasury and passed by the fountain which contains so many pretty goldfish. 'Oh, look at the beautiful little things,' he said, with a grin at his wife. 'You are prettier than any fish in that pond.' She said, 'Oh!' Well, I wanted to throw him in, but of course I was looking out for the coin.

"Here comes a newly married couple. Anybody could tell that. You see, he has his wife by the arm and is looking down into her face with an air of contentment that is enough to make my blues leave me to see. I noticed that couple coming up Pennsylvania avenue 20 minutes ago. He was holding her arm then. He will stick to the job until they reach their hotel this afternoon. He is not afraid she will escape, but he thinks that is part of a new groom's business. You see, he helps her up the steps and points out things to her. He tells her that is so and so. Nine chances out of ten it is something else. He feels that he is bound to say something. I have seen many of these young know alls point out the Corcoran Art gallery as the patent office and pass the state, war and navy building off as the residence of General Miles or as the new city postoffice. The innocent bride stares in wonder and thinks it's so. She believes her darling Henry knows all about it.

"It's very different with the man who has been married several years. He and his wife see for themselves. He stops and looks at a thing which interests him. She goes on and stops to look at something which interests her. They are generally 20 yards apart. If he tells her that a building is such and such, she disputes the point and thinks it's something else."—Washington Star.

MISS ARMSTRONG'S

390 GEORGE STREET.

SUNDOWN.

Gone is the day of pure delight.
In silvered purple comes the night.

So sweet and short have been the hours I gathered joys like summer flowers.

"O weary night," I cried, "begone And leave me and my life alone!"

But the gray chambers of the west Grew golden for their regal guest,

And in the east a starry sheen Was herald to the dusky queen.

So now my joyous day is done, And now has set my brightest sun.

Hey, murmur not! Beyond the hills How many hopes his dawn fulfills.

Some glad youth eastward turns his eyes To see his great day's dawn arise.

Some maiden, weary soiled and sweet, Wishes her darkling night to greet.

Some strong one, thrilling for the fight, Now springs to draw his sword and smite

While I rejoiced, these waited long, My night brings on their morning song.

O sun, beyond the hills unseen, Their day make glad as mine has been!
—Mary W. M. Falconer in Christian Intelligencer.

FACING DEATH.

The strike of the foundry, starting from comparatively small grievances, had, thanks to the influence of a few of the leaders, reached a state where satisfactory settlement seemed impossible. The men had expected to be out a week or ten days at the most, but nearly two months had elapsed, and their position was almost desperate. Several deputations had waited on old Mr. Vice, the proprietor, but had been invariably referred back to the manager, with the understanding that he had full authority to deal with them.

The manager, Shotwell, a young man of intelligent sympathies, from the first had been willing, even eager, to discuss the men's grievances and help them to an understanding. But when he found that the leaders, to whom the men had intrusted their cause, not only were disposed to take advantage of his justice, but were seeking their own ends at the expense of the men, he suddenly changed his attitude and refused to listen to any proposals other than absolute surrender. He gave the these leaders to understand in the plainest language that under no consideration would he tolerate their presence in the shops again.

The result of this understanding and the contemptuous way in which the manager had expressed his opinion of the leaders and their scheming roused these men from sullen spite to hatred. They could not keep the men out or get back themselves unless—well, unless Shotwell changed his mind, and they knew him too well to hope for that.

Shotwell's obstinacy had surprised even old Mr. Vice, who had known him from boyhood—known him so well, in fact, that he had sanctioned the young man's engagement to Dorothy, his daughter. It was possibly the thought of a future partnership that made him so determined to stand to his guns now and show the old man and his sweetheart that he was capable of holding the reins.

Even Dorothy's lover hardly understood her. She had strange ideas of "soul communion" that made the matter of fact young man gasp, and she had an uncanny knack of demonstrating the proof of her beliefs by reading his unspoken thoughts with an accuracy that to a less healthy, wholesome young fellow might have been embarrassing. But withal she was so womanly and tender and her fancies so pretty that gradually he grew used to them and found himself often lingering over them and almost wishing they could be true.

To one of these fancies, finally yielding, Shotwell owed the success of his manoeuvre by which the men were beaten. At one time and his many thoughts of her were freely exchanged between each other; "soul talks" Dorothy called them, and, whatever they were, the result was that his love for the girl grew more tender and he knew that in some subtle manner he was coming to understand her better and better each day. These times had been frequently dear to him of late. They were his moments of absolute rest from the worry of the strike, and he always felt his brain refreshed and afterward was better able to cope with his growing difficulties.

The pulse of the strike was growing feverish, and night after night Shotwell had slept at the office, fearing some kind of attack on the premises. By the end of the week worry and lack of sleep had told heavily upon him, and as he sat absorbed in the mysterious shadows of the dusky evening he determined that this must be his last night alone; he would get a watchman to aid him. His thoughts grew vague and mixed. His pipe fell to the floor and made him jump, then his eyes closed for a moment, opened sleepily, closed again, and he was fast asleep.

With a start and a fearful sense of oppression he awoke, struggling wildly in his chair; tried to cry out, and realized that he was tied down. A cloth was wound tightly over his mouth, while the room was filled with a subtle, sickly odor of chloroform. He heard a mocking laugh behind his chair and, "Well, yer took a purty good nap that time, didn't yer?" There was an answering growl from another throat, and the two men came round in front, both muffled in heavy coats and pieces of cloth covering the upper half of their faces. One of them carried a small black box, somewhat ghastly to the dark and set it down in front of Shotwell. He turned a little brass key in it, and hidden machinery began to tick-tack, tick-tack, like a clock. He twisted the box around, and Shotwell saw a small dial, with the hands pointed to 9:50 o'clock. One of the men attached one end of a string to a lever on the box and with the greatest precaution tied the other end to Arthur's left wrist, then fixed another string to the same lever and to the other wrist.

"Now, see here, Mr. Shotwell, you've got just 40 minutes, and then that thing goes off, and God have mercy on your soul. If you should want the thing to go quicker, just struggle hard, and if you manage to pull either of them strings—well, I guess it'll oblige you."

"Now, Bill, we've got no time to waste. Here's the keys; you go for the safe, and I'll fix the desk."

Inside of 15 minutes Shotwell's guests had gone, leaving little trace of their visit except a faint odor of chloroform and that strange looking black box, with its monotonous tick tack, tick tack.

The whole thing had happened so suddenly and his brain was so heavy with the drug that the men were gone before he fully realised the horror of his position. As it dawned on him he could not believe it was true; it was some terrible nightmare. He strove to shake himself, but the tightening of the strings on his wrists and a half jar in the tones of that ceaseless tick tack brought him back to his senses with a chill of horror. He glared terror stricken at the little clock that was ticking off the moments of his life—a second each time. A few minutes and then—he broke out into a cold sweat; sat unmanning fear of this unknown, cruel thing crept over him, and for awhile he sat, huddled in abject terror; then slowly the soul of the man steadied itself. He closed his eyes to pray, and the word that came was "Dorothy." With a fierce mental effort he pulled together his shaken faculties for her sake. For her he would die like a man. Perhaps she would know he had been no coward.

Tick tack, tick tack, 20 minutes past 10. Ah, it was time to sit and talk to "Dorrie." Well, he would do it—would give to her those last 20 minutes. And so he sat on, his face drawn and ghastly, but his courage firm—sat and bade a long goodby to the girl he loved; thought strong, manly thoughts of her that kept fear from his heart. But while his utmost self talked with Dorrie his flesh grew gray and pinched, the lonely silence broken only by the steady ticking of his clock of doom.

Dorothy that night sat talking, then later fell to wondering of Arthur alone in that great building, and at the thought of his loneliness all her heart went out to him, and perhaps some of her soul, for her body fell asleep. Then she, too, woke with a start—a start of perplexity and fear; fear for Arthur. What was it? She passed her hand over her forehead, bewildered. What was it—why could she not remember? Then the ticking of the clock on the mantel caught her ear—caught it strangely, and she listened, breathless, trembling. Tick tack, tick tack! What did it mean? Then slowly and softly a subtle voice fell on her inner ear: "Goodby, Dorrie! Goodby, darling!"

"Ah!" She rose to her full height; was rigid there for an instant; then quietly: "Yes, I know. I understand." She walked quietly to her father's room, took his keys and, taking her hat and coat, slipped unseen out into the night.

Tick tack, tick tack—eight minutes more.

"Eight minutes—eight years. God! Can I wait? One brave spring now would end the torture, and— No, no, for Dorrie's sake, for the honor of love, I'll live my life out to the last bitter second." Shotwell closed his eyes a few moments; then, opening them, he saw a face in the doorway gazing at him. To him it seemed the soul of Dorrie, come to say "Goodby."

He was not afraid, hardly awed. It was not real. Dying men's eyes are sometimes strangely clear. He noticed the hat, the coat, the face drawn with fearful anguish. Souls did not look like that. It was Dorrie herself. A moment of wild joy was swallowed up in a still greater horror—"Dorrie!"—here, with that thing— O God! This was worst of all. But her quick hands touched him, deftly untying the handkerchief that gagged him, then delicately slipping those fearful strings from his wrists.

"How long, Arthur?" she whispered.

He glanced desperately at the clock.

"Two minutes. Don't stop to untie me. Water, quick! There's a bucket. Fill it at the tap. It's our only chance."

She comprehended instantly. Oh, how slow the water ran! She walked swiftly to the desk, took the box in her hands and carried it, ticking, to the bucket, placed it in and held it, trembling, as the water swallowed it, until there was a little rasping jar in the ticking. Shotwell drew one deep, long breath as he stooped over the girl and waited for what never came. One, two, three minutes passed. Then, with a breath of half fearful relief, he looked down at Dorrie. She was fast asleep, nestled in his arms and breathing peacefully.

He walked her with him. She stared at him in sleepy surprise. "Why, Arthur, where am I? What is it, dear? How white you look, and see, the water's running all over the floor! You careless boy—I—oh, Arthur, I—take me home."—Aquila Kempster in Providence Telegram.

Sight Reading.

In an east side public school, where they teach reading in the lower grades by what is known as the sight system—that is, by talking of a subject supposedly interesting to the children and then writing sentences about it on the blackboard—the following incident occurred: The lesson related to nature and the subject of worms was touched upon. The teacher drew upon the blackboard the picture of a worm and underneath it wrote: "This is a worm. Do not step on it." This she read to the children, and the lesson for the day was ended. The next morning she called for volunteers to read the sentences, and a little miss of 6 responded to the call. Whether the trouble lay in the fact that an east side youngster's acquaintance with worms is not intimate or the teacher's merits as an artist are not great does not appear, but the little girl read:

"This is a warm doughnut. Step on it."—New York Sun.

Not Tall Enough.

Just at the time when vague reports were beginning to creep abroad that Germany was meditating fresh extension of her frontier at the expense of Holland a Dutch official of high rank happened to be visiting the court of Berlin, and among other spectacles got up to amuse him a review was organised at Potsdam.

"What does your excellency think of our soldiers?" asked Prince Bismarck as one of the regiments came marching past in admirable order.

"They look as if they knew how to fight," replied the visitor gravely, "but they are not quite tall enough."

The prince looked rather surprised but made no answer, and several other regiments filed past in succession, but the Dutchman's verdict upon each was still the same, "Not tall enough."

At length the grenadiers of the guard made their appearance—a magnificent body of veterans, big and stalwart enough to have satisfied even the giant loving father of Frederick the Great, but the inexorable critic merely said, "Fine soldiers, but not tall enough."

Then Prince Bismarck rejoined: "These grenadiers are the finest men in our whole army. May I ask what your excellency is pleased to mean by saying that they are not tall enough?"

The Dutchman looked him full in the face and replied, with significant emphasis, "I mean that we can flood our country 12 feet deep."—London Tit-Bits.

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age feels assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORN IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

MULLIGAN'S MUSIC STORE.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR.

St. Andrew's Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour.

Mrs. Potter introduced the topic, "Our sins and how to get rid of them," at the regular meeting on Monday evening. She said this question may have been asked our Lord by a friend or foe. Perhaps some one wished to ensnare him. The Jews held that all Israel would have a place in heaven. How many are anxious about who will be saved and who not. Then what they themselves shall do to be saved. We ought to be all concerned about great truth, the fewness of the saved. Christ came to guide man's conscience, not to gratify their curiosity. Strive to enter in at the straight gate. In concluding she she said it not to discourage, but to warn, there is but one road to heaven, one door, that is the door of God's mercy. Be careful not to spurn God's offer of mercy for the door will be shut some day, and that forever, as it was in the day of Noah, so will it be if we do not listen to the invitation. Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation. Enter now. A beautiful trio entitled "Though your sins be as scarlet" was sung with fine effect at the close of the meeting.

EPWORTH LEAGUE FELLOWSHIP.

A Pleasant Evening With the Mark Street and Charlotte Street Branches.

The Leagues of the Charlotte street and Mark street Methodist churches mingled in pleasant fellowship in the school room of Charlotte street church on Monday evening. The school room was tastefully decorated with evergreens and presented an attractive appearance. About 150 were present.

The visiting society had full charge of devotional part of the programme. The president, Miss Dawson, very ably conducted the service. The opening seasons of prayer and praise were profitable. Mr. Carton read the Scripture lesson. Mr. Matchett in a clear and concise paper presented the first part of the topic—"Our Sins." Rev. J. E. Moore followed with the presentation of the latter part of the topic—"How to get rid of our sins." His words were refreshing and helpful. A pleasant feature of the exercises was a beautiful quartette entitled "I Know Whom I Have Believed." Miss McLanes gave a very appropriate recitation.

Mr. Tovey, of the Charlotte street League, then took charge of the programme. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable half hour spent in social intercourse. The societies are to be congratulated on the success of the efforts put forth to profit, instruct and entertain.

THE VARSITY BOYS' CONCERT.

Meritorious Music by the Mortar Boards.

A good house greeted the University Glee and Banjo Club at the Opera House last night, and the entertainment provided was of a most enjoyable character. The nature of the organization, especially the instrumental section, forbids generally the exploitation of music of classical calibre, but what was given was tuneful and well presented. The Glee Club, however, has a repertoire that includes composers like Schuman and Wagner, and under the baton of the Glee Club conductor, Herr Rudolph Ruth, they show the evidences of excellent training, and their interpretation is quite in keeping with the character of the work handled. "A Maid on the Shores of the Manzanares" was a very pretty and sprightly chorus given with excellent effect. "The Kentucky Babe" was another very pleasing number and the excellence of the productions of these selections is shown by the fact that the club was compelled to respond to recalls. "Old Man Mouse" was another characteristic number and the demeanor of the chorus was not the least comical part of the singing. With faces as solemn as judges donning the black cap, they would sing the most farcical and rollicking nonsense as soberly and staidly as a minirere. The instrumental section, guitar, mandolin and banjo, under the capable lead of Mr Smedley, put on several capital numbers, which were also well received, being honoured with encores. The excerpts from the Geisha, by the mandolin club, were perhaps the most pleasing and most artistically given. Of course tastes and opinions differ as to the musical value of these instruments, even when so cleverly played as last night, but to the thoughtful is suggested the remark of the French officer on witnessing the charge of the Light Brigade—"It is magnificent; but it is not war!" Warm words of praise are due the vocal soloists. Mr. Bruce Bradley in Pinsuti's "Queen of the Earth," Mr. W. Flavilla in Bizet's Friar's Song from Ivanhoe, and Mr. Jackson in "Jolly Jack" all acquitted themselves splendidly. They all possess good voices, fairly well developed, and gave so great delight that they were enthusiastically recalled. Mr. Smedley was unfortunate in his mandolin selection; he accidentally broke his plectrum and was compelled to substitute the guitar, upon which he very cleverly performed the imitation, "The Spanish Retreat," and was heartily encored.

Altogether the boys gave a most enjoyable evening of sprightly music, and the audience were never allowed to forget that they were with a jolly lot of college boys, bringing the breezy air of the campus and corridors with them, and suggesting ineffable resources of latent larks.

Last night completed a most successful week's tour of the club. They have been hard worked, but they have had and have given lots of fun and genuine musical enjoyment. They will be glad to reach home for the exigencies of travel left them only a nightly average of about two hours, sleep. When they return they will be able to quote in memory of the pleasant tour and hard work, in reply to questions, the remark of old Æneas to the Carthagenian love-lorn queen, "Infandum jubes, renovare dolorem."

Last night several of the ladies of the town entertained the club at a little social hop in the Oddfellows' Hall, which was a most enjoyable, and for an impromptu, quite a brilliant little affair.

ASHBURNHAM BREVITIES.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the approaching municipal elections but not until next Monday will it be definitely known who will be the candidates as many rumors are abroad.

Active preparations are being made for the Mark street Sunday school Christmas tree and entertainment in the new town hall on Christmas night. The programme, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, recitations, dialogues, club swinging, motion songs, etc., will begin sharp at 8 o'clock. All be on hand before that hour. Every one is invited to come and spend a pleasant evening.

We are pleased to state that Mr. W. Ward is somewhat better to-day and hope that this favorable state of health may continue.

EAST PETERBOROUGH CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION.

No Candidate Yet Secured—Dr. Ford Declines—Dr. Shaw, of Keene, Conditionally Accepts—Will Give a Decided Answer in a Week.

Norwood, Dec. 23.—The East Peterborough Conservative Association met here to-day, President Birdsall in the chair. A speech was given by Dr. Meacham, M. P.P., of Odessa; a more lengthy address by Mr. Miscampbell, M.P.P., followed. Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., formerly M.P. for the riding, also made a short speech. Nominations for a candidate at the approaching Provincial elections were put in. The secretary, Mr. George J Sherry, read a communication from Dr. Ford, stating his inability to be their candidate on account of professional business. The choice of the meeting finally fell on Dr. Shaw, of Keene. He accepted conditionally, and will give a final answer in a week. A public meeting will be held in the Conservative interest as soon as Dr. Shaw gives an answer.

OMEMEE'S HEADMASTER.

Death of Mr. Hunt, Headmaster of the Omemee High School.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is our painful duty to announce the death of our esteemed principal, Mr. Hunt, of the Omemee High School, aged 48 years, who succumbed to an attack of la grippe, which settled in the spine and brain, after a few days illness. Drs. Cameron, Thompson and Cornwall were called in, together with Dr. Greer, of Peterborough, and later on Dr. Cameron, specialist of Toronto, who arrived before the vital spark had fled, but could render no assistance, agreeing with treatment already given. The deceased was, in his profession, a man of marked ability as a teacher. He was a very scholarly man, being a faithful member of the Presbyterian church, and was an active worker here as a Bible class teacher. He leaves a widow and one child to mourn his loss, who have the heartfelt sympathy of our citizens in their sad bereavement.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Football and Other Items of Local and General Interest.

THE RING.

The mill which was to come off last evening between Buffalo Costello and Dan Cane of Troy, N. Y., did not take place owing to the fact that neither man cared to enter the ring against so formidable an opponent as his antagonist, for a less sum than $300, and the advance sale of tickets was not such as to warrant the management in guaranteeing this amount.

Both men were in good condition for the battle, Cane having trained particularly hard, as he felt that if he got a decision over a man of Costello's fame his fortune would be made. He felt a good deal cut up over the failure of the management to bring the affair to an issue.

Costello was very confident of winning the purse and stake and his backers had covered a good deal of money in Montreal for him.

Offers having been made the two men by a couple of the Toronto clubs, and a twenty-round contest will in all probability be pulled off there within the next couple of weeks.

The price of five dollars a ticket was a little too steep for the Peterborough sports to stand.

Oakdale Cheese Factory.

The patrons of the Oakdale cheese factory held their annual meeting on Dec. 8th after the most successful season of its business of 23 years and the largest. The books were audited by Miss Jannie Paget, who found them all right, giving the patrons a settlement equal to, if not a little better, than any in the section. The season's business was as follow: Amount of milk delivered at the factory, 2,193,964 lbs., or 731 standards, from which was made 201,676 lbs. of cheese, an average of 11 0/4 lbs. of milk per lb. of cheese. The amount of money received from sale of cheese with interest $17,707 60, whey at 40 cents per standard, $292 40, making a total of $18,000, an average a little better than 8½c. per lb. for cheese. The average price per standard, clear of all expenses, to patrons, was $20 15. The season's make exceeded that of last year by 236 standards.—Com.

CHRISTMAS GREETING

....FROM THE....

SPOT CASH GROCERY

While we are comparatively new in the business ranks in Peterborough, we heartily extend to the public our best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

We wish to outline our Business plans for 1898. A deep cut in many lines bought in the present stock will be made. We have purchased the stock at a price enabling us to do so. Then, too, we propose making alterations in the store, and have both windows after January 1st. Some lines of the present stock we shall discontinue, and shall sell such goods while they last at a price that shall make it possible to turn them rapidly. We have already added many new lines, such as Oysters, Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, Malaga Grapes and many delicacies too numerous to mention, but very essential to your Christmas dinner.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Suggestions as to What Would be Welcome.

The holiday spirit is here. News from Santa Claus has been received by Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men, whose exhaustless stock and spacious well lighted store affords unsurpassed opportunities for a unique display of Christmas gifts, as well as for pleasant shopping. No part of this great store is without its special preparations. Presents for all, from Grandpa to baby. No matter how much better you think you are going to do by buying your Christmas giveables somewhere else, don't let go your money until you have seen Gough Bros—so says Santa Claus:

ARCTIC CIRCLE, Dec. 21, 1897.

My Dear Gough Bros:

My new travelling machine, which I have christened "Gough," is made especially for this trip to the Wonderful Cheap Men of Peterborough; and is the greatest hustler we have seen since electricity was invented. I would like you to get it patented for me at Peterborough as soon as I arrive. The big white bear and seals that tackled me so often other years, have no show against me this trip. Tell your mayor that I want exemption from the Transient Traders' Bylaw of the town, as I expect the freedom of your city during my visit to Gough Bros. Give my love to the little kids, and accept some yourself.

I remain,
Your faithful old friend,
SANTA CLAUS.

P.S.—I send you a few suggestions for the benefit of Santa Claus shoppers in Peterborough:—

Give grandpa a big, cosy storm ulster, to shield him from draught and cold, and get it at Goughs'.

Or give him a pair of Arctic overshoes to keep his old feet warm, and get them at Goughs'.

Give grandma a snug pair of shoes wool and felt slippers for the house, and get them at Goughs'.

Give father a warm house coat to take his comfort in while he ponders over his evening newspaper as he toasts his feet at the fire, and get it at Gough's.

Or give him a fur cap or a fur coat for the coldest days of February and get it at Gough's.

Give mother a dressy pair of kid laced shoes, a pair of fancy worked slippers, with pointed toes, and get them at Gough's.

Or give her a pair of wool lined felt gaiters, and get them at Gough's.

Give brother a dress-suit, if you would wish to be held in pleasant memory every time he makes a holiday call, and get it at Gough's.

Or give him a silk muffler for his throat or a few of those pretty Roman stripped or plaid scarfs or ties, and get them at Gough's.

Give sister a pair of those elegant pink slippers, with bows on the toes—the best is none too good for her—and get them at Gough's.

Or, give her a pair of skating boots, light soled and warm lined, and be sure to add a season ticket for the rink, and get them at Gough's.

Give the boys all an overcoat apiece, or an ulster or pea jackets. Be sensible and make them not only happy but proof against this zero weather. If Gough is selling at "half price," as they usually do at this season, most parents can afford to go all over the boys with warm things—God bless the boys!—and get them at Goughs.

HAVELOCK.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Samuel McGill's little boy, aged six months, died very suddenly Dec. 20th. The universal sympathy of the villagers is extended.

Messrs. Knox and Wood are flooding the rink, and we may shortly expect to see the building crowded with merry skaters—young and old.

Mr. Geo. Flynn, a clerk in Biscanette & Co's store, had his leg broken recently by a kick from a horse, whilst leaning over the dashboard of a sleigh.

Mr. J. M. Watson and family, will spend Christmas with Toronto friends.

Mr. W. S. Dodd, C.P.R. agent, was in Toronto on business last week.

At the request of no small number of ratepayers of Havelock, we understand that Mr. J. W. Bryans has consented to be in the field for the reeveship. He has had a long experience in council matters and has always taken a deep interest in the welfare of the village. Mr. Bryans is at present chairman of the School Board, and holds several other positions of trust.

Had to Stop and Rest Because of Heart Trouble.

Mrs. Elias Cook, 109 Palmerston Ave., Toronto, says: "Seven years ago I had the grip, followed by inflammation of the lungs. I have been afflicted ever since with heart trouble. To walk anyway fast would make me gasp for breath, and many a time I have had to stop on the street to rest and regain my breath.

I had bad smothering spells at night, and my nerves were much unstrung. Anything annoying or worrying me produced extreme weakness, and would set my heart beating so fast that I thought I was dying. Sometimes I would become so nervous as to tremble like a leaf.

I began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills early last February, and have been getting better ever since. My nerves are much stronger. I can walk without difficulty, and the palpitation, fluttering of the heart, shortness of breath and nervousness trouble me no more.

I gladly recommend these pills as the best medicine I know of for heart and nerve troubles on account of the great good they have done in my case." 221

GREAT BRITAIN'S INTENTIONS.

Said to Be a Protectorate in Central China—The British Squadron is to Make a Demonstration—The Daphne Story Persisted In—Newspaper Men Debarred—Cable News.

London, Dec. 22.—According to special despatches from Shanghai the British squadron will make a demonstration at Che-Foo on the north coast of the Shan-Tung promontory, as a warning. It is supposed that Great Britain intends to oppose the division of China without consulting her. It is reported there that Russia has offered China a loan to pay off the indemnity of the war with Japan, and it is believed, says the despatch, that Japan and England are acting in concert to preserve China from disintegration, favoring the idea of a protectorate over Central China, with a capital at Nanking.

A Germany-Chinese commission has been arranged, according to a despatch from Shanghai to the Daily Mail, to settle the boundaries of the occupied district at Kiao-hCou, and it is evident, therfore, that the occupation will be permanent. The same despatch says it is rumored in Shanghai that the British intend to occupy La-Lien-Wan, south of Port Arthur, in order to guard the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li.

All Because of the Daphne.

Berlin, Dec. 22.—The Cologne Gazette maintains the accuracy of its statement yesterday that the Russian occupation of Port Arthur was connected with the visit there of the British warship Daphne about a week ago.

The Cologne Gazette embarrassed the Government to-day by declaring that the others powers would soon follow the example of Germany and Russia, now that the partition of China had actually commenced. Others papers have expressed opinions in a similar vein.

Arabs in Revolt at Tripoli.

Tripoli, Dec. 22.—Several thousand Arabs, who had been demonstrating outside the gates of this place, have been surrounded by Turkish troops. The shops of the city are closed, and the Arab agitation against the Government is increasing. There were disturbances on Dec. 17 at Amrus, near here. All the houses inhabited by Hebrews were pillaged. Thirty of the rioters were arrested by the troops.

A special from Vienna says the Arabs along the Persian Gulf, notably at Ras Rah, Kurnah and El Kaiff, have revolted, and that troops are on their way there.

Pando Appeals for Help.

Havana, Dec. 22.—The war is assuming a decisive character in Santiago de Cuba province. If the military efforts of Gen. Pando against Gen. Garcia fail, as seems probable, then Spain will have to abandon the east to the insurgents, unless she can afford to send 100,000 soldiers to Cuba and spend $100,000,000 more. This is the conclusion upon which all sensible persons agree here. Even the most uncompromising Spaniards believe it was folly for Gen. Pando to have started his campaign against Garcia at this time.

Gen. Pando has cabled again to Gen. Blanco asking for reinforcements.

The Interests of France.

Paris, Dec. 22.—The Duc d'Orleans, in a letter to M. Dufouillio, who has just resigned the position of Orleans' representative in France, says:—

"French public opinion is returning to moderate conservative ideas. The monarchists should not try to impede this salutary movement, inasmuch as what ought to be considered is not the immediate apparent advantage of party, but the higher interests of France."

Le Temps, commenting on this letter, calls it a striking admission of weakness, almost amounting to a practical renunciation of the Orleans claims.

Troublous Days for China.

London, Dec. 22.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai says that, in view of further complications, high officials of the Chinese court have advised the Emperor to transfer the capital from Pekin to Nankin, the "Southern Capital," which is 560 miles southeast of Pekin. It is also reported that overtures have been made to England looking to her placing the valley of the Yangtse Kiang and the West River under her protection.

British Vessel Lost.

Auckland, N.Z., Dec. 22.—The British barque Blairlogie, Captain McKay, from Delagoa Bay Sept. 4 for Portland, Oregon, has been lost with her cargo off the Island of Matahiva, belonging to the Tuamota group. The members of the crew have reached Papetti. The Blairlogie was built at Port Glasgow in 1894. She was of 1,637 tons gross register, and was owned by Tomson & Gray, of Glasgow.

Spain Hopes for a Respite.

London, Dec. 22.—A despatch to the Standard from Madrid says that the Government has received from the legation at Washington reassuring information which leads to the belief that the American Government expects to command a sufficient majority in the House of Representatives to check all military motions until the summer recess, thus securing Spain twelve months' respite.

Spain's Queen Sympathizes.

Madrid, Dec. 22.—Official despatches from Havana confirm the report of the execution of Lieut.-Col. Joaquin Ruiz. The Queen Regent has cabled an expression of sympathy to the family of the deceased officer. It is alleged that the insurgent chief, Nestor Aranguren, has had 70 insurgents shot because they offered to make submission.

FUNERAL OF ACTOR TERRISS.

A Remarkable Demonstration of Sympathy—Beautiful Floral Tributes.

London, Dec. 22.—The funeral of William Terriss, the actor, took place yesterday to Brompton Cemetery. There was an immense crowd of people. The principal mourners were the two sons of the deceased, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hicks, the Messrs. Gatti, Sir Henry Irving, Mr. Charles Wyndham and Mr. George Grossmith. The floral tributes were very numerous, including wreaths from Lord Rosebery, the Rothschilds, Mme. de Navarro (Mary Anderson), Lady Harris, Sir Edward Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, Sir Henry Irving, Pinero, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, Mrs. Langtry, Arthur Bourchier, E. S. Willard, John Hare, George Alexander and other theatrical notabilities. Several vans and carriages were required to carry the wreaths, etc., and there was much popular sympathy manifested for the deceased as the remains were conveyed to the cemetery.

The funeral procession was composed of over 100 carriages. On its arrival at the cemetery it was found that about 50,000 people had assembled there. All the leading theatrical people of London were among those present. It was the most remarkable demonstration of sympathy in recent years.

Cruelty to an Italian Princess.

Palermo, Italy, Dec. 22.—Il Corriere Della Isola tells a shocking story of ill-treatment of Princess di Carini, who is separated from her husband. It appears that, with her blind daughter, she has been shut up for the last five years by her trustee, and has only just succeeded in sending a letter to the police revealing the fact of her imprisonment. The police have liberated the Princess and the trustee has been arrested.

A Cranky Yankee.

London, Dec. 22.—Charles Helmbold, son of the late Dr. Helmbold, of New York, the well-known patent medicine proprietor, has been locked up and is awaiting trial at Bow Street Police Station on the charge of threatening to kill United States Consul-General Osborne.

Steamboats for the Canadian Route.

London, Dec. 22.—(Telegram Cable.)—Two steamboats of four thousand tons capacity, and with a speed of about sixteen knots, have been selected by those commissioned to procure them for the all Canadian route to the Yukon district.

Heavy Failure at Melbourne.

London, Dec. 22.—A special despatch from Melbourne, Victoria, says that C. H. James has failed for £850,000. The cause of his trouble is said to be the bursting of the land boom.

Passed Kinsale in Tow.

London, Dec. 22.—The British steamer Virginian passed Kinsale yesterday, having in tow the British steamer Appomattox, before reported disabled at sea with a broken shaft.

French Warship for China.

London, Dec. 22.—A special despatch from Brest says the French cruiser Jean Bart has been ordered to proceed immediately to China. The Jean Bart is rated as a second-class cruiser. She is of over 4,000 tons displacement.

HIS ONLY HOPE.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Harry Stuart After all Other Remedies Failed.

LONDON, Dec. 13th.—In nine-tenths of the homes of London, the all-absorbing topic of conversation is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Thousands of happy, grateful men and women, are telling of their rescue from Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Paralysis and other kidney diseases hitherto called incurable. All tell how how Dodd's Kidney Pills cured, after all other means had failed.

Harry Stuart, 164 Mill street, told our reporter to-day that a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him completely of long standing kidney disease and lumbago. Doctors could not cure him. Neither could other remedies. Dodd's Kidney Pills were his only hope. THEY CURED HIM. They never fail to cure any case of Kidney Disease.

None So Excellent.

"I have been troubled with sick headache for over a year. Lately I have used Laxa Liver Pills, and find that they help me more than any other medicine I have ever taken. They are an excellent pill, causing no pain or griping, and leaving no after ill effects."

An honest man in this day and age has little need to fear death by hanging. The danger that innocent men will die upon the scaffold has been reduced by modern laws of evidence to a minimum. There is one appalling death that still threatens innocent men. It is a slow and lingering death from consumption. One-sixth of the human race die from this relentless enemy of humanity. Probably no subject connected with health is so important and so little understood as the conservation of vital force. The human organism is a wonderful machine, and is so constructed that if exhaustive draughts are made upon the vital forces during youth and middle life, the mechanism responds for the time, but at the expense of its future usefulness. The man who overworks or exhausts himself day after day is constantly overdrawing his store of vital force. Finally the mechanism of supply breaks down and the man becomes a physical bankrupt. The mechanism of supply in a man is his stomach. There the food is transformed into vital force. If the stomach is weak and the digestion impaired, the body ceases to receive and store up vital force. If the draught is continued, consumption or some other equally fatal disease is the result. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a great producer of vital force. It enables a man to daily store up energy to do almost any amount of work or stand any amount of exposure. It does its work through the stomach. It makes the weak stomach strong. It facilitates and increases the flow of digestive juices. It promotes and perfects the assimilation of all the life-giving elements of the food. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder.

Mr. F. M. Robinett, of Xenophon, Tenn., writes: "I can heartily recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and torpid liver. I was very bad off and tried different doctors with but little benefit. I decided to give the 'Golden Medical Discovery' a trial and I soon began to improve. If it had not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I believe I would not be living to-day."

KELP GATHERERS.

THE IRISH PEOPLE WHO DWELL ON THE ISLAND OF MYNISH.

Rude Cabins Which a Rude and Untutored Folk Call Home—Their Vocation Not a Very Remunerative One, but They Are Strong and Healthy Men.

Right on the western borders of the land, and upon the numerous islands and peninsulas which are the common natural features of this broken part of the Irish coast, the kelp gatherers live. In a certain sense they seem to be an amphibious sort of folk and draw their sustenance, apparently always more or less scanty and precarious, from sea and land alike. Let us picture their existence for a moment, such as we may see it on the island of Mynish, not far from Roundstone bay, off the Galway coast. Imagine an island, about 12 miles in circumference, connected with the mainland by a kind of viaduct recently constructed by government, low lying and wind swept by the numerous gales of ocean, but crowded with a population of several hundred human beings. Every little cove or bay will have its cluster of cottages, with their fishing boats anchored close by, ready to run down the bay for mackerel or to fetch a load of kelp from the neighboring rocks when wind and weather permit.

The surface of the island itself, which is strewn with huge granite stones and bowlders, is parceled out with the most exact and scrutinizing jealousy, and if you attempt a short cut across country from one point to another your way is blocked by a continual succession of loosely constructed stone walls serving as partitions between an innumerable series of diminutive plots. So intricate and puzzling is the arrangement of these plots that you are not at all surprised to hear that they are a source of litigation between the owners of the cottages, who are very fond of invoking the law in spite of their poverty stricken condition.

"Cottages" we call them, for the sake of courtesy, but whereas the word "cottage" calls up in the English sense some bright and picturesque surroundings and some appearance of comfort these cottages or cabins of the kelp gatherers suggest every kind of discomfort. The walls are built of the undressed granite blocks picked up from the surface of the island and loosely put together according to the rules of a very primitive masonry. But the roof is sometimes of sod, and more often of reed. The absurd contrast between the strength and stability of the walls and the feeble character of the roof strikes the eye immediately. The floors are of very unsatisfactory character, as they are simply uneven pavements with muddy interstices and calculated to retain every kind of filth and abomination. It would be almost impossible, to sweep these floors clean even if there existed the will to do it.

If there is any glass, it is simply mortised into some little chink, and window frames are unknown—partly because wood is scarce and expensive and partly because the fisher folk do not desire a window that will open.

As far as accommodation is concerned, there are only two rooms on the ground floor—one to be used as a kitchen and sitting room, the other to sleep in, no matter the number of the family party. Sometimes there is a kind of loft overhead on the kitchen, where some of the occupants can sleep. Outside there is no pigsty or cowshed or any other "office" which we are accustomed to connect with the ideas of comfort and decency. In cold and rough weather the pig and even the cow are admitted to the hospitality of the hearth, and this accounts for their very friendly and sociable character. As far as "rint" is concerned, the kelper cannot complain greatly, as it is a judicial "rint" and he cannot be ejected, no matter how he lives, as long as the rent is paid.

Sometimes a kelper has a right to a common adjoining and can run a few black faced sheep and some of the black cattle of the country, and whenever he is in a position to save money he prefers to put it in stock rather than to commit it to the keeping of a savings bank. Here and there on the island you may chance across a little circle of stone in a retired nook. You need not puzzle long over it as if it were some archæological find, for it is simply the foundation of a kelp stack that has been piled up inside it, and the calcined appearance of the stones, together with the ashes around them, will immediately reveal its use to you. Far away along the windings of some distant cove you will often see the smoke of these kelp fires rolling heavily out to sea, and the kelp stacks themselves are among the common objects of the seashore, with the long trailing kelp weed drooping down their sides. These have been won with much labor from the deep, and the yearly wage paid to the Mynish islanders by the kelp company is nearly £2,000.

Kelp is, indeed, the main source of their wealth, and many a voyage has to be taken before a ton of kelp is procured. The weed burns down to a viscous, gelatinous mass under the action of the fire and then cools down to hard and rugged blocks. The kelpers live on fish, milk, tea, bread and eggs chiefly, but seldom on butchers' meat and bacon, for the pig is really the "jintleman that pays the rint." Still, in spite of hardships, the kelpers are strong and healthy men. They would make splendid recruits for the navy, but if they leave their native rocks they find their way to the United States or our colonies.—St. James Gazette.

IODINE ON FINGERS.

Treatment of the Hands of Pianoforte Pupils Who Practice.

A modest appearing young woman entered a drug store on Madison avenue one morning recently, and, walking to the end of the counter nearest the prescription department, mutely held out both hands toward a clerk who chanced to be standing in that particular place. The clerk, equally mute, reached behind a screen and brought out a blue glass bottle, from which a brush handle protruded. After stirring the contents of the bottle with the brush for a few seconds the clerk daintily brushed the tips of the young woman's fingers with the mixture, leaving a dark stain around the top of each finger nail. With a pleasant nod of her head and low murmuring thanks the young woman quickly withdrew from the store and the blue glass bottle was put back in its hiding place.

Observing a puzzled expression on the face of an old patron of the store who had come in to get a cigar, the clerk said, "Iodine."

"What for?" asked the smoker.

"Prevents the fingers from getting sore," replied the clerk. "She is from the musical conservatory, where she practices on the piano three or four hours a day. In order to prevent the finger nails from coming in contact with the ivory keys she has them cut very short, and we apply iodine to take the soreness out of the ends of the fingers after they have been subjected to three or four hours of pounding. Most piano players, you will observe, have their finger nails cut to the quick, so that no clicking sound is emitted when they strike the keys. We keep a bottle of iodine and a brush for the special use of the pianoforte pupils of the conservatory. They come in here for treatment two or three times a week and pay by the month."—New York Times.

The Fall River Reduction.

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 23.—After an informal discussion, lasting nearly all of the forenoon, a formal meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee was held in the afternoon and the answer to the operatives' proposition was framed. It recites the conditions affecting the industry in Fall River and the reasons for the proposed reduction of wages and concludes as follows:—

"The committee of the manufacturers feel that the situation is such that they must adhere to the decision that it is absolutely necessary to reduce wages in Fall River mills 11 1-19 per cent., said reduction to go into effect on the third day of January, 1898, as voted by the manufacturers at a meeting held on Dec. 8, 1897."

The sentiment among the operatives appears to be in favor of opposition.

Mining Man Arrested.

Montreal, Dec. 22.—Robert Stevenson, of Granite Creek, B.C., and president of the Granite Creek Mining Company, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Hallen, of Ottawa, at the instance of Miss Christie, of that city, who alleges that the accused induced her by false pretences to invest $1,200 in a mining enterprise and that the money has been lost. Mr. Stevenson left for Ottawa to answer the charge.

It Hits Uncle Sam.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—The action of the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday in passing a Government bill increasing the duties on hogs, hog products, lard, etc., is regarded as retaliatory in effect against the United States. The figures of the foreign bureau of the Agricultural Department show that the American shipments to France on the one article of lard reached 31,773,342 pounds last year.

SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Cures Salt Rheum and Scald Head.

Mrs. Thomas Holder, of Aylmer, says:

"I have been a great sufferer for a good many years with Salt Rheum, so bad at times it was impossible for me to wash a dish or do any housework, but after taking one bottle of Sloan's Indian Tonic, it took every particle of the disease out of my system and made a perfect cure. It has now been four years since I took the medicine and the disease has not returned yet."

J. C. Bell, of Fordwich, writes:

Will you please send me a dozen Sloan's Indian tonic. I got a supply from your agent a short time ago, also a supply from the London Drug Co., and have sold it all out, so please rush through as soon as possible. I must say your tonic is making some remarkable cures in and around this place. It is now taking the place of B. B. B. and other medicine.

Slave of Your Foot!

Such should be the Shoe—created to protect it from the rough roads of life. But many feet to-day are slaves to the shoe, because their owners will not consult their feet, when buying footwear. Here is a shoe would give a springy foot-step even to old age, because in the building of the sole no peg or stitch under the foot destroys its elasticity. It is a foot conforming shoe, and every variety of feet has been considered in its construction. Goodyear welt process—Same as hand-made at half the price. Stamped on the sole $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 per pair.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK STREET, OTTAWA, July 31st, 1896.

To the Phrenoline Medicine Company, Ltd., Ottawa, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phrenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JAMES CARROLL, Foreman of Works, Rideau canal

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of material.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract.

Write us for designs and estimates.

HAIL! MERRY XMAS!

This happy season clasps the Old Year and the New—and the winter of the calendar is the spring time of the heart. Beauty and Cheer—the season is full of it.

Winter has come in earnest—come with its own needs and enjoyments. There is a frosty morning snap to Xmas shopping around the Fur store—it's alive with hints for holiday presents—Xmas and New Years giveables.

Furs! Furs! Furs!

Know the beauty in this newly arranged Fur store. Have you seen the elegance displayed in the show cases and on the racks.

MAGNIFICENT GIFTS—A few dollars will buy more solid comfort and real lasting enjoyment now, than was ever known, since the first coming of "Santa Claus." You'll be better educated if you see our Fine Fur Stock—every article contains an inspiration for a suitable holiday gift.

We could give you lists of beautiful, lasting Fur Garments if space permitted, but as is well known, we always have THE BEST to be procured. Such a quantity, such a variety and such a mastry in making reasonable prices—it's not needful to be rich to select proper Xmas Gifts here.

WE WISH ALL "THE PEOPLE" A VERY MERRY XMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR.

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that.

Mr. Jos. Nixon has been laid up for the past week with a very severe cold but he is some better.

Mr. George Grant has been confined to the house for some time through illness. He is still poorly.

Mr. Wm. Dwyer has moved into his new house. It is a log house, 18x24 feet, and 12 rounds high of logs. He raised it himself and did all the carpenter work and plastering and finished it off complete. Beat that who can. He says that some of neighbours were wondering who he would get to help him to raise it. Then they wondered who he would get to finish it off for him and now they are wondering how he got it done. But he has got it done and they are still wondering.

THE PRIZE TEA AND FREE GIFTS AT THE PEOPLE'S GROCERY. A DECIDED SUCCESS

Would you believe it, such lovely Tea for 20 cents a pound, and a handsome Present with every pound. I saw a large beautiful white and gold China Teapot given with 1 lb. of this Tea, to an old bachelor. Just think of that! While another young lady carried off in triumph a fine large blue and white Teapot worth more money than was paid for the pound of Tea. Why there was a regular rush to the tables to secure the prizes; gifts for nothing, yes and a whole lot to choose from. Another says: "Oh my, why are you giving away your goods for nothing! Well I want to sell a lot of goods. I want to advertise my business and work up a good trade. Stop now there! I see crowds of people in your store. Why last Saturday you must have done a rushing trade" Well so we did, and we heartily thank you for your kind patronage and favours, and I promise to do my best to deserve it. "I see your advertisement in the Daily EXAMINER, with a grand list of Christmas free gifts for nothing. Just give me a pound of that tea, and I will take a set of those nice China Dishes for my little girl, it will make her so happy. Good Bye." This is what people are saying and doing. We have a large counter filled with free gifts, which every purchaser of one pound of Japan Tea can select from. We have a fine full stock of all lines in Groceries, Fruit, Provisions, Hams and Bacon, Lard, Butter and eggs. Choice Confectionery, Biscuits and Candies. THE LEGISLATURE

House Stands Adjourned Until After Christmas.

THE ELECTION LAW AMENDMENT

The Personal Expenses a Candidate May Pay—Consideration of the Agricultural Estimate—Practical Instruction in Fruit Spraying—Bills Introduced—After the Holidays.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—The Hardy Government is a working body. It is the intention to have the House sit during the holidays in order that the large expense attending each day's sitting of the House may be reduced by shortening the session. When the House adjourned yesterday it was decided it should meet again next Tuesday, when the members would be called upon to work until the day before the New Year. The Attorney-General is determined to have all business pushed through with all possible speed consistent with proper deliberation of the various important measures to come before the House. He moved yesterday that on and after Tuesday, the 4th January next, Government business shall have precedence over all other business on every day of the session; and that there shall be a sitting of the House, for Government business only, on every Saturday of the session after Saturday the 1st of January next, to begin at eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

The resolution was adopted without opposition.

Important Government Bill.

Hon. Mr. Hardy introduced a Government bill to amend the Election Act by providing that the personal expenses of a candidate, which may now be paid by him directly, shall include the rent of halls for public meetings to be addressed by the candidate, the payment of tolls by the candidate and the necessary and ordinary hotel expenses of one speaker for each meeting not including expenses for treating anyone who accompanies the candidate and travels with him for the purpose of addressing public meetings with the candidate, also reasonable charges for the hire and keep of horses and charges for the use by the candidate of one team and conveyance and driver on polling day; and the carriage of voters to the poll by candidate in such conveyance is not to be a violation of the Act. The Act provides that the township clerk shall be one of the deputy returning officers in his township, and if he should be absent the township assessor or collector may be appointed. In cities the returning officer is to appoint the polling places, and the expense for polling places is limited in cities to $5 per day.

About Division Courts.

Hon. Mr. Hardy introduced a Government bill relating to judgment summonses and other matters which declares that Division Courts have not jurisdiction to grant injunctions. It also limits the powers of Division Court judges as to committing to jail under judgment summonses.

First Readings.

These bills were read a first time:—

Hon. G. W. Ross—To amend the Act incorporating the Strathroy and Western Counties Company.

Mr. Middleton—Relating to the city hospital of Hamilton.

Mr. Auld—To permit the establishment of public libraries in police villages and in cities and towns.

Mr. McKee—Respecting the Chatham City and Suburban Railway Co.

Hon. Mr. Harty—To amend the Act incorporating the order of the Sisters of Our Lady of Loretto.

Mr. Stratton—To incorporate the Toronto and York Radial Railway Co.

The balance of the session was spent in supply.

Matheson Called Down.

From one end of the province to the other Colonel Matheson and other members of the Opposition have gone complaining that the Government had paid for a marine glass costing $18, which Inspector Chamberlain had presented Captain P. M. Campbell of the steamer Majestic, one of the White Line fleet on the Georgian Bay Colonel Matheson thought this was a terrible crime, charged the Government with having paid the amount and loudly proclaimed he could prove it when the Premier stated to the House last week that the charge was untrue. Colonel Matheson undertook to prove his charge yesterday in the Public Accounts Committee. He called for the Inspector's accounts that had been receipted and paid, all of which were produced to the Colonel's satisfaction, but when he began to hunt for the marine glass he discovered he had been wrong; there was no such item in the accounts, and thus another charge against the Government fell to the ground.

A New Drug Bill.

A large deputation representing the druggists of the province waited upon the Government yesterday and asked that the old law with respect to the sale of liquor by druggists be restored. Under this law they were permitted to sell up to six ozs. liquor without a medical man's certificate. The Premier asked that they should appoint a committee to confer with the Government upon the subject, and that something would be done. A committee was appointed.

REDUCTION POSTPONED.

Postal Rates Remain as They Were Until a General Conference Shall Be Held for Consideration.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—With a view to securing a reduction of the postage from Great Britain and other British possessions on mail matter to Canada, it is expedient to bring into force on Jan. 1 next the intended reduction from five cents per half ounce to three cents per ounce on letters from Canada to Great Britain and the rest of the Empire. The Imperial authorities prefer that a conference be first held to secure a reciprocal reduction of postage, both ways, between Canada and the rest of the Empire, which it is hoped will not only cover letters, but papers and periodicals. The hearty acquiescence of the British and colonial postal authorities in this larger question is looked for, and the outcome of the discussions and negotiations will in all probability result in the establishment of a British Imperial preferential postal arrangement covering the whole field of postal communication.

Adelard Daoust, brother of Xavier Daoust, who was shot by P.C. McLaughlin, is now behind the bars charged with picking the pocket of Miss Morrow of Stittsville.

A letter received at the Department of the Interior from Major Walsh confirms the report of the drowning of Freeman of Seattle, and the loss of some provisions in an ice jam. The letter is dated Nov. 12. Major Walsh has got three months' provisions with him.

Is Mrs. Fleming Dead?

New York, Dec. 23.—It is believed that Mrs. Fleming, the prominent figure in the Bliss poisoning case, has died in the Klondike region. No tidings have been heard from the missing woman in months, and her sister, Florence Bliss, fears she has met death in the frozen Northwest. Her last letter was from Dawson City and contained these lines: "All the money I took with me has been swallowed up. Send me help; I am in peril."

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

TO ALL THE READERS OF

"THE EXAMINER."

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came unto them, and the glory of the Lord shone around about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them: "Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you, ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

QUEBEC POLITICS.

An Explanation of the Opposition to Mr. Tarte.

ONLY OBSTACLE IN RAIDERS' WAY

Why Ald. Prefontaine and Ald. Beausoleil, M. P., Love the Minister of Public Works—Influence of the Latter in Public Affairs—Not Now Regarded as a Sincere Liberal.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—A Quebec despatch says that Mr. Raymond Prefontaine, M.P., was shown the despatch from Ottawa this morning in which Hon. Mr. Tarte is said to have declared that if any three Liberals of Quebec would sign a petition asking his resignation he would resign immediately. "Let Mr. Tarte put the statement in anything over his signature, or publish it in La Patrie, and it will not take five minutes to obtain more than three Liberal members to sign such a paper," was Mr. Prefontaine's comment. "Yes," said Senator Thibaudeau, who was standing by, "and two dozen such signatures if necessary." Ald. Beausoliel, M.P., made a similar statement at the Chateau Frontenac last evening. From the statements of these gentlemen may be gathered the idea of the influences at work against Mr. Tarte. Mr. Prefontaine and Senator Thibaudeau are the principal promoters of the Atlantic & Lake Superior Railway scheme which the Laurier Government discarded in favor of the Drummond County Railway, already built, for the Intercolonial extension, and which is doing its utmost to persuade the Marchand Government to restore the guarantee of $8,000,000 on its bonds made by the Flynn Government and cancelled when the Liberals came into power at Quebec. They are afraid to come out against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but profess to regard Mr. Tarte as the only obstacle in the way of a raid on the Dominion treasury for a subsidy, and are combining forces with other malcontents to compass his overthrow. Mr. Beausoleil, M.P. for Berthier, long ago lost whatever influence he might have had at Ottawa. He was one of the few Liberals who opposed Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy on the Manitoba school question when the Conservatives brought in their remedial bill, and has never since been regarded as a sincere Liberal. He thinks that Mr. Tarte stands in the way of his own promotion in the party, and therefore wants the head of the Minister of Public Works. It is not at all likely that his wish will be gratified, and his record in municipal affairs would hardly qualify him for a larger sphere of action.

The New Model Locomotive.

The famous new model locomotive which Consulting Engineer Davis purchased for the Intercolonial will go out on the road next week, although the fast "through" runs from Halifax to Montreal will not be made before spring. It is said Hon. Mr. Blair believes the giant locomotive will work a revolution in the affairs of the I.C.R. Several engines of the same model are to be made in Kingston, as Mr. Davis believes just as good work can be done in Canada. He adds that the new engine is so constructed as to permit continuous running for 60 days, and instead of changing engines at every divisional point, as at present on the Intercolonial, the new model will be able to make the through trip from Halifax to Montreal. It now takes 20 engines to handle the passenger trains on the I.C.R., but Mr. M. Davis states that eight like the new one will do the work.

A Railway Purchase.

The Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway Company has purchased from the Canadian Pacific that section of the Southeastern from Sorel to Yamaska, which will form part of their new line between Montreal and Levis.

C. P. R. Telegraphers.

The C. P. Telegraphers' Committee declines to give out any information regarding the result, but it is learned that the conference with Mr. Shaughnessy was of a most satisfactory nature for the telegraphers.

Window Glass Prices Will Advance.

Pittsburg, Dec. 24.—It is learned that the American Window Glass Company, which controls the output of the window glass plants of the country, will issue a price list Jan. 1 which will advance prices in proportion to the increase in wages recently granted the workers. This means an advance of about 15 per cent. over the prices existing before the lockout began.

CHRISTMAS.

The theme is old, as the inscription of its prototype, yet the feelings it creates are ever new. While we all join in the general rejoicing and merry-making which it evokes, how few of us realize to the full extent the immeasurable significance of the occasion! How few of us realize, when we are opening our hearts in kindly impulses, and crystallising these impulses into affectionate gifts, that these gifts are but a frail and inadequate symbolism of the priceless gift of the Redeemer of mankind, who, "as on this day," entered our sin-blighted world as its Saviour. While custom has hallowed the conventional observance of Christmas, as it now universally obtains, it seems, nevertheless that a broader and more practical view should be taken of the obligations it imposes upon every Christian person. Christ came as the friend of the friendless, the helper of the needy, and that follower of His will best fulfil his obligations by following in the footsteps of the Master he professes to serve. And at the Christmas-tide the obligation will particularly suggest itself in the form of an enlarged liberality towards the suffering and friendless poor. If every person who has it in his power were to do a practical kindness to his needy neighbour to-morrow, the Christmas Day of 1897 in Peterborough would be the happiest one that ever brightened the town. No man, if he remembers his obligations, can sit down to his Christmas feast and enjoy it, if he knows that, within the reach of his aid, there is one person to be relieved, to be warmed, to be fed, to be clothed. No time of the year is so favourable to practical application of one's belief in the true significance of Christmas, as December 25th. If we are rich we can, out of our superabundance make scores of poor and needy happy, and should we be poor and have but enough, if we share that sufficiency with one who has none, our remaining moiety will have a sweeter taste. While we wish with ever so much fervency that our neighbours may enjoy a "Merry Christmas," it will be but an empty formality if we fail to do what in us lies to give effect to the spirit of our wish. Were this principle more generally acted upon, to-morrow would be in a fuller sense what the EXAMINER cordially wishes it may be to all the world and especially to all its readers, A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

A POPULAR POLICY.

The decision of the Ontario Government to ask the Ontario Legislature to pass an act requiring that all pine timber cut on Crown lands in Ontario or under permit or license, shall be manufactured in Canada, will, the Montreal Witness says, take no one by surprise. The Government has not acted hurriedly, and was wise in that at least. In the first place, the Canadian lumber interests were very much divided over the question, and as these were great and wide, involving merchants, bankers and labourers, as well as lumberers, the Government was justified in taking time to inquire thoroughly into the subject and to consult the Legislature instead of settling the matter arbitrarily by Order-in-Council. Moreover, to have put the new regulations in force this year after having issued licenses, would have been an act of bad faith in the eyes of the American holders. But that the Government was inclined * * * * * to require the manufacturing of Ontario timber in Canada, was patent enough when the question was first raised, as their replies to petitions took the form rather of deprecating any such move until the expiry of the period during which the current licenses ran rather than of declining to entertain the policy The great majority of all the interests seeming to be thoroughly in favour of the policy, it has been adopted by the government, and a bill to that end introduced into the Assembly, which has passed its first reading without dissent. The Minister of Crown Lands was obviously very desirous that it should be understood that the measure is not a retaliatory one against the United States, but was merely calculated with a view to the conservation of Canadian interests. And in this connection he expressed a hope for the success of the negotiations now pending between the governments of the two nations for the establishment of better trade relations. There can be little doubt about the general popularity of the measure. The Conservative Opposition, probably with a shrewd idea of gaining the advantage of having apparently forced this policy upon the Government, hurried to anticipate its probable course by re-approaching the Government for not having at once put the policy into effect. There will, therefore, be no obstacle placed in the way of the bill in the Assembly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Mail and Empire and its journalistic ilk have been asserting that the Hardy-Ross Government was the bond-slave of Michigan lumbermen, yet it claims that the Government was forced by Mr. Whitney to adopt a pro-Canadian policy on the timber question. The organs have a good deal to take back, but they won't do it. They will doubtless follow the Mr. Whitney's policy and declare they didn't say what they did say—that they were misreported.

THE Mail and Empire in a column of generalities condemning the colonization road expenditure, condescends to give one specific example. Someone has said that a private mining road, five miles long, cost $2,000, and that a government road, seven miles long, cost $5,000. This proves nothing. One road may have been much easier to build than another, and one road may be a good deal better road than another. So that this apparently specific example is only a misleading generality where no data are given to show whether or not the money was not more wisely expended on the government road.

We find in the Methodist Young People's Paper Onward the following eminently true expression about the Canadian Press. We agree with Onward in saying that the Press of Canada, taken for all in all, is as high-toned as that of any country in the world. Our readers will have no difficulty in recognising the Montreal Witness as the paper especially referred to:

"Nowhere, we think, is there a press of higher moral tone than that of our beloved country. It possesses, we think, the unique distinction of having a leading journal in its largest city which for over fifty years has been a moral crusader, a champion of reform. In all that time it has not published one liquor, or tobacco, or theatrical advertisement. At the sacrifice of much money it has stood true to its high principle, and stands four-square, a tower of strength, against all the winds that blow.

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. Nervous Prostration

Sick Headache and Dizziness—All Cured.

Little Girl Has Grown Plump and Rosy Since Taking Hood's.

Nervous mothers and sickly children endure a vast proportion of the suffering which is caused by impure and impoverished blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives relief by purifying and enriching the blood. Read this statement:

"I was bothered with sick headaches and dizziness. I also had nervous prostration and weakness in my stomach, which made me feel very ill indeed. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was highly recommended by many, and by the time I had taken four bottles I was in perfect health. About a year ago my little girl, then six years old, had bronchitis and chicken pox. We were told that her was the careful treatment she might receive at the hospital. We took her there and for eight days they had no hope of her recovery, but later she had a change for the better. Her sickness, however, left her very delicate and weak, and she did not grow any for a year. It was then I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, inasmuch as I had used it for myself and found it such a good medicine for building up a constitution. She had not taken two bottles before she had improved wonderfully. She has grown rosy and plump and is quite herself again. I have great faith in Hood's." MRS. M. Blenheim People talk for the Public Good on an Interesting Subject.

Our representative interviewed Mr. J. Holland, the popular shoemaker, Talbot St., with the following results. Said Mr. Holland:

"Speaking of myself I have had seven pains in the small of my back, in both sides and between my shoulders for over seven years and I was also troubled with urinary difficulties, dizziness, pain in the head, etc., so much so that I could get but little sleep, and frequently got up as tired as when I went to bed, and feeling totally unfit for work.

"I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they have cured me of all my kidney troubles. They have taken away the tired feeling, built up my system, and made me feel like a new man.

"My son James, now 18 years of age, was attacked four years ago by malaria, which left him with severe pain in the back and weakness of the kidneys. He has been troubled in that way ever since, and until he took Doan's Kidney Pills could get no relief, but they have cured him entirely.

"It is no wonder that I speak highly of these remarkable pills, for they are undoubtedly the best kidney cure in the world, seeing that they cured both myself and son in such a short time." 221

BRITAIN WATCHING THE CHINESE

England Proposes a Conference With Russia on the Chinese Question—Germany Fears a Combination and Her Press is Hostile to Great Britain—Cable News.

London, Dec. 24.—(Globe Cable.)—Mr. Sherwood Hodgins, son of Mr. Frank Hodgins, of Toronto, has passed successfully from the Britannia, the training school for officers of the royal navy, and has been appointed with the rank of midshipman to the Channel Squadron.

London, Dec. 24.—A despatch to the Daily Chronicle from Rome says it is rumored there that, owing to her obligations to Germany, Italy has declined England's proposal for common action in the far East, including a joint occupation of Chusan. According to the same despatch it is asserted that England has proposed to Russia a conference on the Chinese question, with a view of avoiding dangerous rivalries.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The Chinese Government is helpless. It is mobilizing a few troops under the least incapable generals who conducted the campaign against Japan. The British fleet is at present at sea."

The Daily Chronicle says this morning it has good reason to believe that the Government has decided upon a watching policy, and will refrain from occupying any Chinese territory for the present, but it will give its moral support to Japan and distinct warnings to China concerning England's action in certain contingencies. It is understood, says the Daily Chronicle, that Japan will protest in the strongest manner against Germany's action, while diplomatic circles ridicule the idea of a Russo-German entente concerning China.

German Press Deeply Interested.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The press is evidently deeply interested as to the attitude Great Britain and the United States are likely to adopt in the Chinese affair. Every attempt is being made to create ill-feeling against England and to represent her as isolated.

Italy is in It, Too.

London, Dec. 24.—A special despatch from Rome says that at a meeting of the Italian Cabinet to-day it was decided to despatch a squadron to Chinese waters.

Pope's Christmas Reception.

Rome, Dec. 24.—The reception of the Vatican yesterday was largely attended by Catholic church dignitaries. Replying to the Christmas greetings, the Pope deplored the conflict between the State and Holy See.

The majority of Italians, His Holiness continued, were against it, and it was wrong to fight the will of the people, who understood that political unity did not suffice to give them prosperity. Therefore, they desired the independence of the Papacy and the restoration of its rights. Peaceful citizens should not be confounded with the subversive faction, whose aim was to set the cause of Italy and the rights of the Papacy in conflict. It had never been unworthy, and the State should make just reparation.

The Pope, who was in excellent health and splendid voice, blessed all present, including twenty-three cardinals. Afterwards every guest passed the throne of the Pope, and His Holiness said a few words to each of them.

French Were Not Massacred.

Paris, Dec. 24.—Gil Blas yesterday published a letter from Major Marchand, the French officer whose expedition was recently erroneously reported, from Brussels, to have been massacred. The letter, which is dated from Semio on June 17, says the work accomplished is enormous. He adds that the French hold Domsiber, strongly occupied Meshraerrek, and that by Aug. 14 France would thus be firmly established on the Nile, without firing a shot. Commenting on this communication Gil Blas says the rivals of France can no longer prevent her from being mistress of the Nile.

Demolition of Paris Fortifications.

Paris, Dec. 24.—The initial step has been taken in the long projected demolition of the fortifications of the city. General Billot, Minister of War, has introduced into the Chamber of Deputies a bill providing for the rasing of part of the forts on the west side of the city and for selling the sites. It is estimated that the land will realize 150,000,000 francs, 4,000,000 francs of which will be devoted to the construction of a short rampart further out. The remainder of the proceeds will be expended on artillery.

FOR

GRIP

Any Cold that hangs on may very properly be termed GRIP. If it starts with headache, backache and influenza, then it IS Grip. In either case the prompt use of "SEVENTY-SEVEN" is required to break it up. After a cure by "77" you feel almost vigorous; this is a strong point to consider, when you think how completely a Cold, especially La Grippe, exhaust the system.

The Man is Crazy.

London, Dec. 24.—On the advice of the police surgeons, Charles Helmbold, son of the late Dr. Helmbold of New York city, who was arrested here Tuesday last, charged with having threatened to kill United States Consul-General Osborne, was yesterday taken to an asylum for the insane. It has been discovered that Helmbold has already been confined six weeks in an asylum, under the name of F. C. Evans.

Salisbury Had Not Heard It.

London, Dec. 24.—Lord Salisbury, in reply to an inquirer in Manchester, has written that he had not heard the report that the Duke of Norfolk, the Postmaster-General, had approached him with the view of obtaining the admission of Cardinal Vaughan into the House of Lords. Lord Salisbury adds that the report is absolutely unfounded.

SERIOUS BLUNDER IN INDIA.

An Allahabad Newspaper Severely Criticizes the British Officers.

Allahabad, Dec. 24.—The Pioneer publishes a scathing criticism of the recent fighting on the Indian frontier, and says the operations have ruined more than one reputation. The Pioneer asserts that the officers have disappointed expectations, and calls upon the commander-in-chief to weed out those who have signally failed to prove their fitness to command or perform staff duties. The paper asserts that the instances when the troops were well handled were few, while serious blunders were numerous and happy-go-lucky arrangements were the rule, resulting in a few hundred British troops and Sepoys forming the rear guard having again and again to fight most desperately to save their skins while, within two or three miles, thousands of their comrades were doing absolutely nothing.

In conclusion, the Pioneer remarks: "The whole campaign shows carelessness and indifference for the safety of the rear guard and bad disposal of the fighting strength. While the fortified enclosures and homesteads of the Afridis have been destroyed, the latter have had their revenge in the actual conflicts. If the Afridis are to be coerced more skill is required and the staff must be weeded forthwith, irrespective of personal feelings.

Massacre of Portuguese.

Lisbon, Dec. 24.—An official despatch from St. Paul de Loanda, Portuguese Lower Guiana, says that the natives of the Humbe Plateau, in the Portuguese colony of Angola, have massacred a Portuguese officer, a sergeant and 12 men. Reinforcements have been sent from St. Paul de Loanda.

BANK FAILURE IN PHILADELPHIA.

Chestnut Street National Bank's Doors Closed by the Bank Examiner.

Philadelphia, Dec. 24.—The doors of the Chestnut Street National Bank were closed this morning by direction of National Bank Examiner Hardt. Its affairs are now in the hands of the bank examiner.

William M. Singerly is President of the ban. The Chestnut Street Trust Company, which operated in conjuction with the bank, also suspended. Mr. Singerly is also President of the Trust Company.

The liabilities of the bank and the Trust Company together will aggregate about $8,000,000, represented by $1,700,000 of deposits in the bank and $1,300,000 in the Trust Company. Of the $1,700,000 in the bank about $1,300,000 was to the credit of individual firms and corporations in this city, while the remaining $500,000 represented the accounts of banks in other cities.

Will Pay Every Dollar.

Washington, Dec. 24.—Mr. Eckels, the Comptroller of the Currency, said to-day, in regard to the failure of the Chestnut Street National Bank of Philadelphia: The bank will ultimately pay every dollar it owes. The Philadelphia Record, which is owned by Mr. Singerly, Mr. Eckels said, is a valuable property, paying about five per cent. annually on about $5,000,000.

$3,000,000 Wouldn't Pay.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 24.—It is stated on authority of a leading financier that $3,000,000 was raised by the clearing house banks to save the Chestnut Street Bank, but investigation showed that this large sum was deemed insufficient to relieve the embarrassments of the institution and the suspension was necessary. This decision was reached at midnight Wednesday.

WHO KILLED THE MEN?

Rosanna Gauthier Has Been Committed for Trial, But Prevost May be Guilty.

Port Arthur, Dec. 24.—Rosanna Gauthier, the woman charged with the murder of Rene Dabin and Ferdinand Carrier, has been committed for trial, principally upon the evidence given by Oliver Prevost, her companion in crime, who, on another charge, was sent to the penitentiary for seven years, but the impression is becoming general that it was Prevost himself, and not the woman, who killed the two men. The discovery of the gun with which the murder is alleged to have been committed strengthens this view. The Crown is in possession of facts which make it probable that Prevost will be placed on trial on a charge of murder, and Mrs. Gauthier will be used as the principal witness against him.

Shot and Killed His Brother.

North Tonawanda, N.Y., Dec. 24.—August Broker, 23 years of age, accidentally shot and killed his 18-year-old brother Paul yesterday afternoon while hunting rabbits. Paul was walking through the woods ahead of his brother when the latter's gun exploded.

Throat lined with Ulcers

A Young Lady Cured of Long Standing Catarrh and Catarrhal Sore Throat by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Miss Anna A. Howey, of Eden, Ont., says that she suffered from Catarrh for ten years, used a number of remedies advertised, but was always disappointed in the result.

Last fall she suffered intense pain in her head and her throat was lined with ulcers. The doctors called it Catarrhal Sore Throat, but did not cure it. She saw that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure was being highly recommended, so procured a box from C. Thomson, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and commenced its use. Soon the ulcers cleared away from her throat, the pain in her head ceased. She says that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure does not cause distress or sneezing when being used, and is the most effective catarrh remedy she ever tried.

Mr. J. D. Phillips, a Justice of the Peace, declares that he knows Miss Howey and her mother, and can vouch for the truthfulness of her statements.

Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, sold by all Dealers. Price 25 cents, complete with blower.

The trial took place Thursday morning in Perth, the county town of Lanark, before Judge Senkler, Crown Attorney Malcolm representing the prosecution.

The evidence adduced was not sufficient to prove that the goods had been purchased under false pretenses and the prisoner was was discharged, returning to Peterborough on the afternoon C.P.R. express.

STOLE GAME COCKS.

But Were Finally Run Down by Officer McGinty.

Five young fellows were in the police court this morning, charged with the theft of a game cock from Chas. Shambo, 95 Rubidge street, and John McMahon, Lake street.

The other two were seen and instructed to be in attendance at the court this morning.

Two of the prisoners pleaded guilty and one was discharged. The case was postponed for a week to give the four a chance to pay the costs, which will settle the matter.

THE OPERA HOUSE MASS MEETING LAST NIGHT.

ADDRESSES BY THE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE AND OTHERS.

Mr. St. John Exploits the Great Piggery Issue—Mr. Garvin Lays Down his Principles—Messrs. Kendry and Pousette Also Address the Meeting—A Good Sized Audience Present.

At eight o'clock last night, the hour when the Conservative mass meeting was to begin, there was a small gathering in the Opera House, but as time went on the hall was well filled by an audience that seemed pretty equally divided in political composition. A considerable number of ladies occupied the gallery. The hall presented a festal appearance, being daily decorated with flags, and mottoes of various kinds adorned the walls. On the south wall was a double blazon, "God Save the Queen," and "Welcome to our Visitors," but this motto unfortunately lost its point, since Mr. St. John, of porcine popularity, was the only visitor, Mr. Miscampbell failing to arrive. Directly, and suggestively, opposite the motto "God Save the Queen," and over the proscenium arch, was the motto "It is time for a change," and the audience was left to conjecture whether that sentiment applied to the Queen, the Ontario Government, the present representative of West Peterborough, or the present Conservative candidate. On the west wall appeared a motto that indicated that when Mr. Whitney came in power the Education Department would be converted into a departmental store where bargain day prices in school books would be announced—the motto read, "Prices of School books reduced to 33 1-3 per cent." Facing this was a motto, which was evidently used because it was in stock and not because of its appropriateness, for, in view of the fact that the Government has declared for the straight-out Canadian policy of Canada for Canadians in Mr. Gibson's bill, requiring the sawing of all Ontario logs in Ontario, it was dismally inappropriate and suggestive of the irony of fate. The motto read, "Ontario Logs for Ontario Mill Men."

There was nothing new in any of the speeches—they were simply a rehash of exploded charges that have been refuted over and over again.

The President of the Conservative Association, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, occupied the chair, and on the platform were, besides the candidates, Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P., Mr. A. P. Pousette, Mr. R. Mulholland, Mr. L. M. Hayes, Mr. H. C. Winch, Mr. John Green, Mr. Hampden Burnham and others.

THE SPEAKING BEGINS.

Mr. Kendry was the first speaker. He said he proposed to discuss the main issues of the country. He first pointed that the Ontario ballot was not a secret one like the Dominion or the municipal ballot and if Mr. Whitney and his friends came into power they would change the ballot system. The present numbered ballot permitted telling how a hotel keeper voted if pains were taken to find out and thus his vote was coerced. He would vote against any government which would not change this ballot. The income from our timber limits or public lands should be devoted to capital and not be used as current revenue. When the limits are gone we come face to face with direct taxation. Referring to Mr. Garvin he said he was a man who was well and favorably known in the riding and would make a worthy representative. (Cheers.)

Mr. A. P. Pousette was not prepared to say anything and only consented to fill the gap. He said the Conservatives had reasons to congratulate themselves on the candidate chosen to carry the banner at this election. (Mild cheers.) The present Liberal candidate, Mr. Stratton, pretended not to know who the Conservative candidate was, but before this election he would know to his cost. Mr. Garvin was a graduate of Toronto University, a high school teacher and an inspector, and was well qualified to represent the riding. The public funds should be properly expended, or we would be driven to direct taxation. He compalined that the public accounts showed that instead of a large surplus, there was a deficit. He held that the revenue fro mtimber limits should be funded and only the interest expended. Mr. Whitney, when he came into power, would have the accounts put into proper shape to discover whether we were expending capital or not. The centralising policy of the Government was described as a means of centralising power at Toronto. Complaint was made that the licensing power was in the hands of the Government instead of the municipalities. The policy of Mr. Whitney was to go back to the system of twenty-five years ago. Mr. Garvin was described by the speaker as an expert on educational subjects, as able as any man in the House. Politics were a part of the present educational system. Mr. Whitney and his friends would change all this.

MR. GARVIN SPEAKS.

Mr. J. W. Garvin was introduced by the chairman as the next member of the Local Legislature.

Mr. Garvin began by regretting that the crowd was not as large as was expected. He had called this meeting to discuss subjects that could not be properly discussed in the heat of an election campaign. He stated that

ONE OF THE CARDINAL PRINCIPLES that should underlie good government was equality and brotherly kindness, and we should sound a truce to all efforts to arouse race and creed prejudices. The second principle was decentralisation of power, and leaving it with the municipalities. The third principle was the minimum of patronage—which might be used by a Government to entrench itself in power. The fourth principle was an absolutely secret ballot. The fifth principle was a system of elections at fixed periods, so that attempts could not be made to secure a snap verdict, and if he was elected to Parliament he would pass a bill to give this principle effect. The sixth principle was economical and efficient administration. He went a little into the Sandfield Macdonald surplus matter and asked where it had gone, especially as Mr. Stratton had said the receipts had been millions in excess of the expenditures. His seventh principle was a steady progress in mineral reforms. He opposed sudden changes. The County Council Act was passed too hastily. If it was wished to reduce the expense, why not drop the deputy reeves and give the reeves enough votes to represent them. The change had been too sudden a one. He held that every municipality should have a representative. His eighth principle was an equitable adjustment of taxation. The speaker spoke of labour as the twin brother of capital, and he had great sympathy with labour. His tenth principle was the

GREATEST POSSIBLE ENCOURAGEMENT

to home industries. The Ontario Government would not act unless forced by public opinion. For five or six years the Georgian Bay saw mills had been closed and workmen had to go to the United States to work. The Ontario Government should long ago have passed a bill to secure the sawing of Ontario logs in Ontario. Ontario had the greatest mineral

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful: active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

THE FALLING STARS.

MURAT HALSTEAD RECALLS A GREAT EVENT OF HIS BOYHOOD.

He Tells In Picturesque Language of What He Saw on a Night In 1833, When He Was Only 4 Years of Age—A Supper of Squirrels' Brains and What Followed.

I am of the few who can speak as eye-witnesses of "the night of the falling stars," Nov. 12-13, 1833. Those who beheld the wonders of that time were dazed by the awful splendors and long spoke of them as of some majestic, supernatural vision. My age was 4 years and 9 months, my point of observation a valley in southwestern Ohio. One of the treasures of our house was an astronomical atlas, with mysterious maps of the constellations, over which my parents pondered, and the strange animals drawn among the stars were figures the more incomprehensible the more they were explained. My parents were much given to studying the clouds by day and the stars by night, and one of my earliest recollections is that they would call each other's attention to celestial phenomena, so that I was something of a "star gazer" myself and knew when a 4-year-old about Job's coffin and Orion's belt, the seven stars, the dipper, the north star and the star of the morning and evening.

My father the day before the memorable night had "killed a mess of young squirrels," and, out of deference to me, had not shot them as a marksman should—through the head—for my favorite diet was squirrels' brains. My passion for this dainty dish was indulged at supper, and during the night I disturbed the house shouting for alleviation of sharp pains, resulting from too much brains—in my inexperienced stomach. My mother, aroused, saw a strange light glaring at the windows, and, lo, it was evident enough the universe was afire! My father seldom allowed anything to astonish him, but that did. If he had not seen it, he would not have believed it, and yet he did not think the last hours of the globe we inhabit had come and "the judgment" was at hand.

The hour was after midnight, and how long the stars had been falling could not be ascertained. It was very good of my parents to think it worth while to have me take part as a watchman of the tremendous illumination just to see whether I could remember it as long as I lived. I have so far, clearly, as if it had happened a few days ago, and it is 64 years! My face was washed to clear my eyes from tears, perhaps, and, wrapped in a blanket, I was carried into the yard on the north side of the house. The view to the north was somewhat obstructed by a wild cherry tree. Eastward was a low hill covered with hickory, maple, walnut and sassafras trees, and that was where the morning star peeped through the lofty fringe of naked boughs and trunks of the trees in the winter.

Special attention was given to pointing things out for me to fix in my memory, and the amazing scene is before me now, though that was long before photography. I do not recollect that I looked westward at all. Observation of the east fascinated me, and I do not think I turned my face in any other direction. There were innumerable lines of light, drawn as if by invisible pencils with points of fire; strangely straight lines sweeping from near the zenith to the horizon. My clear impression is there were no cross lines; that there seemed to be a monstrous stream of fiery hair, a vivid blending of sun and moonlight, pouring from a stupendous, exhaustless urn, some of the bright lines fading as they swept far down, fainting into the serene depths of the sky. There was a certain majestic serenity about the exalted conflagration. My parents were not alarmed or greatly agitated, but enjoying every moment. I recall their low tones and some of their exclamations of surprise and admiration. All the boys and girls of the house were called, and they wanted to know whether it was really the stars that were falling, and my tamer reassured them by the rather unsatisfactory statement: "No. It's nothing but meteors." How it happened there was such a flood of them was a matter not deeply gone into. The idea that a comet had exploded and our world was whirling through the dust left floating in the abyss of space was not at once evolved, and it was some time before our weekly papers mentioned that there had been other startling showers of meteors; that this thing happened several times and might and probably would again.

The silence that attended the dazzling display, the apparent flight of all the stars from their courses, the mighty movement, inexpressive save in the swift darting of celestial arrows that flashed into space and made no sound, most impressed the beholders, and was always mentioned as something mystical—an apparition of glory inconceivable. It was insubstantial as the northern lights, and yet what more could happen after one had seen the vault of heaven incandescent, with a thousand streams of pale lightning all still as the frost that glistened on the grass. The dome of the edifice in which the world is as a toy was the fountain from which sped sheaves of long drawn shafts of light, as if some sudden volcano in the blue had sent forth a radiant array of spectral spears, putting out the stars. The commotion among the people in some country neighborhoods was as if warning had been given that the day of burning worlds was at hand.

It was a relief to the watchers—my eyes were soon weary of the fireworks, and so I have only hearsay for it—when the first cold white, then rosy, light of morning came, and it was seen the hills had not skipped, and that the brooks babbled on in their accustomed way, and the chickens that had cackled and crowed and given signs of apprehension on their roosts, came down and found the earth as they had left it the evening before, and the farmers set forth as usual to husk corn in the fields. When the evening shades fell once more, the veil of the meteors had vanished, and there were gladness and gratitude that the majestical overhanging firmament was still there, fretted with the golden fires of the familiar stars.—Murat Halstead in Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

An English Shop.

Shopping is a task at any time, and not always a pleasant one, but imagine looking for bargains in 50 different departments of a store. That is the number the largest department store in London contains, and we may expect yet to see it on this side of the water, as American enterprise and energy have been heading in that direction for several years past. In the London store everything from a cannon to a needle may be purchased. You may have your photographs taken, hair dressed and nails manicured, your household goods stored or insured. You may have a house built, decorated, furnished all complete, with the servants and insurance on the property, from one establishment. Pianos, iron in bars and theater tickets may be obtained, as well as drugs, ribbons and laces. Altogether it would be an interesting place in which to spend a week or two shopping.—Philadelphia Press.

THE MAHNIMAH.

A Wonderful Parrot of India Which the Natives Claim, Thinks.

A little bird in town did a surprising thing the other day, though that is the middle of the story. The first of the story is that a woman who had lived many years in India and who has a love for all things Indian was walking along the street and saw in the window of a bird store a green parrot with red spots on its wings.

"That bird," she said to herself, "came from India. I will go in and speak with it. Perhaps it speaks the vernacular."

So she went in and spoke to it in the vernacular of India.

"Do you speak the language?" she said. It is the common question which the people ask of a parrot in the land from which the bird came. But the creature made no answer. It stared at her with dull eyes and was not interested. Still she persisted.

"Come," she said. "Surely you speak the language? What do you want? Are you hungry? Is poor Polly lonesome away off here? Come, come, you speak the language."

Still the bird made no answer, but from away back in the dusk of the room came a clear little bird voice in Hindoostanee:

"I speak the language. I also, I speak it."

The birdseller did not notice the cry. It is merely the chattering of a foolish little bird to him. But the woman who loved India said:

"Where is that bird?"

"It's back there," said the bird seller, pointing to a remote corner. So the woman went there, and in an old cage she found a neglected looking mahnimah, standing erect on its perch, all its feathers ruffled, looking this way and that as it quivered with excitement. This bird of all talking birds is the most wonderful—nay, in India they maintain that it thinks. It learns, in fact, the tongue of the people, they say, and does not speak by rote, but it converses. At any rate the mahnimah cried:

"I speak the language. I speak it."

"Here I am, brother," cried the woman. "I am one who speaks it too."

The bird fixed one sharp eye on her.

"You are little," he said disdainfully, putting his head down in his feathers to indicate how little she was. "You are little, but I am large," and then he stood erect with his head thrown back and looked down on her.

It said other things, too, while the bewildered bird seller stood by and listened, astonished that the bird had any value or that any one could understand it.

"How much will you take for the bird?" asked the woman.

"Twenty dollars," said the man. The price had gone up in the last ten minutes.

"Where did you get it?"

"A sailor brought it here, and I bought it of him. He had come from New York and was going to San Francisco. He said he was tired of lugging it over the country."

"He must have come from some place where there are Lascars."

"I do not know. Will you take the bird, ma'am?"

But the woman could not afford that, so she called back:

"Salaam, little brother."

"Salaam," said the bird.—Chicago Chronicle.

Whist In the Church.

And that's what's the matter with Emporia—too much whist. The painted china set is married to cards. Women have no higher thought from week's end to week's end than winning head prizes. They grow nervous, irascible, bad tempered and ugly playing cards. Little crows' feet appear at the corners of their eyes after an evening with whist, and deep, vertical lines plow themselves just above their noses. There are more plain women in Emporia who lost their bloom at the rented card tables than there are women who have worn themselves out over the kitchen stove. It is worry, not work, that makes women fade, and cards are sapping the juice out of the town. Only the young people patronize the public library. The old folks make "What's trump?" the chief end of man. Cards have invaded the churches. One church has a big factional row looming upon the horizon because the pastor has jumped cards. Another church narrowly avoided it last winter. A third pastor sees his best customers whooping it up in whist clubs and hasn't the nerve to say a word. In the meantime poker rooms, which are just as improving and elevating and just as helpful to the town as whist clubs, have opened on Commercial street, and the town is enjoying the fruit of the seed the women have planted.—Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

Rubber Coating.

many improvements have charthe process of coating cloth with rubber as have marked the progress of some other features in the application of that material in the arts. The chief solvents used in dissolving the rubber for coating purposes are naphtha, shale spirit and benzol, these being mixed with purified solid paraffin by grinding together. Solubility is promoted by grinding or working. The raw or washed rubber is less soluble than that masticated or ground, and well ground rubber is more easily taken up than that which has been less worked. The washed rubber is for waterproofing, says the Boston Commercial Bulletin. The next operation is to grind the rubber and pigments together, run it out into a thin sheet and digest in naphtha, with a slight stirring as it is added, and the finishing is performed by dough mixers. The treatment of fabric which has to be done by spreading with the rubber consists in passing it through a pair of calenders, in order to press down knots and give a smooth and even surface, after which it is passed over a steam chest to expel moisture, it being now ready to receive the first coat. A little oxide of zinc or a little naphtha, which is retained by the rubber and which it gives up very slowly, is a drying which proves quite useful and prevents blistering in curing.

To Make Sachet Powder.

The woman who likes the scent of verbena can prepare a sachet of long lasting fragrance. Save the peels of lemons which come into the household. Cut the peels up in small bits and dry. When enough of dried peel has been saved to weigh half a pound, reduce it to a powder. This can be done in the ordinary kitchen coffee mill. To this add an ounce and a half of caraway seeds, powdered, and mix the two well together. Over this pour, a few drops at a time, a mixture of one and a half drams of oil of lemon peel and three ounces of oil of bergamot. The result will be a very dainty powder.

Stranding Celebrities.

Dr. Paul Garnier, a French specialist in lunacy, has been giving some information about the insane men and women who follow celebrities about and fall in love with them. The doctor has to send two or three women of this sort to asylums every month, and nothing is known of the cases by the public. Good looking priests, the doctor declares, are notably marks for the attention of such females. After the priests, but in a lesser degree, come the members of parliament whose names are most frequently in the newspapers or who make good speeches in the chamber, the authors and the handsome actors. The latter, like the priests, have often been threatened by their jealous admirers. In some instances women have gone to the theaters with loaded revolvers ready to fire at them, but for some reason or other have failed to carry out their purpose. As to actresses, Dr. Garnier states that their dangerous adorers are terribly numerous. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has sometimes to be watched over very carefully. Her worshipers secrete themselves in all sorts of places in order to see her enter or leave her theater or her residence. The special detectives have had to interfere on two noted occasions in order to save the famous actress from the bullets or the daggers of maniacs who resolved to injure or kill her because she refused to respond to their flatteries and passionate declarations of love.

LEAD SOLD AS GOLD.

ARGUMENTS ON BOTH SIDES OF A PRACTICE OF WATCH CASE MAKERS.

Receiving $150 a Pound For an Article That Costs 5 Cents—The System of Selling by Gross Weight Responsible—Some Good Points Claimed.

"The practice of selling watch cases by gross weight puts a premium on dishonesty and ultimately forces even the most scrupulous manufacturers to adopt methods that they would repudiate under any other circumstances," a dealer said, describing some of the peculiarities of the trade. "If competitors offer 14 carat gold cases, stamped '14 k.,' or warranted '14-k. U. S. Assay,' weighing 50 pennyweight, for $25 or less, others must either meet these prices or lose trade. To avoid this alternative an effort is made to hold the market by meeting the unscrupulous dealer on his own ground. Thus prices and standards of workmanship are lowered, confidence is destroyed and the trade brings upon itself a certain amount of discredit that eventually redounds to the injury of all concerned.

"To clearly understand this examine the workings of a 'gross weight' sale. To ascertain the value of a case weighing 48 pennyweights the gross weight is multiplied by the price of the gold it contains, which, for the sake of illustration, say, is for 14 carat, 64 cents a pennyweight. This gives an actual cost of $30.72. Add to this interest and cost of labor, and the total is the price of the case. As the chief factor in determining this is the gold used, it is necessary to find out how much this case contains.

"The crown weighs 8½ pennyweights and is made of base metal plated, with a socket of lead for the winding stem, and is probably worth 25 cents. To the back of the springs are attached solid pieces of lead, iron or copper composition, which are concealed in the center; when the springs are in position, and weighing 16¾ pennyweights, the value of which is probably about the same as the crown. The three make a total of 25 pennyweights, worth about 50 cents, but which is charged as gold at the rate of $16.

"It will be seen by this that the dealer pays for $16 worth of gold that he does not receive. Had the case been sold by net weight there would have been no incentive or inducement for the so called gold case manufacturer to use a plated crown and lead or base filling. Consequently the crown and other parts of the case would be solid gold, whereas now they only look like gold. Assuming that the dealer knows of this deception and refuses to accept the case markings and weight, as indicated on the manufacturer's invoice and tag—the basis on which to estimate value—how is he to ascertain the real worth of the cases he may purchase? He cannot do it. If he discards the usage of the trade, there is no legal standard by which he could determine it, and consequently this practice is carried on without violating any law except a general one, under which it would be very hard to secure a conviction.

"That these practices have attained their present magnitude by one bound is not to be supposed. The present system has been evolved from small beginnings. The evolutions can be observed by examining three crowns. One is a gold crown, weighing 9 pennyweights. In it is no pillar for the winding stem, and the shell is hollow. Another is a plated crown, filled with brass or some weighty composition, and it has a large pillar, in which the winding stem is set. It weighs 4½ pennyweights. The third has a plated crown, filled with lead, and the winding stem is screwed into a lead collar. It weighs 8½ pennyweights and is in general use.

"The same increase in weight is noticeable in the spring. Not only the size, but also the weight of material used, has been increased. The first filling and backing was of comparatively light metal. It was then found that copper was heavier, and now lead is the popular metal.

"The purpose of this is too evident not to be understood, and as long as the gross weight system prevails this kind of thing will be continued. The temptation is too great to resist. The system that enables a manufacturer to secure $150 to $200 a pound for an article that costs him from 5 to 20 cents is too valuable to be discarded lightly. To believe that the beneficiaries of the system will voluntarily abandon it would be expecting too much from human nature. The system will be continued until it is not profitable or until some one steps in and wipes it out by the introduction of the 'net weight' system of selling watch cases.' Then the public can hope to obtain what they pay for, but not till then."

While acknowledging that the system of selling watch cases by gross weight has its evils, another dealer in Maiden lane said that it has its good points also.

"For example," he added, "watch cases are cheaper today than ever they were, solely on account of the practice in the trade of selling them by gross weight instead of by net weight. Under the latter system you had to pay for labor, which amounted to anywhere from $5 to $10 per case. Under the system in vogue at present you get a case which contains just as much gold, but you do not have to pay separately for the labor of making it. The springs, etc., are, of course, sold as gold, and it is from the profit derived in this way that the manufacturer reimburses himself for the cost of labor. Any one, however, who desires to purchase a watch case under the net weight system can do so, but the case has to be torn to pieces before it can be weighed, and the cost of making it is added to the cost of the gold. In the long run it is better to purchase lead, steel and gold together, as gold, and get the labor thrown in than to have your gold weighed by itself and the cost of manufacturing it added to the cost of the gold."—New York Commercial.

Sleep as an Aid to Digestion.

There is a time honored notion that a nap after meals promotes digestion, and, filled with this belief, a large number of persons habitually take a nap after dinner and think they are doing precisely the best thing for their health. There are other good authorities, too, who claim that sleep during digestion clouds the mind and predisposes those who indulge in it to apoplexy and stupidity. A French scientist has made this subject a study and by exhaustive experiments has discovered that sleep does not aid digestion, but rest and a horizontal position are of great advantage in promoting the proper conditions for perfect digestion and assimilation of food.—New York Ledger.

BALL PROGRAMMES.

Made In a Very Great Variety of Styles, Suited to All Occasions.

Ball programmes are made in hundreds of styles. A wholesale dealer in New York prepares a sample book, which is of the size of an atlas and the thickness of a dictionary. Fancy cards for some other uses are shown in this book also, but of ball programmes alone there may be 500 styles. The book is like a great album. The dealer sends out 2,500 such books to printers and stationers.

Programmes can be bought at almost any price, including many at extremely low prices. Nearly all are more or less ornamented, many of them with embossed work finished with gilt or in colors and in a great variety of designs. There is scarcely any society, perhaps none, that could not find here an appropriate programme. There is, for instance, a ball programme embellished with a trolley car. A number of programmes, suitable for yachting club dances, have a yacht surrounded by various emblems of yachting and of the sea. There are programmes for musical societies, with appropriate emblems, and for railroad men, for bicyclists, for military organizations, for letter carriers, for firemen.

The cords and tassels for the programmes are a separate article of manufacture. They are produced in great variety of colors, qualities, sizes and styles and sold in enormous numbers and many of them at prices that seem marvelously cheap. It is probable that nearly all the programmes of the kinds referred to, handsome and elaborate as many of them are, would sell complete at prices under $5 a hundred. There are folded ball programmes, with a picture decoration, that are sold at wholesale, without printing or cord and tassel, as low as 35 cents a hundred.

The production of costlier programmes, such as sell for $5 a hundred and upward, is a business by itself. These are made in about 150 different designs, ranging in price up to $1.25 each. They are made in a great variety of shapes and sizes, and, as with the less costly programmes, of designs appropriate to the occasion on which they are used. The more costly programmes are adorned with hand painted pictures. Celluloid in various forms is employed in the making of these programmes, and satin, lace and papier mache are also used. All these programmes are of larger size than the less expensive varieties, and each one is put up in a box. A programme of the highest price was an elaborate production 14 inches square. The programmes most commonly sold among the costlier kinds bring about $18 a hundred.

There are sold of the cheaper varieties of ball programmes millions annually; of the costlier far fewer. These may be numbered in thousands. Winter is the season of the most active demand for ball programmes, but they are sold the year round. Some ball programmes are exported to Mexico and the various countries of South America. Many of the designs are equally suitable and appropriate anywhere. The printing is done in the countries in which they are used.—New York Sun.

What to Buy for "Him."

One of the best things to buy for a man for a Christmas gift is something he would buy himself. A half-dozen of those small Parisian ties just received at LeBrun & Co's City Clothing Store, would suit him "down to the ground," as the saying goes. The fair sex have been buyers of these bright beauties of swell ties during the past week in considerable numbers. A silk muffler or a fine woollen neck scarf in bright or plain checks, will also be acceptable gifts, and LeBrun & Co. have a very nobby line full of them at close prices. eod

Elegant Silver and Decorated Gifts.

The decorated porcelain goods are very handsomely bound in German silver, includs biscuit jars, butter dishes, tart plates, bread trays, tea pot stands, etc. Lovers of reliable goods desirous of making handsome and serviceable gifts, will find the prices very low indeed. (Special to the Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 24—A large fire broke out this morning between the hours of nine and ten in the Watkin's wing of the General Hospital, which resulted in the destruction of the wing. The firemen did excellent work. They fought the fire from the main building and Mickle wing, which are all connected. The patients, with those in the main building, were removed to the wings adjoining. The children were sent to the Infant's Home. The fire caught from St. George's Ward, where a man was melting beeswax, which suddenly ignited. The loss is estimated at about $10,000. The late John Watkins gave the wing as a gift to the Hospital.

To Miss E Howson;

DEAR TEACHER,—Though the present occasion and especially the season of the year should be of joy, yet a feeling of sadness comes over us as we remember how soon we must part. We feel that to-night the ties which for three years have bound us as teacher and pupil are severed and we can no longer call you our teacher. How much you will be missed we shall not attempt to say. We may have often caused you sorrow but we ask you to forgive our thoughtlessness and indifference and to remember only the pleasant side of your sojourn among us. In leaving you carry with you our best wishes. We feel that we would like to offer some tangible expression of our appreciation of your faithful service, and we ask you to accept this lamp as a slight token of our esteem, trusting that as you enjoy its brightness you may ever have only kindly thoughts of the givers and as its rays scatter the shades of night, so may God's lamp dispel life's gloom until we all assemble when there shall be no more partings.

Signed on behalf of your pupils,
FREDDIE GIRVIN,
LIZZIE GIRVIN,
BELLA GIRVIN,
NELLIE LUTTY.

CHRISTMAS GREETING

....FROM THE....

SPOT CASH GROCERY

While we are comparatively new in the business ranks in Peterborough, we heartily extend to the public our best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

We wish to outline our Business plans for 1898. A deep cut in many lines bought in the present stock will be made. We have purchased the stock at a price enabling us to do so. Then, too, we propose making alterations in the store, and have both windows after January 1st. Some lines of the present stock we shall discontinue, and shall sell such goods while they last at a price that shall make it possible to turn them rapidly. We have already added many new lines, such as Oysters, Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, Malaga Grapes and many delicacies too numerous to mention, but very essential to your Christmas dinner.

MAYORALTY ELECTION FOR 1898.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In again offering myself as a candidate for the important and honourable position of Mayor of Peterborough, I have first to thank you for having twice returned me at the head of the poll. You are doubtless aware that, up to a very recent date, no one could be found to oppose my re-election, and while my opponent is a gentleman for whom I have the highest respect, it must be apparent that the auspices under which he is brought out, indicates that his election is sought for the purpose of serving the selfish plans of his principal supporters and as a reward also for what he has already done—for it was through him the Auburn Power Company, represented by Messrs. Meldrum and Kendry, obtained the remission of $400.00 a year for rent of poles, although, but a few months previously, a bylaw had been solemnly passed imposing such rental. This course means a loss to the town of $2,000.00, and, if followed by a similar remission to the Light & Power Company, which would be no more than just, a further loss of $2,800.00 will ensue. I submit that, however honestly intentioned Mr. Davis may be his business connections are such, both as an insurance agent and a director of a real estate company, which has very extensive interests in the town, it is impossible for him to occupy the Mayor's chair impartially. The course Mr. Davis pursued in the case of Moncrief against the town, when he strongly opposed The Toronto Loan and Savings Company being made parties to the action, may be fairly taken as an evidence of his probable course under similar circumstances, had he prevailed in that instance the town would have been unable to make the favourable settlement which was effected.

It is clear that Mr. Davis considers himself a special protector of the capitalists of the town, and when action was proposed to compel the Street Railway Co. to carry out the extension agreed upon, Mr. Davis plainly stated it as his opinion that men who had invested their capital in the town should not be interfered with. It is evident, therefore, that the workingmen will have to look out for themselves.

It is nothing new for a policy of progress to be advocated; there is no citizen who is not most anxious for the welfare of the town, and I have never failed to heartily co-operate in every scheme of its advancement. I fail to see that the fact of Mr. Davis "being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers and feeling that he can look after their interests," is a qualification for the mayoralty. It is true that Mr. Davis, in a published interview, insinuates that he and he only is capable of "originating" a scheme for bettering the town's condition, but during the year he has served in the Council, when he had equal opportunity for the display of his ability, he failed to propose any measure in the direction indicated.

In conclusion I have to say that I am entirely untrammeled by business or other connections, and am so situated that my whole time is at the service of my fellow-citizens, to whom I cheerfully leave the issue.

I have the honour to be, ladies and gentlemen,

Your most obedient servant,
WM. YELLAND,

December 22nd, 1897.

Amos Dean's Christmas.

[Copyright, 1896, by the Author.]

'Twas near the blessed Christmas time. In meadows and upon the hills
The grass was green. The ice king's breath had not made mute the running rills.

AMOS AND THE PARSON.

The air was gentle as its kind, soft whispers on an April noon,
And on the sea the western breeze played on the waves a pleasant tune.
O'er wooded land and in the vales reposed at rest a languid haze,
Mantling the earth with violet bloom as in the Indian summer days.

The smacks were idle in the bay, and quiet reigned along the shore,
Save when some song was sweetly blent with music of the dipping oar.
"Heaven help us," said a fisherman—old, grizzly visaged Amos Dean—
"And send us snow, for well we know the meanin of a Christmas green!
Well I remember ten years past how grass was wavin on that day,
And all that awful winter through sickness took many a soul away."

"And well do I remember, too, that winter time," said Parson Moore.
"On one of its most stormy nights a runaway passed from our door—
My dearest boy. You know the tale. No tidings of him came to me
Till two years passed, and then we knew that he'd been wrecked far, far at sea.
We know not whether still he lives, and yet we hope and often pray
That heaven will send the wanderer home to fill our hearts with joy some day."

"He was an honest lad and true," said Amos. "But, like many a boy
Reared here along this sea beat shore, the ocean to him was a joy.
But, parson, maybe'll come a day when you are thinkin of him dead,
You'll see him comin up the path in answer to the prayers you've said.
He was a brave, smart youth, you know—to go to sea was all his pride—
And, parson, I b'lieve that some day he'll come in on some favorin tide."

AMOS' FAITH.

Within the fisher's hut they knelt and bowed their heads in earnest prayer,
And ne'er were heard more fervent words than those the parson uttered there.
He prayed for blessing from above. He prayed that heaven his boy would keep
And bring him home, ere many days, a rescued wanderer of the deep.
And Amos prayed in homely phrase. He prayed that stormy winds might blow
And cover all the fields and hills when Christmas came with welcome snow.

THE SNOWFLAKES OUTSIDE.

The days went by. 'Twas Christmas eve, when all good souls are filled with glee,
And in the seaside village homes warm hearts beat round the Christmas tree.
Remembrances of days long gone were told by old ones, while the young
Passed the bright hours most merrily, and many a pleasant song was sung,
While o'er the sky the leaden clouds gathered till not a star was seen,
And little flakes began to fall. Thank heaven, there'd be no Christmas green!

When morning came, the earth was white, the grass was hid, the haze had passed.
"The welcome snow has come at last."
"The Lord be praised!" old Amos said. The smacks were prancing in the bay Loud blew the fierce nor'easter wind.
As the old sturdy fisherman to Parson Moore's home took his way.
"It's providential, minister," he said, with a most reverent air.
"This storm is very plain to me a proof that God does answer prayer."

RETURN OF THE LOST.

The church bell seemed to ring that day as it had never rung before
From the gray steeple's pointed tower in that old village by the shore,
And while a favorite hymn was sung a manly form passed at the door,
And in the lingering shadow paused until the services were o'er.
Then as the parson down the aisle came after his sweet task was done
The stranger said with whispering voice, "Dear father, don't you know your son?"

Oh, what a blessed hour was that! Before him stood his long lost boy,
And there were smiles, and there were tears—aye, tears, but they were tears of joy.
"Thank heaven!" said Amos. "'Nother proof it is that mid our woe and care—
If we believe in him and trust—our God above does answer prayer.
We prayed for storm. He sent us snow. He's filled our thankful hearts with joy,
And at this blessed Christmas time to you and home he's brought your boy."

Political Prisoners Shot.

San Francisco, Dec. 23.—News has reached this city of the shooting in Guatemala of a number of political prisoners, including two men who are known all over the Central American Republic. The execution occurred last month at Huehuetenango. The principal victim was Capt. Hurculanz Ruiz, brother-in-law of Gen. Daniel Fuentes, now in this city. Another victim was the Honduran colonel, Francisco Zellaya. He was accused of aiding the Revolution party and was executed by order of Barrios, the command being carried out by Gen. Luis Mollina. Three other prominent Guatemalans suffered death in the same manner. It is estimated that there are now in Guatemalan prisons no less than 293 prisoers of the late revolution.

Cattle Perish in Texas Storm.

St. Louis, Dec. 23.—The sleet storm that has prevailed for the past three days in Texas has proved to be more disastrous in its effect on the stock interests of the west and northwest portions of that State than was at first expected. Reports from the districts 200 miles west and north of Fort Worth state that the death rate among cattle will be unprecedented, the fatality being pronounced among recent importations from Mexico, and the cattle taken to the big plains country from Louisiana. In some localities fully 35 per cent. of the Mexican cattle have perished.

Toronto, Dec. 23.—Last night Mr. H. P. Dwight, President and General Manager of the G. N. W. Telegraph Company, was entertained at dinner at the Toronto Club by many prominent Torontonians, on the occasion of the completion of Mr. Dwight's fifty years of service in the telegraph business. Mr. Dwight was presented with an album and address, the former to be filled with photographs of those present at the pleasant gathering. Mr. Dwight made a great speech in reply, covering virtually the growth of Canada in his special line for the past half century.

Windsor Merchants Retaliate.

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 23.—Windsor merchants have been registering a strong kick with the Government against allowing people to go over to Detroit to buy Christmas presents, and in order to discourage the practice as much as possible four special officers have been sent to Windsor. Their plan is to go across to Detroit and watch Windsor people buying things, and on their return trip point them out to the regular officers, who take them into the Custom House and search them. No less than 50 people were held up in this way yesterday.

THE SEALERS' CLAIMS.

The Commissioners Award $464,000 to the Canadians.

Ottawa, Dec. 23.—The arbitrators representing Great Britain and the United States of America on the Behring Sea claims, who have been meeting at Boston, reached a conclusion yesterday, which was communicated to the Government here. They award the Canadian sealers $464,000, with two cases reserved. This is about the Canadian lump sum demand in 1894, with interest added, and is a compromise award. Great Britain was represented by Mr. Justice King, of the Supreme Court of Canada, who, from his recognized ability and skill, has probably done as well for Canada as was possible under the circumstances. A disagreement between the arbitrators would have necessitated a reference to the King of Sweden and a further long delay. These claims arose out of the unwarranted seizures of Canadian sealing vessels in Behring Sea in 1886, 1887, 1889 and 1890, acts which caused so much controversy and international negotiations.

BYE-ELECTIONS IN QUEBEC.

Namaska and Levis Return Straight Liberals Charles Langelier Beaten.

Hon. Chas. Langelier Beaten.

Quebec, Dec. 23.—The provincial election in Bonaventure County yesterday resulted in the return of Mr. Chapperton, Independent, over Hon. Charles Langelier, by a majority of 241, with one place to hear from.

Levis Remains Liberal.

Quebec, Dec. 2.—The election in Levis County yesterday for the Local Legislature resulted in the election of the straight Liberal candidate, Mr. N. N. Ollivier, advocate, of this city, by a majority of 500 over Mr. Beaulieu, Conservative.

HIS ONLY HOPE.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved Harry Stuart After all Other Remedies Failed.

LONDON, Dec. 13th.—In nine-tenths of the homes of London, the all-absorbing topic of conversation is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Thousands of happy, grateful men and women, are telling of their rescue from Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Paralysis and other kidney diseases hitherto called incurable. All tell how how Dodd's Kidney Pills cured, after all other means had failed.

Harry Stuart, 164 Mill street, told our reporter to-day that a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him completely of long standing kidney disease and lumbago. Doctors could not cure him. Neither could other remedies. Dodd's Kidney Pills were his only hope. THEY CURED HIM. They never fail to cure any case of Kidney Disease.

Fire Bug Case at Brockville.

Brockville, Dec. 23.—The preliminary trial of Sim Layug and Harry Johnston, charged with setting fire to the house and barn of T. K. Scovel, Portland, which had already taken up two days, was again proceeded with yesterday. The whole afternoon was taken up with the evidence of prisoner Layng, which was, in substance, that Scovel made an arrangement with Johnston to set fire to the building; that he (Layng) drove from Athens to Portland on the night of Nov. 21, 1896, when Johnston got out of the rig and set the fires. They then drove back to Athens. Layng then claims that he went to Scovel and he gave him $40 to help him out of the country. The prisoners were remanded until this morning.

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORN IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

ROBERT WEIR
422 George St. Private Office

Cupid is usually pictured as a frolicksome, playful little fellow, always smiling or laughing, but with just a trace of malice in his make-up.

This is the artist's ideal. In reality, Cupid in these days is a matter-of-fact little chap. He is beginning to learn that life is not all a summer holiday. He is fast learning that sick men and unhealthy women have no right to tamper with love or matrimony. It is best for themselves and best for the human race that they should not. It is not a hard matter for men and women to preserve their health if they wish. It is far from impossible for them to restore it after it has been lost. That being the case, the modern Cupid is right in looking with disfavor upon matrimonial matches between sick men and unhealthy women. Ill-health in a woman is generally the result of some weakness or disorder of the distinctly feminine organism that is slowly sapping her vitality. At first, a little pain and slight indispositions which seem to her quite unimportant. They grow steadily worse until she suffers all the time from burning and dragging sensations, and occasionally has to take to her bed. Finally they completely unfit her for wifehood and motherhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an unfailing remedy for ailments of this kind. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in maternity and makes them well and strong. It transforms weak, sickly, nervous invalids into healthy, happy wives and mothers. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest druggist will recommend a substitute.

"Since I wrote you we have had a baby girl born to us," writes W. R. Malcolm, of Knobel, Clay Co., Ark. "My wife took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during the expectant period and until confinement, and she had no trouble to mention. A stouter, healthier child was never born. Our child will be one year of age on the 8th inst., and she has not been sick a day. Has not had so much as the colic."

CHINA AND RUSSIA

The Celestials Turn to the Bear for Friendship.

SOME ANTI-BRITISH ARTICLES.

The Novosti Opposes Britain's Influence—Checkmating Germany—The Times Comments on the Latest Developments—Talk of British-Japanese Concerted Action—Egyptians at Kassala.

Pekin, Dec. 23.—The Chinese Government has granted Russia permission to winter a squadron at Port Arthur. Great Britain demands a quid pro quo, if concessions have been granted to other powers. It has been suggested that the Japanese and British occupy Wei-Hai-Wei jointly.

The situation at Kiao-Chou Bay is unchanged. Germany remains unyielding, and the Chinese councils are divided as to whether it should be peace or war with Germany. China regards Russia as her only friend, and is asking her advice alone. In spite of official denials, it is regarded as proved that Port Arthur and Kiao-Chou Bay were promised to Russia by a secret treaty. British influence is nil, having suffered greatly through the failure of the loan negotiations. China is now negotiating a loan with Russia. The latter demands the dismissal of the British railroad engineers in North China, and it is probable that the demand will be granted. The German drill instructors will be dismissed at the expiration of their contracts and will be replaced by Russians.

Russian officers have already been appointed to drill the armies of North China.

The Thunderer Is Sarcastic.

London, Dec. 23.—The Times, in an editorial on the situation, sarcastically asks whether the German press, in claiming a Russo-German entente in China, and Emperor William, in his speech at Graudenz, anticipated Russia's demand for the removal of the German drill sergeants from the Chinese army. It adds, with reference to the demand for the dismissal of the English engineers, "Our Pekin correspondent says China is hesitating, and possibly we may be able to appeal to motives at Pekin which will strengthen China's disinclination to comply with the Russian request for the dismissal of the Britishers."

Russia Means Business.

The Pekin correspondent of the Times says:—

"The Chinese are provisioning Port Arthur, and will reconstruct the forts there, Russia supervising and furnishing the money. In the face of this indication of permanent occupation, the necessity of safeguarding our position in the East increases.

"The Russo-Chinese Bank, which is the agent of the Russian Government, has offered China 120,000 Berdan rifles, with payment five years hence. China has accepted the proposal."

The Japs Are Agitated.

According to a despatch to the Times from Kobe, Japan, the news from Port Arthur has greatly disturbed the Mikado's Ministers. Long Cabinet councils have been held, and the high military officials have attended.

The Japanese newspapers, the deptatch says, are nonplussed at the situation in the far East, while the Ministry is involved in domestic troubles connected with its taxation proposals, to which the Diet is hostile.

The Bear Growls.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—In a strongly anti-British article yesterday the Novosti says: "In consequence of the pretension of England to compensate herself for the Russian occupation of Port Arthur by the acquisition of Port Hamilton, or Lazareff, and in view of the possibility of the disturbing action of Japan, Europe stands on the brink of grave diplomatic complications. It is therefore well to recall that the reinforcement of the German squadron in the Pacific permits Russia, France and Germany effectively to prevent a disturbance of the balance of power between the three powers on one hand and Great Britain and Japan on the other, such as might be produced by violent seizures of territory."

In conclusion, the Novosti expresses the hope that the isolation of Great Britain in regard to the other European powers will "paralyze her action sufficiently to permit the preservation of peace from the dangers threatening it at the present moment."

Council of War at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—The greatest reticence is maintained here in Government circles. The Censorship has forbidden the press to attack Germany on account of the occupation of Kiao-Chou. Emperor Nicholas presided yesterday (Wednesday) at a special meeting of the council at Alexander Palace, including the Grand Dukes and the chief military and naval authorities. The Chinese situation was discussed, and it was rumored that Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch advised the immediate strengthening of the Russian squadron in China.

A Significant Fact.

The Vienna correspondent of the Standard says he has ascertained that the first news of the occupation of Port Arthur emanated from Tokio, a fact significant of Japanese vigilance.

Egyptian Flag Floats Over Kassala.

London, Dec. 23.—The Egyptian troops have arrived at Kassala, and the Egyptian flag has been hoisted over the fort by the side of the Italian. The formal cession of the town to Parsons Pasha, the British officer in command of the Egyptian forces, will take place on Christmas Day, when the Italian troops will depart.

What Weyler Says.

Madrid, Dec. 23.—General Weyler, during the course of an interview just published, is quoted as declaring formally that there is no hope of the success of autonomy, adding that no insurgent will submit except to the Marquis of [illegible] and another chief, and continue furiously. The General is also quoted as remarking that if the Spanish Government persisted in autonomy, Spain would lose Cuba in a few months.

In conclusion, the former Captain-General of Cuba said he opposed the dissolution of the Chamber until the Government announced its policy of giving Cuba an autonomous form of government.

THE KOSSUTH PROPOSAL

Is Rather Too Radical to Meet the Views of the Austrian Premier.

Buda Pest, Dec. 23.—In the Lower House of the Hungarian Parliament today Baron Banffy, the Premier, speaking of the bill providing for a provisional prolongation of the Ausgleich (union with Austria), declared that he could not adopt the resolution of Franz Kossuth demanding the establishment of an independent Hungarian customs regime by Jan. 1, 1898. He would, however, accept a motion to publish as soon as possible the data necessary for the establishment of such a regime or for the conclusion of a commercial treaty with Austria, the draft of a customs tariff and to arrange to ascertain the views of business men. He pointed out that Hungary had the right to establish an independent customs immediately if it should be in her interest to do so, but he considered the compromise arrangement with Austria more advantageous if it could be arranged with due regard for Hungary's interests. That, however, was doubtful. The Government, nevertheless, the Premier continued, desired to give Austria time to recover herself, and did not wish to cause a state of confusion, the harmful consequences of which were incalculable. The present bill did not infringe upon Hungary's rights and interests, and, he added, the Government would act vigorously against attempts similar to those of the Reichsrath, to prevent its becoming law.

This remark caused an uproar, after which the Premier concluded with an appeal to the public not to create difficulties, for Hungary's interest, he pointed out, far from requiring her to loosen her relationship with Austria, required that her ties with the latter country be made closer and stronger.

That statement was greeted with applause from the Rightists, but it caused an uproar among the Leftists.

MAGNETISM AFFECTS RAILS.

Remarkable Discoveries Made by Russian and French Savants.

Moscow, Dec. 23.—Experiments that have been made by Russian and French savants in connection with the remarkable desction of the magnetic needle over an immensee area in Central Russia have given curious results.

The observations were confined to the strip of country between Moscow and Kharkoy, a distance of about 350 miles. The needle showed the greatest aberrations in the Province of Kursk, where in the north it was deflected 90 degrees. One hundred and fifty miles southeastward the deflection exceeded 96 degrees; the needs pointing east and west, instead of north and south.

Engineers who are engaged building railroads in that part of the country are much interested in the experiments. They speculate as to how the magnetization will affect the durability of the rails.

It is known that rails are usually more durable when laid north and south than in other directions, the greatest wear from magnetism being when they are laid due east and west.

Racial War Among Soldiers.

London, Dec. 23.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Vienna records incidents showing that racial animosity has extended to the army. A racial quarrel in the Ferdinand Infantry barracks at Prague resulted in a fight with side arms between the 102nd Bohemian and the Eighteenth German regiments. One soldier was killed and seven were dangerously wounded. The Twenty-eighth Infantry regiment, which was recruited entirely in Prague, sullenly refused to do duty on the streets during the recent rioting in that city.

It is folly to build upon a poor foundation, either in architecture or in health. THE DEADLY COLD.

An Indian Chief Succumbs in the Lake of the Woods District—Frozen in the Ice.

Winnipeg, Dec. 23.—The Indian Department has received word of the death of Chief Ashetaiquineba, of Band Forty, Shoal Lake, in the Lake-of-the Woods district. This unfortunate chief was frozen to death. He had gone to Mather's logging camp for supplies the first week in December, but on his return was overtaken by a storm and lost his way. He was between 60 and 70 years of age, and was elected chief in 1883.

Frozen in the Ice.

Dauphin, Man., Dec. 23.—A man named Pugh left Winnipegosis on Sunday of last week with a half dozen more teams to go for fish up the lake. This was his first trip and he had no rack. He kept with the gang until they reached Devil's Island, which, it appears, is one of the fishing stations. Finding no fish there the rest of the company went on, but Pugh remained to make his rack. He left Tuesday night to cross over to the next camp, a distance of about five miles, and it would appear that in going over one of his horses got into a crack in the ice and, in trying to get out, he slipped in himself, and was unable to get out. He was found frozen in the ice two days afterwards. One elbow was resting on the solid ice on the side of the crack. He might possibly have got out, had he not been a sufferer from paralysis. He was an Englishman, about 40 years of age, and had no relatives in these parts.

246 IN A COUNTY ALWAYS TORY.

That Coalition Letter of Hon. Mr. Tarte to Sir Adolphe Chapleau—His Honor Willing to Have It Published—The Confidential Letter Probably Stolen From Private Secretary.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Later returns give Mr. Leduc, Liberal, a majority of 246 in Nicolet, a county which always was Conservative by even larger majorities before. Speaking of the election Mr. Tarte's paper says that the famous crisis evidently did not affect the election in Nicolet, and adds: "There is no need to say that this new success proves how thoroughly Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues enjoy the confidence of the best elements of the people of the Province of Quebec. The Government has only to continue in the way on which it has entered, to administer the affairs of the country with firmness and honesty, and it can rely on the support of all well-minded people."

Lieut.-Governor Chapleau Speaks.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Lieut.-Governor Chapleau has been in the city for the last two days. Sir Adolphe, on being asked, "What about that letter?" replied:—

"All I can say is that that letter is entered in my book as a confidential letter addressed to Hon. Mr. Tarte. That letter was read by him, and subsequently shown to the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who knew the contents thereof. Both these gentlemen have since declared that there has never been between us any question of coalition, and I corroborate that declaration."

"Why not have that letter published?"

"Simply because it has ceased to be my property since it was deposited at the postoffice. I would have no objection to put into the public press the sentiments which I uttered in that letter, as they are identical with those I have expressed in my speeches and writings, and I dare say that my feelings in that direction are but the echo of those of the mass of my countrymen."

"How was that letter abstracted?"

"It appears that it has been stolen from the drawer of Mr. Tarte's secretary, and a Mr. Piche has since stated that he had it or had had it in his possession. That is all I know about it."

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realising that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

After Typhoid Fever.

"After I had typhoid fever kidney troubles ensued. I had terrible pains in my back, head and shoulders, and felt tired, drowsy and dragged out and had annoying urinary troubles. I have grown daily better since I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills. I have no pains of any kind, sleep well, feel rested; and the urinary troubles have completely disappeared." J. W. Douglas, Port Hope.

THE OPERA HOUSE MASS MEETING LAST NIGHT.

resources in the world, and yet the government had not opened up these mines to give work to the people. A goverment that knew its business would have developed a system which would have led the young men to the mines rather than to the professions. It was naturally to be expected, Mr. Garvin said, that something should be heard from him on the educational system. The majority of the teachers to-day were under 25 years. It was evident that teachers of such an age should not give proper service. The average length of a teacher's term at his profession was 4 3-5 years. A system should be adopted that would give experienced teachers.

The speaker said that the graduates of the Normal Schools were crowded out of the teaching profession by teachers out of the Model Schools. Dr. Ryerson never dreamt that we should have such an autocratic system as we had to-day. Hon Mr. Ross had done away with the Advisory Board, and we had to day a one-man system. What Mr. Whitney proposed was of the teaching profession. The speaker then attacked what he called the school book monopoly. He asserted that by the drawing book monopoly of the Canadian Publishing Company $310,000 had been taken out of the people, for drawing books, province in ten years. Mr. Ross had reduced the cost to 5 cents and now took credit for the reduction in the last ten years. One million dollars had been taken out of the people in the price of school text books in the past ten years. Mr. Whitney and his friends if elected to power would do away with these monopolies. Mr. Garvin had practically concluded his address but as he was sitting down, by an apparent afterthought, he resumed his feet and holding up a sheet said it was a copy of a report of Mr. Stratton's address to the electors at Young's Point—a synopsis of his address, and if a synopsis took eleven columns, the full speech would be thirty-three columns and Mr. Stratton after that could say nothing about Mr. St. Johns' four-hour oration.

MR. ST. JOHN

followed in an address in which he told many amusing narratives and which was interspersed with a large number of comparisons of so ludicrous a character as to keep the audience laughing with him or at him continually. This fact rather mitigated against the point which he desired to make connection with his famous "piggery" charge, as his statements in regard to it were received even by the gentlemen on the platform with roars of laughter, rather to his discomfiture.

Mr. St. John opened his address by referring to the fact that Mr. Garvin was unacquainted with the electorate, but he assured the audience that when better acquainted with him he would be found a man worthy of support.

The hog question was then taken up and discussed, the speaker making the statement that the Government had unquestionably distributed diseased meat from the Humber piggery to the citizens of Toronto.

He claimed that it was a slur on the intelligence of the municipalities for the Government to distribute the colonization roads money, through its members and the Provincial road inspector. It was effrontery to do this and he had so stated on the floor of the House the evening previous, although he had been called to order by the Attorney-General at the time. He repeated it to-night.

Mr. St. John stated that he desired to add his tribute to the praise of Sir Oliver Mowat, as the man who had been able to marshall into line of liquor and temperance, and almost every other force in the Province. Sir Oliver had been the great law-maker, as Mr. Stratton said in his speech, but Mr. Hardy was the great law-breaker, and the electorate would be the great Government-smasher in the next election. Sir Oliver was now the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, representing the Queen, and he would, he had no doubt, distribute even-handed justice to both parties. Before he had given up his seat on the Ontario treasury benches, however, he had been very sure that he had the portfolio of Minister of Justice in his hand.

A party alliance between the Dominion and Ontario Governments was deprecated, and the statement made that the people were crying for a change. The money accounts must be scrutinized by another Government, as the Public Accounts Committee could not give the matter sufficient attention to detect any errors.

The question of the surplus was then taken up. The accummulation of over $4,000,000 mentioned by Mr. Stratton, he stated was not in existence. The Provincial Treasurer himself had stated that while the Ontario Government was in power the receipts had been $60,000,000 and the payments were about $300,000 less. This granted, he stated that against this $300,000 was to be placed the fact that $28,000,000 of the receipts were realized from decapitalization and a mortgage of over four millions. The fact is, continued the speaker, the Government is running behind every day. In the last three years they have run behind $1,233,000. Hon. Mr. Harcourt says this statement made by Col. Mathieson is incorrect, as he has made a mistake of $20,000 in the items of the sum. Well, even if this is granted the amount stands at $3,113,000. Last year the Opposition pointed out to the Government that the expenditure must necessarily be $600,000 more and asked what they proposed to do about it. No answer was received. The fact was, he stated, there was something over $300,000 in the bank, about the same sum was realized by a timber sale, and the province had been mortgaged for the balance.

The Trust Corporations of the Province were then dealt with, the speaker claiming that they had been created chiefly to furnish fat berths for the members of the Government, who felt their ship sinking under them. Trust companies, he argued, were a power handed to certain corporations, which were given permission to handle estates without having to give any security. The five Ontario companies, he admitted, were conducted by honourable men in an honourable way but they had to depend solely on the ability of the directorate to manage the finances well, still he would not say they were not solid financial associations but allowed they were all that could be desired from that aspect. Having the handling of so much money he urged, must necessitate a big profit and he objected to the Government granting such legislation, as made it permissable for the Lieut.-Governor in Council to refer a request for a charter for any other which might be formed, to the Divisional Court for proof that there was sufficient business to guarantee the formation of another company. He urged that this created as the companies already formed would unite in bringing evidence to show that business was not increasing to such an an extent as to necessitate the granting of another charter. Mr. J. R. Stratton, he stated, had received a pledge from the Government that, after he had formed the Trust and Guarantee Company in 1897 that no more charters would be given, but the effect of this statement was rather marred by his next utterance, which was that the Lieut-Governor-in-Council had granted a charter since to the Provincial Trusts Corporation. Hon. Mr. Hardy, he stated, had refused this last charter until "compelled to give it by threats and with the loaded pistol and bludgeon at his head." The members of the Cabinet and of the Legislature formed a portion of the directorate of these companies, and Mr. Stratton was the President of no less than three or four similar concerns.

For the last twenty-five years, continued the speaker, we have been decapitalising our timber resources, and over $28,000,000 had been frittered away which was received. The policy of the government had been an American rather than an Ontario one. Germany had allowed her great forests to be cut and now had to that not even a farmer could cut the trees on his farm without asking the government. Ontario was exactly in this position now and it was time to call a halt. Ontarioism had been too long subservient to foreign interests. Disloyalty to Ontario was charged against the Government, until discomfited and alarmed a premature session is called to stem the tide of defeat, but it was too late. The Government is at its wits' end and had to go. An aggressive policy was needed, ample home markets for the home produce was needed and higher wages for the labouring man. Every policy inaugurated by the Dominion Government had stabbed Ontario, which had to bear three-fifths of the taxation of Canada.

In concluding, Mr. St. John claimed that the entire timber policy of the Ontario Government was originated by the Conservatives, even to the last enactment of a few days ago. The Opposition in reality legislated, whilst the Government enjoyed the emoluments. The last enactment would for all time be known as the Whitney timber policy.

In closing his remarks the speaker reiterated the statements which, within the last few days, have been openly contradicted on the floor of the House, in regard to the selling of cholera infected hogs on the Toronto markets from the Government piggery.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers.

A Running Sore Pronounced Incurable by Eight Doctors—Cured by Dr. Chase.

Mr. R. D. Robbins, 146 Cowan Ave., Toronto, says:—"I had a bad leg which was simply unsightly. From below the knee to the ankle was one great sore. Eight doctors treated me without benefit. I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured me, and all that is remains to be seen are the scars."

THE PRIZE TEA AND FREE GIFTS AT THE PEOPLE'S GROCERY. A DECIDED SUCCESS

Would you believe it, such lovely Tea for 30 cents a pound, and a handsome Present with every pound. I saw a large beautiful white and gold China Teapot given with 1 lb. of this Tea, to an old bachelor. Just think of that! While another young lady carried off in triumph a fine large blue and white Teapot worth more money than was paid for the pound of Tea. Why there was a regular rush to the tables to secure the prizes; gifts for nothing, yes and a whole lot to choose from. Another says: "Oh my, why are you giving away your goods for nothing! Well I want to sell a lot of goods. I want to advertise my business and work up a good trade. Stop now there! I see crowds of people in your store. Why last Saturday you must have done a rushing trade." Well so we did, and we heartily thank you for your kind patronage and favours, and I promise to do my best to deserve it. "I see your advertisement in the Daily EXAMINER, with a grand list of Christmas free gifts for nothing. Just give me a pound of that tea, and I will take a set of those nice China Dishes for my little girl, it will make her so happy. Good Bye." This is what people are saying and doing. We have a large counter filled with free gifts, which every purchaser of one pound of Japan Tea can select from. We have a fine full stock of all lines in Groceries. WARSHIPS AT COREA.

A Protest Against Yielding to Russia.

THE CZAR APPROVES THE UMPIRE

Christmas in England—Royal Merry Makers—Jackson and the Pole—Fools and Their Money—The Striking Engineers—The Far East Scare Looked Upon as Premature.

London, Dec. 27.—A special despatch from Shanghai says: "It is reported that 17 British warships are off Chemulpo, Corea, southwest of Seoul, supporting the British Consul's protest, really amounting to an ultimatum, against the King's practically yielding the government of Corea into the hands of the Russian Minister.

The protest is specially directed against the dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown, British adviser to the Corean customs, in favor of the Russian nominee. The news has produced consternation at Seoul, which is heightened by the knowledge that Japan has a fleet of 30 warships awaiting the result of the British representation, that Japan fully supports. Japan is irritated by the arrival of Russian troops in Corea, and it is believed that she will oppose them.

British Force Landed.

According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai, it is reported there from reliable sources that a British force landed at Chemulpo on Saturday and caused the reinstatement of Mr. McLeavy Brown. The same despatch refers to "A native rumor that the Union Jack has been hoisted on an island in the mouth of the River Yang-Tse-Kiang."

THE FAR EAST SITUATION.

British Government Reticent, But the Scare is Looked on as Premature.

London, Dec. 27.—In well-informed circles the general impression prevails that the alarm of newspapers and among the public in regard to the far East is at least premature. While the members of the Government are reticent, they are evidently sincere in disclaiming the least alarm. The impression gathered in Ministerial quarters is that Great Britain is carefully watching events, biding her time, and that she certainly will not fail to act promptly and vigorously at the proper moment. It is intimated in quarters usually well posted on such matters that Germany either has, or wishes to have, an understanding on the subject with Great Britain. This view is strongly supported by Prince Henry's visit to Queen Victoria, at Osborne, by his subsequent trip to London, and by the autograph letter which the Prince is said to have taken to Her Majesty from Emperor William, of which confirmation is forthcoming. The Emperor's letter to the Queen is regarded as being a distinctly conciliatory step on the part of Germany.

But there is no doubt that Great Britain is quietly preparing for all eventualities. Should it become clear that Germany and Russia have really commenced a game of grab, Great Britain will be prepared to assert her claims for a division of the spoils. That Russia does not expect trouble, is shown in the fact that she has not one battleship in the far East.

But of course if Russia does not leave Port Arthur in the spring her stay there may lead to other grabbing. The British Government, however, is apparently not borrowing trouble. From a trading point of view it is pointed out that even in the event of the opening of three new foreign ports they will probably be as little harmful to Shanghai as Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia are to New York.

LORD SALISBURY'S ORGAN

Points Out the Queer Combinations Existing Among the Nations.

London, Dec. 27.—The Standard says in an article on the situation in China:—

"We have for Christmas contemplation one of the most singular tangles that have ever tried the patiences and perspicacity of diplomatic experts. The eastern question in Europe, as affected by the system of continental alliances, was baffling enough in its intricacy. Republican France, from mere fear of Germany, or from a desire for revenge, became the sworn friend of despotic Russia. But while the Czar is full of grace and enthusiasm toward President Faure, he has also the language of sympathetic, warm friendship and close understanding to offer the German Emperor, and such is the lucky magnetism of the Muscovite autocracy that Austria permits itself to forswear its distrust and dismiss, for the time being, any extreme apprehension about the Balkan Peninsula. But Austria-Hungary is itself rent by internecine disputes which, to those who watch with admiration and gratitude the noble devotion of the Emperor King, appear to threaten the cohesion of the vast fabric that is held together by his personal influence.

"Italy meanwhile is forced by reverses which the auspicious gallantry of its army has failed to avert, to reduce the sphere of its activity abroad and husband its resources at home. Great Britain, because it refuses to indentify itself either with the Russo-French of the German-Austrian alliance, becomes a mark for the ill nature of at least two powers. Yet a concert of all these powers is contrived to prevent the re-opening of the eastern question, which, it is recognized, would be the signal for the long-postponed collision. This co-operation, however, permits Germany to show its bad temper and masterfulness at the expense of Crete and Greece.

"While things in the Levant are in this harrassing condition of uncertain equilibrium, suddenly the Chinese territory is, so to speak, thrown into the diplomatic market. Germany and Russia, whether in pursuance of a concert or in amicable rivalry, each occupy positions on the mainland, which must provoke Great Britain, the paramount commercial power, to seek compensation as a safeguard against exclusion.

Turks Fired on a Greek Gunboat.

Athens, Dec. 27.—As the Greek gunboat Actium was leaving the Gulf of Ambracia Saturday a shot was fired at her by the Turks at Fort Prevesa, on the north side of the entrance to the Gulf. The Actium and several other gunboats which were following her were compelled to return to their anchorage.

The Government has wired to Prince Mavrocordato, the Greek Minister at Constantinople, instructing him to ask the Turkish Government for a friendly explanation of the incident.

FOOLS AND THEIR MONEY.

Some of the Interesting Things That Take Place in the Gambling Centre.

London, Dec. 27.—The alleged attempt of the Prince of Monaco to bleed the Casino Company has led to the publication of a pamphlet by a group of shareholders, full of interesting reading. While everybody is aware that the Casino contributed largely to his revenues, few know that besides the subsidy of the Prince, the establishment keeps up the judges, police, lighting, water, postoffice, clergy and charitable institutions. Last season's expenditure of the principality apart from the maintanence of the Casino, which was £334,000, amounted to £130,000, of which sum the Prince had £50,000, the courts, police, etc., £30,000, the clergy and schools £9,000, charities £6,000, prizes for sports £11,000, and the postoffice and losses £3,000. The dividend on shares absorbed £576,000, making a total revenue of £1,540,000, which the "fools of the world" left at the Monte Carlo gambling tables.

An interesting item is "press subventions £35,000." The pamphlet holds that it is absolutely necessary to expend a large sum in securing the good will of the continental press, and it is said that over half the stories of suicides are only bids upon the part of Riveria newspapers for a share of the boodle.

CHRISTMAS IN ENGLAND.

Royal Merry Makers—The Seasonable Temperature in Old England.

London, Dec. 27.—The temperature is seasonable, the yellow fogs of the middle of last week having given way to comparative brightness. The week has been the coldest of the season, 10 to 20 degrees of frost being registered, and skating has commenced. All who could do so have gone to the country, where Christmas house parties were more numerous than usual.

The Marquis of Salisbury is entertaining a large shooting party.

Queen Victoria had a merry party at Osborne. There was a grand Christmas tree, loaded with presents, for the royal children, the members of the household and the servants. The party includes the Battenbergs, Connaughts, Lornes and Albanys. A royal baron of beef, cut from a Devon ox, fed on the royal farm at Windsor and roasted at Windsor by the cooks sent by the London caterer, was forwarded to Osborne on Friday with the boar's head and woodcock pie, which traditionally occupies the Queen's sideboard at Christmas. This year's boar's head is a genuine Hure de Sanglier from the Coburgs' preserves in the Thurinarian forest.

THE STRIKING ENGINEERS.

Very Little Probability That the Deadlock Will be Broken.

London, Dec. 27.—The striking engineers in their second ballot upon the proposals of the employers, the result of which is returnable on Dec. 28, to which date the conference of the masters and employes adjourned last week, are again rejecting the propositions made by the masters in the conference. The leaders of the strikers insured this result by combining two questions in the ballots. These questions were: "Are you in favor of the proposals of the masters in regard to their management of workshops?" and "Are you in favor of a working week of 51 hours?"

Naturally all of the men support the latter question, against which the employers have all along contended, and upon which they are still unyielding in their opposition. The masters declare that they never offered such a compromise and they are now formulating plans for a wide extension of their proposed lock-out.

JACKSON AND THE POLE.

After Hearing Peary's Lecture He Makes Some Changes in His Plans.

London, Dec. 27.—As soon as Jackson, the explorer, completes the work connected with his Frans Josef Land expedition he will start for the North Pole. He informed a representative of the Associated Press that his original plans were identical with those of Lieut. Peary, except that he intended to take the east coast of Finland, instead of the west, mapping out undiscovered land en route. But since he heard Lieut. Peary's lecture Jackson has changed his plans. Considering that Peary had prior claims, Jackson now proposes to proceed via Davis Straits and Baffin's Bay up the west coast to Ellsmere Land and Grinnell Land, and thence across to the furthermost point reached by Aldrich in 1876, whence he will push north, making in the direction of any land visible from the coast. The date of his departure is unsettled. Jackson will have only one companion, outside of his crew.

Talking over his plans he said: "I hope to push my ship considerably beyond Coburg Island, at the entrance of Jones' Sound, at the furthest navigable point. I shall establish a base and thence push north with sledges, dogs and ponies and with one companion. I expect to be absent about two years."

Not Very Peaceful.

Madrid, Dec. 27.—Yesterday El Imparcial urged that, in view of the character of the reply of United States Minister Woodford to the note of the Spanish Government in answer to the first communication of the American Government through him, it is necessary to increase the Spanish fleet as against the eventuality of a conflict with the United States.

El Heraldo says: "The encroachments of the United States upon the internal politics of Spain have become intolerable and must be resisted energetically. The situation is difficult, but at whatever cost the Government ought to put an end to a shameful state of affairs for the sake of the dignity of Spain."

The Czar Sanctions It.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—The official messenger formally announces the Czar's sanction of the appointment of Councillor Martens of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Professor of International Law in the University of St. Petersburg as umpire in the Anglo-Venezuelan arbitration.

At the Cost of His Life.

New York, Dec. 27.—James F. Coleman, an engine driver in the Fire Department, sacrificed his own life on Christmas rather than run down a woman and a little girl, who, transfixed with fright, were unable to get out of his way. Coleman, to avoid hitting them, gave the engine too sharp a turn and it toppled over, with the driver beneath it, killing him almost instantly. The child was carrying a Christmas doll, and Coleman had just reported for duty after having been present at the Christmas celebration of his own two children.

Cotton Cargo on Fire.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 27.—The British steamer Lambert's Point, Captain Humphreys, seven days from Norfolk, Va., for Liverpool with cattle, cotton, grain and a general cargo, has arrived here with her cotton on fire and the ship in a bad state. Captain Humphreys says that he could not have controlled the fire 24 hours longer. Holes are now being cut in her sides to admit steampipes, in the hope of having the fire subdued by Tuesday, when the cotton will be discharged until the seat of the fire is reached. Nearly the entire cargo is damaged.

An Indian Bled to Death.

Parry Sound, Dec. 26.—An Indian named David Nanabush, who resided with his family at the south end of Burton's Bay, had been out hunting and in some way his rifle was discharged, wounding him severely in the leg. Being alone and some distance from home, the unfortunate fellow bled to death and his body was found in the bush.

Married Woman's Suicide.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 27.—Hon. Clifford Sifton left Sunday for Washington to see the United States Government on Yukon affairs.

Mrs. French, a young married woman living at Billings Bridge, committed suicide by taking a dose of carbolic acid. Her husband works in a livery stable in the city.

Adopted for Canadian Infantry.

He Writes About His Condition—Wife and Children Helped.

WALLACEBURG, ONT.—The following letter will prove of interest to working men and others who may be in a condition similar to that of the writer:

"For three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I have been working at the barber trade for about 20 years and for the last four years I have been very closely confined and have had my meals very irregularly. I was taken with a

Very Severe Cough

and the doctors said it was caused by my stomach troubles. I lost flesh and became so weak I was hardly able to stand up to the chair to work. One day I happened to be looking over some testimonial letters and I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before I had taken two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt finely and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I have taken nearly five bottles and now I feel like a man again. I am than I have ever been in my life. My wife and children have also taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a blood medicine and realized much benefit from it. As for myself I cannot say too much for it. I firmly believe that if it had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla I would not have been able to work at my trade any longer." JOHN W. COUSELLIN. Get only HOOD'S.

Stronger and Healthier

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

This morning Mr. William Yelland and Mr. A. L. Davis were formally nominated as candidates for the position of Mayor of the Town of Peterborough for the year 1898. They are now in the field officially, and the citizens have the duty of deciding which is best qualified and likely to best serve the town in the capacity of Mayor. Mr. Yelland has been Mayor for the past two years, and had previously been councillor for over a dozen years; the people have his record before them and are in a position to intelligently express their opinion of his qualifications for the position he seeks. Last year Mr. Yelland came out as a candidate, and although in taking that step he did not consult THE EXAMINER, yet THE EXAMINER, believing that he was fairly entitled to a second term, gave him a hearty support and used its best efforts to secure his election. At that time the question was Mr. Yelland's claim to a second term, it being an unwritten law that a mayor who has satisfactorily performed the duties of that office for one year, was entitled to a second term, and the result of the contest was that the town practically recognized the principle involved, by returning Mr. Yelland as mayor by a good majority. On the occasion of the two contests which he has successfully conducted, Mr. Yelland was a candidate of his own free will and accord. He had a perfect right, like any other capable citizen, to become a candidate for the mayoralty. He exercised that right, and there was nobody that could call him to account for so doing. On the same grounds Mr. Davis has entered the field as a candidate for the mayoralty. He says, and there is no reason to doubt his word, that he was requested to do so by a large number of influential electors. He was perfectly free to accede to or reject the request of his friends; and in accepting the candidature for the mayoralty, he only exercised his right in the same manner that Mr. Yelland has exercised his right on three occasions; and the EXAMINER had no more to do in challenging the right or influencing the decision of either gentlemen in one case more than the other. Mr. Yelland has been mayor of the town for two terms and the people have his record before them to form an intelligent judgment upon as to his fitness to serve the public interests for another term. His long residence in the town and the full acquaintance the people have with him, give additional means of forming a judgment. Mr. Davis is also well known to the people, having practically lived all his life here, and his one term in the council, as well as the large measure of knowledge the people have of his career and abilities also afford ample ground for the electors to decide as to the merits of his claims to their support.

At the present time there do not appear to be any questions of very grave importance pressing for solution. The contest is largely one of candidates, and it is for the people to decide which of the two is best qualified in general for rendering the town the services it requires; which will best promote its interests; which will most faithfully and successfully grapple with the administrative problems that whose solution demands the services of a mayor; and which will, in a word, make the best mayor for the town for the years 1898. Some will think that Mr. Yelland answers these conditions, and others will think that Mr. Davis will meet them—it is a question for the electors to decide. As far as the EXAMINER is concerned, it has no advice to proffer the electors. Mr. Yelland has entered the field, as he has a perfect right to do, of his own free will and accord. Mr. Davis has entered the field, as he has a perfect right to do, of his own free will and accord. The question at issue is largely one as between the two men, and the people know enough of both to enable them to arrive at a decision, and whatever that decision is, the EXAMINER is prepared to accept it, and will give a loyal support to the gentleman whom may be selected as our chief magistrate, so long as his course accords with our ideas of what is in the best interests of the town of Peterborough.

THE TRADING COMPANY.

Of Which Mr. G. A. Strickland, of Lakefield, is Manager, Engaged in Extensive Operations for the Klondike.

We clip the following from the Morning Tribune, published at Portland, Oregon, which refers to Mr. G. A. Strickland, of Lakefield.

There will be no trouble about reaching the Alaska gold fields, via St. Michael's, when the Yukon becomes navigable. Several additions will be made to the fleet of river boats by the Klondike Mining, Trading and Transportation Co., which has had a representative in this city for several days.

The company is the Canadian syndicate to which reference was made recently in these columns. Negotiations for the purchase of several river boats for the Yukon trade are now pending. Mr. G. A. Strickland, who is acting as agent for the syndicate, said yesterday that the company expects to buy three or four boats. He told me that the company will buy here if it can buy at satisfactory figures. Mr. Strickland has experienced no difficulty in finding desirable boats and the owners are willing to sell, but the company will spend no money here unless it can buy at rock-bottom prices.

If the company cannot get the boat at a reasonable figure, they will place orders for new boats. Mr. Strickland believes that Columbia river boatmen are the best in swift and the boats will be manned by crews from there. The company has ocean steamships plying between England and America, which will connect with the river boats at the mouth of the Yukon.

Mr. Strickland is a man of extensive information, and appears to be thoroughly familiar with the Alaskan situation. In appearance he is a typical Englishman, with agreeable manners, and his powerful frame is encased in a neat-fitting outing costume of light gray material. He said that the Canadian police are making satisfactory progress in the placing of posts for telegraphic communication along the Chilkoot Pass from Dyea. These posts are set about fifty miles apart and are intended only for present needs. A permanent route will be determined not until a survey for a railroad is completed. Whether the Canadian Pacific or the Government puts in the contemplated line from the Stickeen river to Lake Teslo, this will have to become the established route and the telegraphic service will follow that route.

Regarding the gold outlook, Mr. Strickland said there are unprospected fields, a superficial inspection of which shows them to be richer than the Klondike. He showed me a piece of quartz which assays $30,000 to the ton. The dull yellow metal could be seen with the naked eyes and was quite evenly distributed in the rock. The richness of some of the quartz mines in that he said can not be estimated. The gold belt he estimates at 100,000 square miles. There is gold, he said, from the Stickeen to Dawson. The only question is as to where it lies richest.

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that.

PAPAL ENCYCLICAL.

Effect on the Manitoba School Question Problematical.

BRUCHESI TO MAKE STATEMENT

The Archbishop, in the Meantime, Denies That He Went to Rome to Discuss the School Question With the Pope—An Outside Opinion on the Letter.

Montreal, Dec. 27.—(Special.)—It is rather early yet to say what, if any, effect the Pope's letter on the Manitoba school question will have in politics. From a purely political point of view the situation is unchanged, that is to say, the question is dead. The ecclesiastical authorities will say nothing. They have not received the text of the letter officially, and their only knowledge of it is the cable summary. Besides, Archbishop Bruchesi is away, and in his absence no one is authorized to speak on the subject. The Archbishop will arrive here from Rome to-morrow, and either then or at the reception which will be given to him on Tuesday he may say something. The bishops of the Province will meet here on January 4 in connection with the services held on the anniversary of the death of Archbishop Fabre, and it is possible that they will give a collective opinion about the letter on that occasion.

WHAT MGR. BRUCHESI SAID.

The Pope Has Condemned the Settlement and Upheld the Bishops.

New York, Dec. 27. — Archbishop Bruchesi arrived here yesterday on the steamer La Champagne. In an interview he denied that he went to Italy for the purpose of discussing the Manitoba school question with the Pope. He says that the Pope in an encyclical has condemned the present school laws of Manitoba and sustained the church in opposition to the existing system. The Archbishop says that since the present law went into effect the number of Catholic children in the Public schools had decreased. He added that it was now hoped that the Canadian Parliament would accede to the demands of the Catholic church in Manitoba. Archbishop Bruchesi in conclusion said that while in Rome he had not heard anything about the appointment of a Papal delegate for Manitoba.

A Message of Peace.

London, Dec. 27.—The Times, commenting editorially this morning on the Pope's encyclical, says: "The Pope has approached the very difficult Manitoba school problem in the spirit of conciliation and compromise, and the encyclical seems honestly designed as a message of peace."

AN OUTSIDE VIEW.

Why Should the Pope Interfere to Disturb the Settlement?

New York, Dec. 27.—The Times, referring editorially to the Pope's encyclical on the Manitoba school question, says:—"It is not clear at the first glance why the Pope should have published on Christmas Eve an encyclical upon the school question in Manitoba. Certainly nothing could be more opposed to the spirit of the season than a papal re-opening of such a question. It is no longer, or at least is not at present, a 'live' question, and the only certain result of reviving it is to stir up strife in regions that are now peaceful. The compromise arrived at by Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not suit either the Catholic or the Protestant zealots, of whom each desired to use the Public schools as a propaganda of its respective religion. But it was accepted, though under protest, by these, and was acquiesced in loyally by the mass of citizens; it has seemed in fact to be working very well. Why, then, should the Pope interfere to disturb the settlement and to reopen the question?

"The answer obviously is that 'pressure' was put upon him to do so. This pressure evidently proceeded from the Canadian bishops, whom the encyclical goes rather out of its way to praise. That these ecclesiastics should have captured the papal ear indicates either that Mgr. Martinelli has not been so judicious as his predecessor, or else that he has not acquired so much influence at the Vatican. For it is certain that the bishops of the Province of Quebec, who have been most conspicuous in attacking the compromise, are a body of very bad advisers and that the following of their counsels will get the church into serious mischief, which it might avoid by simply doing nothing."

A Running Sore Pronounced Incurable by Eight Doctors—Cured by Dr. Chase.

Mr. R. D. Robbins, 146 Cowan Ave., Toronto, says:—"I had a bad leg which was simply unsightly. From below the knee to the ankle was one great sore. Eight doctors treated me without benefit. I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured me, and all that is remains to be seen are the scars."

WHEAT GAMBLERS IN A MIX.

The Bull Crowd Insisted on Close Inspection, But Were Thrown Down.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—A question as to the quality of about 8,000 bushel of wheat in the hold of the steamer Iron King, belonging to the Seaverns Company, and which they tendered to the Leiter clique as contract grade, has developed that the bull crowd is insisting on the strictest inspection of all wheat tendered for December delivery. When this wheat was first tendered it was refused by Leiter, who claimed it was not of contract quality. In this he was backed up by the Board of Appeals of the Board of Trade. Later, however, the board reversed its decision. The Leiter people refused flatly the new decision of the Appeals Board, and now it is said the case was taken to the Board of Trade directory or to the court.

HOW XMAS WAS SPENT

In the Public and Charitable Institutions of the Town.

Christmas was observed with the usual festivities and decorations in the various charitable and public institutions of the town, all of which received a large number of visitors during the day, as the weather was such as to be most inviting for walking or driving.

The Peterborough Protestant Home was very artistically decorated under Miss Lowndravilla's supervision, special attention being paid to the halls. From the ceiling pretty festoons of evergreens hung upon the walls and were looped around the doors and windows, making the interior of the Home bright and cheerful for the joyous Christmas time. The inmates were provided with a splendid dinner, the bill of fare including turkey and plum pudding. Rev. Mr. Armitage held a service in the morning at ten o'clock, which was greatly appreciated. The choir boys of St. John's did not visit this or any other institution during the day and their absence was regretted by all, but it is understood that they will make their customary calls on New Year's Day instead of Christmas.

At the Barnardo Home Christmas was made bright for fifty-seven little English girls. Bright clumps of evergreen were arranged over the doors and windows in the main building, and the schoolroom was most profusely decorated. The special attraction of the room, however, existed in the big Christmas tree loaded with gifts for the children and from amongst the branches of which peeped out a gray haired old Santa Claus. After a splendid dinner the little ones repaired to the schoolroom and sang a number of appropriate hymns and carols. The gifts were then distributed and during the rest of the afternoon the children enjoyed themselves in playing games.

St. Joseph's Hospital and the Home of Providence was, as usual, most tastefully decorated for Christmas, the altar in the little chapel being especially worthy of mention in this respect. Between fifty and sixty of the inmates were able to sit down to an appetising dinner consisting, of course, principally of turkey and plum pudding. During the day three masses were said by Rev. Father O'Connell, beginning at half-past six in the morning. In the afternoon His Lordship Bishop O'Connor and Ven Archdeacon Casey drove over, and the former pronounced the benediction. The old people in the House of Providence were then made the recipients of a treat of sweetmeats at the hands of his Lordship. During the morning, just before dinner, the upper hall was the centre of attraction, when gifts from a large tree were distributed.

The patients in the Nicholls Hospital were awakened Christmas morning by the carolling of Christmas anthems by the staff of nurses at six o'clock, after which letters were distributed, which were received from the Christmas Letter Mission, through Miss Roger. A good dinner was enjoyed by all who were able to assemble in the general dining room, and after the patients had returned to their rooms grapes, raisins and nuts were distributed. Each and everyone received a nosegay of flowers from Mrs. Green's George street Sunday school class. This year the Hospital decorations were of a different nature than that of former years, Mr. Head's conservatory supplying a profuse supply of palms and other foliage plants for the occasion, and giving the interior of the building quite a tropical appearance, reflecting no small credit on the hospital's head floriculturist.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Messrs. Wm. Yelland and A. L. Davis Nominated for Mayor.

THE PROPOSERS AND THE CANDIDATES SPEAK.

The Questions at Issue Discussed—Nomination for Councillors and School Trustees—In Town and Ashburnham—A Big Slate Named.

The nominations for Mayor took place at the council chamber this morning. There was a large attendance of the electors, the council chamber being crowded.

The following nominations were made for the office of Mayor.

William Yelland, proposed by Mr. J. P. Metheral, and seconded by Mr. H. J. Daubus.

Mr. Alfred Lawrence Davis, proposed by Mr. J. J. Hartley, seconded by Mr. James Kendry.

Mr. Armstrong, town clerk, was requested to occupy the chair.

Mr. Metheral, the proposer of Mr. Yelland, and Mr. Daubus, seconder, declined to speak in support of their nomination.

THE MAYOR SPEAKS.

Mr. Yelland was the first speaker, and began by wishing the electors a happy New Year. He thanked the electors for having twice placed him in the Mayor's chair. During that time it had been a pleasure to him to do all he could to advance the interests of of the town. He referred to the visit of Lord and Lady Aberdeen, and expressed his appreciation of driving about town with their excellencies. It was a great honour to confer on the workingmen of the town that the mayor they had elected should be so honoured. It was something that had not happened to any mayor since 1836, and the record would go down to posterity that this happened when Yelland was mayor. He had also had the honour of assisting at the opening of the Victoria Museum, and in his term also the Y.M.C.A. building had been erected, and these things would also go down to posterity as having been done when William Yelland was mayor of the town. Referring to the past year's record of the council Mr. Yelland said the affairs of the town had been efficiently and economically managed—the taxes had not been higher than other years and they had a surplus in the treasury of about $700, and had besides some $1,500 or $1,600 worth of broken stone on hand that had not yet been placed upon the streets. The cash surplus would have been about $400 more had it not been for the action of his opponent in connection with the remission of the pole rent for the streets in favour of the Auburn Power Company, Mr. Yelland charged that Mr. Davis had voted for the remission of this $400 of taxes for the use of the streets and there had been no conditions imposed as to what charges should be made for power. He (Mr. Yelland) had opposed this transaction as being contrary to the interests of the town. In respect to the Moncrief case, Mr. Yelland explained Mr. Moncrief had secured for damages for injuries sustained by his wife by falling through a trap door on Simcoe street. The town entered an appeal, and when the appeal was being heard Judge Armour had suggested that the Toronto Savings and Loan Co., doing business in town, should be made a party to the suit, because the company, as landlord, were bound to furnish access to premises leased, and the only entrance in this case was the trap door in question. The Town Solicitor reported the matter to the council, and when the matter came up to make the company a party to the suit, Mr. Davis was the first to move that the company be not made a party to the suit. He stated, the mayor said, that he was an interested party. "I took stock of that," said Mr. Yelland, "and though Mr. Davis does not give me much credit for business shrewdness, when the matter came to a vote I reminded Mr. Davis that he was an interested party and told him he could not vote." And he did not vote, and the company was made a party to the suit, and the costs of the suit were divided among the three parties, thus lessening the share the town would have had to pay. Referring again to the pole matter, the Mayor stated that Mr. Meldrum in the council had called him a coward and said that he (the Mayor) "had no backbone." Mr. Yelland said he would now show Mr. Meldrum that he had some backbone, and would stand up for the interests of the town. Mr. Yelland went on say that the present contest was one

WILLIAM YELLAND.

A VERDICT AGAINST THE TOWN

BETWEEN LABOUR AND CAPITAL,

and he called upon the citizens to stand by the town in supporting him. Mr. Yelland in referring to the spirit that should animate the contest, said that Mr. Kendry had met him on the street and called him a liar. He (the mayor) had crossed the street to shake hands with Mr. Kendry. Mr. Kendry shook hands with him but the next minute called him a liar. (Laughter.) "Was that parliamentary language?" (Cheers.) Mr. Yelland declared that he was good friends with every man in town, and he would continue to have friendly feelings for everybody, and when the elections were over he would be on good terms with all. He called upon the electors to vote without fear. He himself neither feared the frowns nor courted the favour of any man. (Cheers.)

Mr. J. J. Hartley who proposed Mr. Davis spoke briefly in his favour. He felt that he had nominated a candidate worthy of the confidence of the people. Mr. Davis had been a long resident of the town and while here he had been a credit to himself and the town. He did not nominate Mr. Davis because he had anything against Mr. Yelland but he took sides and felt like supporting whom he thought the best man. Referring to this year's cash surplus Mr. Hartley said it was not correct but that

UNPAID BILLS HAD COME IN that wiped it out. He would have preferred in view of our high taxes that they had been lightened to the extent of the surplus claimed. Last year Mr. Davis had been elected at the head of the poll in No. 2 ward and this year he was seeking promotion. He (Mr. Hartley) would be sorry to dictate to the electors how they should vote, the majority should decide which was the best man. Mr. Davis' business relations would bring him in contact with people who would help in bringing what the town needed, more manufacturing establishments. With a good head the council stood a chance of getting something that would provide work to the workingmen. He was a workingman himself and believed in doing everthing he could to help labor. He objected to capital being decried. Capital and labour should work harmoniously together; every dollar spent by capital gave employment to the workingmen.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, as seconding Mr. Davis' nomination, was then called on by the chairman. He was well received, and opened his remarks by expressing the pleasure it gave him to appear on behalf of Mr. Davis. Everyone knew Mr. Davis was a young man, who had built himself up in the town. The speaker had been interested in a number of business enterprises with Mr. Davis, and had always found him ready and willing to take shares in any industry, which it was proposed to establish in the town.

"Did you," asked he, "ever find Mayor Yelland doing anything like this?"

I am a mechanic myself, continued Mr. Kendry. Mr. Davis and myself are in business, and have all our money invested, being in such a position that we may lose it all. Does the present Mayor risk his money in this way—where it will be of advantage to the town? No, he has it safely invested in mortgages on houses. What we want is a young business man, like Mr. Davis, for our next mayor. Mr. Yelland states that he is going to run until he gets in by acclamation. He doesn't wish to accede to the wishes of the ratepayers. He does not ask them to elect him, but forces himself upon them by this statement. Last year he caused it to be understood that he would retire at the end of his term. He says his name will be handed down to posterity; well, we will begin to hand it down at the end of the year by electing a

PROGRESSIVE YOUNG BUSINESS MAN

in his place. Mr. Yelland claims to be a working man, but Mr. Davis is more of a working man than he is, as the former is well to do, and has retired entirely from business. I am glad that he is in a position to do this, but it is a point against him when he claims to be a working man. I have been attacked by Mr. Yelland in his circular to the electors. I want to tell him that no man has lost more money in manufacturing enterprises in Peterborough than I have, and I would risk my money again. We wanted to bring a big rubber industry to Peterborough and Mr. Davis at once offered to take $3,000 worth of stock. Did Mr. Yelland offer to take any? No, not a hundred dollars, or ten dollars, or even one dollar's worth of stock to help along the town. He wouldn't risk his money to give the workingmen of Peterborough a chance. When he wants a workman he goes to Lakefield and gets one. I understand he went there only the other day and got a painter. He doesn't employ home labour. I am in a position to prove that the statements made by the mayor in his circular are false, as reflected on Mr. Davis. When the Auburn Power Company sent in its tender and offered to supply the town with electric lights at $57.50 per year, the mayor was in the chair when the council threw out the tender and called for new ones. He says that Mr. Davis voted to exempt the Auburn Company from paying a tax on their poles. I am in a position to prove that no company in the town pay such a tax. The Peterborough Light and Power Company raised its price by five dollars a lamp to meet the tax and thereby evades it. Does the Bell Telephone Company pay taxes?

The Mayor—No, and more shame to you, as you were in the chair when they GOT THE FRANCHISE.

Mr. Kendry—It's retrograding to put a tax on the poles, as manufacturers can use electricity at half the cost of steam and by putting a tax on the poles the price of power is raised and many small manufactories wishing to locate here would be shut out. Mr. Davis is no tool of an Auburn or any other company. I never spoke to him as a councillor in reference to any of these matters. I ask you again, what has Mr. Yelland ever done for the town? Nothing! Mr. Yelland has made the statement in his circular that no insurance man is fit to represent the town. He thinks that no one but himself can do the work now—a man of business, as he claims. We want a lively man. He has had two years and hasn't the decency to retire when asked, through the nominating of opposition every time. I challenge him to the proofs of any of his statements in his circular.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams asked that mention be made of the fact that the electric light contract was let in 1896, thereby not involving all the members of the council of 1897.

Mr. A. L. Davis was received with cheers. He thanked his nominators for the honour they had done him in bringing out his name. During his residence in town he had tried to build up a character that would command the respect of the community, and asked the voters to stand by him if they felt he was worthy of their confidence. He was standing on his own merits and was not running under anyone else's cloak. He asked their votes on his own record. He had heard that Mr. J. R.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Mr. George J. Tovey Presented with a Rocking Chair by his Sunday School Class.

On Thursday last about fifteen young ladies of Mr. Geo. J. Tovey's Bible Class waited upon him at his residence, No. 129 Stewart street, where Miss Annie Allin, on behalf of the class, presented him with a handsome rocking chair, accompanied by the following address:

Mr. Geo. J. Tovey, Teacher of Girls' Bible Class, Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School:

DEAR TEACHER,—At this season of the year when good cheer and well-wishes are abroad, we, the girls of your Sunday School class take occasion to express our kind feelings and loyalty to you, our teacher. You have been kind, generous and painstaking with us during our relations as teacher and pupils, and may this relation continue undisturbed is our sincere desire.

In presenting you with this chair we hope that this Christmas and many others will be merry and happy ones for yourself and family and may the Father and Saviour of whom you teach ever protect and guide you and yours. Again wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the class.

IDA SANDERSON,
IDA HULL,
ANNIE PEDLAR.

The recipient, who was greatly taken by surprise, thanked the class for their thoughtfulness, after which the evening was spent in social entertainment, music, games, etc., the party breaking up at midnight, after refreshments had been served.

THE DOG SHOW.

Kind Words From the Kennel Gazette Regarding It.

The Kennel Gazette speaks as follows concerning the dog show to be held next month: It is with an unusual degree of pleasure that we are able to make final announcement of a show to be held at Peterborough on January 18th, 19th and 20th next, at which Messrs. C. A. Stone and H. P. Mulloss will officiate as judges. Canadian Kennel Club rules will govern, so we may expect a decent-sized entry from those who are desirous that their dogs should attain a record. Money prizes of $4, $2 and $1 are offered all through, together with several specials. Open classes only are provided, and for the following breeds: Mastiffs, Great Danes, Greyhounds, Beagles, English Setters, Irish Setters, Cockers, other than black, Bull Terriers, Pugs and miscellaneous. The following breeds are favoured with separate classes for the sexes: St. Bernard's (rough or smooth) Foxhounds, Black Cockers, Spaniels, any variety (over 22 lbs.), Fox Terriers, wire, Fox Terriers, smooth, Dachshunds, Collies and Terriers, (any variety not classified.) The entrance fee is but one dollar, and entries positively close Monday, January 10th. The following gentlemen comprise the dog show committee: George Burnham, M.D., Henry Pigeon, M.D., B. R. Poole, V.S., James Head, A. Terrill, E. H. White, C. McCormack, John McKee, C. B. James, B. R. Poole, V.S., Secretary; Bernard R. Poole, V.S., Veterinary Surgeon. Now all the committee need to make them happy are entries, and we feel assured from both correspondence and personal enquiry that these will be forthcoming from both east and west.

Belleville has decided to hold a show on somewhat the same lines the two days following Peterborough's dates, i.e., 21st and 22nd. The dogs will be benched in the Armory and any funds accruing will go to aid the Belleville Hospital. We are not sure if the committee have decided to hold the show under C.K.C. rules, in fact at this writing details have not been worked out. Mr. C. Y. Ford has been asked to judge. As dogs can be sent direct from Peterborough to Belleville the entry for both shows should be increased.

New Round Baskets in all sizes arrived at MRS. APPLEBY'S, 129 Water Street.

Removes Pain Quickly.

For pain in the back, sides or chest, a little "Quickcure" spread on a piece of linnen or cotton, and applied to the sore spot will remove the pain and inflammation at once. 50c. and $1.00 size "Quickcure" pots hold three and nine times trial size. Only a little is required.

Washing Day.

The drudgery of housekeeping for the workingman's wife comes on washing day, when there is no washing machine or wringer in the house. It's killing on women who are raising a family, especially at this season of the year when blankets and other heavy articles of the home must be cleaned for winter. Washing and wringing makes more aching arms and tired bodies than anything else a woman can do. Husbands might be a little more thoughtful. In hundreds of cases they could buy a new washer and wringer every year for what it costs to pay for doctor's bills and servants for their tired-out wives, whose health has been run down over the washboard and washtub. Take a hint, you men, and make time to see the two kinds of labour-saving washing machines made by G. Walter Green at his pump factory on Dickson's race. If you can't make time, ring up telephone No. 22, or address box 362, and have him send one over to your house.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful: active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

Peterborough, December 17th, 1897.

MAYORALTY ELECTION FOR 1898.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In again offering myself as a candidate for the important and honourable position of Mayor of Peterborough, I have first to thank you for having twice returned me at the head of the poll. You are doubtless aware that, up to a very recent date, no one could be found to oppose my re-election, and while my opponent is a gentleman for whom I have the highest respect, it must be apparent that the auspices under which he is brought out, indicates that his election is sought for the purpose of serving the selfish aims of his principal supporters and as a reward also for what he has already done—for it was through him the Auburn Power Company, represented by Messrs. Meldrum and Kendry, obtained the remission of $400 00 a year for rent of poles, although, but a few months previously, a a bylaw had been solemnly passed imposing such rental. This course means a loss to the town of $2,000 00, and, if followed by a similar remission to the Light & Power Company, which would be no more than just, a further loss of $2,800 00 will ensue. I submit that, however honestly intentioned Mr. Davis may be his business connections are such, both as an insurance agent and a director of a real estate company, which has very extensive interests in the town, it is impossible for him to occupy the Mayor's chair impartially. The course Mr. Davis pursued in the case of Moncrief against the town, when he strongly opposed The Toronto Loan and Savings Company being made parties to the action, may be fairly taken as an evidence of his probable course under similar circumstances, had he prevailed in that instance the town would have been unable to make the favourable settlement which was effected.

It is clear that Mr. Davis considers himself a special protector of the capitalists of the town, and when action was proposed to compel the Street Railway Co. to carry out the extension agreed upon, Mr. Davis plainly stated it as his opinion that men who had invested their capital in the town should not be interfered with. It is evident, therefore, that the workingmen will have to look out for themselves.

It is nothing new for a policy of progress to be advocated; there is no citizen who is not most anxious for the welfare of the town, and I have never failed to heartily co-operate in every scheme of its advancement. I fail to see that the fact of Mr. Davis "being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers and feeling that he can look after their interests," is a qualification for the mayoralty. It is true that Mr. Davis, in a published interview, insinuates that he and he only is capable of "originating" a scheme for bettering the town's condition, but during the year he has served in the Council, when he had equal opportunity for the display of his ability, he failed to propose any measure in the direction indicated.

In conclusion I have to say that I am entirely untrammeled by business or other connections, and am so situated that my whole time is at the service of my fellow-citizens, to whom I cheerfully leave the issue.

I have the honour to be, ladies and gentlemen,

Your most obedient servant,

WM. YELLAND,

COULD HARDLY WORK.

He Was Ill—But Now is Well.

Mr. T. Sarchet, the well-known tailor, Court House Ave., Brockville, Ont., got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills sometime ago. He did this because he had been seriously troubled for over a year with pains in his back across the kidneys, together with headache, dizziness, tired feeling and a general sensation of weariness and lack of ambition.

Referring to the result of the use of these pills, Mr. Sarchet says, "I can tell you that the pains in my back while sitting at work, made it almost impossible for me to keep on. I took a great many remedies, but they did me little or no good.

"When I started taking Doan's Kidney Pills I had but little faith in them. Now I have the greatest faith in them, because I believe them to be the greatest specific in existence for all kidney and back troubles.

"I say this because they have completely cured me, and I say it out of gratitude, and so that others who suffer in a similar manner may derive like benefit from a knowledge of the virtues of these pills.

"I can recommend them highly to any sufferer from kidney or back troubles, and feel that if they are given a fair trial no case, however severe, can resist their medicinal effects. 292

GAG, WHIP AND DUNGEON.

Cruel Punishment Said to Have Been Resorted to in a Hospital.

New York, Dec. 24.—The Herald to-day prints detailed testimony and evidence tending to show that the gag, the whip, dark cells and bread and water diet and other forms of punishment long since discarded in humanitarian and charitable institutions generally have been in use in the Protestant Episcopal House of Mercy at Inwood, a home for girls. This evidence has resulted in the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus by Justice Smyth, directing that Fannie Hirschberg, one of the inmates, be produced in court to-day.

There are now in the House of Mercy and St. Agnes' Home, adjoining, about one hundred and fifty girls, most of whom are committed to the care of the Sisters of St. Mary by city magistrates at the request of parents or agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. In age they range from 12 to 21, and some, it is said, are even older. These commitments were made, in most instances, because the girls were wild or untractable, and it was thought they were not old or hardened enough to deserve imprisonment in the workhouse.

THEIR FAME WORLD WIDE.

Health, Strength, Happiness Mark Where Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Been Used.

Glencoe, Dec. 20.—From city to city town to town, village to village and over the broad fields of the Dominion, the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the medical marvel of the century, the only infallible cure on earth for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Lame Back, and all other kidney diseases, is spreading.

London reported two wonderful cures by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, within two weeks. Glencoe has a case quite as startling.

W. J. Nugent suffered for years with Kidney Disease and Piles. Doctors couldn't help him. Every remedy he tried failed till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. A few boxes cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a unfailing cure for all diseases caused by impaired kidneys and impure blood.

Probable Enough.

"The feelings of woman are far deeper and finer than those of man," cried the lady orator in a fiery tone. "We are told by those who style themselves the stronger sex that we are much inferior. Is that so?"

A loud chorus of "No!" from the ladies greeted this question, and the orator went on:

"I say that woman feels where man thinks"—

"Is that the reason your husband is bald?" inquired one of the few male members of the audience.

Costs of a Great War.

According to recent French statistics, France lost 136,000 men by death through wounds, sickness or accidents in her war with Germany, while 139,-431 men were disabled on the field of battle. Germany's losses were 79,155 dead and 18,543 wounded. The monetary loss is more evenly divided, that for France being 12,666,487,522 francs and that for Germany being 8,000,000,-000 francs.

After Typhoid Fever.

"After I had typhoid fever kidney troubles ensued. I had terrible pains in my back, head and shoulders, and felt tired, drowsy and dragged out and had annoying urinary troubles. I have grown daily better since I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills. I have no pains of any kind, sleep well, feel rested; and the urinary troubles have completely disappeared." J. W. THE MASSEY WILL.

The Plaintiffs' Claims Involve Some Startling Allegations—The Injunction Continued.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—There is another law suit over the estate of the late Hart A. Massey. The plaintiffs are John H. Hersey, A. L. Massey, Winona G. Massey and Bessie I. Massey. The defendants are the executors of the estate.

The suit is instituted to void the sale of 106 shares of Massey stock, made by the company to Hart A. Massey in January, 1885; also to void the sale of 42 shares made by Hart A. Massey "to himself" in March, 1886, and to have the plaintiffs declared owners of 50 shares which are referred to in a letter written to the official guardian, Mr. John Hoskin, Q.C., by the late Hart Massey.

Chancellor Boyd was asked yesterday morning to continue an injunction restraining the defendants from dealing with these disputed shares and for an order for an account of the dealings between the company and Hart A. Massey. The continuation of the injunction was allowed.

Arthur L. Massey, in his affidavit, says that he has for a long time believed that, after his father's death, the other shareholders of the Massey Company were unfairly treated by his grandfather. He declares "that the company, through its officers, has altered its books to facilitate the plans of the said Hart A. Massey in acquiring the shares of my father's estate, and of other shareholders, by writing off large sums from the accounts, which, after such writing off had served its purpose, were restored, and again treated as assets of the company."

He is also of the opinion that the production of these books will prove that the assets of the company were four or five times greater than represented.

MYERS, THE CENTURY KING.

Kingston's Long-Distance Rider Rode 11,500 Miles Last Summer.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—F. O. Myers, the century king of Kingston, arrived in the city yesterday on a short holiday visit and is looking none the worse for his hard season's campaign. He is a healthy-appearing, vigorous specimen of athletic manhood, scaling at about 150 pounds, and increased slightly in avoirdupois,

F. O. MYERS.

notwithstanding his long ride of 11,500 miles from May to October, averaging 100 miles a day. He rode 90 centuries in as many days from Aug. 2 to Oct. 31. He holds the record for America for accumulative centuries, besides these marks for fast long distance riding:—

200 miles in 12 hours 29 minutes.
100 miles in 5 hours 2 minutes.
50 miles in 2 hours 7 minutes.
25 miles in 1 hour 3 minutes.

Myers is satisfied that the course from Kingston to Belleville, over which he made almost all his centuries, is the surest in the country, although the road from Chatham to Leamington may be the fastest. He is going into the game again next year.

Seizure of Kiao-Chou Bay.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—The following Oriental advices have just been received per steamship China from Yokohama via Honolulu:—

At an extraordinary meeting of the Japanese Cabinet, Baron Nishi, Foreign Minister, laid before the Ministers all the reports he had received from the Japanese Ministers in foreign countries relative to the seizure of Kiao-Chou by Germany. It was decided after a prolonged discussion not to meddle with the affair at the present time, but to await further developments, since nothing had so far transpired in Germany's action calculated to disturb the peace of the far East and justify the interference of a third power.

According to Chinese papers Viceroy Chang Chitkung has issued a proclamation, exhorting his people to be more friendly to foreigners, and warning them that any hostility manifested would be severely punished.

Gertie Smith Drowned.

Kingston, Dec. 23.—Yesterday three children of Edward Smith, of Selby's Bay, while returning from school, were crossing the ice on the way home. All three children went through the ice. Two, however, succeeded in getting out, but Gertie, a girl about 14 years of age, was drowned. Her body was recovered by men passing near by.

Weak Nerves.

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. "My nerves were completely unstrung," says Mrs. H. Church, Caledonia, Ont.; "and palpitation, loss of memory and shortness of breath troubled me greatly. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

SMALL SPECULATORS WARNED.

A Suspicion That Leiter and Armour Will Pool Their Wheat Interests.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The possibility that Leiter and Armour will pool their interests to corner May wheat is stirring traders on 'Change.

The Post says: George French, operating for the Leiter crowd, has piled up a line of at least four million bushels of May wheat, according to reports from the floor. Armour's radical change of front in bulling May wheat is common knowledge. It is equally well known that Armour has a pyramid of May wheat bought, which is supposed to come close to the Leiter holding.

As if to emphasize the bull talk, both Armour's and Leiter's men bought wheat to-day. Armour's movements are closely veiled, but Leiter's engineers made no secret of their dealings in May wheat. Already that option is regarded as being very dangerous for the public to handle.

If Death had to sign the warrant for every victim that he claims as his own, there would be fewer premature deaths. In the majority of cases, men and women sign their own death warrants.

Neglected health means death. A man or woman may not realize it, but the little ills that they neglect are simply the danger signals that warn them of the approach of big and serious maladies. A well man or woman gets up in the morning happy and clear-headed and alert, both mentally and physically. They have a hearty appetite for breakfast. They go about their work with alacrity, and a sense of pleasure. The day's end finds them tired, but not fagged out. They still have the energy for an evening's enjoyment. At night they find sound, refreshing slumber. They do not have frightful dreams during their sleeping hours, nor are they drowsy during their waking hours. They are not ill-tempered or fault-finding. When men or women find their condition the opposite of this, they need a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the weak stomach, corrects the impaired digestion invigorates the liver, and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It strengthens the muscular system, gives bloom to the complexion, regulates the functions of every vital organ and imparts both mental and physical elasticity and energy. Medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

"I had been troubled for several years with sprain of liver complaint," writes H. N. Dransfield, Esq., of Centennial, Monroe Co., W. Va., "and about two years ago my health gave way. I tried a doctor and got worse all the time. I had a weakness in my left side and limbs, palpitations of the heart, cramping pains in the stomach after eating; nerves were weak and no energy. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and began to mend from the start. I soon felt like a new person. I am now enjoying good health."

A DESPERATE MURDERER.

Shot the Chief of Police and Other Officers, But Was Captured.

Dubois, Pa., Dec. 24.—Chief of Police Iair and a dozen deputies made an effort this morning to capture Steven Spellan, who brutally murdered Michael Raher last night and then barricaded himself in the house, and opened fire on the officers as soon as he saw them approaching, shooting Chief Blair. Later, he wounded Officers Casey, Butterborough and Almots. The remaining officers pressed forward and forced the door. As they entered Spellan fled, the officers following and firing as they ran. Spellan in desperation halted and returned the fire. The officers fired another volley and the murderer fell wounded with four bullets in his body. The wounded officers will recover.

The assistance they ask is a grant of land.

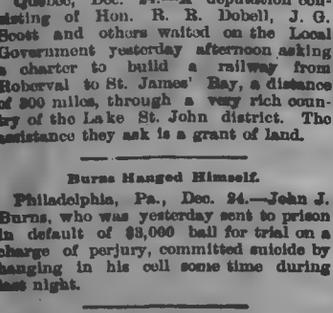
HEALTH AND ENERGY ASSURED. HAPPY MARRIAGE, GOOD TEMPER, LONG LIFE.

In all the world to-day—in all the history of the world—no doctor nor institution has treated and restored so many men as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL CO. of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.



So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now for the first time makes this startling offer:—

They will send their costly and magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense to any honest and reliable man!

Not a dollar need be advanced—not a penny paid—till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The Erie Medical Company's appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till every man has heard of them.

They restore or create strength, vigor, healthy vigor and new life.

They quickly stop drains on the system that sap the energy.

They cure nervousness, despondency and all the effects of evil habits, excesses, overwork, etc.

They give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Failure is impossible and age is no barrier.

No C. O. D. scheme, no bogus philanthropy nor deception, no exposure—a clean business proposition by a company of high financial and professional standing.

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, BUFFALO, N.Y., and refer to seeing the account of their offer in this paper.

PERILS OF THE SEA.

Seamen Who Not Only Lost Their Vessel But Had a Battle With Pirates in Brazilian Waters as Well.

New York, Dec. 23.—On board the steamer Hevelius, which arrived to-day from Brazil ports, were Chief Officer Hoopes, Second Mate Bentley and three seamen of the American barque Marion S. Harris of Philadelphia, which went ashore Nov. 16 on a coral reef near Cape St. Rocque and became a total loss. The vessel sailed from New York on Oct. 9, bound for Rio Janeiro, laden with coal oil and lumber. All went well until Nov. 16, lat. 7, long. 32, when the wind became baffling and a heavy rain set in, with a strong set of currents from the northwest at 8.30 p.m. The weather being very thick, the vessel struck a coral reef about six miles off shore, where she remained hard and fast with the sea breaking over her. Capt. Dacey launched the lifeboat and proceeded to Natal in search of assistance. Meanwhile, the vessel was surrounded by a swarm of piratical natives from the coast. The crew with the greatest difficulty managed to keep them from boarding and looting the vessel of her stores and cargo. On the 17th the vessel commenced to break up. Toward night Capt. Dacey returned to the vessel with a lighter, but her crew refused to proceed to salvage the cargo, hoping she would quickly break up. There being no possible hope of saving her, she was abandoned, and the crew took to the boats and landed at Natal on the 22nd, where they were taken care of by the American Consul, who, after eight days, forwarded them to Pernambuco, where they took passage home by the steamer Hevelius. Capt. Dacey remained at Natal in order to attend to the owners' interests.

The Anti-Pelagic Bill.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—A number of New York manufacturers of fur garments and importers of furs called at the Treasury Department and had a conference with Assistant Secretary Howell in regard to the regulations which will be necessary to carry out the provisions of the bill recently passed by Congress, should it receive the approval of the President, prohibiting the importation of what is known as pelagic sealskins. The New York importers who favor the bill asked that every possible precaution be taken by the Department to prevent the bringing into the United States of the proscribed skins. Mr. John W. Foster, who accompanied the delegation, stated that all skins taken on the seal islands were numbered, so that United States consular officials would have little or no difficulty in determining which were contraband skins before issuing their certificate. The department's regulations will be issued as soon as possible after the bill has received the signature of the President.

The Struggle for Durrant's Life.

San Francisco, Dec. 23.—The attorneys for Durrant have filed notice that they will ask for a change of venue from the recent order of sentence by Judge Bains, on the ground that the court is prejudiced. An appeal to the Governor for a commutation of sentence will also be made, on the ground that a review of the co-relation of the Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams cases should be made. Another effort to get the case before the Federal courts will also be made.

Veteran Toronto Merchant Dead.

Toronto, Dec. 23.—Mr. Marmaduke Pearson, of 12 Homewood avenue, one of the oldest merchants and best-known citizens in Toronto, died yesterday, after a week's illness, at the age of 82. Over 50 years ago he started the Mammoth House, in partnership with Mr. Thomas Thompson, and subsequently Mr. Pearson went into business at the corner of Yonge and Richmond streets, retiring about 15 years ago.

How To Get Rich.

We refer to the richness of the blood. If you are pale and thin, you are poor in strength and nerve power. Scott's Emulsion drives away thinness pallor, and brings rich blood and nerve power.

DYING OF A BROKEN HEART.

Mrs. Ballington Booth's Illness Attributed to Alleged Cruel Treatment.

Buffalo, Dec. 24.—A special from New York to an afternoon paper says that a prominent member of the Volunteers of America stated yesterday that Mrs. Ballington Booth is dying of a broken heart, not only figuratively, but literally. The physicians diagnose her illness as a ruptured blood vessel of the heart, but we attribute it to the unjust and cruel treatment she has received from the Salvation Army ever since she and her husband were compelled to leave it.

Enormous Increase of Soo Canal Traffic.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 24.—The year 1897 shows an increase over all previous years of nearly 2,000,000 tons of freight traffic through the United States and Canadian Sault canals, 18,218,400 tons being carried through this year. The number of vessel passages this year shows a decrease of 1,447 from last year, but there was an increase in registered tonnage of 270,500, indicating decided increase in the size of lake vessels. The number of passengers carried through in 1897 was 40,900, an increase of 3,150 over last year.

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WE IT DIED.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

FAIRWEATHER & Co

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Stratton had brought him out. He wished to say that he had never consulted Mr. Stratton. He about the matter until he was in the field, when he had been greatly discouraged by Mr. Stratton's view of the case. It was also stated that he intended retiring from municipal life, but that Mr. Cox had an axe to grind and wished him to run. This was not so. He had not consulted Mr. Cox, who did not know of the matter until Mr. Kendry mentioned it to him. He had then sent word that he thought the action was very foolish. He was not in the council to represent Mr. Cox, and he had no axe to grind. He was representing himself in the interests of the ratepayers at large. It was further said that he had been brought out by a clique. Well, if the gentlemen who represented the manufacturing and business and all other interests of the town, and the Protestants and Roman Catholics alike, were a clique, then there certainly was a clique behind him. He was running in the interests of all classes in Peterborough. He was trying to conduct the contest in a manner which would be creditable to himself and to Mr. Yelland. He had never said one word in disparagement of the present mayor, and was therefore amazed to see Mr. Yelland issue a circular directed against himself and containing misrepresentations from beginning to end. He considered it a stab in the dark and didn't, heretofore, think that Mr. Yelland, an experienced public man, was capable of such an attitude towards a young man just beginning his municipal life. The circular of Mr. Yelland said that it was through him (Mr. Davis) that the Auburn Power Company had been relieved of taxation on its poles.

HAD NOT SEEN HIM

THIS WAS NOT SO.

Mr. Robertson had proposed the motion, and he, with the majority, had stood out for it. The statement regarding his connection with the Monorief case in the interests of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co., was false. The matter was brought before the Legal Committee, of which he (Mr. Davis) was a member, and it was decided to fight the claim. Judge Weller had put the company and Albert E. Dixon out of the case, and put the costs on the town. The matter then came before the council and he (Mr. Davis) didn't approve of the appeal. The case the went to Toronto and Judge Armour suggested making the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. a party to the suit. It was not until then that he raised his voice. He did it to keep the town out of costly litigation. Being interested in the company he knew that the case would be carried to the highest court in the land before it would be dropped. It was not the small sum that was involved in Peterborough but the precedent which would be set. Having this knowledge he opposed the action. The solicitor of the company also objected to the appeal being brought into court a second time after being thrown out by Judge Weller. The Legal Committee, on considering the matter, came to perceive that there was weight in his (Mr. Davis') protest, and they arranged a compromise with the company. The circular of Mr. Yelland was also intended to convey the impression that he had said that the men who had invested capital in the town should not be interfered with. This was false. In reply to another statement of Mr. Yelland, "that the working man would have to look out for themselves," Mr. Davis said that he voted to give the labouring man $1.25 per day for nine hours work. The policy of the town, however, should be to conserve the interests of capital which is invested in the town, so that establishments represented by such investment should be protected and helped in the interest of the labouring man. He had the honour of being chairman of the Charity Board during the year, and from the names of the members that the affairs we equitably administered. There had been a saving of several hundred dollars over last year, but this was neither here nor there, as if there had been a larger expenditure it would have been because the poor of the town needed it.

ALL WOULD UNDERSTAND

He was charged in Mr. Yelland's circular with being an insurance man, but this fact did not give him the power to raise or lower rates. An association made the rates for all towns, and the agents applied them as directed. For the expense of a small sum of money Peterborough could be placed in Class A, and a saving of about $3,000 a year would then be secured for the citizens. He advocated such a move. When there was a chance of getting the Rubber Company to come to Peterborough he had spent a great deal of time and was willing to take stock in the concern, and if it had not been for an order in Court, the Company would have come here, expending $25,000 for buildings and $35,000 for machinery, the greater part of which would have been spent with the William Hamilton Manufacturing Co. and the Canadian General Electric Works. If he had made money in the town, he was willing to risk it. He had put money in the Canadian General Electric Co. when it changed hands. He had put $2,000 in the Carbon Company and lost it was also interested in the Lock Works. His interests were those of the property owners and manufacturers, and if the town went back no one would suffer more than himself, therefore it was to his own advantage to do his best to advance the town's prosperity. If elected, as he believed he was going to be, he would feel that it was because he had the confidence of the ratepayers of the town in seeking to advance its interests.

Mr. Yelland in rising to reply, stated that Mr. Davis had out of his own mouth convicted himself of working in his own interests in the council.

HE HAD ACKNOWLEDGED

having $2,000 invested in the Lock Works and this was one of the concerns wanting electricity for power from the Auburn Company. If there was no tax on the poles the Lock Works would get cheaper power. Mr. Davis was therefore voting for his own interests.

Mr. Davis stated that it was in the Carbon Company that he had $2,000 invested, although was interested in the Lock works also.

Mr. Yelland—"He put a piece in the paper saying that he hadn't time to attend to municipal duties, but Mr. Cox was down at Mr. Stratton's nomination on Saturday and on Monday Mr. Davis disclosed himself in the field."

Mr. Davis—"Mr. Cox had nothing to do with it—I deny it emphatically."

Mr. Yelland—"Mr. Kendry says that two years is enough, yet he had four."

Mr. Kendry—"I was not opposed but re-elected by acclamation."

Mr. Yelland—"Mr. Davis has succeeded in business no better than other men and I can prove what I say. He says it is mere occupancy of the chair on my part. This is not so. I watched the interests of the town and stopped him from voting, when his own interests were at stake. He says he would have influence at headquarters. He had forgotten that the Government. has changed, and that if anyone would have an influence at Ottawa it would be myself.

Mr. Kendry—"Do you want to run on that ticket then?"

Mr. Yelland—"No, I don't."

Mr. Kendry—"As a ratepayer, I ask where Mr. Yelland was when the matter of the electric lighting was discussed in council? He was back at the lakes. He shirked his vote on that question. He sits on the fence when any important question comes up. I challenge him as to whether or not he shirked his vote.

Mr. Yelland—I never shirked a vote. During my two years as Mayor I was only absent once.

Mr. Kendry—Weren't you back at the lakes fishing when the electric light matter came up for discussion?

Mr. Yelland—Maybe I was.

The meeting broke up with three cheers and a tiger for Mr. Davis.

The pains in my head nearly drove me wild, and I was compelled to walk the floor for hours. I had dyspepsia so badly and my stomach was swollen so frightfully after eating heartily that I suffered the greatest agony. I had used all medicines in the effort to get relief, but I kept getting worse. Since I began using Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure I have never felt in better health. I can eat almost anything and feel no bad after results. I am now in splendid health and attribute it all to Munyon's treatment, and am daily recommending these wonderful remedies."

A PECULIAR CASE.

A Man Badly Beaten Refuses to Name His Assailant.

Last Saturday, says the Fenelon Falls Gazette, there was a report in the village that an elderly man named Robert Wilson of Galway, had been robbed earlier in the week, two or three miles from his home, and so brutally beaten about the head that he had died on Friday night; and that George (or William) Booth of Somerville, was seen with him in his wagon a short time before the assault must have been committed. Constable Nevison, who drove out to Wilson's on Saturday evening, found that the alleged dead man was alive though badly used up, and that the story as told at the Falls, was wrong in nearly every particular. It seems on the night of the 14th inst. Wilson left his home in a one-horse waggon, accompanied by Booth, to get some furniture that was locked up in a house a few miles off, and is said to be the property of a man named White, not now in these parts, though Booth, we are told, alleges that he bought it. They broke open the door of the house and took the furniture to Booth's where they probably quarrelled over the division of the chattels, for Wilson drove home next morning seated in a rocking chair in his waggon, but so badly injured that his recovery is by no means certain. As he positively refused to tell who assaulted him, Constable Nevison procured a warrant against Booth for stealing the furniture and on Monday arrested him and took him to the Lindsay jail, where he now lies awaiting his trial, which will be held at the Falls on Monday next.

Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed windrow you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them, and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods? I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at cheap Prices.

Next thing is your Celery, of course everybody says that your Celery is the best, nicest, crisp and tender. You have lots of it to sell? Yes. There comes my car, so good day! Push along! Bye, bye.

Choice stock of Groceries and Provisions, Fruit, Fish and Vegetables, always fresh, good and cheap. Free delivery. Glad to see all my friends, and thank them for their kind patronage. Wishing you the compliments of the season, I remain your truly

A POLITICAL FIGHT.

Archbishop Bruchesi so Regards the School Question.

BISHOPS HIGHLY COMMENDED

The Pope's Pronouncement on The Manitoba School Question — The Archbishop of Montreal Hopes Still That the Liberal Majority in Parliament Will Pass a Law of Relief.

Montreal, Dec. 28.—Archbishop Bruchesi, who arrived in New York day before yesterday from Rome, gave an interview to the press referring to his visit to the Pope. After describing his reception Mgr. Bruchesi says: "His Holiness spoke of the school question, which he has since dealt with, and expressed the hope that the press would accept his views. It is not necessary to repeat his words to me. The encyclical gives his ideas. He plainly commends the bishops in their fight against neutral or non-sectarian schools in Manitoba. When Manitoba joined the Confederation, twenty years ago, the Catholics retained the right under the constitution of maintaining their own schools, the taxes levied on Catholics were applied to their schools and the taxes of Protestants went for Protestant schools. Entire harmony prevailed until the passage of the law of 1890, making the schools non-sectarian, and taxing Protestants and Catholics alike for their support. The newspapers have accurately related the history of the six years following. The Catholics established nearly ninety schools in that time. Last year came the settlement of the question by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who made this compromise: One-half hour in each school day is set apart for religious teaching, and the religion that predominates in each school is the religion taught. This caused the bishops to protest, and resulted in the appointment of Mgr. Merry del Val, a prelate of the Vatican, as a Papal delegate to Canada. On his report the Holy Father has based this encyclical, which plainly upholds the bishops and directs the Catholics to insist on our rights. Half an hour of religious services daily does not meet our desires. We wish to blend religion with the secular teaching. It is a political fight rather than a religious one. I am told by a serious man that the act denying us our schools was passed for the purpose of breaking up the harmony that existed among the Conservatives." He said he could not doubt that the Catholics would win, as right would triumph in the end. They wanted nothing but justice and their rights under the constitution. He said also that last year the Catholics in the Province of Quebec had contributed $15,000 to help their Manitoban brethren carry on their new Parochial schools. In the Quebec Legislature there are sixty-five Catholics to eight Protestants. They could turn the tables on the Protestants there in regard to schools, but when asked if there was any possibility of such retaliation his Grace exclaimed: "Oh, no! no! no! If such an impossibility should come to pass that one man should stand up and advocate such a thing the bishops would come forward to prevent it." The Archbishop said that a peculiar thing about the clause in the constitution guaranteeing separate schools for both religions in Manitoba was that it was inserted for the special protection of the Protestants, who were at that time a very small minority in that province, though now, mainly through immigration, they outnumbered the Catholics. His Grace said there was still hope that the Liberal majority in the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa would pass a law which will enable Catholics to again support their own schools and not pay double taxes to support two sets of schools, as they do now. If not, they must bear the burden and support their own schools. The Pope does not say that Protestants must pay for Catholic schools. Mgr. Bruchesi added that when he left Rome he had heard nothing about the appointment of a Papal Nuncio for Canada. He will arrive here on Wednesday and will be tendered a reception at the palace.

SEDITIOUS MATTER.

No New Instructions, But Attention Called to the Existing Law.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The last quarterly supplement to the Canadian Postal Guide contains the following paragraph: (4) Seditious matter.—It is generally understood that printed matter of an indecent or immoral character is not allowed transmission through the mails, but it is considered proper to mention that the law also prohibits the circulation of "seditious" matter or matter tending to excite resistance to lawful authority and established government. In any case of doubt as to the treatment of matter which may appear to be of this character, postmasters should consult the department.

It will thus be seen that the paragraph being circulated in the American press to the effect that new instructions have been issued by the Canadian Government to the postmasters on the matter are utterly unfounded. No new instructions have been issued, only attention has been called to the existing law. It was deemed wiser to authorize the sending of doubtful matters to the department, as it was thought the average postmaster was a better judge of immoral "matter than he would be of seditious."

A NEPHEW'S DEED.

Another Northern Tragedy. Through Which James Rankin Lies Dead—Tongues Set Wagging.

Bracebridge, Dec. 28.—In Stisted on Tuesday, the 21st inst., a boy named Frankum, about 15 years old, shot his uncle, James Rankin. It appears that Rankin was on a private road loading tan bark when his sister, Mrs. Stephens, nee Frankum, drove along the road. Rankin was asked to allow her to pass. He refused to get off the road. A quarrel ensued and Mrs. Stephens sent her boy for a gun. He obeyed and came back with the gun. He pointed it at Rankin and told him to get off the road. Rankin refused and the boy shot him in the leg. Rankin fell in the snow and was taken to his house. On Wednesday he was removed to Huntsville Hospital, where he died Sunday.

An inquest was opened before Coroner Rosco yesterday at 2 p.m., but was adjourned on account of the absence of Crown Attorney Johnson, who was unable to reach Huntsville until the evening.

For about a dozen years back James Rankin had kept the people of the township of Stisted in a state of turmoil, and this tragedy is the outcome. In Division Court trials and at the General Sessions he has long been a prominent figure. On three or four occasions he has caused the arrest on criminal charges of neighbors who had given evidence against him. Young Frankum has been arrested.

COULD NOT SAVE THEM.

Salvation Army Took a Hand With the Convicts in California.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—The Salvation Army has abandoned its Prison Gate Home, in Contra Costa County. The lease of this fine farm of 800 acres will probably be given up, for the task of reforming the ex-convicts has been found too great. The ultimate fate of the movement will be decided by Commander Booth-Tucker, who will reach this city on Jan. 1. The ex-convicts did not seem to appreciate the efforts to rehabilitate them. One stole a horse, wagon and harness belonging to the home, and was sent back to prison for two years; another, while on his way to the home, robbed a house, and the penitentiary was again made his dwelling place.

Arrested After Thirteen Years.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—Yesterday Wm. Schweiser, now 45 years of age, was arrested by two officers as he was coming out of the Klondike Cafe, No. 45 Miami avenue, this city. Schweiser is one of the three men who escaped from the jail in Sandwich, Ont., in August, 1884, when Jailor Leach was killed. He was born in Detroit and lived here until charged with burglary and confined in the Sandwich jail. What will be done with Schweiser is not exactly known, but if he can be taken to Canada and charged with complicity in the murder of Jailor Leach, it will probably be done.

Meeting of Canadian Prison Wardens.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The wardens of the Dominion penitentiaries will meet in this city about January 7th, which will be attended by every official in charge of these institutions in Canada, and will be the first ever held. Many matters of importance will be discussed, including the best methods to be pursued in order to induce the convicts to lead more useful lives during their confinement so that when they leave the penitentiaries their conduct will not be an injury to society.

Lumbermen Killed in the Woods.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—Christmas did not bring happiness, but grief, to the home of Napoleon Millette, of this city. Millette left here some weeks ago to work in the timber limits of the E. B. Eddy Company above Mattawa. While engaged in felling a tree the tree fell in an opposite direction to that intended, and Millette was pinned beneath it. His head was crushed to a jelly. The body was brought home yesterday. Millette had a wife and two children.

LETTER OF THE POPE

Advises Catholics to Accept the Concessions Made.

DUTY OF THE BISHOPS STATED

A Reliable and Intelligent Cabled Summary of the Document—The Rule of Moderation, Love and Brotherly Kindness Commended—Message Breathes the Spirit of the Age.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The encyclical of His Holiness, the Pope, in reference to education in Manitoba was not published in Rome until Saturday, so that the summary cabled by the Associated Press on Friday was a forecast rather than a condensation of what was actually known. The following, however, is a reliable and intelligent cabled summary of the document: After speaking in praise of Canada and of the Bishops it treats of the law of 1890, and condemns what was then done. It lays down principles of Catholic education and speaks of the rights of parents. The bishops are praised for resisting the law of 1890. The Pope recognizes the fact that something was done to remedy the law of 1890, and says that the Manitoba Government were inspired with a love of justice and praiseworthy intention in the decisions they arrived at. He says that the law made to remedy the evil is defective, imperfect and insufficient. The Catholics demand, and have the right to demand, much more, as the arrangements made may fall of effect owing to local circumstances. Enough had not been done in Manitoba for Catholic education. The bishops must aim at having justice done and must pursue the object with zeal and prudence. There must not be discord, yet as the object does not impose a line of conduct determinate and conclusive, but, on the contrary, admits of several, as is usual in such matters, it follows that there may be, on the lines to be followed, a certain number of opinions equally good and acceptable. Let none then lose sight of this rule of moderation, gentleness and brotherly love. Let none forget the respect due to his neighbor, but let all weigh the circumstances, determine what is best to be done, and do it in agreement and not without consultation with the bishops. As regards particularly the Catholics of Manitoba, the Pope expresses his confidence that, God helping, they will win and obtain full satisfaction. This confidence is founded above all on the goodness of their cause, next on the justice and wisdom of those who govern, and lastly on the good-will of all Canadians. In the meantime and until they succeed in their claims let them not refuse partial satisfaction. Especially wherever the law or circumstances, or good disposition of the people, offer some means of lessening the evil and warding off more danger, it is absolutely expedient and advantageous that they should make use of them and derive from them all possible benefit. Wherever, on the contrary, there is no other remedy, Catholics are exhorted to liberality. The Pope speaks of the necessity of highly-trained teachers for Catholic schools, and finally warns the press to be decorous and not personal. It is to be noticed that in this document Leo XIII. breathes the spirit of the age and enjoins an observance of constitutional usage which is characteristic of his enlightened policy. He practically condemns the dictatorial attitude of the majority of the bishops in Quebec and takes the more liberal view that Catholics are free to choose and to act. There does not appear to be a single word in the encyclical against the Public schools of Canada, and in proof that His Holiness considers Federal intervention at an end there is not a word from which to infer that the Catholics are to look to Ottawa to obtain that full measure of justice which it may be contended was not accomplished by the concessions of the settlement.

VICTORIAN ERA BALL.

A Magnificent Historical Spectacle at the Toronto Armories To-Night.

Toronto, Dec. 28.—Everything is now ready for the great Victorian Era Ball, which takes place to-night. The Armories have undergone a wonderful transformation. The great hall has been divided in two. The west end of the building, where the ball will be held, is now a ball room such as Toronto has never before seen. A dancing floor has been laid and around it and running back a great dais has been erected, covered with gorgeous colored bunting. Above that again are the galleries draped and decorated with bunting, flags, pillars with shields and evergreens. At the north side a stage has been erected similarly decorated. The whole is brilliantly lighted with hundreds of electric lights, making a most gorgeous scene. The other half of the building is reserved for the supper and dining room. Every precaution has been taken to prevent crushing and crowding. The floor cost $1,000, and the cost of the ball, outside of personal expenditures, will be in the neighborhood of $15,000.

There will be six groups of dancers, clad in appropriate costumes, representative of as many periods in Her Majesty's reign, and the historic spectacle will surpass anything for magnificence ever seen in Canada.

Toronto Man Pushed His Business.

Winnipeg, Dec. 28.—C. J. Mitchell, a manufacturer's agent of Toronto, is returning from a trip to Hong Kong, where he succeeded in materially extending his business. He finds the people in the far East anxious to trade with Britain and her colonies, but the competition of the other nations is very strong.

Farmer Burned Out in Romney.

Wheatley, Ont., Dec. 28.—The house and contents belonging to Joseph Pinch, 5th concession Romney, a few miles from this place, was totally destroyed by fire about noon yesterday. Cause of fire unknown. Loss between $700 and $800. No insurance.

Local Option Repealed.

Parry Sound, Ont., Dec. 28.—(Special.)—A by-law voted on here Friday to repeal local option was carried by a majority of 98.

Almost Distracted

Dreadful Suffering by a Newmarket Woman.

The Bones in the Nose Affected—Face Would Swell Until Her Eyes Were Closed—Now Relieved.

NEWMARKET, ONT.—"I have had a good opportunity of noting the great medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years, and the disease had gone so far that the bones of the nose had become affected and particles had come away through an opening in the left side. Her eyesight was also affected to the extent that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered and at times was almost distracted. She was treated by four different doctors, one of whom was a specialist. They all said they could not do anything for her, as the disease had gone too far. Her nose would swell about every three days until her eyes would almost be closed. Then it would break through and the swelling would subside for a day or two. About Christmas she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has not been troubled with any swelling since, and the sore on the side of the nose has all healed. She is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it to any person who is suffering with catarrh." W. H. FURSMER.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1897.

A FORMIDABLE MINISTRY.

Toronto Star.

The cares of the Premiership have not robbed Mr. Hardy's hand of its cunning; he has laid down at this final session of the Assembly a strong, solid platform upon which to make the fight for return to power.

First, the Ministry congratulated Ontario upon the improvement in the times, and the prospect of abundant prosperity.

Then came the recital of the Mowat Cabinet's long and clean record.

Next there was a defence of the present Government's record, in which many charges were explained away to the eminent satisfaction of its followers, and which put the Opposition pretty much, with the country, where it was before Mr. Whitney's promising tour.

Then the Government proceeded to lay its platform for the fray.

A bill to prevent gambling at fairs was introduced—a necessary and beneficent measure.

Then came another beneficial bill, the measure to stamp out the San Jose scale.

The steps to be taken to preserve and renew the forests constitute another praiseworthy act.

Then came the budget speech, with the profits of Ontario's business for the year and the surplus.

Then the desirable changes in the mining law.

And, finally, a strong, patriotic timber policy, sure to become popular with the people, especially in Western Ontario.

Unquestionably the Liberals may go home happy for their Christmas holidays. The Cabinet has made a strong bid for a renewal of the people's confidence. Mr. Whitney and his supporters have a big task on hand, to assail and defeat a government so well entrenched and with so many beneficial measures proposed on the eve of the campaign.

THE attacks made on our educational system in many quarters are, says the Ottawa Free Press, it is to be feared, justified to some extent. The Public Accounts recently issued show in black and white so clearly that a boy who knows the four rules of arithmetic could figure them up that the Provincial Government has a surplus of assets of $5,258,324. Mr. Matheson is so much at sea in the use of figures that he makes out a deficit of $9,000,000. Put him on the dunce's block.

OTONABEE.

Council Meeting.

The treasurer presented a financial statement from the 15th Dec., 1896, to the 15th Dec., 1897, which was signed by the reeve and treasurer, and 100 copies ordered to be printed for distribution to the electors.

On motion Mrs Soucie was allowed a rebate of $1.74 on her 1897 taxes for error in assessment and Lewis Glover $1.50, his 1897 statute labour tax, the Otonabee Agricultural Society, $4.62, the taxes for the field leased by it for a driving track.

The following communications were received: From J Coyle Brown, I P S, re payment of cost of arbitration of School Sections 2 and 6, Asphodel and Otonabee. On motion the matter will be disposed of at the next meeting. From J B Laing, Provincial Municipal Auditor, re cash books for use of municipal treasurer, being prepared by Brown Bros., Toronto; the clerk was instructed to send for the books.

The council has been for some time desirous of taking the assessment during the summer months instead of winter as at present, as no assessor can rightly judge the value of farm land when covered with snow, and as county councils have power to pass a bylaw as provided by 55 Vic. C 48,§64 giving townships, formed of villages authority to assess them with the land of adjoining township and the 1st Tuesday in September and the 1st Tuesday in October. The council appointed the reeve to petition the county council to pass the necessary bylaw to enable this township to assess within those dates.

Messrs. Johnston and Dyell were authorized to purchase from John Johnston, for a gravel pit, half an acre of the east half of lot 14, con. 16, cost not to exceed $100.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—Dr. Pullyblank, inspecting and ordering to be slaughtered a cow affected with lump jaw, $5 00; Robert Esson, wire for snow fence, $4 00; John Deyell, timber for Emmerson's bridge, $1.84; Richard Hope, culverts, $27.94; Joseph Eaton, making rods for Stewart's bridge, $1.25; John Dinsdale, health inspector, $4.15; Patrick McMartin, cedar, $4 48; Charles Curtis, plank, tiles and gravel for roads, $8.75; W. F. Graham, gravel, $7.50; R. English, nails for culverts and sidewalks, $5.00; provisions for Jas. Metcalf, $18 00; John Anderson, gravel, $1 44; Wm. Anderson, cedar for culvert on 6th line, $44.00; Peterborough Hardware Co., iron and nails for bridge, $4.93; A. McDonald, cedar for culverts, $9; R. J. H. Short, gravel, $4 62; T. J. Johnston, sessional allowance $22, road commissioner $12; John Lancaster, sessional allowance $22, road commissioner $12; John Deyell, sessional allowance $22, road commissioner $12; A. Weir, sessional allowance $22, road allowance $12; J. Grady, sessional allowance $22, road commissioner, $12.

LEITER IS AFTER GOLD.

With Other Millionaires and the Duke of Teck He Will Go on a Hunt for the Yellow Metal.

Buffalo, Dec. 28.—A special from Chicago says: Levi Z. Leiter is out for gold as well as wheat, and on a scale that is likely to eclipse any previous operations in the Northwest Territory. It was announced yesterday that Mr. Leiter, John W. MacKay, Ogden Mills and the Duke of Teck were associated for the purpose of hunting for gold. Mr. Leiter admitted that the report was true. He said he was not familiar with the details, but that operations would be conducted on a large scale, and on valuable concessions in the Northwest Territory, secured by H. Maitland Kersey, former agent of the White Star Steamship Line, who was familiar with the country and had had experience in mining. He also said that there were others interested in the plan, some of whom were of high standing and great influence in England.

The details have been left entirely to Mr. Kersey, who has had the properties in question in his eye for some time.

"I believe," said Mr. Leiter, "he has had excellent opportunities for satisfying himself as to their values, and I should judge from what he said to me that they are promising. He is about to leave for England for the purpose of completing some business arrangements pushing his plans, and upon his return he will carry them into effect with as little delay as possible.

"As to the amount of money to be invested, I cannot say, nor how much I shall put into the venture. However, I think there will be no scarcity of funds for carrying out whatever projects Mr. Kersey may consider advisable.

"I have much confidence in his estimates. It may be possible that future developments will indicate the wisdom of extending the field of operations, but, as I understand it now, nothing but mining is under consideration."

NEW NORMAL SCHOOL

Will be Built in London at a Cost of $100,000.

London, Ont., Dec. 28.—Mr. Thomas S. Hobbs, M.P.P., says that the plans for the new Normal school for the city of London have been approved by the Ontario Government. Just where the school will be located has not yet been made public, but the fact that the $7,500 grant made by the Government was not found to be large enough would indicate that a central and convenient site would be chosen.

The school will be an imposing affair of brown stone and buff pressed brick. It will cost at least $75,000, and the land and furnishings will bring the total cost to nearly $100,000. The building will have a frontage of 150 feet and will be nearly square.

It will probably be built during the coming summer.

Dropped Dead at the Nominations.

Toronto Junction, Dec. 28.—Just at the close of the nominations in the Town Hall yesterday morning a sad fatality occurred, which sent a gloom over those assembled for the purpose of nominating candidates for municipal honors, in the sudden death of Councillor John Linton, who dropped dead just after seconding the nomination of J. C. Smith for Ward Four. Although Mr. Linton looked strong and hearty, he was troubled considerably with his heart and was warned by his physician to avoid excitement. Deceased has been clerk for the Eighth Division Court of York for about fifteen years and was born near Claremont, in York county, and was in his fifty-fifth year.

Orange Procession Prohibited.

Halifax, Dec 28.—Sir Herbert Murray, Governor of Newfoundland, has issued a proclamation forbidding an Orange procession projected for next Sunday, because in 1883, the last time an Orange parade took place, a riot ensued in which several men were killed.

An Irish Parliamentary Fund.

Toronto, Dec. 28.—Hon. Edward Blake, as treasurer of the Canadian Irish Parliamentary Fund for 1896, acknowledges the receipt of $7,093.95 in response to his appeal.

Dr. Chase's Cures Catarrh After Operation Fail.

My boy, aged fourteen, has been a sufferer from Catarrh, and lately we submitted him to an operation at the General Hospital. Since then we have resorted to Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, and one box of this medicine has made a prompt and complete cure.

H. G. Ford,

AN OLD DISPUTE SETTLED.

The Dominion of Canada and the Province of British Columbia Agree on the Control of Lands.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The agreement arrived at between the Government of British Columbia and Mr. J. A. J. McKenna and Mr. T. G. Rothwell on behalf of the Dominion Government, with a view to obtaining a settlement of certain questions as to the administration of lands in the railway belt upon the mainland of the province, has been approved by the Governor-General in Council.

The date of the provincial statute granting the lands in the railway belt to the Dominion, December 19, 1883, is agreed upon as the date of the transfer of the lands by the province to the Dominion.

From the tract of lands so tranferred are reserved all lands granted by the province or covered by pre-emption at that date, but all pre-emptions abandoned or cancelled prior to December 19, 1883, shall be regarded as having passed to the Dominion, and all pre-emptions abandoned or cancelled after that date shall be deemed to belong to the province. All lands covered at that date by sales or applications to purchase on account of which moneys had been paid to the province shall be under the control of the province, provided that all lands so covered by sales which had been cancelled or for which the applications to purchase lapsed prior to that date shall be regarded as having passed to the Dominion; but if the lands so sold were abandoned or the applications to purchase lapsed after that date the land shall belong to the province.

Provision is made for the identification of land in the belt and for the survey of its boundaries. It is also provided that the Provincial and Dominion Governments shall accept surveys made under the authority of either Government. A satisfactory arrangement has been come to respecting the registration of Dominion patents and for dealing with lands such as those known as the "Farwell grant."

The agreement, it is considered, will remove the difficulties which have impeded the administration of lands in the belt, and will provide for their being dealt with in a satisfactory manner in the future.

St. Thomas, Dec. 27.—The great wave has reached St. Thomas. The cures wrought by Dodd's Kidney Pills are numbered by hundreds here, and the entire population almost is talking of them.

Michael Holleran, a farmer living near here, told our reporter that "Dodd's Kidney Pills saved me from an untimely grave." He was cured of Diabetes of an aggravated type by a few boxes, after his doctors had failed to even relieve him.

So it goes. Everyone who has used Dodd's Kidney Pills has been cured. Bright's Disease, Paralysis, all diseases of the kidneys and the blood, yield to their power. They never fail to cure these ailments.

The Hull School Tax.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—An agreement has been reached in the dispute between the Protestant and Roman Catholic ratepayers of Hull over the maintenance of schools of the different faiths. The deputation has returned from Quebec, where they met Premier Marchand, before whom they laid their protest. The agreement arrived at in Quebec is to the effect that monthly school taxes shall be charged to the party whose children are benefited by the school for which the fees are charged.

Will Stay by the Settlement.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 28.—(Telegram Special.)—Catholics here who have stood by Premier Laurier's settlement of the school question are not alarmed at their previous attitude by the finding of the Pope. They say it is impossible to maintain Separate Schools without Government aid, therefore they must accept the situation and continue to support the settlement.

RUSSIA GRABS AGAIN

The Bear's Paw This Time Falls on Kin-Chau.

CANADA'S INTERESTS PUT FIRST

In Lord Salisbury's Reply Declining the Anti-Sealing Proposal of the United States, Russia, and Japan—Sir Charles Dilke on the Chinese Situation—Cable News.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—The Russians have occupied Kin-Chau, north of Port Arthur.

AN AUTHORITY

Considers the Situation in the Far East Threatening—Japan's Pacific Intentions Unreliable.

Vienna, Dec. 28.—The Neues Wiener Journal publishes an interview with Sir Charles Dilke, who is considered a high authority on foreign affairs. He says that the situation in Eastern Asia is very threatening, and that he knows for certain that Japan is making warlike preparations with great activity. That country seems to project an attack on China or Corea. Sir Charles declares that he has no faith in Japan's pacific professions. He reminded the interviewer that England occupied Port Hamilton in 1885 and 1887, and said that Great Britain greatly needed a naval station in North China.

U. S. SEALING PROPOSALS.

Premier Salisbury Declines to Enter Into an Agreement With the U. S., Russia and Japan.

London, Dec. 28.—Lord Salisbury, the Premier, has written to United States Ambassador Hay in response to America's latest proposals in the Behring Sea controversy her request that Great Britain should enter into an agreement with the United States, Russia and Japan to stop sealing.

Great Britain declines to enter into such an agreement. Lord Salisbury says, in substance, that he has communicated with the Canadian Government, which has the foremost interest in the sealing question, and that Canada is unwilling to become a party to such an arrangement as is proposed by the United States. Therefore, England, continues Lord Salisbury, whose interest is but slight, would not be justified in acceding to the proposals.

Lord Salisbury's answer emphasizes the policy of England not to interfere in Canada's foreign relations.

GERMANS WERE THE VICTORS.

The Reported Defeat of an Expedition in Africa Flatly Denied.

Berlin, Dec. 28.—The Governor of the Cameroons, the German colony on the West Coast of Africa, has cabled to the home Government saying there is no truth in the story received in London by mail on December 7th that a German expedition consisting of six white officers and two hundred natives recently met with a severe reverse at the hands of the Moboulies, a tribe which has long harassed the German trade concerns. On the contrary, the Governor reports that the German expedition has completely defeated the tribe and has captured its capital with slight loss.

Bismarck's Gout.

The Hamburger Nachrichten denies that Prince Bismarck's gout is better, and says he cannot walk or sleep and is unable to read or answer his friends' letters. The former chancellor is described as being very irate at the statement that his health is satisfactory and is quoted as saying: "If the gentleman who wrote that were in my place, he would be able to get an idea of what a 'satisfactory condition' is."

The Interests of the Church.

London, Dec. 28.—(Telegram Cable.)—In an editorial yesterday dealing with the Pope's encyclical on the Manitoba schools, the Times says that if the Canadian hierarchy, clergy and laity can be induced to adopt the Papal decision in the spirit in which it was given they will certainly be taking the best course to promote the real interests of the church.

Lieut.-Col. Wilkinson has been appointed to succeed Col. Leach in the command of the Royal Engineers in Canada.

A Beethoven Find.

Dresden, Dec. 28.—The composer Reinhold Becker recently discovered in the library of the Society of Music Lovers in Vienna a piece of music in Beethoven's writing. It proved to be a setting of Goethe's "Erl Koenig," which was composed by Beethoven in 1816. The melody is beautiful. The music has just been published in Leipsic.

Panama Canal Boodle Trials.

Paris, Dec. 28.—At yesterday's trial of the Deputies and others accused of participation in the Panama Canal intrigues the public prosecutor announced the abandonment of the charges against MM. Gaillard, Rigaud, Laisant and Boyer, and asked that an adequate sentence be imposed on MM. Arton, Saint-Martin, Maret and Planteau.

Attaches Too Great Importance to It.

Madrid, Dec. 28.—According to an official announcement, the Government considers that the Spanish press attaches too great importance to the Woodford note. The Government says the announcement continues to regard America's attitude as correct, despite "certain statements in the note requiring refutation."

Turks Made a Mistake.

Constantinople, Dec. 28.—The Turkish Government, replying to the representations of Greece, has explained that the firing upon the Greek gunboat at Actium by the Turks at Prevesa on Saturday last as the vessel was leaving the gulf of Ambracia was due to a misunderstanding.

Another Big Fire in Old London.

London, Dec. 28.—Fire broke out last evening in the dry goods store of Messrs. Jermyn and Perry, High street, King's Lynn (Lynn-Regis), Norfolk. The local fire engine collapsed and the flames spread rapidly, soon destroying a number of the adjoining business houses. The total damage is estimated at £100,000.

NEITHER SIDE WILL YIELD.

A Ballot Result That Shows That the Amalgamated Engineers Have Much Missionary Work Yet to do.

London, Dec. 28.—The ballot taken by the striking engineers as the outcome of the recent conference between the representatives of the employers and the men has resulted in the rejection of the proposed compromise by a hundred to one; while the trade unions' proposal of 51 hours weekly, instead of 48, has been rejected by a majority almost as large. The ballot, therefore, is practically tantamount to a vote of no confidence in the leaders of the men. It is understood that the conference will not be resumed. The lock-out will now continue, though it is reported that several firms intend to open their shops to men willing to work on the employers' terms.

BOXING DAY DIVERSIONS.

Weather Fine and All London Enjoyed the Various Amusements.

London, Dec. 28.—There has been a sudden change in the weather. The fog had dispersed and Boxing day was mild and beautiful. London turned out en masse to enjoy the Boxing day diversions. All the amusement resorts were crowded and the streets rang from morning till late in the evening with laughter, jollity and topical songs.

A score of pantomimes were produced in London and in the suburban theatres, each house giving afternoon and evening shows, with probably record takings.

Sixty-eight thousand three hundred and seventy-two people visited the World's Fair at Agricultural Hall, Islington; 24,897 visited Madame Tussaud's exhibition; 26,217 went to the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, and 23,661 passed the gates of Barnum and Bailey's mammoth show in the gigantic Olympia Building at Kensington, where many thousands were turned away from the opening performances, which was an immense success.

Duke of Newcastle Convalescent.

London, Dec. 28.—The Duke of Newcastle, who has been severely ill, has so far recovered that, according to the Daily Mail, he hoped to be able to leave his room in a few days.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth so Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realising that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

Kerr and Ann Hayden, who were married at Coldsprings, in the township of Hamilton, on Dec. 23, 1847, by Rev. Wm. Hayden, the bride's father.

All the members of the family were present, including five sons and two daughters, along with eight grandchildren. These are:—George, of Coldsprings; James and William, of Cobourg; John and Annie, of Ashburnham; Maggie (Mrs. Carter) of Otonabee, and Edward, of Toronto.

The aged parents were the recipients of several handsome presents, including fifty dollars in gold, as tokens of the love and esteem in which they are held by their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr have resided chiefly in the township of Hamilton and in Ashburnham, where they enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who were acquainted with them. We join with these in wishing them many more years of wedded happiness.

HOCKEY SEASON OPENS.

With a Match against the Belleville Here on Friday Night.

The hockey season will open in town with a hockey match on Friday evening next against the Bellevilles, when a good game is expected to result.

The Bellevilles were the champions of the Quinte District League last year and are represented to be a very fast aggregation of clever stick handlers.

The admission fee has been placed at 15c, and it is expected that a big crowd will turn out to see of what material Peterborough's first team will be composed. Nearly all of last year's old players are available and some very promising young blood is aspiring to a place on the senior team.

No one should miss the first match of the season.

LIEUT. HAL ROGERS IN THE TIRAH WAR.

A LETTER FROM THE CAMPAIGN IN INDIA.

Skirmishing is Going on Continuously and the War is Causing Even More Bloodshed Than That With the Afghans—Only One Tribe Out at the Date of Writing.

The following interesting letter is written en route by Lieut. H. S. (Hal.) Rogers, son of Col. H. C. Rogers. He is in the Royal Engineers, and is on duty under General Lockhart in the Tirah expedition in North Western India. Lieut. Rogers is Assistant Field Engineer on the line of communication, making the way clear for the troops and also keeping the line open in the rear. He has in charge 1,200 coolies. Lieut. Rogers is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston—of 1889.

MASTURA, (beyond the Sampagha,)
November, 14th, 1897.

You see I am getting on more and more, but I doubt if I shall go much farther " I have not been in very great danger, however, although several times I have been under fire. In fact, the evening before last I was going down to the coolie lines about something, when bang! whizz! a volley went past my head. It turned out to be a few snipers, who had crept down to fire into the coolies, and I coming down on a sky-mach was a fairly good mark, so they tried a bang at me to start with. They only fired about a dozen rounds, and a few volleys from the sappers and miners and pioneers sent them off. They managed to kill three coolies, however, and kill a donkey and a camel. That was at a camp on the Sampagha, where there is a company of sappers, two companies of Madras Pioneers, and Turner and I had about 1,200 coolies there, all improving and widening the road over the Sampagha. We have got a splendid camel road there.

I came on then from Kurappa last Sunday—a week ago. I had been rather a worm, as my "innards" had got out of order at Shinawari, and I had alone for ten days, as that is the only way to keep from getting dysentery when you once get wrong. I had two days fever, too, as my work up to then was roadmaking in stony nullah beds, (canyons) when the heat was intense all day and the nights very cold.

However, the Sampagha camp was awfully nice, and I am braced up and happy again and hope to be all right.

Poor Cowie had to be invalided back with pneumonia, and Gus Joly has gone back, too, with a sort of dysentery. This show is costing us an awful lot of officers in sick, wounded and killed. Yesterday I got orders to come on here and improve the road towards the Sampagha. I was to have brought 400 coolies, but the firing the other night has frightened them and a lot have skipped and so I have only some 250. However I can get more over from Turner and Nathan, who have taken Cowie's place. I run my own show here and it is an awfully nice place and my being on the line of communication I get lots of transport and have all my kit, Dido and the two Gees with me.

I AM ALONE,

of course, at present, as I only got in this afternoon, but Devon's camp is just beside me and I have just had a long talk with Eddie Morris and am going to live in their mess from to-morrow, which is better than being alone. Of course I know dozens of men here.

Things are at a standstill now as General Lockhart has announced the terms and gives the tribes till the 2nd Dec. to consider, so I hope I shall stay here until then and then goodness knows what will happen. There is small fighting here and in Maidan every day with the foraging parties that go out but nothing serious although they seem to wound a lot of our chaps. They don't "snipe" often at night here and that's a good thing. I have not the slightest notion when it will be all over, but can't see how it can last much longer.

It is jolly and cold now and I enjoy my eiderdown and two blankets at night. They have frost at night in the next valley and we shall soon have it and snow too.

I am very comfortable but the commissariat does not give one luxuries in the eating line, and this being a hostile country, eggs and milk are not forthcoming as they were on the other side.

I have work from dawn till dark, more than most people, and some of it not quite the sort one cares about. We, on the line of communication, get the work without the fun (fighting), that is, all drudge and no glory. However, we must take the fortune the gods give and be thankful.

A WEEK LATER.

Masturia, Nov. 21st, 1897.

You see I am still at Mastura having been here a whole week. I shall probably go on through in a day or two as I have finished the road between the Sampagha and Arhanga passes, and in fact I have sent on 150 coolies to camp at the latter place to day, and am now working down into the Maidan Valley.

They are fighting there day and night, and yesterday I and another officer with about six sowars (native cavalry men) as escort, just missed being caught by the Afridis by about five minutes on three occasions.

I have orders to take over the road right into Maidan, and was out with the commandant, Capt. Young, to see what the work on that side was, and, as we went down, the picquets above us and not being able to see anything we retired.

We found that a convoy coming towards us just round a turn in the valley had been suddenly attacked and the drivers killed, and 20 donkeys carried off. The fire from the top was a bit too hot and they dropped the animals after losing about six men. As they left the animals in an open valley under the fire of the Gordons, who garrisoned the Arhanga Young and I descended to have a try at back. So we asked the Gordons to keep picquets up above us and cover us, and we went on to where the convoy had been captured. The loads were scattered about the road and they had taken them up a nullah at the top of which there was a saddle with a thick pine wood. Young and I, with about three sowars, advanced carefully up the nullah stream with loads and found a few donkeys. It was rather jumpy work, for if a few of the Affridis had remained in the wood they would have got us to a certainty. However, all was quiet and, revolver in hand, we got through and emerged at the top of another nullah with some 5 or 6 dismantled villages about five or six hundred yards down from there. These nullahs are all terraces, sloping away with the fields being the top of the terraces. The donkeys were quietly feeding about 200 yards off in the open, between us and the villages. I, with two sowars, started out, covered by Young and the others, with carbines to catch anyone who appeared, and I had not gone ten paces into the open and was just going to jump down on the terrace below, when whizz! bang! there were bullets all around, and one cut up the ground between the sowar and me, and we were not three yards apart. A rabbit never got to his hole quicker than I did behind a bush, and of course the Gordons opened fire from above. If the silly fools had only waited five minutes until I had got down far enough not to get hurt to cover quickly, they would have been able to pot to their hearts' content, and I don't think your third born would be writing to you now.

GETTING THE BEASTS

HIGH RETAINING WALLS,

Well, as six of us could do nothing, and as we had no business to be there, and would be sure to be set on if anyone was hit, we thought "discretion, etc.," and retired. As we got back to the road we met three companies of the Northamptons sent out to and we got them to have a try. They came along until the enemy opened fire on them about the same place that they did on us, and the major in charge said it was not good enough and would not go on.

Young and I were awfully disgusted as we knew that the enemy were few in numbers and if attacked would have to take to the open and the Gordons would get them from the top. But no, the officer in command had been in that disaster which no doubt you read about when the Northamptons were ambushed in a nullah and the losses were so fearfully heavy.

Anyhow both he and his men were jumpy and not for it and he retired. Young and I had to go back and so we left them and came on and I heard this morning when up at the Arhanga that these devils followed the companies back (as they always do if you don't go for them) and attacked a convoy near them and killed two and wounded two of the men in the camp as we had left not 15 minutes before. So I was out of both fights after all and perhaps just as well as it is no fun being potted from behind a rock. They have put a whole battalion on the Ashango. I am glad to say to-day or my coolies might have it hot.

They have been fighting in Maidan almost continuously for the and nights, and the losses are not nice to think about. In fact up to date the casualties are greater than in the Afghan war. These men are well armed and wonderfully good shots, and they are most wonderful at taking cover. We can't get at them and they pop away from all sides all day. I am speaking of Maidan and not Mastura, the latter being quite quiet, and Oakzaris having come in and submitted to the terms.

Maidan is being razed as far as General Lockhart can do it, and the whole valley is for miles filled with the smoke of burning villages, or rather homesteads. The Zakka Khils is the tribe that is holding out, and they are scoring off us to some considerable extent.

We have only been fired into once since I came into this camp, and that was a few nights ago and not many were sniping.

I am writing in bed with an eider down blanket, great coat and poshteen (fur Afghan coat) over me and a woollen cap on, for it freezes every night now and, golly, ain't it cold before daylight when I get up in the morning. Am quite fit and if I weren't so overworked would be happy.

I feed in the mess of Eddie Morris' regiment and we dine together, that is at the same table every evening.

I am out all day in the saddle mostly, or climbing hillsides and have to do my writing at night. It is 10.30 and as 5.45 sees me up again with a long day in front, I had better sleep. I don't know how long we shall be on this show but we must come out soon or freeze.

Your loving son,
H. S. ROGERS.

[It is worth mentioning as a somewhat remarkable coincidence that the Capt. Young mentioned in the letter above is a brother of Dr. Young, of Peterborough, who, by the way, is Surgeon to the Prince of Wales Dragoons, of which Lieut.-Col. Rogers, whose son writes the letter, is commanding officer. It may also be noted that the "Eddie Morris" spoken of is a brother of Mr. "Jim" Morris, formerly in the Ontario Bank here, and that the "Gus Joly" mentioned is a son of Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, and brother of Mrs. H. S. Greenwood, town.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful: active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,
A. L. DAVIS.

MAYORALTY ELECTION FOR 1898.

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In again offering myself as a candidate for the important and honourable position of Mayor of Peterborough, I have first to thank you for having twice returned me at the head of the poll. You are doubtless aware that, up to a very recent date, no one could be found to oppose my re-election, and while my opponent is a gentleman for whom I have the highest respect, it must be apparent that the auspices under which he is brought out, indicates that his election is sought for the purpose of serving the selfish aims of his principal supporters and as a reward also for what he has already done—for it was through him the Auburn Power Company, represented by Messrs. Meldrum and Kendry, obtained the remission of $400.00 a year for rent of poles, although, but a few months previously, a bylaw had been solemnly passed imposing such rental. This course means a loss to the town of $2,000.00, and, if followed by a similar remission to the Light & Power Company, which would be no more than just, a further loss of $2,800.00 will ensue. I submit that, however honestly intentioned Mr. Davis may be his business connections are such, both as an insurance agent and a director of a real estate company, which has very extensive interests in the town, it is impossible for him to occupy the Mayor's chair impartially. The course Mr. Davis pursued in the case of Moncrief against the town, when he strongly opposed The Toronto Loan and Savings Company being made parties to the action, may be fairly taken as an evidence of his probable course under similar circumstances, had he prevailed in that instance the town would have been unable to make the favourable settlement which was effected.

It is clear that Mr. Davis considers himself a special protector of the capitalists of the town, and when action was proposed to compel the Street Railway Co. to carry out the extension agreed upon, Mr. Davis plainly stated it as his opinion that men who had invested their capital in the town should not be interfered with. It is evident, therefore, that the workingmen will have to look out for themselves.

It is nothing new for a policy of progress to be advocated; there is no citizen who is not most anxious for the welfare of the town, and I have never failed to heartily co-operate in every scheme of its advancement. I fail to see that the fact of Mr. Davis "being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers and feeling that he can look after their interests" is a qualification for the mayoralty. It is true that Mr. Davis, in a published interview, insinuates that he and he only is capable of "originating" a scheme for bettering the town's condition, but during the year he has served in the Council, when he had equal opportunity for the display of his ability, he failed to propose any measure in the direction indicated.

In conclusion I have to say that I am entirely untrammeled by business or other connections, and am so situated that my whole time is at the service of my fellow-citizens, to whom I cheerfully leave the issue.

I have the honour to be, ladies and gentlemen,

Your most obedient servant,
WM. YELLAND,

THIS TELLS THE WHOLE STORY.

A Hamilton lady restored to Health.

Mrs. A. Simpson spoke to our reporter as follows, at her cosy residence, 118 Locke St., Hamilton, Ont. Said Mrs. Simpson, "For the last two years I have suffered greatly from heart and nerve troubles, also pains in my head. My appetite was very poor, and I felt very miserable all the time, hardly able to do my household work. My heart was so bad that I frequently fainted away, and was liable to drop down at any place or time.

Sometimes my heart seemed to bound into my throat so that I thought I would smother. My rest was very much broken, and I grew quite discouraged after using so many medicines without relief.

When I heard of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them, and procured a box at John A. Barr's drug store, and now after having used two boxes can say that I am completely cured. My appetite is good, indeed it seems as if I wanted to eat all the time. I sleep well and am thoroughly toned up. Truly I am better than I have been for many years."

THE RETIRED BURGLAR.

His Curious Experience in a House With Creaking Stairs.

"You know how the stairs puff up," said the retired burglar, "after you stop using 'em nights? You crowd 'em down close together, solid, treading on 'em all day long, and then when you let up on 'em the fibers of the wood lift up again, and the stairs seem to swell. You know how they creak, sometimes, and snap a little, when you go down 'em first in the morning, and some of the steps yield a little under the tread? That's them settlin' down into place again.

"I love to hear 'em in the morning. It seems kind o' like the stairs wakin' up and speakin' to you as you go along down. But I don't like to hear 'em at night. And at the time I go about they've had a chance to do considerable puffin' and no matter how velvet-footed a man may be he can't lessen his weight very well, and so I learned early to tread near the wall or near the banisters going upstairs, and not on the bow in the middle. The creak, or the little soft snapping, that sounds so pleasant in the morning, and that nobody wouldn't notice then, sounds mighty loud at night, when everything is still. If anybody was awake, you could hear it from one end of the house to the other. To be sure, it might not alarm anybody, because there's other sounds in a house at night; sounds that just make themselves. Due, I suppose, to changes in temperature. Boards swell and shrink and shift a little, and you might hear a little snap somewhere in the house at any time of night. But I always hated to hear the stairs creak when I was going up 'em, all the same. Because I always thought that as likely as not it would wake up somebody, and that I should find somebody sitting up in bed looking for me when I looked into the door of a room, and, as a matter of fact, that did sometimes happen.

"I looked one night, after a wretched pair of stairs, into a half-lighted room, where I saw a man sitting up in bed, over on the other side of the room, and looking plumb at the door that I was standing in. As I told you, I was always on the lookout for just this thing, but this man surprised me, for all that. He sat there in bed all keyed up, and looking square at me. I could see him perfectly plain, and I knew he could see me just as plain, and I expected every minute he'd find his voice and begin to holler.

"But, instead of that he threw the clothes back off his legs and swung his legs around out of bed, and stood up. He put his right hand out to locate a chair that stood by the head of the bed and then started for the door, hands out a little each side of him, and feelin' out a little on both sides and sort of ahead of him as he came along.

"Humph! Blind! He'd heard the noise and was going to look for it. I might have stood there and slugged him easy as he went by, but I didn't want no 'rastle with a blind man. I just went out and left him there looking."—New York Sun.

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and billousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that.

THE COLISEUM AT CHICAGO

Burned to the Ground in Less Than Half an Hour—Loss $700,000—One Life Lost.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—The fire which burned the Coliseum on Christmas Eve was the quickest on record here. In twenty minutes from the time of the first spark originated by the crossing of two electric light wires in the X-ray booth, used for an exhibition of X-rays, there was not a girder standing. All the walls went down except those on the ends, and all that marked the place where the building had stood was a mass of twisted iron and brick. The building was twice as large as Madison Square Garden, New York.

According to the figures given by the exhibitors and managers of the various concerns, the total loss is $702,350. The principal losers are: Coliseum Company, on building, $400,000; Coliseum Company, on interior properties, $100,000; Carroll's toboggans (F. C. Hostock), $100,000; Biblical paintings (Dr. Valentine), $35,000; Streets of Cairo and Congress of Eastern Nation stock, $20,000. The insurance on the Coliseum aggregates $120,000.

The fire claimed only one victim. He was H. H. Johnson, whose remains were recovered from the ruins yesterday. Johnson was a fireman employed about the building. He had evidently remained at his post until the last moment. Then he rushed toward an exit. Within a few feet of the door an immense piece of glass fell from the roof, pinning him to the earth.

MISTRESS STILL OF SEAS.

All the Correspondents of the New York Papers Say So of England in the Far East Embroglio.

New York, Dec. 27.—The London correspondents of the leading dailies here devote considerable space to the situation in China. Strange as it may seem, the correspondents are unanimous in saying that, come what may, England reigns supreme in the far East, and has only to move her great Asiatic squadron to the troubled centre to prove that, isolated as she may be, no combination of fleets can force her to relinquish that supremacy.

SOME GERMAN GOSSIP.

Nothing But Chinese Question Talked of—Russia's Occupation Permanent.

Berlin, Dec. 27.—China has occupied public opinion to the exclusion of everything throughout the week. The Government and the Foreign Office continue reticent, even the occupation of Port Arthur haivng failed to elicit any official statements, with the exception of denial of the extravagant utterances of the Cologne Gazette and other usually inspired papers. The reason for this exceptional taciturnity lies in the simple fact that Germany herself does not know where she stands, or how far the other powers will permit her to go. Germany, Russia and France are still negotiating, and while there is strong pressure to bring about another joint action of these three powers in the far East, equally potent influences are working to frustrate such plans. It depends largely upon the outcome of these negotiations as to what instructions Prince Henry of Prussia will find awaiting him when he arrives at Hong Kong early in February.

Russia's Occupation Permanent.

A prominent diplomat in an interview with the correspondent here of the Associated Press, says:—

"Russia's occupation is permanent. She thereby secures a much desired terminus for the Siberian Railroad, which will forthwith be extended from Vladivostouk to Port Arthur, making Russia the undisputed mistress of Manchuri and the whole of North China. Her interests in China in no way collide with those of France, whose sphere of action is in South China. Between them is an immense territory, which may eventually be disputed between Great Britain, Germany and Japan. A movement is now on foot between Japan and Germany to arrive at an understanding, as Japan sees clearly that this course is the wisest. Russia will not tolerate Japan in Corea, as it would upset all the schemes she has been preparing for the past two years. Therefore, Germany is the only friend and ally Japan can look for in the coming events. That is if she knows how to play her cards and establish a basis of mutual interests, for which I hear there is considerable prospect."

Kiao-Chou Not So Valuable.

From a missionary the correspondent here of the Associated Press learns that the Bay of Kiao-Chou is by no means so valuable as at first believed. Part of the harbor freezes during three months of the winter, and ice breakers are required to keep it open. The Hinterland is barren and treeless and the nature of the ground necessitates the erection of costly large fortifications in order to hold the bay and the adjoining territory against attacks. If Germany concludes to retain it she will have to spend large sums of money.

London reported two wonderful cures by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, within two weeks. Glencoe has a case quite as startling.

Weak Nerves.

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. "My nerves were completely unstrung,' says Mrs. H. Church, Caledonia, Ont; "and palpitation, loss of memory and shortness of breath troubled me greatly. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

The Mixed Mess.

The traveling men in eastern Maine have added a new story to their repertory, a Hancock county man being the subject. During the musical festival at Bangor, they say, John stepped into a Bangor hotel for dinner. Now it happened that the hotel man had leased the off side of his bill of fare to a local carriage manufacturer, who placed an "ad." thereon, with illustrations. John sat at the table. The waiter, being in something of a hurry, by mistake passed the bill wrong side out. John saw the wheels, put on his spectacles, curled his mustache with his left hand, straightened up, looked at the girl and said: 'I'll take scrambled eggs, a Bangor buggy, a couple of punts and a road cart. Got any wheelbarrows?" The girl flew.—Lewiston Journal.

What infinite care and pride a woman takes in her wedding trousseau. How fine and fit every dainty gown and filmy bit of lingerie must be. But how about herself, her own fine and delicate physical organism? Has this most important of all considerations been neglected? Has she any weakness or ailment which is going to mar and incapacitate her for happy marriage?

No woman is fit to marry who has any unhealthy condition of the special structure most intimately concerned in wifehood and motherhood. No modest reluctance should prevent her seeking immediate relief from such troubles. There is no need of the mortifying examinations so detestable to sensitive-minded women. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is daily curing thousands of women of these troubles in the privacy of their homes.

The "Favorite Prescription" is the only proprietary remedy of its kind prepared by an educated, authorized physician. There is hardly a case so obstinate that it will not completely and permanently cure.

Mrs. Emma G. Clover, of Redkey, Jay Co., Indiana, in a letter to Dr. Pierce, says: "I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to anyone who suffers with any female disease. When I was in my teens I was always sick. I took your medicines before I was married, and now I am a well person. I am now twenty-three. I have also taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and can recommend them all."

HOW THE HUMORIST WAS MADE A SCAPEGOAT IN AMHERST.

The Pitfalls That Lie About a Champagne Supper In a Temperance Town—The Hotel Man Was a Good Fellow, and He Had to Be Saved at Any Cost.

"The discussion about the sale of liquors at the Princeton inn recalls an amusing experience that I had in a strictly temperance college town a dozen or more years ago," said a man at the University club. "Amherst was the college, and for several years it had been a prohibition town. The townspeople made a great effort to enforce the excise law very strictly, and there were times when they accused the college men of not being in sympathy with them. It is quite possible that the accusation had some foundation in fact. There are occasions, as every college man knows, when excise law must not be permitted to obstruct hospitality.

"We had a small class society in my senior year which was composed of several men from each of the regular fraternities, and it made a point of entertaining at supper such distinguished visitors as came to Amherst with the reputation of being good fellows. Bob Burdette, the humorist, was the last guest of the club. Burdette delivered a lecture at Amherst, and our senior society intimated that we should feel ourselves highly honored by his presence at a little supper after the lecture. Burdette sent back word that the pleasure would be his, and so the supper was ordered at a hotel then very popular with the students. The steward of the society was ordered to see that a reasonable amount of champagne should be near at hand in case Burdette or any one else was tempted to drink a glass.

"He was instructed not to compromise the proprietor of the hotel in any way because he was a good fellow, and a conviction of violating the excise law would bring a heavy fine and imprisonment on him. When the supper was served, Burdette was on hand, and so was the champagne. For obvious reasons the hotel waiters were not asked to serve the wine. When a bottle was called for, the man who sat at the head of the table opened the folding doors behind him, stuck his hand through and brought back a bottle. No one knew who had placed it in his hand or where the wine had been purchased, except the member of the society who had acted as the steward for this occasion.

"It was a pleasant little supper. Burdette told us some stories that were new, and we told him some that he had never heard. Incidentally the champagne disappeared in the way it was intended to go, and every one supposed that nothing further would be said about it. Burdette left town for the west the next morning, and a week later the man who had entertained him were surprised to receive subpœnas to appear at the trial of the hotel keeper on the charge of violating the excise law. It developed later that a livery stable keeper who had a grudge against the hotel man had given the information on which the complaint was based. We were very much bored about the affair, and it was decided that the hotel keeper must be protected. As a matter of fact, he was really innocent.

"When the case was called, the first witness summoned was a member of the society who hailed from Chicago. The prosecutor learned from him that a supper had been given at this hotel on the evening mentioned in the complaint to Mr. Burdette.

"'Was any wine served?' asked the prosecutor.

"'Yes.'

"'What was it?'

"'It looked and tasted very much like champagne.'

"'Where did it come from?'

"'Why, from behind the folding doors,' answered the Chicago man innocently.

"'Who put it there?'

"'I don't know. Perhaps Mr. Burdette did.'

"Another senior was called, and he couldn't testify definitely about the champagne.

"'Who brought it to the hotel?' asked the prosecutor.

"'Perhaps Mr. Burdette did,' was his reply.

"Ten more seniors were put on the stand, and as each one in turn suggested that Burdette was the wicked one the smiles in the courtroom broadened and the prosecutor got angry. By persistent questioning he brought out the fact that at least a dozen bottles of champagne had been emptied at this supper, and from the evidence a guileless listener might have concluded that Burdette had not only brought the champagne, but had drunk most of it. Every senior who testified seemed to be anxious to do what he could to clear up the mystery, and each one gave his evidence in an ingenuous fashion. There was no possibility of getting Burdette to testify, and the prosecution failed to prove its case. The complaint was dismissed.

"The story was too good to keep, however, and it went all over the country. Whenever Burdette was invited to a supper after a lecture, he was asked, 'Did you bring your champagne with you?' It so happened that three years after Burdette lectured in Kansas City. Half way through his lecture he saw one of the men who had entertained him at Amherst. He told the story of that experience in a pathetic fashion. After the lecture the Amherst man went up and shook hands with him.

"'Why did you all make me the scapegoat for that excise case?' asked Burdette, with an appreciative grin.

"'It was because we found after comparing notes that every story you told us that night was old,' was the reply.

"'Didn't you know that I was a church deacon?' asked Burdette.

"'That simply aggravated the offense and gave point to our retaliation,' said the Amherst man. He told me afterward that Burdette's left eyelid drooped until it lay dead on his cheek for half a minute, and then the conversation was turned. So far as I know, Burdette hasn't been back to Amherst since."—New York Sun.

A Household Hint.

Entering the house of a friend some weeks ago, I was struck with the superb polish of her walnut stair rails. They were fairly dazzling—so much so that I could not but remark it.

"What polish do you use?" I asked.

"None at all," she replied. "I encourage my three small boys to slide down the banisters, and there you are."

CHRISTMAS CHURCH CHIMES.

SPECIAL MUSIC PREPARED FOR SUNDAY LAST.

The Anthems, Quartettes, Duets and Solos Rendered in the Different Churches.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

The Christmas services in All Saints' church were very largely attended and were characteristic of the joyful season. The morning service consisted of Morning Prayer and Holy Communion and sermon by the incumbent. An unusually large number communicated. The music was special, hymns and anthems. The anthem was "Behold I Bring"—Hall, and was sung with charming spirit by the choir. The solos were well taken by Mrs. Good and Mrs. Gilbert. The Christmas offering was very liberal.

At the morning service on Sunday the sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, and the choir sang the anthem, "While Shepherds Watched," by Best, Messrs Shepherd and Kingscote taking the solos. In the evening the Christmas music was repeated, and Rev. Mr. Armitage preached a special sermon on the subject, "Striking a yearly balance."

GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

The music furnished by the choir of the George street Methodist church Sunday, at both services, was strictly in keeping with this festive season of the year, and was voted by all who heard it as being excellent, the choir surpassing all their former efforts. The solos were exceedingly well taken, whilst in the chorus work the attack was good and excellent taste was shown in the shading of the various selections. This was particularly noticeable in the (unaccompanied) ladies' trio, and also the unaccompanied chorus to Mrs. Seward's obligato solo, "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem."

The following is a list of the music performed:—

Opening voluntary, "Chorus of Angels," Scotson Clarke.

First anthem, "Ye Nations all be Joyful." The alto solo was exceedingly well taken by Miss L. Pascoe, and the soprano solo and duet by Misses Clara and Annie Bellegham.

Second anthem—magnificent full chorus—"Behold I Bring you Glad Tidings," by Caleb Simper.

Concluding voluntary, "Christmas March," by G. Markel.

In the evening a Christmas song service was held. The first anthem was "Glory to God in the Highest," by Caleb Simper. The soprano solo in this anthem was taken by Miss L. Lamsden. Second anthem, "Hark, hark my Soul"—Shelly. The first solo was well taken by Mr. W. Wesley, and the second was admirably rendered by Mrs. Seward, the obligato solo being taken by Miss Clara Bellegham. Between the lessons Marston's celebrated solo, "It came upon the midnight clear," was sung by Miss C. Bellegham. The third anthem, selections from the cantata, "Joy to the world"—Lorenz. The first part was an unaccompanied chorus, "Angel's Song," by the ladies of the choir. Second part—Male chorus, "Arise, shine"; ladies' chorus, obligato, "Glory to God." Third part—Bass solo, "Behold the darkness," taken by Mr. Frank Turner. Fourth—"Oh little town of Bethlehem," unaccompanied solo and chorus, Mrs. Seward taking the solo in splendid style. The fifth selection was "Daughter of Zion," by F. C. Maker. Full chorus, the tenor and bass solos being magnificently taken in unison by the male members of the choir. Organ voluntaries—"Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's Messiah; "Overture to William Tell," arranged by Dudley Buck.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

The Christmas services at St. Peter's Cathedral were of an unusually bright and cheerful nature. First mass was celebrated at 5 30, and masses were continued until 10 30, when Pontifical high mass was celebrated by Bishop O'Connor, assisted by the Cathedral clergy. An appropriate sermon on the gospel of the day was delivered by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, who, together with the Bishop, extended the Christmas greetings to the congregation. The music at this service was especially grand. Under the leadership of Mr. F. W. Miller, the choir rendered Mozart's beautiful Twelfth Mass. The soloists were Miss M. Dunn, Mrs. J. J. Lynch and Messrs. Geo. Ball and J. A. Henderson. At the offertory Mrs. Geo. Ball rendered in beautiful voice, "Noel."

Pontifical vespers were sung by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and Ven. Archdeacon Casey preached the sermon. The music at this service was of a high order. Lambillotte's "Magnificat" was rendered by the full choir, as well as Rossi's "Tantum Ergo." The duet "O Salutaris," by Weighland, rendered by Mr. and Mrs. George Ball, was an excellent number. The beautiful altar decorations could be seen to advantage at the vesper service. There was a large number of communicants at the morning services, and the Christmas offering was a liberal one.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, ASHBURNHAM.

The services at 8 and 11 a.m on Christmas day were, as usual, attended by a large number of communicants, especially at the earlier service. The church was tastefully decorated, the principal new feature being two banners made by Mrs. Spence, bearing respectively the mottoes, "Unto Us a Child is Born," and "Unto Us a Son is Given." The offertory was liberal and in excess of last year. The special service was well rendered, the solo parts in the anthem being taken by Mrs. Grassett, Miss Burnham, and Mrs. J. J. Turner. Mrs. Davies' new composition "Jubilate" was tendered for the first time. It is, we think, fully equal if not superior to his Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, which have been published by the Parish Choir, of Boston.

Sunday morning Rev. W. L. Baynes Reed preached an appropriate Christmas sermon in St. Luke's. In the evening there was a very large congregation, when the Christmas music was repeated and the Rector gave the last of his series of sermons on "School of Thought in the Church of England."

Rev. H. Symonds has had several invitations to deliver his Lenten lecture on "The History of the Reformation." He will next Friday visit the little village of Ilfracombe, Muskoka, and lecture there on New Year's eve.

The theological graduates of Trinity University, Toronto, will hold their annual conference and reunion commencing on Jan. 11th next. The following papers will be read and discussed: "The Relation of Evolution to Christian Thought," by Rev. J. G. Lowe, B.D., of Almonte; "The Inspiration of Holy Scripture" by Rev. Prof. Clark, D.C.L.; "How can we encourage theological study amongst the clergy," by Rev. H. Symonds, M.A.; "Co-operation with other religious bodies," by Rev. T. G. A. Wright, M.A., and "The preparation of candidates for confirmation," by Rev. C. B. Kenrick, M.A.

MARK STREET CHURCH.

On Sunday morning Mr. Moore conducted a children's service. The Sunday school members occupied the centre seats. He took as his text, II Chronicles 34, 3, "While he was yet young he began to seek after the God of David his father," and gave an interesting and profitable sermon. This, and all the other services of the day, were well attended.

At Sunday school the attendance was the largest for any Sunday in the year. A special collection was taken for charitable purposes, and a good sum was realized.

In the evening the pastor preached a special Christmas sermon. The attendance was large.

Church prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 8, in the church.

Thursday evening there will be cottage prayer meeting at Mr. R. Record's, Stewart street. Mr. Jas. Tighe is to lead it.

The choir and congregation are to be congratulated on securing the services of such an efficient organist as Mr. J. Armstrong, who was appointed last week. He entered on his duties Sunday.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Mark street Auxiliary of the W. M. S., will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 5th, 1898, in the church at 3 o'clock. All ladies, whether members or not, will be welcome.

HARVEY.

Address and Presentation to Mr. Robt. Renwick.

On Friday, December 24th, even the Harvey Agricultural Society was stirred up by the Christmas spirit. In the afternoon a large gathering of the members of the society assembled at the residence of Mr. R. Renwick, the president, and after the exchange of hearty greetings, Mr. Robtert Shaw read the following address:

To Robert Renwick, Esq., President of the Harvey Agricultural Society:

DEAR FRIEND,—We, the Lakehurst and Hall's Bridge members of the Harvey Agricultural Society, with other of your friends, learning of your intended departure from amongst us, felt that we could not allow you to go away without an expression of regret at your removal.

You have been one of the pioneer settlers of this township, and a thoroughly good agriculturist, and one who was desirous of seeing an improvement in the stock usually kept by the ordinary farmer.

You have also taken a deep interest in church work in connection with the Presbyterian church, and we can fully testify to the high estrem in which you are held by all classes of the community. We have always found you a good kind neighbour, and can assure you of a warm place in our hearts.

We would now have much pleasure in presenting you with this cane, as a token of our good will, not that we give it to you to help you out of Harvey, but that it may be a support to you while travelling through the Kent mud, and also with it you may point out Harvey on the map, where you leave behind a great many sincere friends.

We would also ask Mrs. Renwick to accept of this pair of fur mits, and as they keep her hands warm, may she keep a warm place in her heart for those who wish you all a safe journey to your destination, and that God's richest blessing may rest on you and yours during the remaining years of your lives.

Signed on behalf of the members.

ARCHIE JOHNSTON,
JAMES O. WEIR,
THOMAS ELLIOTT,
ALEX THOMPSON,
ROBERT SHAW.

The presents referred to in the address consisted of a silver headed cane for Mr. Renwick, and for Mrs. Renwick a pair of fur gauntlets, and a beautiful purse, with a liberal "silver lining."

In reply, Mr. Renwick, who was much moved by the kindly spirit that animated his fellow members, most heartily thanked them on behalf of Mrs. Renwick and himself for the thoughtfully kind address and the accompanying beautiful gifts. He referred also to the prosperity of the society which was no surprise, when, as they had evidence that afternoon, the members worked together in a spirit of harmony. He hoped that this would continue and that when he severed his connection with the society, which he was compelled to do by removal, that the society would continue to prosper. He left it with its finances in good condition and he felt sure that there would be no difficulty in finding an efficient successor, who would take up the work where he had laid it down. Mr. Renwick then dealt generally with the subject of farming, setting forth what a noble, healthy, independent calling it was, and one whose success depended not upon hard work alone but upon a judicious combination of brains and toil. During his residence in Harvey, he had made many warm friends, and he would not soon forget the unvarying kindness he had experienced at the hands of his neighbours. He said he might better his condition in the new home he was going to, at least he hoped to do so, but he had no hope that he would find kinder friends or better neighbours than he left behind him in dear old Harvey. In conclusion he repeated his thanks for the kind remembrance he and Mrs. Renwick had received that evening, and concluded by wishing his guests a very Happy New Year.

The guests were then entertained at a sumptuous supper, spread with the generous hospitality and housewifely taste of Mrs. Renwick. Shortly after the older members of the party repaired to their homes, and the young people of the neighbourhood assembled, and "on went the dance, and joy was unconfined" till "the wee sma' hours" had lengthened into full dawn;—

They danced all night,
Till bread daylight,
And went home with the girls in the mornin'.

Sometimes It Pays To Lose!

We are intensely in earnest to Reduce our Matchless Stock of Cold Weather Clothing before the New Year "checking" time comes. We do not by any means intend carrying over any more Winter Goods than we can possibly help, and there is but one remedy and that is to make the Price an inducement to sell the stock.

QUICK LOSSES TO MAKE QUICK SALES

Pity that sacrifices must be made just at a time when cold weather makes all our stocks boom, but we are ready to make the sacrifice, leaving Profits to be made when money is more plentiful.

You may need Clothing now—we need money now. We will give you a lot of our Clothing for a very little of your money—if you come quick enough.

A loss accepted now on our Clothing and Boots and Shoes will enable us to thin out our big stocks in a short time. Whether you need Clothing or the Shoes for immediate use or not, it will pay you handsomely to buy now.

REMEMBER our Terms are SPOT CASH, but we return you your money if not amply satisfied.

Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed window you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them, and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods? I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at cheap Prices.

Next thing is your Celery, of course everybody says that your Celery is the best, nicest, crisp and tender. You have lots of it to sell? Yes. There comes my car, so good day! Push along! Bye, bye.

Choice stock of Groceries and Provisions, Fruit, Fish and Vegetables, always fresh, good and cheap. Free delivery. Glad to see all my friends and thank them for their kind patronage. Wishing you the compliments of the season, I remain your truly

RESUME DUTY AGAIN.

Ontario Legislature Return to Their Work.

TO SET APART FOREST RESERVES

Was the Purport of a Government Bill Read a Second Time Yesterday—To Control Water Powers—No More Gambling—In Supply—Members Not Satisfied.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—There was not a full attendance of members at the Legislature yesterday, many of the representatives having remained at home until after the New Year. Mr. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, was not present, though three important Government measures passed their second readings and were sent on to be dealt with in Committee of the whole House. There was no evening session, many of the members on both sides of the House desiring to attend the fancy dress ball given by Lord and Lady Aberdeen.

New Forest Reserves.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of his bill to establish forest reserves. He said much had been done during the past few years in gathering reliable information upon this important subject. Many States of the American Union had been moving in the same direction and their representatives and experts had given the Ontario officers the benefit of their knowledge. The want of more care in cutting up the forests of the United States had been productive of very dire results which would be guarded against in Ontario. (Hear, hear.) Owing to the devastation of the timber in certain parts of the United States many rivers had overflown and there had been a consequent destruction of property along the banks. No such state of affairs would be permitted in Ontario. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Southworth's report of last year was most instructive and interesting since it dealt with this subject. The provisions of the bill were restricted to the newer parts of the province, those parts that had been stripped of their timber either by cutting or fire. There were larger tracts of land in Ontario which because of their rocky nature would never be used for agricultural purposes, but where pine timber might be grown in abundance. The idea was to have these lands reserved.

Mr. Matheson: "Is it the intention to replant in these districts, or simply to set them apart?"

Hon. Mr. Gibson: "For the present we intend simply to set them apart, although personally, I don't see why we should not seed and replant. This, however, is a matter for future consideration."

Mr. Marter: "Unless seeding is done I can't see what good will be accomplished."

The bill was then read a second time.

To Control Water Powers.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of his bill respecting water-powers. He said the bill would enable the Government to make regulations respecting such powers in connection with the sale of Crown Lands. The practice had been to make such water powers available to the general public as far as possible, instead of creating a monopoly for one or two individuals. This, however, had not always been done, for the reason that when the lands were sold in many cases the Government had not been aware of the powers. The bill would give the Government power to adopt necessary regulations to cover such cases in future. The bill passed its second reading.

No More Gambling.

Hon. Mr. Dryden moved the second reading of his bill to prevent gambling and games of chance at agricultural fairs. He said during the fall it was the practice of certain swindlers who resided at Toronto and Montreal to go about the country from fair to fair with their wheels of fortune and three shell games. They were admitted to the fair grounds upon payment of certain fees to the directors of the fairs and allowed to swindle the public. He knew that many respectable farmers and others had refused for years to attend these exhibitions because of this gambling and horse racing or "trials of speed," as they were now designated. He wished to put a stop to these things. The bill was read a second time.

In Supply.

The House then went into Committee of Supply.

Members Not Satisfied.

It turns out that a majority of the members of the Legislature were not invited to attend the Governor-General's ball last evening, though most of them had registered at Government House weeks ago. Many of them who are from the country would have liked very much to have witnessed so grand an affair and are much disappointed that His Excellency had not placed so important a matter as the invitations in the hands of a more considerate and competent committee.

In Honor of Sir Oliver.

On Jan. 6 Mr. Speaker will give a dinner in honor of the new Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

THE CHAPLEAU LETTER.

An Investigation Into the Question of How Mr. Piche Became Possessor of It.

Montreal, Dec. 29.—Mr. Camille Piche, President of the Club Nationale, who boasts of having in his possession private letter written by Sir J. A. Chapleau to Hon. J. Israel Tarte, will be given an opportunity of making an explanation as to how he got it, according to the following story in the Star last night: "A prominent member of the Club Nationale stated to a Star reporter to-day that a meeting of that organization will be held shortly to investigate the charge that a member of the club had dishonestly acquired possession of a letter written by Sir Adolphe Chapleau to Hon. J. Israel Tarte, Minister of Public Works. The letter in question, which was in the possession of Mr. Gelinas, private secretary to the Minister, when it disappeared, has formed the topic of a great deal of discussion for the past two or three weeks in political circles. It is felt by many members that it is a very disagreeable charge connected with the leading French-Canadian Liberal organization in the city. The Star's informant stated that if a meeting was not soon called, in the ordinary course of events, a sufficient number of names would be inscribed to a requisition calling on the executive of the club to call a special meeting for the purpose. The same gentleman predicted that when the meeting is held it will be one of the liveliest ever held in political circles in this city. It is a pretty well-known fact that the Club Nationale is divided into two sections, known as the Tarte and anti-Tarte followers. When the letter-purloining episode comes up for discussion, it is said, the friends of Hon. Mr. Tarte will make it interesting for certain members of the club."

HON. G. W. ROSS NOMINATED.

West Middlesex Liberals Unanimous in Support of Their Old Representative.

Mount Brydges, Dec. 29.—The Liberal convention of West Middlesex was called to order by Dr. Whitehead, Chairman, at 11 o'clock yesterday. Mr. McMullin, of Caradoc, nominated the Hon. G. W. Ross, seconded by Mr. McCallum. Mr. Waterworth, ex-M.P., then moved, seconded by Mr. Grigg, that the usual formalities of examining credentials be dispensed with and Mr. Ross be elected by unanimous vote, and on the chairman putting it to a vote it was carried unanimously. Mr. McMullin and Mr. Dufton, of Wardsville, spoke on the good work Mr. Ross had done for the country.

Mr. Ross spoke for about an hour, and held the attention of the house very closely. He touched on the principal questions before the country at the present time. He explained Sandfield Macdonald's surplus and its disposition, and also claimed that at the present time there was a surplus on hand in cash to the credit of the Government which was larger than that on hand when the present Government was elected, and that if they had acted on the principle of the miser in hoarding up their surplus for some future Government to dispose of instead of expending it judiciously year by year they would have a much larger surplus on hand now. He claimed that a great many expenses which were formerly paid by the County Councils were now paid by the country at large. He upheld his system of education, claiming it was in advance of that of the United States or Great Britain. He was followed by a number of others, who gave very interesting speeches.

The meeting broke up about 5 o'clock. There were a great number of electors present.

G.T.R. Employes Censured.

Belleville, Dec. 28.—Trainmaster Irwin has issued a circular to all the employes in his division, from operators to switchmen, censuring them because the G.T.R. have lost the hog and meat traffic owing to failure to make the time agreed upon. The official points out that this not only means a serious loss in wages to employes, but also loss of revenue to the company. In future he states that avoidable delays will be severely dealt with.

Appointed a Judge.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—D. B. McTavish, Q.C., of this city, has been appointed Judge of the County of Carleton, in place of Judge Ross, who has retired.

THE TRADE OF CANADA

Returns Making a Comparison for the Past Two Years.

THE EXPORTS AND IMPORTS.

The Preferential Tariff—British and American Trade—A Wonderful Expansion of Trade But With a Lower Collection of Duties—The Business of the Past Year.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—An examination of the exports and imports of the United Kingdom, the United States and of Canada for the last fiscal year, and for the nine months of the current calendar year 1897, may throw some light on the course of trade generally, even if it does not gratify curiosity as to the effect of the preferential tariff on Canada's foreign trade. At all events, the figures are of interest and importance, and are in every instance official, the British being taken from the British returns, the American from American, and the Canadian from Canadian.

The working of Canada's preferential tariff will not be shown in the Canadian blue book for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, not yet published, because it had only been in operation a little over two months. The returns for the six months just ended of the current fiscal year might show it, but they will not be made up until the fall of 1898, although in Great Britain, as well as in the United States, similar returns will be published six weeks after the year ends. That Canada should be so behind in these matters is a reproach to the country. Our statistics are the worst arranged of any in civilized countries, and are practically out of date when made public.

The trade and navigation returns, which will be published in full shortly, and will show that during the fiscal year 1896-97 the total imports entered for consumption were $111,294,031, as against imports of $110,887,480 the preceding year. The duty collected amounted to $19,891,997, as against $20,219,087, a decrease of $327,090.

Exports amounted to $123,959,888, an increase of $17,581,086. The average rate of duty is 17.6 per cent. on the total imports for consumption and 30 per cent. on the dutiable imports, which is about the same proportion as last year.

Great Britain still remains Canada's best customer. During the year there were exported to the United States Canadian products to the value of $43,991,455, as against $34,460,428 in 1895-96. Great Britain took out of our exports $69,533,-859; yet our imports from the Old Country were but $29,419,188, a decrease of $3,567,554, as compared with the previous year, while from the United States we imported to the value of $61,649,041, an increase of $3,075,093 over our imports of American products of the year before.

Upon the total imports of British goods there was collected duty to the amount of $6,205,367, an average rate of 21 per cent.; upon total imports from the United States the sum of $8,147,075, an average rate of but 13 per cent. Even upon the dutiable portion of imports the average duty on American imports was only about 26 per cent., as against 30 per cent. on imports from Great Britain.

The balance of trade in 1896-97 as between Canada and Great Britain is in Canada's favor by $40,121,664 for the year. As between Canada and the United States it is in favor of the Americans by $17,657,556. In other words, while we sell 50 per cent. more to Great Britain than to the United States, we import more than twice as much from the latter as from the Mother Country.

Models for Public Statues.

The time for submitting models for statues of the Queen and Hon. Alexander Mackenzie closes with the year, and a number of models are coming in. Herbert, of Montreal, to-day deposited models for both, and Alwyn, of Toronto, and Hill, of Montreal, have already sent in. The models will be on view to the judges on Jan. 5 and 6 and afterwards to the press and public.

Will Have Pauper's Funeral.

Mrs. French, of Billing's Bridge, who committed suicide on Christmas night because her lover did not keep his promise to visit her that evening, will have a pauper's funeral at the city's expense. Her husband, who has disowned her for years, refuses to pay the funeral expenses, and no other friend volunteers the duty.

They've Come to Terms.

The Ottawa and New York Railway Company have at last come to terms with the Canada Atlantic Company, which has given them permission to come over their line from a point five miles outside the city limits. This agreement will stand until August 1, when it is expected the Ottawa and New York will have its own line completed to the head of the Deep Cut.

A Good Man for North Toronto.

Toronto, Dec. 28.—George Anderson, of the Royal Oil Co., will probably be the Liberal candidate in North Toronto for the Local House. A number of prominent Liberals in the riding have taken him up and are pressing him upon the party. He will be a strong candidate if he gets the nomination. Since the advent of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to power Mr. Anderson has visited Japan as a trade commissioner for the Federal Government and his services were of considerable value.

Willie Marsh Was Drowned.

Consecon, Ont., Dec. 29.—A very sad accident occurred in the village yesterday. Willie Marsh, aged about 13 years, son of the late Marshall Marsh, while playing on the mill pond, broke through the ice and was drowned before assistance could reach him.

Crimean Veteran Dead.

Hamilton, Dec. 29.—Dennis Shea, an old veteran of the Crimea, died yesterday from heart failure. He served in Canada with the Royal Canadian Rifles, and later was a corporal in the Governor-General's Foot Guards at Ottawa. The Army and Navy Veterans will bury him.

Suffered Agony With Pains in the Stomach—Hood's Cured.

The testimonials in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla are as worthy of confidence as though they came from your most trusted neighbor. They are written by honest people who are grateful for the cures accomplished by this wonderful medicine. Read this statement:

"I was afflicted with severe pains in my stomach from which I suffered much agony at times. I was afraid to go any distance from home for fear of having an attack. I was treated for neuralgia of the heart without avail. At last my mother wrote and urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have her letter before me at the present time and it reads as follows: 'My dear child, it grieves me to learn that you suffer so with your stomach. Do get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and let me know the result, for I am confident

It Saved My Life.'

I am glad to state that I abided by my mother's advice and I am now healthy and strong. I never think of being without Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. It is a great help to mothers while nursing. I have given it to my baby with satisfactory results. I cannot state all I would like of the many benefits I have known Hood's Sarsaparilla to give to other sufferers. I gladly recommend it." MRS. OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Sleighing for Christmas could not be more desirable and the people took advantage of same.

The funeral of the late W. H. Hunt, B.A., principal of the High School, was largely attended last Friday starting to Omemee station and thence to Omemee Mt. Pleasant cemetery. Amongst those of his friends in attendance was Prof. Hunt, of Washington, D.C., his mother and Miss Hunt, of Toronto, and Miss and Mr. House of Dunnville, brother and sister of the widow of the deceased. The late Mr. Hunt was formerly a resident of Peterborough.

The memorial service conducted by Prof. Hunt, assisted by the local clergymen, in the Presbyterian church last Sunday were of the most impressive nature there being being about 600 present.

Amongst those present here visiting friends on Christmas were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tully, the former being head clerk at Mason's City grocery, Peterborough; Miss Bellegbem and Mr. H. D. Williamson, of Peterborough, who ably assisted at the L.O.L. concert, and Mr. John Kincaid, also of Peterborough.

L. of L. concert, No. 113, was a grand success, there being no disappointment of performers. Prof. Rish and Ramsay kept the audience in roars of laughter for over two hours, while Miss Bellegbem and H. D. Williamson gave a very pleasing variety on the programme. Miss Bellegbem made quite a favourable impression here as a vocalist. Miss Rose Williamson played all the accompaniments with skill. Proceeds of concert amounted to about $150, expenses about $60. Proceeds to be devoted to lodge properties.

There were an unusually large number drove to Peterborough on Friday last and came home well pleased with their various transactions, and many here now call at their old acquaintance, D. Thornton, corner Aylmer streets.

The nominations on Monday were of an unusually quiet nature. The new nominees of the township are W. S. Graham against J. Mitchell for deputy reeve; Wm. Brown for councillor, and W. Adams against R. Boates for reeve. For the village, Dr. Cornwall, the ex-reeve, is again nominated against Thos. Stephenson as reeve. Ed. Adams and Geo. English were nominated for councillors.

Those here during Xmas to see friends were Messrs. Irons, McCrae, Toronto, Jas. Norris, A. Parson and McCormick, Toronto.

Mr. J. D. Thornton, insurance agent, has been kept very anxiously and busily engaged during the past month waiting on his mother, who is a victim of heart and nerve trouble, which appears to baffle the best efforts of Drs. Halliday of Peterborough, and Cornwall, Omemee.

The Commercial House, Omemee, managed by Peterborough parties, was exceedingly well managed during the holidays, and the best of order existed. Every attention is paid to guests and visitors.

Sheehan, selecting jurors, $1.25; Chas. Coben, selecting jurors, $1.25; Chas. Coben, council fees, $2 10; John Gilmore, $2.50; James Allen, $2 50. M. After the bylaws appointing returning officers was passed, the council adjourned.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined!

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then comes the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging one's self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

MR. SIFTON IN WASHINGTON.

The Expected Conference With Secretary Alger Postponed.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The Canadian Minister of the Interior, Mr. Sifton, and his secretary, Mr. McKenna, were waited upon at their hotel yesterday morning by Assistant-Secretary Melklejohn of the War Department and welcomed in the name of Secretary Alger. They were then driven around the suburbs, including the Soldiers' Home grounds, until noon, when Secretary Alger entertained his visitors at luncheon. It is learned that Mr. Sifton, in accepting Secretary Alger's invitation to come to Washington for the purpose of consulting respecting Klondike relief measures, telegraphed that his Government was heartily in favor of co-operation with the United States authorities in the effort to aid the miners in the Klondike. The expected conference between Secretary Alger and Mr. Sifton did not take place in the afternoon. Secretary Alger had overrated his strength and found that he was not sufficiently recovered from his illness to undertake the work of arranging details of the relief expeditions. The Canadian visitors are to remain in Washington for a few days, however, so that the conference is simply postponed for a short time. Captain Brainard has been authorized to issue to-day the advertisements for the supplies that are to be carried on the expeditions.

MUNYON'S COLD CURE

Colds lead to coughs, coughs to pneumonia and consumption; therefore, it is all important to check a cold before it reaches the lungs. Munyon's Cold Cure will positively break a cold inside of twenty-four hours. Old colds, new colds and obstinate colds cured in a few hours. When the cold reaches the lungs or bronchial tubes the Cough Cure should be used alternately every half hour with the Cold Cure. The Cold Cure is guaranteed to prevent pneumonia if used in the beginning of a cold. Pneumonia, or inflamation of the lungs can be controlled by the use of these two cures.

A separate cure for each disease. At all druggists, mostly 25c a vial.

BRITAIN AND JAPAN.

Reported Junction of Fleets at Port Hamilton.

JAPANESE CABINET RESIGNS.

Fleet of the Flowery Kingdom Waiting the Order to Strike—Russian Aggression Opposed—Strength of the British Squadron in Chinese Waters—Indian Campaign Ended.

London, Dec. 29.—A special despatch from Shanghai says the British fleet has anchored at Port Hamilton. The despatch further says that a report is current at Che-Foo to the effect that the Japanese fleet has also arrived at Port Hamilton.

Over 90 British Warships.

London, Dec. 29.—The Globe says a private telegram received London yesterday evening announcing that over 90 British warships have arrived at Port Hamilton.

Port Hamilton, according to the maps, is a small island south of Corea, and not far from Quelpart Island.

British Battleships and Cruisers.

London, Dec. 29.—The British fleet now stationed in Chinese waters under the command of Admiral Sir Alexander Buller and Rear Admiral Oxley embraces the following vessels: First-class battleship Centurion (flagship), 14 guns, tonnage, 10,500; first-class cruisers (second flagship), Grafton, 12 guns, 7,350 tons; Immortalite, 12 guns, 5,600 tons; Narcissus, 12 guns, 5,600 tons; Undaunted, 12 guns, 5,600 tons; first-class gunboats, Peacock, 6 guns, 735 tons; Plover, 6 guns, 755 tons; Pigmy, 6 guns, 755 tons; Rattler, 6 guns, 715 tons; Redbreast, 6 guns, 805 tons; Redpole, 6 guns, 805 tons; second class cruisers, Aeolus, 8 guns, 3,600 tons; Rainbow, 8 guns, 3,600 tons; Piquo, 8 guns, 3,600 tons; third class cruisers, Archer, 6 guns, 1,770 tons; Porpoise, 6 guns, 1,770 tons; second-class gunboats, Fire Brand, 4 guns, 445 tons; Linnet, 2 guns, 756 tons; Spartan, 8 guns, 3,600 tons; Swift, 2 guns, 756 tons; sloops, Daphne, 8 guns, 1,140 tons; Wild Swan, 6 guns, 1,180 tons; torpedo destroyers, Handy, 6 guns, 260 tons; Hart, 6 guns, 260 tons; despatch boat Alacrity, 4 guns, 1,700 tons, and the store boat Humber of 1,640 tons.

BRITISH WARSHIPS ON THE MOVE.

Will Make the Esquimalt Squadron the Strongest Ever Assembled There.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 29.—The British cruiser Leander and the torpedo destroyer Virago have arrived on their way to Esquimalt. The two warships left Portsmouth, Eng., last August, sailing at an average speed of 12 knots. They called at the principal ports of South America. The Leander is a second-class cruiser of 4,300 tons, and has a speed of 16 knots. The Virago is one of several torpedo destroyers built last year. She is reputed to have a speed of 30 knots. The two vessels will coal to-day and will sail for Esquimalt, calling at San Francisco on the way.

The cruiser Phaeton, with the destroyer Sparrowhawk, is following the Leander and Virago, and is expected to arrive here within two weeks. The Phaeton and Leander are sister ships, as also are the Sparrowhawk and Virago.

With these vessels added to the Esquimalt squadron, Great Britain will have the strongest fleet by far that has ever assembled in the north.

Japanese Fleet Outside Nagasaki.

London, Dec. 29.—A special despatch from Shanghai, dated yesterday (Tuesday), says: "It is reported that a Japanese fleet of over 30 warships is waiting near Goto Island, outside Nagasaki, fully equipped for war, and only awaiting instructions. This includes the Yashima and the Fuji, two of the finest vessels in the Japanese navy, and the Chen Yuen, that was captured from China. The Japanese fleet, it is understood, is acting in close touch with the British squadron, under Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Buller, Commander-in-Chief of the China station.

"Japan will certainly oppose a permanent Russian occupation of Port Arthur. The sudden dissolution of the Japanese Diet was owing to the war spirit. It is expected that the Japanese fleet will attempt to prevent the landing of reinforcements from Odessa for the protection of the Russian Trans-Asiatic Railway in Manchuria."

A despatch to the Times from Kobe, Japan, says the dissolution of the Diet has greatly angered the political parties. It is probable that the Marquis Ito, former Premier, and Count Okuma, a former Minister, will form a coalition Ministry with a vigorous foreign policy. The military party is eager for action; extraordinary activity prevails at the military and naval depots, and warships are assembling at Nagasaki.

China is Becoming Alarmed.

Pekin, Dec. 29.—The German question is unsettled. China's difficulty is increased owing to the uncertainty of the attitude of the powers. Germany's withdrawal from Kiao-Chou Bay is said to be conditional upon her finding a suitable naval station elsewhere.

China is becoming alarmed at the present situation. The Government appears to be utterly powerless. No answer has been received from Russia concerning the proposed loan, and there are calamitous forebodings connected with the sun's eclipse on the Chinese New Year's Day.

What Has China Done?

New York, Dec. 29.—In an interview with the World, Wu Ting Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States, explains the Eastern situation:—

"What has China done," he asked by way of preface, "that she should be divided up and parceled out among the powers? What is her offence against the nations or against civilization?

"Germany is incensed, we are told, because two of her subjects have been murdered. If this be true, my Government will make all the reparation in its power. It has never refused to do that, and, never having refused, there is no reason for German ships of war to seize Chinese territory.

"They talk of dismembering China. Why do they not partition Turkey? Everybody knows she was long the scourge of Europe and time and again has made bloody conquests, some of which she still holds. On the other hand, the Chinese have kept well within their own territory, and have never disturbed the peace of Europe.

"As for Russia, I have no notion that she intends to take any of our territory without our cordial consent. Russia may get concessions, but I do not think that means that we shall be divided up and handed around like cake."

What Started the Racket.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 29.—A copy of the peculiar and remarkable contract under which Russia seized the Corean finances and customs, and thereby forced out McLeavy Brown, the representative of English interests, recently, and which so offended England that the British Pacific squadron has been despatched to Chemulpo, near Seoul, the capital of Corea, has been received here, and a translation reveals the fact that Russia not only seized the finances and customs of Corea, but proposed to hold forever the same, notwithstanding that in her treaty with Japan after the China-Japan war she specifically agreed to join with Japan in maintaining the independence of Corea, and not to do any act that would jeopardize Japan's influence there. Japan has thus far observed the Russian-Japanese treaty regarding Corea, but in the above contract Russia has not only offended Japan, but aroused England. McLeavy Brown, however, refused to accept his dismissal and returned his discharge to the King and Emperor of Corea. He appealed to the British consul, and the latter reported the situation to England.

THE BRITISH VICTORS.

The Indian Tribesmen's Rising Crushed and Britain's Troops Return to Peshawur—New Routes Discovered.

London, Dec. 29.—A despatch from Peshawur says: "The British columns have returned from Khyber Pass, after punishing with slight opposition the Zakka-Khels in the Bazar Valley. Military operations on the frontier are now concluded. Every Afridi and Orakzai Valley has been visited.

"It now appears that the enemy's loss has been more severe than was at first believed, and out of all proportion to its possible fighting strength. Their trade with our centres for the necessaries of life has been closed and their autumn tillage prevented. The complete submission of the Orakzais is now accomplished.

"Many hitherto unknown strategical frontier routes have been surveyed and mapped out. The vaunted prestige of the Afridis has been lowered, and their punishment has paved the way for the permanent settlement of the country. It is firmly believed that, cut off from India and threatened with a reinvasion of their country in the spring, they will now submit. It is also expected that the internal friction resulting from the operation will prove almost as severe a punishment as the operations themselves."

Pallid faces indicate pale, thin blood. Rosy cheeks show the pure, rich blood resulting from taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

ALL IS LOVELY NOW.

Britain and Venezuela Will Again Do Business With Each Other.

New York, Dec. 29.—Mail advices from Caracas, Venezuela, report that the official reception by the Government of Venezuela of Mr. William Henry Doveton Haggard, accredited as Minister resident of the British Government to Venezuela, took place at Caracas on Dec. 11. The resumption of diplomatic relations means a resumption of commercial and trade relations between England and Venezuela. Pledges of mutual confidence and esteem were exchanged between Minister Haggard and President Crespo, and there is every indication that the former friendship that existed between the two countries has once more been firmly established. At 4 p.m. the carriage of the President, which had been sent to take Minister Haggard to the Federal Palace, arrived, and the Minister was driven between the double line of troops that saluted his arrival, while the national band played "God Save the Queen." Minister Haggard, in the full uniform of a Minister, was met at the entrance of the Elliptic Salon by Dr. Rojas, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and was introduced to President Crespo.

Physical strength and energy contribute to strength of character, and both may be had by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

East Buffalo Cattle Markets.

East Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 28.—Cattle receipts three cars of Canadas that came in late. The market was considered strong and firm for good fat butchers' cattle and good shipping steers, and all of these kind were sold, with the general outlook fair for the immediate future.

Veals and calves—Offerings were light, only about 30 head. The market ruled with a fair demand. Fair lots of veals sold at $7 to $7.50, common $6 to $6.50, extra quotable at $8.

Stockers and feeders—The receipts this week were light, only about 20 loads of Canadas and 12 loads of natives. Sheep and lambs—Receipts were fair, about nine cars of fresh sale stock and eight loads that held over. The market was very dull and slow for lambs, with a number of end ones still unsold, and what was sold was at full weak to 10c off from yesterday's closing prices. Sheep were in light supply and about steady. Lambs, yearlings, choice to prime, $4.80 to $5; fair to good, $4.50 to $4.75; culls to common yearlings, $4.25 to $4.40; native lambs, choice to extra, $5.15 to $5.25; fair to good, $5.75 to $6; culls to common, $4.50 to $5.60. High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CUSTOMERS, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

A GAY NIGHT AT COURT LITTLEJOHN, C. O. F.

Splendid Initiation Ceremonies—Slate of Officers for 1898—All-night Enthusiasm Among the Followers of Robin Hood.

Monday night was a record-breaker at Court Littlejohn, No. 92, Canadian Order of Foresters. There was an unusually large attendance of the members, which was increased by the presence of a large delegation of visitors. Interest was enhanced by the fact that six new members were to be initiated into the mysteries of Forestry, and that the degree team of Court Peterborough was to be present in full initiatory robes to assist in the impressive ceremonies.

Bro. Robert Morris, Chief Ranger, presided, and after the opening ceremonies had been disposed of, preparations were made for the initiations and the reception of the team. Great interest was manifested in this event. The candidates were duly prepared, and handed over to the captain of the team, who marshalled his staff of brilliantly robed officers with a precision and skill that would have done honour to Robin Hood himself.

The beautiful ceremonies of the new ritual were then picturesquely exemplified and the candidates submitted to their first baptism of the forest from start to finish with a heroism and fortitude which elicited the admiration of the brethren.

After a unanimous vote of thanks had been passed by the court to the members of the team for their very efficient services, the Chief Ranger announced an adjournment for refreshments, which were served up in the adjoining dining room, under the direction of Mine Host McCallum.

On the re-opening of the court the nomination and election of officers was proceeded with, and after a two hours animated contest resulted in the selection of the efficient staff of officers published in yesterday's EXAMINER.

A CHRISTMAS TREE.

For the Primary Class of St. Andrew's Church Last Evening.

The Primary Class Xmas entertainment in St. Andrew's church last night was in every sense highly satisfactory and intensely pleasing to the children. Tea was served at 5 o'clock and after various games a dialogue was very well rendered under the direction of Miss Landy. After choruses by the children, Santa Claus distributed the presents from the trees. The decorations of the hall were very beautiful, being gaily coloured with flags and evergreen while the tree and platform were illuminated with coloured incandescent lights.

The hearty thanks of all present were given to Mrs. VanEvery and Miss Trimble for the complete success of the evening's entertainment.

Tonight the Sabbath School and Bible Class have their concert and after tea, which will be served at 5 30, the programme, to which all parents and friends are invited, will open at 7 o'clock.

Dear Miss Nicholls:

At this season when the spirit of peace and good will animates all those who own allegiance to the Prince of Peace, your pupils of the girls' Bible class of the Murray street Baptist church Sunday school, desire to show their appreciation of the patient and faithful efforts you have bestowed upon our spiritual improvement. To mark this appreciation we ask your acceptance of this copy of Peloubets Notes for 1898, believing that to one whose trust is a higher help, it will serve to make your devotion to the service of the Master even more fruitful in the future than it has been in the past. With loving good wishes for a happy New Year, we remain, dear teacher,

ON BEHALF OF THE CLASS.

Miss Nicholls, who was very deeply affected by this evidence of the regard of her class, returned thanks in a suitable manner, after which refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening of music and social recreation was enjoyed.

THE LATE JOHN BURNHAM, Q. C.

Sad Death of a Prominent and Much-Respected Citizen.

Drowned in the River at the Foot of his Grounds this Morning—Business Troubles, Despondency and Self-Destruction—Details of the Sad Occurrence—Sketch of the Deceased Gentleman's Life.

The town was greatly shocked this morning by the report that Mr. John Burnham had, in a moment of unsettled reason, taken his own life by throwing himself into the river at the foot of his residence grounds in Ashburnham.

Great excitement was occasioned by the rumour, amongst the business men and small groups discussed the matter on almost every street corner, whilst the greatest solicitude was expressed for the affliction which had been occasioned the family.

Mr. Burnham has been so greatly oppressed by business troubles, which accumulated during the last few months, that he has been unable to sleep at night. This fact told upon his nerves to a considerable extent, and at times he complained greatly of his head. During the last several weeks his worry appeared to increase, as the strain on his nervous constitution grew greater, through the tension created by the need of sleep.

He was in and out of his office yesterday attending to business, but last evening at dinner he talked incoherently to such an extent as to occasion uneasiness amongst the members of the family, and when several friends called during the evening, he did not apparently notice their presence, although usually the most courteous and kindly of hosts. Later on he retired to his library, and asking threw himself on the lounge in an endeavour to obtain sleep. Members of the family having occasion to visit the library, saw him at intervals during the evening as he lay on the sofa, but as the change in his demeanour had been gradual, no alarm was felt and the family retired at the usual hour, with the exception of some of the younger members who were out spending the evening. On their return Mr. Burnham was still occupying the library, and in answer to their inquiries he stated that he was still troubled with insomnia.

This morning when Mrs. Burnham came down stairs she noticed that the library was vacant, and on entering found on the desk a slip of paper on which was written: "I have hardly slept for a month, I can't endure it, my brain is going. God help me." This was unsigned, but as it was in the well-known handwriting of her husband, the note aroused the greatest apprehensions, and the family was at once aroused and Mr. R. B. Rogers was immediately telephoned for, this was at seven o'clock.

Tracks were noticed leading from the front door across the garden in the direction of the river, and Mr. Burnham's eldest son, Harold, followed them out across the ice to where he found one slipper and a smoking cap belonging to his father, and as there was no further trace, the terrible conviction was forced home that in a moment of temporary aberration his father had taken his own life.

There is no doubt existing as to the unfortunate ending of Mr. Burnham's life as the footprints led directly to the edge of the ice across the snow and there was but the one track and no way of returning without leaving some trace. The spot on the ice to which the footprints were traced was to a point just opposite the Peterborough Canoe factory where the river was frozen to some distance out.

It seems strange that up to this time no one has appeared who saw the regrettable act committed, although it must have occurred in broad daylight.

No one has made any statements, as yet, regarding seeing Mr. Burnham at any time this morning, and the evidence therefore as to his death though purely circumstantial, is of a nature which now leaves no room for doubt as to the facts connected with it.

THE BODY FOUND.

The entire staff from the Trent Canal offices turned out to assist in the search for the body, and a large number of citizens also gathered along the edge of the river on the ice. At about two o'clock, or shortly before, the remains were located in about four feet of water not far from the point to which the footprints were traced. Large blocks of ice had been cut out and floated away in the river channel to allow a row boat to be used, and when using grappling hooks, in the space thus made, the body was located. When raised the remains looked most natural, no trace of suffering being discernible in the features. The deceased had all his clothing on, with the exception of the one slipper, which was found on the edge of the ice. The body was immediately removed to the family residence and the coroner summoned, nothing being disturbed until his arrival.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, Ashburnham, on Friday at two o'clock.

Mr. Burnham was one of the best known, most prominent and most highly respected residents of the town or county. He has been before the public all his adult life, and has taken an active part in public affairs, with credit both to himself and the interests he was associated with. He was, at the time of his death, a few days over fifty-five years of age, having been born in St. Thomas, Ontario, on Dec. 3rd, 1842. At ten years of age he came to Peterborough with his father, the late Rev. Mark Burnham. He received his preliminary education in Peterborough, and at the Galt Grammar School under the late Dr. Tassie. He was called to the bar in 1866, and began the practice of his profession, which he has since conducted with marked success. He was made a Q.C. by the Dominion Government in 1869. Mr. Burnham was a public-spirited citizen, and during all his adult life, has taken an active interest in public affairs, much success attending his efforts in this direction. He became reeve of the village of Ashburnham, where he resided (though his law offices were in Peterborough), in 1875, and has continuously represented the village in the county council, till last year, when he retired to accept the position of one of the representatives of the Otonabee Division in the county council, to which he was elected by acclamation. In 1877 he was elected warden of the county and occupied that position for three years. He entered the Dominion Parliament, as representative of East Peterborough and a supporter of the Conservative Administration, at the general elections of 1878. He was again returned at the general election of 1882, but was an unsuccessful candidate in 1887. He was, however, returned at the general election of 1891, and was an unsuccessful candidate in the last general elections. Mr. Burnham was a pronounced Conservative, but an honourable opponent. In Parliament he was not a frequent speaker, but when he did speak he commanded the attention of the House. He was more distinguished for his solid qualities as a representative and for his grasp of public questions, than for frequent participation in debate. He was not a man that made any special bids for popularity, and it was respect for his abilities and direct decision of character that commanded the esteem of his constituents. He had the courage of his convictions, and seemed to give expression to these convictions, regardless of the manner in which they might affect his personal popularity. The same characteristics marked his career in the County Council, where he was easily one of the foremost members. On account of his long experience and great knowledge of municipal matters, he was looked upon as an authority, and his opinion deferred to accordingly. His sad death, following so closely upon that of another veteran member of the County Council, Mr. John Moloney, deprives that body of two representatives, whom it will be found difficult to replace, and whose places in point of experience and length of service cannot be filled.

THE LATE JOHN BURNHAM, Q. C., Ex-M. P.

But it was not only in political and civic affairs that Mr. Burnham's activities found expression. He took a deep interest in other matters as well. He was one of the original promoters of the Peterborough Water Company and has been for ten years, and was at the time of his death, president of the company. He was also a director of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing company. He was deeply interested in horticulture and floriculture and the beautiful lawns and parterres surrounding his finely situated residence in Ashburnham, were evidences of his taste in that direction. He was an active member of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society, and a frequent, and successful, exhibitor. In religious matters he also took a prominent part. He was at the time of his death church warden of St. Luke's, and had held that position continuously since the organization of the congregation, twenty-two years ago. Previous to that he had been church warden of St. John's. He took a deep interest in the advancement of all the plans of the Church. Personally, Mr. Burnham was somewhat distant and self-contained, but this peculiarity of manner covered a warm heart and a genial disposition. In personal intercourse he would unbend, and few could be found to be more entertaining conversationalists. He was a good reader, good thinker, and he had the faculty of putting his ideas into practice with the minimum of parade and the maximum of effectiveness.

In every way Mr. Burnham was a model citizen. He was thoroughly genuine in character, and throughout the county and throughout the country the intelligence of his inexpressibly sad death will be received with deep regret. In 1868 he was united in marriage to Maria, daughter of the late R. D. Rogers, Esq., who survives him, as well as five children.

STONY LAKE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. George Grant is not any better. He is now seriously ill, and if he does not soon get a change for the better will not last long.

The teacher of our school had an entertainment and concert on the last day of school, which was a grand success, and a crowded house.

About a dozen of the young people from here drove out one night last week to near Lakefield, and spent a very enjoyable evening with a friend there. They enjoyed the drive immensely.

The ice "took" on Stony Lake about a week ago, but on account of the recent snow it is not making any and is unfit for travel.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful; active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,

A. L. DAVIS.

DOUBLED UP!

UNABLE TO WORK.

Suffering Agony Day and Night.

"For nearly two years," says Frank J. Wray, 211 Sherbourne St., Toronto, "I suffered greatly with lameness and pain in my back. It often happened that my back and kidneys pained me so badly that I was doubled up and could hardly walk, except in a stooping position. Very often I was unable to work, suffering agony both day and night. I had severe pain in the lower part of my stomach, and other symptoms which proved conclusively that my kidneys were in a very unhealthy condition. My appetite was lost and my strength declined rapidly.

"I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills in March last, and after using three boxes of them was completely restored to health. I have not had the slightest pain or stiffness in any part of my back, or any indication of my former trouble, since using these wonderful pills.

"With the restoration of my kidneys to a healthy condition, my appetite was restored, and my strength returned, so that I am now strong and hearty. I make this statement of my cure by Doan's Kidney Pills with the greatest pleasure, because when I commenced taking them I did not really expect so remarkable a cure as that which followed their use. I am very thankful that I hit upon this remedy, and gladly recommend it to all sufferers." 267

CAR HORSE'S WORST FATE.

It Is to Be Made a "Helper" on Up Grades.

No worse fate can befall a street car horse than to be condemned to do service as a helper. It is a life sentence in most cases and is a punishment, not for misconduct or poor work, but for faithful service and loyalty to his masters. When a horse has proved that he is strong and honest and faithful, he is taken from the ranks of the regular street car horses and assigned to some hill or grade to help spring the car up it.

There could be no more heartbreaking labor. Literally it is all "up hill work." Never a gentle slope where he may catch his breath or a level stretch where he may shake out the cramps in his legs, nothing but pulling a burden up hill all his days.

They don't live long. The best horses are put into the service, but the pace is too fast for them. They break down, as a general thing, before they have finished the first year.

Aside from the tremendous physical strain which the work demands, the helper is exposed to all sorts and conditions of weather. Seldom is a blanket thrown over him even on the coldest days when he is steaming from his exertions. After pulling one car up a grade he is compelled to return to the foot of the hill on the run in order to meet the next car. It is not to be wondered at that his knees give way, his wind becomes broken, his eyes sightless and that he breaks down altogether in less than 18 months.

As for the other street car horses, the regulars, the sympathy which the public always has expended on them is more or less wasted. Their lot does not begin to be as hard as persons believe, and, compared to that of the truck horse, it is a sinecure. He does not have to work more than four hours a day and has only two trips of eight miles each to make. The average horse, whether a brougham aristocratic or a dumpcart plebeian, considers himself lucky if he has no more than 16 miles a day to travel.—New York Press.

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth So Famous—No Name More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realising that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

Nature's Medicine.

Nature's medicine for constipation, liver complaint, sick headache, biliousness, jaundice and sallow complexion is Laxa Liver Pills. They are a purely vegetable, never griping or causing pain. One pill each night or thirty days will cure constipation.

A TIPPLER'S JOKE.

It Was of the Practical Kind and Might Have Resulted Seriously.

One of the best known men about town, who died a few years ago, often told a practical joke that was played on him which forever left its mark. The man in question was a great sportsman, and nothing could keep him away from angling and shooting when there was the least chance to do a good day's work. In earlier years he was in the habit of going to a little village in Wisconsin famous for its well stocked streams. A man named Beech kept a little hotel here, and the colonel—we will call him that—often put up with him. He arrived there one night in July and retired soon after supper, determined to get a good night's rest. The landlord was in the bar and somewhat worse for what he had imbibed.

"I suppose I can have my old room?" said the colonel as he shook hands with him.

"Certainly, certainly, my boy. But you'll have to sleep with the major—you know the major—as the house is full."

There may have been a merry twinkle in his eye as he said this, but the colonel took no notice of it. Yes, he knew the major. The major was a pleasant old chap who had lived in the village for years and made his headquarters at the tavern. There was a new moon that night, and the colonel found it light enough to retire without a lamp. Besides, he didn't want to disturb his roommate, who appeared to be fast asleep. Very much fatigued with his day's tramp, he tumbled into bed and was just dozing off when he heard the door open and some one come into the room. In the dim light the colonel distinguished the outlines of a young man and woman. They sat down on the sofa, where the rays of the moon fell upon them. The colonel could not understand the situation, but he waited to see what would come of it.

"Dearest," said the man in dulcet tones, "I don't want you to have so much to say to Billy Jones."

"Why, Charley, you know I don't care a rap for him. I love you. You ought to know that."

There was a kiss and then another. The colonel nudged his friend, the major, well knowing that his sense of humor would render the scene all the more enjoyable, but he didn't move. The sweet talk went on very quietly and decorously. Again the colonel jabbed his bedfellow. Somehow the major was sleeping very soundly, and the colonel raised himself on his elbow and took his first good look at him. Imagine his horror when he discovered little square pieces of damp cloth over his eyes and a bandage around his head to keep his jaw in position. The major was dead.

The colonel gave one yell and sprang from the bed. Another bound and he was out of the door and tearing down the stairs. Not until he reached the taproom and swallowed a large goblet of whisky did he recover sufficiently from his fright to ask for an explanation from the landlord, who by this time was thoroughly intoxicated.

He confessed that he had played a joke on his guest and hoped it had not given him much of a turn. The best part of the joke was on the young couple, who had volunteered to sit up with the corpse. When the colonel jumped from the bed, they thought it was a veritable resurrection. The bold lover threw himself out of the window, and the girl fainted dead away. A sprained ankle was the extent of the injuries received by her sweetheart. The landlord settling the bill. The landlord was quickly sobered by the commotion, but the colonel never went back to that place, no matter if the fish did bite better there in July than anywhere else in Wisconsin.—St. Louis Republic.

THIN GLASS TUMBLERS.

Effects of the Haste With Which Some of Them Are Made.

The thin glass tumblers which have recently been put on the American market in such enormous quantities have surprised many a housekeeper by cracking suddenly while standing on the shelves. It has needed ocular demonstration to convince some housekeepers that tumblers could behave in this manner. When one of these tumblers is found cracked, the first thought is that a careless servant must be in fault. Hot water or rough handling was always the cause of the breakage of the old fashioned flint glass goblets. The difference between the old and the new kinds of tumblers seems to be in the haste with which the latter is prepared, thus necessitating a very short stay in the annealing furnace. The molecules of the glass in this case have no chance to arrange themselves in lines of least strain, so that every new fashioned tumbler is filled with torsion stresses tending to fracture its substance with any slight external aid, as, for example, the cool air from an open window striking the proximate sides of the tumblers set on a dining room table. Of course the advantage of using the new kind of tumblers is that their cost is only one-fifth or one-sixth of the old kind.

Looking at the matter more broadly, the tendency of the new glasses to spontaneous fracture is only another illustration of crystalline degeneration. Herbert Spencer, in perhaps the most fascinating chapter on evolution which he has ever written, points out that all substances which have been rendered colloid by the application of heat sooner or later radiate this heat, which has been acting as a cement between the molecules and become crystalline. Mr. Spencer gives as illustrations of this process the igneous rocks in their various stages, from molten lava to granite, and jam, which becomes gritty when kept too long, owing to the crystallization of the contained sugar.—Cassier's Magazine.

THEIR FAME WORLD WIDE.

Health, Strength, Happiness Mark Where Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Been Used.

Glencoe, Dec. 20.—From city to city town to town, village to village and over the broad fields of the Dominion, the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the medical marvel of the century, the only infallible cure on earth for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Lame Back, and all other kidney diseases, is spreading.

London reported two wonderful cures by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, within two weeks. Glencoe has a case quite as startling.

W. J. Nugent suffered for years with Kidney Disease and Piles. Doctors couldn't help him. Every remedy he tried failed till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. A few boxes cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a unfailing cure for all diseases caused by impaired kidneys and impure blood.

Weak Nerves.

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. "My nerves were completely unstrung,' says Mrs. H. Church, Caledonia, Ont; "and palpitation, loss of memory and shortness of breath troubled me greatly. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

A prairie fire moves faster than any horse can run. No matter how speedy your mount may be unless you have a good start of the fire it will overtake you. It is the same way with many diseases. Unless you get a fair start, you cannot possibly shake them off. The only hope for anyone who is threatened with serious disease is to start in time, and seek safety before the danger closes in about him.

The best thing for you, if you feel that your full bodily energy is lacking, is to seek the strengthening, power-producing help of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which confers upon the digestive organs that keen zest of appetite and assimilation which transforms the food into nourishing, health-building blood, active muscular force, nervous energy and rugged endurance.

Do not wait until dyspepsia spreads into "liver complaint" and that turns into bronchial trouble which finally verges into consumption. Do not rely upon the delusive stimulus of malt extracts and sarsaparillas and oily compounds; do not allow a designing druggist who seeks only his own profit rather than your health to foist any "boom" medicine upon you. Insist upon the remedy which is backed by thirty years of steadily increasing sales to attest its constant usefulness and popularity.

The experience of Mr. Val. Burkard, living at 65 Mohr Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., is given in his own words: "Five weeks ago I followed your advice and took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and also two vials of 'Pellets.' I consider myself entirely cured, as there have been no eruptions since I finished the last bottle. I think it is the greatest remedy on the globe for blood and digestive disorders. My appetite increased wonderfully and I have also gained flesh. I would like everybody to know the true value of Dr. Pierce's medicines as I am confident by persistent use they will cure all ailments for which they are recommended."

IN THE HINTERLAND.

WEALTH OF WEST AFRICA THAT FRANCE AND ENGLAND ARE AFTER.

The Tradesmen of the Two European Countries Are Engaged In a Struggle For Conquest Which May Call For Arbitration to Prevent a War.

James Pinnock, African merchant of Liverpool, who was one of the original promoters of the Royal Niger company and director for many years, in the course of an interview with a representative of The Daily Mail, said: "I went out to west Africa 40 years ago and visited almost every port and place in that region, including the Niger, many times, and my business has been with west Africa ever since. In 1870 I built a steamer, called the Rio Formoso, specially for service on the river Niger, and with her I explored and opened up, for the first time in history, the river Forcados. This river flows into the Atlantic and is one of the entrances to the Niger.

"The importance of this great river Niger and the hinterland is well known to those who are engaged in the African trade, but we can only expect it will slowly dawn on the mind of the British public. I am convinced, however, the more they look into it the more important they will see it is to the interests of British trade not to lose any of it.

"Fifteen years ago there were four firms trading on the Niger. They were the West African company, the Central African Trading company (and with this latter Taubman Bros.—one of them now Sir Taubman Goldie—were connected), Miller Bros. and myself. We all four firms joined and called ourselves the United African company, which was subsequently changed to the National African company and after that again to the Royal Niger company.

"The position today," continued Mr. Pinnock, "would be better understood if a good map could be put before the public of the whole hinterland of our west African colonies. Such a thing unfortunately does not exist at present. The strict geography of the country is only understood by a very few. Our knowledge of the hinterland, however, has increased immensely during the past few years, and to instance one particularly large territory I would point out that the French flag is already flying at innumerable towns and stations extending from 4 degrees east longitude to 2 degrees west longitude and from about 6 degrees north latitude (in the neighborhood of Porto Novo and the Dahomey country) to the town of Say on the Niger, which is between 13 degrees and 14 degrees north. The English flag is to be found to the east of Porto Novo, and extending inland to the neighborhood of Nikki (now occupied by the French) to various degrees of latitude wherein are found the three British possessions and protectorates of Lagos, the Niger Coast protectorate and the Royal Niger company.

"It is from the interior, however, that the future great wealth of Africa will be derived, and if all this is allowed to fall into the lap of France she will be possessed of an empire second only if not equal in the future to the whole of our Indian empire.

"See what South Africa has already developed into, and as far only as minerals are concerned. The soil of Africa has not yet been barely scratched. The population of this part of Africa, with the advent of railways, stoppage of the slave trade, cessation of internal tribal warfare, will increase in equal ratio to that of the most favored parts of the southern states of America—I mean as far as the multiplication of the negro population is concerned.

"The development of this hinterland will, in my opinion, exceed all the dreams of the most enthusiastic colonial party in France. Both France and England have sacrificed many men and much money in the race to grasp this priceless treasure, and the difficulty of apportioning it will, I believe, be so great that it is more than probable, to avert extremes, it will have to be referred to some other nation, or council of nations, to arbitrate on, as the matter is far too weighty for easy or speedy settlement.

"As evidence of the activity of the French I may point to the railway from Senegal to the upper Niger. This is being pushed forward with a further vote of 1,000,000 francs from the Caisse des Depots et Consignations, thus cutting and heading off all our possessions from Gambia, Sierra Leone, the Gold Coast and Lagos down to the river Niger.

"A very great deal, if not the whole of the trouble on the Niger," added Mr. Pinnock, "would never have arisen but for the obnoxious charter given to the Royal Niger company. By reason of this charter every trader, white and black, British or otherwise, is entirely excluded from the country. Had the river and adjacent country been thrown open to free and legitimate trade, as all merchants have been clamoring so long for, backed up by the chambers of commerce of Liverpool and Manchester, all the places in question would have long since been full of British subjects, white and colored. Trade would have developed a thousandfold, and the French would never have gone near it."—London Mail.

Practise Economy

In buying medicine as in other matters. It is economy to get Hood's Sarsaparilla because there is more medicinal value in Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other. Every bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will average, taken according to directions, to last a month, while others last but a fortnight.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

The Same Old Plea.

One of the richest men in England, whose wealth makes him a target for many applications for help from poorer people, was visiting Paris, and the manner in which he repelled one of the applicants for his generosity is worth repeating.

On the opposite side of the hotel table sat a woman who had once been rich.

"Monsieur," she said, "you Englishmen are so chivalrous, so ready to assist those in distress."

"Yes," said the man of wealth, hesitating. He had heard that before and thought he knew what was coming next.

"Would you, with your usual generosity, do me a favor and a great kindness?"

"Yes, madame—that is, it depends somewhat"—

"Think well, monsieur, before you promise, for it is a great kindness."

It was the same old plea that he had heard many times before from people who wanted a loan.

"I am afraid that I shall have to, but what is it you wish?"

"Only that you would be kind enough, monsieur, to pass me the mustard. You have everything on your side of the table."—Pearson's Weekly.

Linseed Oil From Flaxseed.

Flaxseed oil, or linseed oil, is obtained by pressure from the seed of flax. The seeds are usually stripped from the dry flax stalks, a handful at a time, through a set of iron teeth, standing in a row, half an inch at the top and a quarter of an inch at the bottom. The seed bolls are then well dried and thrashed and winnowed, to remove the outside hull, or capsule, from the seed. The latter are then ground in mills and the powder is subjected to powerful hydraulic pressure, which extracts the oil. Sometimes the seed is roasted before grinding because the heat destroys the gummy matter in the interior coating of the seeds. The oil is therefore secured more free from mucilage, but it is of a higher color and of more acrid taste than that expressed from the raw seed.—St. Louis Republic.

A LIFE SAVER TO MANKIND

is what Mr. George Benner, Wiarton, Ont., styles Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Not that I am at all fond of having my name put in public places, but as a life saver to mankind, I hereby state what Dr. A. W. Chase's K.-L. Pills did for me. SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC

Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Erysipelas, Eczema, and all Blood and Skin Diseases.

Mrs. James Stewart, No. 160 Hughes street, St. Thomas, writes:—"Some four or five years ago I was troubled with a complication of diseases and was treated by several of our best city doctors, and tried all kinds of patent medicines, but received no benefit until I tried SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC, and I at once began to improve. My left side at one time was paralyzed and I was scarcely able to move, and had to be assisted in dressing. Before I had used one bottle my health improved, and the medicine effected a complete cure.

I can highly recommend SLOAN'S INDIAN TONIC for all nervous disorders. It is an ideal Blood Purifier and will do all that is claimed for it. I will be pleased to give any information I can to any one similarly affected. Since using the medicine I have had no return of the disease. How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WO IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

FAIRWEATHER & Co

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

At the Concert and Christmas Tree Entertainment in Ennismore.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A very pleasing event took place at O'Reilly's school, Ennismore, on Thursday, evening, Dec. 23rd, the eve of the departure of the teacher, Miss O'Leary, when a large gathering assembled to spend a few of the most pleasant hours that the season has afforded, in listening to a long and varied programme rendered by the school children, assisted by some of the young people of the section, who so cheerfully gave their talent towards the enjoyment of the evening.

The school was tastefully decorated with evergreens, a profusion of roses and the red, white and blue. When the curtain was drawn at a few minutes past six, the stage disclosed a scene from fairyland, when twenty-four bright, happy little faces stood before the audience to greet them with an opening chorus, each wearing on his breast a red rose, the characteristic decoration of the evening.

The chairman appointed was Mr. John Telford, who ably filled the position, and by his witty and humourous remarks, repeatedly brought down the house. It would take too much space to go into the details of the programme, but one cannot omit "The Philosopher from Dublin" by Master Michael O'Reilly, which received great applause. Also a song, "She may have seen better days" by Misses Emma and Lizzie O'Donnell, who responded to an encore.

Mr. J. Mahoney also favoured the audience with a comic song, which was loudly applauded; but the chief feature of the programme was a recitation, "The Highway Cow," which was exceedingly well rendered in his own comic style by Mr. M. Conway.

The music for the evening was furnished by Messrs. Turner, Curtin, Conway and O'Donnell. The programme closed by a tableau, "Simply to the cross I cling," after which two little girls, Maggie Morrison and May Sullivan, stepped forward and presented the teacher with a handsome pair of fur gauntlets and the following address, which was very ably read by May Sullivan:

To Miss O'Leary, teacher of S. S. No. 2, Ennismore.

DEAR TEACHER,—We, the pupils of this section gather about you to-day to express the [illegible] and esteem which we have for you. During the past year you have laboured earnestly and diligently to promote our educational welfare. You have not spared yourself when labouring in our behalf, and have always shown us great kindness and consideration. Under your [illegible] patient and gentle treatment we have made rapid progress in our studies. Your example also has been such that we can follow it with great profit to ourselves. We desire, therefore, dear teacher, on this occasion to thank you for the kind interest you have taken in us. Ingratitude is a mean vice which we trust has no place in our hearts, for we can say with truth that we are very grateful to you for the patience and kindness you have always shown us. As a slight proof of our regard we ask you to accept these gauntlets. It is a small gift, very small indeed when compared with the love and respect that prompts the givers. We hope your life may be long and happy. We extend you all the compliments of the holiday season, and sincerely wish you a Merry Christmas and a very happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,

MAGGIE MORRISON,
MAY SULLIVAN.

As Miss Leary was too visibly overcome with emotion to reply, the chairman delivered a very effective address in her behalf.

After a vote of thanks had been tendered the chairman for the manner in which he had conducted the evening's entertainment, Santa Claus came forward, and in capital style disrobed the heavily-laden Christmas tree of its gifts, which caused much joy to the eager little ones, and much merriment to the grown members of the audience, who also were not forgotten. When the echoes of the laughter had subsided a fare well song to the teacher was sung by Mr. W. O'Donnell, then the entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the "National Anthem."

A Mother's Story—Her little Girl Cured of Croup.

Having used your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing Colds and Croup. My little girl has been subject to the Croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine, which I cannot speak too highly of.

Mr. Fred Clarry, of Hastings, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. R. Ruddy, barrister, spent Christmas at his home near Uxbridge.

Municipal matters are beginning to assume a quite lively appearance and the fight for the reeveship is going to be a decidedly hot one. The two candidate are Messrs. W. S. Pickup, who has so ably filled the position for the last two years, and Mr. S. Bateson, who has been in the council for five or six years. It is to be regretted that politics are being brought into municipal matters in this place, and we understand that Councillor Bateson is is using this means to quite an extent, well knowing the village to be Conservative.

For the council we have Messrs. John Clark and R. W. Clark, of last year's council, and Messrs. R. Ruddy, G. W. Green, Wm. Thexton, W. W. Gilliott and Isaac Needham.

The following trustees were elected by acclamation: Messrs. A. Leach, John Allen and George Campbell.

At the present time the chances for the opening of the rink, appears to be as poor as ever. The hockey club intend to have an open rink and fight out the O. H. A. series at any rate.

THE GREAT VICE-REGAL BALL.

An Historic Event That Will Long Linger in the Memory of Those Who Were There.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—Their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen have honored many cities in the Dominion by their hospitality and splendid entertainments, but Toronto has been especially favored in that it was the scene last night of the celebration of the Victorian Era ball, than which there has been nothing more magnificent given in Canada. It was nothing short of an historic event in the social history of the Dominion, and will always be associated with the names of their Excellencies, who spared neither time nor expense, nor thought that this ball, in honor of Her Majesty's long reign, should pass off without a flaw, and linger long in the memory of those who participated, either as spectators or dancers, as one of the most beautiful and enjoyable of affairs.

The decorations of the Armouries were wonderfully beautiful, and the costumes of the six periods of Her Majesty's long reign were ravishing creations. Everything was on a magnificent scale, and passed off successfully throughout.

The brilliancy of the spectacle may be imagined but not described when the fact is seized that at one time there were a thousand dancers on the floor and 3,000 gorgeously costumed people looking on.

After the "Empire" dance was completed the Governor-General rose and said: "In presenting to the Queen most loyal good wishes for Christmastide, I submitted to Her Majesty some information regarding the Victorian Era ball, designed to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee year, now about to close. I have this afternoon received in reply a most gracious message from Her Majesty, which we may gladly regard as a token of Her Majesty's kindly thought of us all gathered here to-night. God Save the Queen."

The will was filed for probate yesterday, application being made by the Hon. William Mulock, sole executor. His petition sets forth that the value of the personal estate is under $2,502,000, that of the real estate is under $185,000.

The beneficiaries are:—

W. Cawthra, nephew	$ 50,000

Cawthra Mulock, residuary legates	2,350,800
	$2,501,200

Of these Cawthra Mulock will not be paid his legacy until he is between 21 and 30, at the discretion of the executor, his father.

The Ontario Government gets 5 per cent. under the Succession Duties Act, and the probate and stamp fees. These will amount to $134,295.17, $2,503 and $1,251 respectively, a total of $135,048.47.

Sometimes It Pays To Lose!

We are intensely in earnest to Reduce our Matchless Stock of Cold Weather Clothing before the New Year "checking" time comes. We do not by any means intend carrying over any more Winter Goods than we can possibly help, and there is but one remedy and that is to make the Price an inducement to sell the stock.

QUICK LOSSES TO MAKE QUICK SALES

Pity that sacrifices must be made just at a time when cold weather makes all our stocks boom, but we are ready to make the sacrifice, leaving Profits to be made when money is more plentiful.

You may need Clothing now—we need money now. We will give you a lot of our Clothing for a very little of your money—if you come quick enough.

A loss accepted now on our Clothing and Boots and Shoes will enable us to thin out our big stocks in a short time. Whether you need Clothing or the Shoes for immediate use or not, it will pay you handsomely to buy now.

REMEMBER our Terms are SPOT CASH, but we return you your money if not amply satisfied.

Well Done People's Grocery!

You deserve the thanks of the people for the grand bill of fare you presented to the public at the Christmas Season, and for the nicely dressed window you have; the display of Turkeys, geese and other fowl was simply grand and I am not surprised that you did such a good trade and sold a lot of goods. I saw a load of Hogs at your door the other day, fat, and nicely dressed, what do you intend to do with them? Well, we pickle them and then smoke them, then sell the Hams and Bacon; and let me whisper a secret to you, the people that buy them year after year, say there is nothing to equal them sold in this town.

Well what about Canned Goods! I see they are quoted $1.00 a doz. in Toronto. Can you supply them 3 for 25c.? Yes, and we promise to supply the people at that price as long as they last, for we have a large stock of this season's goods, which we bought at Sheap Prices.

Next thing is your Celery, of course everybody says that your Celery is the best, nicest crisp and tender. You have lots of it to sell? Yes. There comes my car, so good day! Push along! Bye, bye.

Choice stock of Groceries and Provisions, Fruit, Fish and Vegetables, always fresh, good and cheap. Free delivery. Glad to see all my friends, and thank them for their kind patronage. Wishing you the compliments of the season, I remain your truly

Bill to Strengthen the Lord's Day Act.

NOW INCLUDES "ALL PERSONS."

Corporations Will Also Come Within the Scope of the Measure—Some Necessary Exceptions—The Piggery Matter Again—Important Bills Read—Demands of Labor Stated.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Yesterday was a very busy day at the Legislature. Many private and public bills of importance were advanced a stage. An important Toronto bill extending the franchise was allowed to pass its second reading and go on for discussion to the Committee. The Government measure dealing with the Lord's Day Act will be read with interest and will doubtless stir up considerable discussion in the country. The bill that caused the debate of the day was that of Mr. Smith to prevent dual voting for County Councillors. Two-thirds of the members of the House spoke upon this subject and there seemed to be no politics in the discussion.

First Readings.

These bills were read a first time:

Mr. Garrow—Respecting the town of Goderich. The bill provides that the town may take stock to an amount not exceeding $50,000 in the elevator situated there, or to grant aid by bonus or loan to such elevator and for leave to sell certain old cemetery lots.

Mr. Stratton—To amend the Municipal Act. This is to enable villages adjoining towns to purchase fire engines and other fire appliances and make arrangements for the management of the same.

The Lord's Day.

Hon. Mr. Hardy introduced a Government measure to secure a better observance of the Lord's day. He said a large number of deputations had waited upon the Government urging strenuously that action should be taken in this direction. There had been recent decisions in the courts exempting corporations from the penalties of the present Act. It had been pointed out that while individuals employing labor could be punished the judges had held that corporations could not, because it would be impossible to send them to jail. He thought it wrong that unnecessary labor should be employed on the Lord's day. (Hear, hear.) The bill provided fines to cover such cases. It would apply to excursions, etc., whether by rail or boat. Farmers were exempt under the old Act, but had been included in the present bill. The new law would apply to all persons except milkmen, icemen, liverymen, oabmen, newspapermen, bakers and telephone and telegraph companies. The bill did not touch the question of travel; this would be left to the courts. (Hear, hear.) He had introduced the bill between the holidays so that it might be discussed by those interested in the country. In this way the members would when home for the New Year holidays learn the wishes of their people and be prepared to deal with the question upon their return.

A Toronto Bill.

Mr. Marter moved the second reading of his bill to permit persons in municipal elections in Toronto to vote upon an assessment of $300. The second clause provided that municipal elections should be held on New Year's day, and the last that the polls should be kept open until seven o'clock p.m.

Hon. Mr. Hardy opposed the bill. He stated that it came before the Legislature yearly about election time and had been again and again thrown out by the Municipal Committee. Under these circumstances it was but natural the City Council of Toronto should wait until a new Parliament should be elected. He agreed, however, to let the bill go again to the Municipal Committee.

Against Dual Voting.

Mr. Smith moved the second reading of his bill respecting County Council elections. It provides that the voter may cast but one vote for any one candidate. At present should there be two or more candidates the voter could plump for one candidate, thus giving him two votes. The bill forbids this. Many members upon both sides of the House spoke for and against the measure, including Messrs. Stratton, Pattullo, Hiscott, Beatty, Gibson, Kidd, Reid and others. At an early stage of the debate it developed into a trial of the County Councils Act passed in 1896. It did not appear to be a party matter, since many Conservatives spoke in favor of the new Act, while there were Reformers who thought it was a mistake. Mr. Haycock said that even though the House did pass the present bill and prohibit dual voting it would be quite wrong to say it would be a condemnation of the County Councils Act. (Hear, hear.) Upon that basis of reasoning every Act that had ever been amended would be considered bad and this would be absurd. No doubt weak spots would be found in the Act from time to time and they could be dealt with as they arose. As to the dual vote he did not think it a matter of importance one way or the other.

Mr. Caven thought the bill one of the most popular that had ever been passed. It had reduced the expenses of County Councils just one-half. (Hear, hear.) He intended moving in the same line with reference to Town Councils. He would support the amendment, however, because he believed in "one man, one vote."

After considerable further discussion the bill was read a second time and passed on to the committee for future action.

Mr. Kidd moved the second reading of his bill to permit citizens to register the death of any relative with the nearest postmaster in order to save in many cases the travelling of great distances in the country as is now necessary. The bill was sent on to the committee.

Can't Kill Deer in Water.

Mr. Kidd moved the second reading of his bill to permit the killing of deer in the water.

Hon. Mr. Gibson asked that the bill should be withdrawn for the present, as he intended issuing a circular to all persons who were in the habit of taking out licenses to shoot deer asking them whether or not in their opinion such an amendment should be made to the game law. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Langford made a strong plea for the settlers. He asked that all fees in connection with settlers should be remitted.

Mr. Haycock said he thought settlers were the very men who should pay. He read a letter stating that in one of the northern districts over two hundred deer had been killed by settlers during December and sold to the shanties.

The bill was withdrawn.

Through the Committee.

These bills passed through the committee stage and will come up for their third reading next week:

Respecting the City of Ottawa—Mr. O'Keefe.

To incorporate the Shebandowan Mining Company, and incorporating the Frue Shebandowan Gold Mining Company, (Limited)—Mr. German.

Respecting the Consolidated debt of the town of Cobourg, and for other purposes—Mr. Field.

Respecting the Railway Debenture debt of the township of Amabel—Mr. McNaughton.

Respecting the Sisters of St. Joseph for the Diocese of Toronto in Upper Canada—Mr. McKee.

Repecting By-law No. 205 of the town of Rat Portage—Mr. Conmee.

Respecting the Hamilton and Dundas Street Railway Company—Mr. Flatt.

To consolidate the Floating Debt of the town of North Bay—Mr. Loughrin.

Respecting the Sydenham Glass Company of Wallaceburg (Limited)—Mr. Pardo.

Second Readings.

These bills were read a second time:

To incorporate the Ottawa Stock Exchange—Mr. O'Keefe.

Respecting the town of Walkerton—Mr. Truax.

Respecting the corporation of the town of Midland—Mr. Biggar.

To amend the Acts relating to Victoria University—Mr. Davis.

Respecting waterworks in the city of Windsor—Mr. McKee.

Respecting certain by-laws concerning drainage in the townships of Grey, Elma and McKillop.—Mr. Gibson (Huron).

Respecting the village of Huntsville—Mr. Middleton.

To confirm a certain agreement between the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada; the St. Clair Tunnel Company and the town of Sarnia—Mr. Biggar.

Labor's Wants.

The Executive Committee of the Dominion Trades Congress, which met at Hamilton last September, waited upon the Government last evening and requested that legislation should be introduced to remove the numbers from ballots in provincial elections; that local factory inspectors may be appointed in cities outside of Toronto; that two-acre farm lands in cities shall not be exempt from full taxation, and that the Government shall include the union label in trades mark legislation. The Premier said he would place all these matters before the other members of the Cabinet.

Large Deficits.

The first report of the Municipal Auditor was laid on the table yesterday afternoon. He began his audit last May and stated he had made investigations which disclosed deficits as follows: County of Simcoe, S. J. Sandford, treasurer, $62,857.02; County of Frontenac, W. T. Van Luven, treasurer, deficit $31,380.80; Town of Niagara Falls, J. H. Peckham, treasurer, deficit $8,000. The last enquiry was not considered to be fraud, but a case of bad bookkeeping, but the money was lost, just the same.

Investigations were also held in the town of Niagara, the townships of Manvers, Roxborough, St. Joseph and Ridgetown Collegiate.

The auditor suggests these changes in the law:

(a) All municipalities should have the same privilege as towns and cities, that is, of appointing one skilled auditor;

(b) Auditors should be compelled to have a stamp, to be used when passing accounts. Owing to want of this precaution the same debentures have been used twice by defaulting treasurers;

(c) Auditors should be appointed in November or December.

It may be noted here that Mr. Jos. Haycock has a bill before the House now which provides for such remedies as the auditor now suggests.

Those Pigs Again.

Mr. St. John received a set back in the Public Accounts Committee yesterday. When proceedings opened he stated he could prove that the Government had been a party to selling diseased pork. Witnesses were called to prove that many of the hogs at the Humber piggery were diseased and had been killed in consequence, a fact that had never been disputed, but when he attempted to prove his charge that the Government had sanctioned the selling of meat known to be diseased he failed utterly. Dr. Andrew Smith, the Dominion Government veterinary, was called and stated the matter had been placed in his hands by the Government as soon as it was discovered the hogs were diseased. He had ordered all the hogs killed and was quite prepared to assume all the responsibility. Mr. St. John is not satisfied yet, however, and intends keeping the subject before the committee for some time in the hope he may discover something in the evidence.

MANITOBA'S CAPITAL.

Failure of a Private Banker at Holland—Icelander Killed—A Spur Line Wanted.

Winnipeg, Dec. 30.—Mr. John Hall, a private banker at Holland, assigned a few days ago, with liabilities said to total somewhere in the neighborhood of $39,000. The failure has greatly shaken some of the leading men of the town, but it is not expected that anything serious will result just at present. Mr. Hall is now in the hospital in this city. The assignment was very unexpected.

Run Over and Killed.

John Stevenson, an Icelander, in the employ of Blackwood Brothers, of this city, was run over by a train at Yorkton last night and killed. Both legs were cut off. He was about 40 years of age, married, but no children.

A Spur Line Wanted.

A deputation waited on Manager Whyte, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, this morning to request that a spur line be constructed from Lariviere to Snow Flake, a distance of about 12 miles. They strongly urged the necessity for such a line, referring to the richness of the country for agricultural purposes, the settlement already there and the addition that will naturally follow if the company could see its way to construct the line.

3000 PEOPLE HOMELESS.

Eight Hundred Houses Burned at Port au Prince, Hayti.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Dec. 30.—At 11 o'clock last night a fire, which assumed considerable proportions on account of lack of water to supply the pumps, broke out and destroyed 800 houses, including a number of warehouses, a hotel, the Church of St. Joseph and its parsonage. About 3000 people were rendered homeless.

In the morning at 6.40 o'clock there was an earthquake, the disturbances running from north to south, lasting half a minute and causing slight cracks in the earth. There were no accidents, but the population was greatly alarmed.

The Cruelty of Robbers.

Onondaga, Dec. 30.—While John Clark of this place was at church Sunday evening last, two masked men entered the house and tied Mrs. Clark to the stair door. They then blew out the light, lighted a dark lantern and proceeded to search the house for valuables. They got about $10 in money and some jewelry. They also took two gold rings off the fingers of Mrs. Clark, after which they put a towel around her neck, and, attaching the other end to the ceiling, they left her. By raising herself on tiptoe she managed to keep from choking to death until her husband returned and took her down. The jewelry was found next morning. No arrests as yet.

A Very Large Irishman.

Buffalo, Dec. 29.—Sir Henry Lynch Blosse, of Athvallie, Castlebar, Ireland, arrived in this city this morning and registered at the Iroquois. Sir Blosse attracted considerable attention in the hotel on account of his appearance. He is at least six feet six inches in height and finely proportioned. He has been in California and is on his way home to Ireland. In an interview he said the outlook for Home Rule was very black at present, and he thought the people would have to be educated up to it.

Sued the Typographical Union.

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—A suit to test the right of a union to force a non-union man out of employment has commenced here. Fred Hess has sued the Typographical Union for $25,000 damages. He was in charge of the Linotype machines in a local office. He applied for membership in the union and was rejected, on the ground that he had not served his apprenticeship. The union demanded his discharge, and the printers struck to enforce the demand.

Forger and Prevaricator.

Regina, Dec. 30.—H. H. Harding, the $3,000 forger, who was arrested here, acted on the advice of his lawyer, W. C. Hamilton, Q.C., and consented to be taken back to the States. When arrested he said he had only $81 about him, but on closely searching the police discovered the proceeds of the forged check hidden in the lining of his coat and toe of his sock.

Sufferers from any disease caused by impure blood should never be discouraged about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla because other medicines have failed to give relief. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. Read this statement:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs:—I think it my duty to let you know what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was suffering with severe headaches daily and also with catarrh. One day a paper was left at my house and in looking it over I read of your great medicine's value to my fellow sufferers. I reasoned that if it cured them, why would it not cure me, although I must own I had some doubts about it, as I so-called cures which had failed even to relieve me. At last I procured a bottle and after taking all the medicine the headaches had left me and my catarrh trouble was much better. I continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and have derived so much benefit from it that I would advise any one troubled with impure blood to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. "BRITONS, HOLD YOUR OWN."

THE FAMOUS CALL FOR A MEETING IN DUNDAS.

Mr. Whitney's Name at the Foot of It—Liberals Described as Archbishop Lynch's Tools.

(From the Brockville Recorder.)

In an article characteristically bilious, the Times charges this journal with trying to stir up religious strife. Knowing what every man, woman and child in Brockville knows of the conduct of the Times a few years ago on this very question, the temptation to review a bit of that history, in order to show its blathering hypocrisy, is very great. However, every person understands the situation perfectly, and its attempt to pose as the apostle of peace and good-will, merely that its leader may be spared, will deceive no one.

Whatever other failings the old Recorder may have exhibited, that of stirring up religious strife is not one of them, and it has strenuously resisted all the attempts of others to do so, sometimes at no small financial loss to itself.

What the Times bases its attack on is the fact that The Recorder, in a recent issue, called attention to the inconsistency of the present Opposition leader in palavering over Sir Oliver Mowat, or delivering eulogies on the late C. F. Fraser, in the face of the historical fact that both he and his newspaper had abused Sir Oliver most thoroughly, and had denounced C. F. Fraser and everybody else suspected of leaning toward Popery. In this connection it was recited that Mr. Whitney warned all and sundry of the threatened evil, on every poster and announcement, in these words, "Britons, hold your own." To substantiate this assertion, the following was given, which seems to have caused great annoyance:—

"Here is a notice which appeared in Mr. Whitney's organ, the Morrisburg Courier, of November 10, 1898:

"The Liberal Conservatives of the County of Dundas are requested to meet at Winchester Springs, on Tuesday, November 29, 1898, at 1 p. m. sharp, to take such steps as may be deemed advisable to bring out a candidate for the Legislature, the elections having been fixed for the 22nd and 29th of December. Let every Conservative in the county make it a point to attend.

"Britons, Hold Your Own!

"By order,
J. P. WHITNEY, Sec'y.

"D. RAE, Pres."

On November 26, the Courier had a report of this meeting and here are the opening sentences of that report:

"Notwithstanding the bad roads and disagreeable weather, there was a large attendance at the meeting at Winchester Springs on Wednesday, fully 400 being representatives from every section of the county. This is the best evidence that the Conservatives of the old county of Dundas are prepared to rise in their might to check the little game of Mowat, the tool of Archbishop Lynch and Christy Fraser, etc., etc."

Now, Mr. Whitney is not only a public man, but the leader of a party, and as he asks the electorate to make him the First Minister of this Province, his public record is fair subject for criticism, and the people have a right to know what position he has assumed on Provincial affairs in the past, so as to be able to form correct opinions as to what he would be likely to do in the future. On the eve of an election the record of a candidate is often more reliable than his promises, and it certainly cannot be an unpardonable sin to refer to the record of a gentleman who asks the people to put Hon. A. S. Hardy out of power, and place him in his stead.

The Recorder takes the ground that no man who is a narrow extremist on any question is a safe man to have at the head of a Province, the population of which is mixed. So far from wishing to incite any religious feeling, the Recorder, in opposing Mr. Whitney, is doing its best to allay that feeling and keep a man out of power who has, as will be shown fully by his record, not hesitated to appeal time and again to the creed prejudices of his own constituents in election campaigns.

The Liberal Government of Ontario has put its foot upon that kind of thing in the past, and the people of Ontario have stood nobly for the rights of all, in the face of appeals to prejudice by Mr. Whitney and others. If the leader of the Opposition will declare that he regrets having hitherto fought on such narrow lines, and intends looking at things with a more liberal vision, the Recorder will be inclined to hail the repentance with delight, but so long as that is not done he will be held strictly to his record, notwithstanding the piteous appeals of the "Eye-opener's" erewhile twin, the Brockville Times.

A ST. THOMAS CASE.

The Entire Population Talking of the Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure.

St. Thomas, Dec. 27.—The great wave has reached St. Thomas. The cures wrought by Dodd's Kidney Pills are numbered by hundreds here, and the entire population almost is talking of them.

Michael Holleran, a farmer living near here, told our reporter that "Dodd's Kidney Pills saved me from an untimely grave." He was cured of Diabetes of an aggravated type by a few boxes, after his doctors had failed to even relieve him.

So it goes. Everyone who has used Dodd's Kidney Pills has been cured. Bright's Disease, Paralysis, all diseases of the kidneys and the blood, yield to their power. They never fail to cure these ailments.

The garrison, which was outlining the quay, also fired repeated volleys, though no damage was done. This action, after Turkey had apologized, is supposed to be intended to create a precedent for closing the Gulf.

French Flag Hoisted on a Chinese Island.

C.P.R. STEAMERS REQUISITIONED

Japan's Views on the Pacific—Is Ambitious to Be the Britain of the Pacific—Marquis of Hertford May Succeed Lord Aberdeen—Cable News.

Shanghai, Dec. 30.—It is reported here that the admiral of the French fleet has hoisted the French flag on Hai-Nan Island (between the China Sea and the Gulf of Tonquin). The Chinese offered no opposition.

Hai-Nan Island is off the south coast of China, and separates the Gulf of Tongking from the China Sea. It has an estimated area of 12,000 square miles, and a population of a million Chinese, exclusive of wild tribes in the interior. Some of the mountains in the centre rise above the snow line. It has several large rivers. The coasts are generally rocky; but the west coast is low and the south coast has some good harbors. Timber is a principal product. This is sent to Annam, Siam and Singapore. Other exports are rice, sugar, wax, pearls, coral, salt, and a little gold and silver. Its capital is Kiong Choo, a populous city on its north coast.

The Report Confirmed.

London, Dec. 30.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Singapore confirms the report of the seizure of Hai-Nan Island by the French.

Japan is Ambitious.

London, Dec. 30.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail has had an interview on the Chinese situation with M. Kurino, the Japanese Minister to France. M. Kurino represented that Japan was committed to a peaceful role for three years, after which time her fleet would be second only to Great Britain's. Japan, he added, intended to be the Great Britain of the Pacific. M. Kurino refused in detail to the sixty-five warships and 126 torpedo boats that are now under construction for Japan.

A despatch to the Morning Post from Paris says that negotiations have been proceeding in that city between representatives of Russia and France to raise a loan of $80,000,000 for the purpose of paying the indemnity due from China to Japan, and thus securing the Japanese evacuation of Wei-Hai-Wei.

France was determined that a French bank should head the loan, while Russia demanded that the Russo-Chinese Bank should do so. The difficulty resulted in the breaking off of the negotiations and a coolness between the negotiators. The obvious object of the loan was to enable Russia to occupy Wei-Hai-Wei.

CANADA'S NEXT GOVERNOR.

The Marquis of Hertford, a Conservative, Spoken of for the Post.

London, Dec. 30.—It is rumored that the Marquis of Hertford will succeed the Earl of Aberdeen as Governor-General of Canada.

Hugh de Grey Seymour, sixth Marquis of Hertford, was born in 1843, and married a daughter of the First Viscount Bridport. The Marquis was formerly a captain in the Grenadier Guards, was member of Parliament in 1869 for County Antrim, and in 1874 he was member of Parliament for South Warwickshire. He is Deputy Lieutenant for Warwickshire, was Comptroller of Her Majesty's Household in 1879, and is a Conservative in politics.

OSOBRI HAS FALLEN.

The Last Important Post Between Kassala and Khartoum in British Hands.

London, Dec. 30.—A despatch to the Times from Kassala says: "After six days of siege and heroic defence, the dervishes' post at Osobri has fallen. Many of the dervishes were killed and the remainder of the garrison fled, leaving all of their property behind. Osobri is the last important place between here and Khartoum.

Gladstone's Birthday Anniversary.

London, Dec. 30.—Yesterday being the birthday of the Right Hon. William E. Gladstone, the usual congratulations were sent to Hawarden and Cannes, where Mr. Gladstone is improving, though still suffering from neuralgia.

The Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone was born Dec. 29, 1809.

Replying to a Christmas greeting, sent to him by the National Liberal Club, Mr. Gladstone says that his health has been greatly benefited by his stay at Cannes and that he hopes to be back at work again at Hawarden by the middle of February. He adds that Mrs. Gladstone's health has also improved.

Plague Returns in India.

Bombay, Dec. 30.—There has been a recrudescence of the plague, especially in the Mandvie district, where the inhabitants are seeking safety in flight. There were 54 fresh cases of plague and 37 deaths from that disease yesterday. The total plague returns for Bombay up to date are 14,257, and 11,886 deaths.

France Makes a Grab.

Paris, Dec. 30.—The French, it is announced, have occupied Odienne and Sambatigila. It is believed this indicates that an advance against Chief Samory is imminent.

Chief Samory is a West African chieftain, who for over 12 years past has been the most dangerous antagonist the Europeans have had to deal with. After ten years of guerilla warfare, he was driven out of the Soudan, but he made a swoop upon the fertile region of Kong, a dependency of the French Ivory Coast. Since then Chief Samory has repeatedly been heard from.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

How To Get Rich.

We refer to the richness of the blood. If you are pale and thin, you are poor in strength and nerve power. Scott's Emulsion drives away thinness pallor, and bring rich blood and nerve power.

Feudalism In America.

"Belated Feudalism In America" is the title of an article in the Atlantic by H. G. Chapman, who endeavors to ascertain a true basis for American art and letters. Mr. Chapman asserts that cultivated people do not like the writing that represents American literature, because it is rough and coarse compared to the European form. Yet America's good writing must come out of this way of dealing with words and thoughts and not from England. We have given a fair trial to imitation and have not been successful, for we have had no English writer of the first class except Hawthorne. This influence of foreign literature has befuddled the brains of our professional critics. We live on an American plan, but our standard authors have written on a European plan. The result is that we undervalue much good American work.

Sometimes It Pays To Lose!

We are intensely in earnest to Reduce our Matchless Stock of Cold Weather Clothing before the New Year "checking" time comes. We do not by any means intend carrying over any more Winter Goods than we can possibly help, and there is but one remedy and that is to make the Price an inducement to sell the stock.

QUICK LOSSES TO MAKE QUICK SALES

Pity that sacrifices must be made just at a time when cold weather makes all our stocks boom, but we are ready to make the sacrifice, leaving Profits to be made when money is more plentiful.

You may need Clothing now—we need money now. We will give you a lot of our Clothing for a very little of your money—if you come quick enough.

A loss accepted now on our Clothing and Boots and Shoes will enable us to thin out our big stocks in a short time. Whether you need Clothing or the Shoes for immediate use or not, it will pay you handsomely to buy now.

REMEMBER our Terms are SPOT CASH, but we return you your money if not amply satisfied.

Spain's Policy Defended by Ministers.

Madrid, Dec. 30.—In regard to the criticisms of the Government's inaction, it is pointed out in Ministerial circles that the Spanish Cabinet has invariably protested against "the attempts of the United States to intervene in Cuba," and that President McKinley's message, however incorrect, did not adopt the comminatory tone of President Cleveland's; that the "weakness of Senor Canovas in yielding to the demands of the United States in the Competitor, Alliance and Mora affairs increased the difficulties of Senor Sagasta in combating similar demands, and that, anyhow, a return to the policy of Senor Canovas, who, it is alleged, sent 200,000 troops to Cuba, and expended two millions without result, is impossible.

Weak Nerves.

Nerve weakness accompanies heart trouble — both are curable by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, the successful invigorator. Those who use them praise them. Here is one. "My nerves were completely unstrung," says Mrs. H. Church, Caledonia, Ont.; "and palpitation, loss of memory and shortness of breath troubled me greatly. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were beneficial from the first, and removed these troubles in a remarkably short time. They made me feel better in every way."

Forsyth's Faultless Catarrh Cure should be kept in every home; if used rightly would save a world of trouble.

That aching head can be instantly relieved by taking one of Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders. 1 powder 5c., 3 for 10c., 10 for 25c.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

Councillor Dawson presented the report of the Committee of the Whole, as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee of the Whole to which was referred the charges against the Chief of Police, beg leave to report that the charges were not sustained, and that the Chief is exonerated from deserving any censure in connection with any of the charges.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ADAM DAWSON,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

In speaking to the report Mr. Dawson paid a tribute to the efficiency of the town officials, making special mention of Town Clerk Armstrong and Treasurer Brownscombe. The town, he thought, had a most capable staff from the lowest to the highest official. Before resuming his seat he brought up another matter in urging that the fire hall drivers be ordered to turn out with their snowploughs in case of snowstorms instead of waiting until the storm was over.

Councillor Maldrum spoke to the same effect.

Councillor McWilliams stated that he had been trying to do this for some time and he was glad the council was getting educated up to his ideas on the subject, but it would have been better if they had thought this way eleven months ago instead of just prior to the election.

Councillor Leplante thought that as the Chief of Police had been exonerated by a resolution, similar action should be taken in respect to the Town Solicitor, who had been unjustly spoken of in the same connection.

Councillor McWilliams stated in reply that if the investigation had gone on before a judge when the witnesses had been under oath there would have been revelations made which would have opened the eyes of the council considerably. Since he had taken the matter up fresh evidence was being brought to him every day, the nature of which was astounding. He had been told of a young man who, after being on a spree was locked up for three or four days and on leaving the cells was given a glass of whiskey and a flask by the police, and then asked to try and trap a hotelkeeper. When he made the motion regarding the investigation, he did it as a member of the council and as a man who had sworn to do his duty in the interests of the community. He was the wrong man to try and pound in the council as he came there to do his duty and the matter of the investigation was not buried yet by any means.

Councillor Neill stated that whilst in Toronto recently he had been informed by a prominent legal firm that Mr. E. B. Edwards was one of the best municipal solicitors in the country. If he had made a false step it should have been taken up in a different manner. He moved, seconded by Councillor Leplante, that "Mr. Edwards has done his duty to the satisfaction of this council."—Carried.

SOME RESOLUTIONS.

On motion of Councillors Robertson and Deane, the Peterborough Poultry and Pet Stock Association, was granted the use of the market building for their exhibition in January.

Councillor McWilliams, chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, reported, verbally, that he had called a meeting of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., the Auburn Power Co. and the Bell Telephone Co., and that they had come to an amicable agreement as to the placing of the poles of the Auburn Co.

Councillor Maldrum reported that Supt. Tiffin, of the G.T.R., had called him up over the telephone to say that as the frost had set in it would be impossible to obtain gravel to widen the embankment at this end of the Auburn bridge, and, therefore, there was no other way of laying the proposed sidewalk but upon posts and stringers. Supt. Tiffin, however, will be here next week to settle the matter definitely.

The time for the completion of the sewer section under contract to Kennedy & Wade was extended to August 1st, 1898, and releasing the contractors from any penalty incurred through not finishing the work on Dec. 15th as agreed upon. The contractors had great difficulty to contend with in the way of water on Aylmer street south, but under the careful supervision of the Town Engineer, the operations on the sewer system have been most satisfactorily carried on this fall.

Just before adjournment Councillor McWilliams rose stating that he was sure the members all felt very keenly over the regretted death of Mr. John Barnham and as a last mark of esteem he moved that the council turn out in a body and attend the funeral on Friday. The motion was seconded by Councillor Best and carried on a standing vote.

THE MAYORALTY CONTEST.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—On my arrival home this morning from Paris my attention was drawn to Mr. Yelland's address to the electors and also to the report of his speech on nomination day, where he makes some very grave and most untruthful charges, both against Mr. Davis, Mr. Kendry and myself, and practically against everyone of Mr. Davis' supporters. As a prevaricator of the truth Mr. Yelland has shown himself capable of making any statement to bolster his own cause. As for example he says, "My opponent is a gentleman for whom I have the highest respect." These are words of a friend, but in the next sentence he eats his own words and taking pattern from a cloven-footed gentlemen, reptile-like, spits out his venom in these words, "It must be apparent that the auspices under which he (Mr. Davis) is brought out indicates that his election is sought for the purpose of serving the selfish aims of his principal supporters, and as a reward also for what he has already done, for it was through him the Auburn Power Co., represented by Messrs. Kendry & Meldrum, obtained the remission of $400 a year for rent of poles, although but a few months previously a bylaw had been solemnly passed, imposing such a rental." No doubt it was a solemn scene with the mayor calling out—'Where are we now?' Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough, I ask you, would you call the above venomous insult to Mr. Davis the words of a friend, for whom he (Mr. Yelland) says he has the highest respect? Answer by your ballot. It is, however, on a par with the actions of the same. Mr. Yelland suing his own grandchild, an infant, in his greed for money, a thing so disgraceful that it merits the contempt of every member of our community, the perpetrator of which is not fit to hold the office of poundkeeper, let alone that of Mayor of Peterborough. He practically charges Mr. Davis with being a purchasable commodity. The statement of Mr. Yelland that it was through Mr. Davis that the Auburn Power Co. obtained the remission of $400 is doubly false. First, that Mr. Davis had nothing more to do with it than Mr. Yelland had till the vote was taken, and second that all the town could have compelled the Auburn Power Co. to pay was $200 instead of $400 as stated by Mr. Yelland. And legally, I am told, under the existing bylaw, the town could not collect a cent. Where was Mr. Yelland when the lighting contract came up last year, when the Auburn Power Company offered to supply, and light the town for $57.50 per lamp? Mr. Yelland, instead of looking after the interest of the town, and saving ratepayers' money, went off fishing and shirked the vote that would have saved the town thousands of dollars in the next seven years. Last year Mr. Yelland, as head of the council, bound this town of Peterborough and its citizens for seven years to pay the sum of $65.00 per lamp per year to the Peterborough Light and Power Co. A difference of $7.50 per lamp per year, or over $5,000.00 in seven years of the ratepayers' money thrown away, or rather given away as a premium to the Peterborough Light and Power Co. for lighting the town. And he now wants to make the Peterborough Light and Power Co. a further present of $400.00 per year or $2,400.00, to what end? He says it is impossible for Mr. Davis to fill the mayor's chair impartially. Fellow citizens, does it not strike you that Mayor Yelland's offer is a bribe for the Light & Power Co., and the Dickson Co's. support in the present contest? Is this what you elect a mayor for? I say, "no." In reference to the supply of electric power or the Auburn Power Co., the only interest I have, as I stated in the council, is as a member of the Auburn Woollen Co., and for which company I act as manager of the Power Co., and look after, in connection with my own business, the electric department of their business. I felt with the large majority of the council that the best way to induce manufacturers to locate here and help to build up the town was to offer cheap power delivered anywhere in the town, and thus give employment to labour, as many mechanics can start a small factory that have not the means of starting in a large way. The Auburn Power Co. only have exemption on their poles so long as they confine themselves to the supply of power, if they touch light, then they must pay the rental. The people, to make progress, must of necessity have cheap power and cheap light. Can we get it by putting a tax on it? Neither myself nor any other member of the Power Company approached Mr. Davis or any other member of the council asking their support for the exemption on their poles, neither did we wait on Mr. Davis and ask him to come out for mayor, although with all good citizens we were glad to see a man come out whom we could all respect in the chair, satisfied he would give fair play to all. Mr. Yelland practically charges Mr. Kendry and myself with buying Mr. Davis. I want to tell Mr. Yelland that a more untruthful statement was never made, for a greater libel perpetrated on an upright and respected citizen of our town than the statement in his address, and no man knows it better than Mr. Yelland that Mr. Davis has been a consistent and respected member of the Methodist church his whole life time, and in libelling Mr. Davis he practically casts a slur on the whole Methodist body.

Regarding Mr. Yelland's spite against myself, it is so childish and petty that I would brush him off like a blue bottle fly in summer—lots of noise and nothing in him.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space and your courtesy, I am,

Your truly,
W. H. MELDRUM.

Peterborough, Dec. 30th.

THE W.C.T.U. AND THE ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Here are a few lines I hope you will insert in the interests of the W.C.T.U. As this is a very busy time among our electors, I thought that, as we had no votes as a Union, we could say a little to the lady friends in town who have votes. In reading both sides of the candidates, there is something wrong it seems to me. If we have good men in the field, as they claim to be, I don't see there is any need of their being so busy in sending their cards or addresses and calling at the houses, for I am sure you won't see them till another year comes round again. They don't know you after that. But, Mr. Editor, there is very little said about the curse that is blighting many a home in this town. Both rich and poor are sharing alike in that respect. And as for some of them to tell you they are temperance men, we will judge the future by the past; and we won't need to wait long either, by appearances. But it is to the ladies who have a chance to vote I would say, be careful whom you vote for. If I had a vote and voted for the liquor side I would be ashamed to think I had done such. Just think for one moment how many places in town sell liquor groceries. These are the places where more harm is done than in hotels. I ask the women of the town to vote for God and Home and Native Land.

Yours very sincerely,
MEMBER OF W.C.T.U.

CARD TO THE ELECTORS.

The rumour having been circulated by an interested person in No. 2 Ward, for the purpose of injuring my candidature, that I, and another candidate, are brought out by a clique with the object of dropping or injuring the Chief of Police, I wish on behalf of myself to most emphatically deny any such statement. It is absolutely without foundation. My sole object in seeking to enter the council is to advance the interests of No. 2 Ward and the town.

WHAT IS A "SHARD?"

In Rudyard Kipling's "Recessional" an expression occurs which has puzzled some readers almost as much as a bit of Browning:

"For heathen hearts that put their trust
In reeking tube or iron shard."

He is evidently deprecating that mere Jingoism that vaunts its brute force. Reeking tubes are the big guns, but Iron Shard is the expression that puzzles most. A shard is the hard outside wing case that some beetles wear, and in poetic imagination corresponds to the armour of our big battle ships. Their "wings" are now in the vital body of the ship, and these "wings" are protected by a shard, or a case of armour plates. Hence the expression "iron shard."

HURRAH FOR THE THISTLES.

They do on the Ice This Season Stronger Than Ever and With Renewed Life.

At a largely attended and most enthusiastic meeting of the Thistle Curling Club last evening the skips and rinks were chosen for the season, and as the result of the gathering new life appears to be infused into the curlers and the season's sport will be entered upon with the keenest zest.

The arrangement of the schedule of matches will allow every curler his full share of the ice in the evenings. Two of the three rinks will be almost continually occupied for the next month in running off the LeBrun Medal, Kendry Cup and Innes Medal series, and the third rink will be left open for scratch matches. By the reserving of the ice for the scheduled matches every player will have an equal opportunity of getting his full share of the curling without having to be at the rink door before it opens, which will make it far more equable for all.

The rinks and skips were chosen as follows:—

I.	II.
R A W Hay, Wm Hamilton, Wm Salisbury, Miles Hamilton, sk	H Snowdon, Jno D Baptie, C McGill, T Rutherford, sk.
III.	IV.

The management committee was instructed to confer with the Granites with the object of arranging a bonspell on New Year's day to decide the ownership for the season of the cup won by the Peterborough Colts in the Midland Association. Each club will furnish six rinks and three matches will be played off in the morning and three in the afternoon, if the arrangements can be completed.

MAYORALTY CONTEST!

To the Electors of the Town of Peterborough:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a large and influential number of citizens, representing all classes of the community, I have consented to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the coming year.

Although I had decided to retire from Municipal life this year, yet I could not in the face of the solicitation of so many electors refuse to accept of the nomination so urgently pressed upon me. I felt it both an honour and a duty to accede to their wishes, and now solicit your vote and influence.

The Town of Peterborough requires that her legislators must be active, watchful and careful: active in placing her splendid natural facilities as a commercial and manufacturing centre before the world; watchful that the ratepayers' money shall be wisely, economically and judiciously expended; and careful in carrying out a policy of progress and economy, so that our Town may benefit in the race for supremacy without burdening the ratepayers with heavy taxation. Unless a policy of this kind is pursued, our Town will retrograde, and her mechanics, artisans and labourers be forced to look outside for their livelihood and eventually move from our midst.

If elected, I shall use my best endeavours to advance the interests of all classes of ratepayers. Being in close touch with the business men and manufacturers, I feel that I can look after their interests carefully and intelligently, while at the same time I shall use every effort to promote such legislation as will seek to benefit the working classes, and use every means at my disposal to keep down the rate of taxation.

During my term in Council I supported the advocacy of a fair day's pay for a fair day's work—and nine hours a day for corporation employees. If elected I shall continue to do this, and in addition will favour the insertion of a clause of similar character in all contracts let by the Town for public works.

Should time permit, I will endeavour to see you personally and place my views more fully before you, but should I be unable to do so, I hereby respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season, I am

Your obedient servant,
A. L. DAVIS.

Peterborough, December 17th, 1897.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 4

Having been again requested to stand for Councillor for this ward, I have accepted the nomination and respectfully solicit your votes and influence. My record as one of your representatives in the council and my position in regard to the leading questions before the ratepayers, are well known to you all. I am therefore quite willing to leave myself in your hands and to be judged accordingly. If elected I will continue to exercise the same care in future over the interests of the town as in the past, keeping in mind, principally, to encourage an economical and consistent policy in the management of our corporation affairs.

Your obedient servant,
JOHN M. WHITE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 1

At the request of many of the intelligent ratepayers of No. 1 Ward to again become a candidate for Councillor, I have consented to do so and would respectfully solicit your votes and support.

Being a large property holder in the town, my interest in the honest management of municipal affairs should be a sufficient guarantee that I would always favour the most careful economy—at the same time exercising my best judgment in promoting the growth, progress and prosperity of the town.

Yours respectfully,
NOAH T. LePLANTE.

December 28th, 1897.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 1

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Having again been honoured with the nomination as Councillor for the "Banner Ward," I hereby solicit your votes and influence to place me in the council for 1898. If you do me this honour I pledge myself to use my best judgment and most diligent efforts to advance all the interests of this ward and of the town generally, and to continue to insist upon as rigid economy in civic expenditure as is consistent with efficient management of the affairs of our progressive town.

I have the honour to be,
Your obedient servant,
CHARLES B. ROBERTSON.

TO THE RATEPAYERS — OF — WARD NO. 2

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

At the request of many ratepayers of Ward No. 2, I have decided to accept the nomination as Candidate for election as one of your Councillors for 1898.

I ask the hearty support of all ratepayers and if elected will do all in my power to further the interests of the town and to ensure, as far as possible, practical and economical administration of affairs during the year. As the time is short I am unable to make a thorough personal canvas, but trust to have your support.

TO THE MUNICIPAL ELECTORS — OF — WARD NO. 2

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been urged by a number of the influential ratepayers of Ward No. 2 to become a candidate for Councillor in this important Ward, I have decided to accept nomination.

I therefore beg leave to respectfully solicit the votes and influence of the electors of the Ward, and promise that the interests of this Ward and the town shall receive my best attention, in case I should be elected by your valued support.

As I may be unable to make a personal canvas of all the electors before polling day, I trust those whom I may not be able to see will lend me their valuable support and influence.

Respectfully yours,
W. L. ALLEN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD NO. 2

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Having been nominated a candidate for ward No. 2, I respectfully solicit your support. If elected I am prepared to give my best attention to the affairs pertaining to that office, to promote the best interests of the town, to support a policy of progress and industry in a legitimate and fair manner, governed by strict economy and even-handed justice.

Yours respectfully,
M. H. QUINLAN.

December 28th, 1897.

TO THE MUNICIPAL ELECTORS — OF — WARD NO. 2

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 28th, 1897.

At the request of numerous ratepayers of this, the most important business ward of the town, I have accepted nomination as Councillor for 1898. I therefore take this opportunity of soliciting your votes and influence—of the ladies as well as of the gentlemen. If you do me the honour of electing me for this important position, I pledge myself to use my best judgment to forward the interests of Peterborough as your representative.

Being a large manufacturer and property holder in town, it will certainly be to my interest to support whatever will assist in advancing the interests of the municipality, so as to make it one of the most important business centres in the province. As far as lies in my power, I will also favour rigid economy in civic expenditure consistent with the efficient management of our town affairs.

Yours truly,
D. BELLINGHEM.

HER INTERESTING STORY.

A well-known Brighton lady tells what she thinks regarding Heart Trouble, and how to cure it.

Mrs. Stephen P. Clapp tells what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for her.

Mrs. Clapp says, "I have been a sufferer from extreme nervousness for years, and for the last two years my heart has troubled me greatly. I could not sleep soundly, and would often awaken with a start, together with a curious feeling as if my heart had stopped beating, and it would be some time before I could recover myself. At times I became very dizzy, and a mist gathered before my eyes. I have taken many kinds of patent medicines, but could get nothing to relieve me. Finally I received a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and am glad to say that they gave me relief in a very short time. I now sleep well, my nerves are steady and strong, and I am better in every way than I have been for years.

I can recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills very highly to those suffering from any trouble affecting the heart and nerves, for I know that they have been a great boon to me."

THE FOUNTAIN OF LOVE.

[Lines suggested by Jean Ernest Aubert's painting of the above title.]

O happy pair! What is't you see Reflected in this glassy stream?
Two faces lit with ecstasy,
Like faces in a blissful dream.
Behind you stands with ready dart
Young Cupid, love's own messenger,
O maid and man, ere you depart
Your lips will something sweet aver.
But could this purling brook reveal the future, too,
Would love be welcome then, fond hearts, to both of you?

Love is a sweet and dangerous thing,
A story told with subtle tongue,
An insect with a grievous sting
We know not of till we are stung.
A bird of golden plumage, sought
With avidness; a budding tree
Not yet in fruit. We know not what
The fruit of two young lives will be.
Young may be roses. Alas, alas, was one time leaves.
What more? Was not Rebekah's Esau? Cain was Eve's.
—St. George Rust in Good Housekeeping.

D-O-D-D-S

THE PECULIARITIES OF THIS WORD.

No Name on Earth [so Famous—No Name [More Widely Imitated.

No name on earth, perhaps, is so well known, more peculiarly constructed or more widely imitated than the word DODD. It possesses a peculiarity that makes it stand out prominently and fastens it in the memory. It contains four letters, but only two letters of the alphabet. Everyone knows that the first kidney remedy ever patented or sold in pill form was named DODD'S. Their discovery startled the medical profession the world over, and revolutionized the treatment of kidney diseases.

No imitator has ever succeeded in constructing a name possessing the peculiarity of DODD, though they nearly all adopt names as similar as possible in sound and construction to this. Their foolishness prevents them realising that attempts to imitate increase the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Why is the name "Dodd's Kidney Pills" imitated? As well ask why are diamonds and gold imitated. Because diamonds are the most precious gems, gold the most precious metal. Dodd's Kidney Pills are imitated because they are the most valuable medicine the world has ever known.

No medicine was ever named kidney pills till years of medical research gave Dodd's Kidney Pills to the world. No medicine ever cured Bright's disease except Dodd's Kidney Pills. No other medicine has cured as many cases of Rheumatism, Diabetes, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Dropsy, Female Weakness, and other kidney diseases as Dodd's Kidney Pills have. It is universally known that they have never failed to cure these diseases, hence they are so widely and shamelessly imitated.

One Bad Effect.

Wife—John, don't you think you had better give up trying to shave yourself and go back to the barber?

Husband—Why, of course not. See how much I save every month.

Wife—Yes, I know that, but then Willie is always around you when you shave, and he is learning so many bad words.—London Fun.

An Exception.

Fuddy—There's much truth in the saying, "Seeing is believing."

Duddy—But it has its exceptions, like all other rules. I have seen your friend Archer a great many times.—Boston Transcript.

UNCLE SAM'S MENAGERIE.

Animals Kept at the Department of Agriculture For Experimental Purposes.

It is not generally known that the department of agriculture has a menagerie in connection with it, but such is the case. The menagerie is not a very large one, nor does it contain any rare or strange animals. Most of them are of the domestic variety.

It is a part of the division of animal industry, and the animals are used to develop interesting cases of disease and to illustrate the effects of an epidemic of a particular kind which the division may wish to experiment on with a view of stamping it out and to test various kinds of foods of which a trial is thought to be efficacious.

Comprised in this collection of animals are rats and mice, guinea pigs, rabbits, different sorts of fowls, some cattle and sheep and a few others. The larger of the animals are kept at the breeding place of the department, on the Benning road, while others are domiciled in the basement of the division of animal industry laboratory, near the bureau of engraving and printing.

Down in the basement, under the laboratory, which was visited recently by a reporter, were seen a number of coops and cages, in which were grouped guinea pigs, rabbits and chickens. The animals seemed to be perfectly at home and formed a seemingly happy family, as some guinea pigs were in the cage with rabbits. One of the little white and black creatures was nibbling at the whiskers of a sleepy looking rabbit, which blinked contentedly, as if it enjoyed the operation or was too lazy to resist any trespass on the part of the guinea pig.

A dilapidated looking chicken, which had much the same appearance as has a trump who has been forced to saw wood for a meal at a "friendly inn," rested on top of a cage. The guinea pigs seemed to be the life of the place and ran in and out with apparently little or no concern whether "school kept or not."

On some of the cages where the rabbits were confined, printed in large black letters, was the word "rabies." Upon the cards also were the warnings to the attendants and others not to put their hands in the cages. This meant that the animals had been inoculated with hydrophobia virus, and it was therefore dangerous to handle the animals. A further precaution taken in such cases, it is said, is not to inoculate animals carnivorous by nature, as they become terribly ferocious, or any animals whose chief means of defense is by biting.

A cat or dog, for instance, will strive to bite when afflicted with the disease, while a rabbit, which is purely a vegetarian, will simply mope and die without making any resistance.

It was stated that one steer, which had the "blackleg," remained at one of the experiment stations for about eight years, and the persons there really became attached to it.—Washington Star.

THEIR FAME WORLD WIDE.

Health, Strength, Happiness Mark Where Doddi's Kidney Pills Have Been Used.

Glencoe, Dec. 20.—From city to city town to town, village to village and over the broad fields of the Dominion, the fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the medical marvel of the century, the only infallible cure on earth for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Lame Back, and all other kidney diseases, is spreading.

London reported two wonderful cures by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, within two weeks. Glencoe has a case quite as startling.

W. J. Nugent suffered for years with Kidney Disease and Piles. Doctors couldn't help him. Every remedy he tried failed till he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. A few boxes cured him.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a unfailing cure for all diseases caused by impaired kidneys and impure blood.

A Good Reason.

Manders is very severe on his little son. He says that that boy has got to grow up a sensible member of society, and he (Manders) will see that he does. He had just spoken very sharply to the boy for asking questions without thinking what he was asking, and Tommy was sitting in the corner with his eyes fixed on the ceiling.

"Do you think you will get a prize for good conduct at school, Tommy?" asked mamma, anxious to create a diversion.

"I don't think so, ma," responded Tommy timidly.

"How's that?" asked Manders sternly before mamma could interfere. "Haven't you been behaving yourself? Why won't you get a prize for good conduct? Answer me at once."

"Cos they don't give any, father," answered the boy.

Father was caught himself, and when he saw his wife smile he went out and slammed the door after him.—Pearson's Weekly.

Sour Milk Biscuit.

Sour milk biscuits are made by rubbing a tablespoonful of shortening into a quart of flour. Add half a teaspoonful of salt. Moisten half a teaspoonful of soda in 2 tablespoonfuls of warm water. Stir it into half a pint of sour milk. Stir this into the flour. You may have to add a little more milk, but do not add any more soda. Knead quickly, roll out on a board, cut into biscuits and bake in a quick oven for 20 minutes.—Ladies' Home Journal.

His Fault.

"Absentminded!" exclaimed the woman whose husband worries her. "He's the most absentminded man that ever lived. He's the kind of person who, if he were going to the Klondike, would be as likely as not to leave the cook stove behind and take along the refrigerator."—Washington Star.

A Charming Gift.

"What did the professor give his bride for her birthday?"

"A tabulated statement of all the different mistakes his Greek scholars made during the term."—Fliegende Blatter.

Pallid faces indicate pale, thin blood. Rosy cheeks show the pure, rich blood resulting from taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

None So Excellent.

"I have been troubled with sick headache for over a year. Lately I have used Laxa Liver Pills, and find that they help me more than any other medicine I have ever taken. They are an excellent pill, causing no pain or griping, and leaving no after ill effects."

DEATH OF COL. BOWEN.

A Veteran of the Southern Cause Died at St. Catharines, Aged 81.

St. Catharines, Ont., Dec. 29.—Colonel James L. Bowen died at his residence, the Hermitage, yesterday, aged 81 years. The Colonel was born in New York. He was educated in the South, completing his studies in Louisiana. A few years prior to the civil war, he ran for Congress on the Democratic ticket and at that time predicted the civil war. In 1861 he entered the southern army as an engineer and won the rank of colonel of the engineer corps. He made maps of many important battlefields, notably those of Bull Run and Shiloh and many of the war maps are still preserved at his home. He was in the army till the close of the campaign. Deceased was a man of much ability. He spoke in the interests of General Breckinridge and went to Washington to speak for the Southern cause. He was a prominent writer. When the Southern cause was lost the Colonel, who was one of these Southerners who would not be reconstructed, came to Canada and settled here.

High-Grade Cemetery Work

AT A MODERATE PRICE.

The element of permanence which attaches to the erection of any memorial to the dead renders it highly desirable that no mistake be made in the selection either of design or of materials.

A mistake is a serious matter. Let us help you to make a right decision. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being over-decorated.

We manufacture from all first-quality granites, and as WE SELL DIRECT TO CONSUMER, we save the latter all agents' profits. Then, too, there is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with one responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

All our work is guaranteed, NO CHARGE being made if not strictly according to contract. Write us for designs and estimates.

It is a blessed period in a woman's life when a dear little stranger comes driving down out of cloudland to make its home in her heart and call her mother. Yet the majority of women approach this time with fear and misgiving both for themselves and the expected little one. The mother's heart foreboded some weakness or imperfection in the baby while the womanly nature fears its own sufferings; and perhaps a little spice of vanity about her figure makes her dread that its attractive contour may be destroyed by maternity.

But as a matter of fact when a woman is in perfect health and condition, motherhood should only serve to enhance and accentuate her physical attractiveness. Every expectant mother should know and avail herself of the health-giving, nerve-toning properties of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives specific strength and endurance to the organism of maternity; promotes thorough, healthy, constitutional vigor and recuperative energy. It makes motherhood safe and comparatively comfortable; insures the baby's perfection and preserves the mother's buoyant spirit and womanly attractiveness.

Mrs. Elisabeth Hull, 27 Merrick Street, Pawtucket, R. I., writes: "I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and cannot speak too well of it. I have had fifteen babies, and always had a bad time. Sometimes I had to have two doctors. I began taking your 'Prescription' last July, and in September I gave birth to two little girls, and I never had such an easy time. I had no doctor, and was not in pain half of the time as before. My weight is about two hundred pounds. My twins when born weighed ten pounds each. They are fine girls, now four months old."

In many cases where constipation is one of the aggravating causes of disease, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used in conjunction with the "Favorite Prescription." They are the simplest and most perfectly natural laxative ever invented.

A MAD CAPTAIN.

BY CHARLES D. LEWIS.

On the 3d of October, in the year 1860, the British bark Arab left the mouth of the Ganges for a run to Liverpool, and that was the beginning of as strange a voyage as a vessel ever made. She was a small and tidy craft, carrying a crew of 12 men, and Captain Thomas Johnson had sailed her for five years, and was accounted a thorough seaman and reliable in all respects. He was then about 40 years old, and there were few men on land or sea who were his match in strength. A dead weight which two sailors could not move at all did not seem to call for half his muscular powers, and at a pull on a rope he could drag any three of his crew across the deck. We had been lying at Calcutta two months before the start for home, and during the last two weeks of this time the captain had been ashore and left things entirely to Mr. Samples, the mate. He came aboard only a few hours before we sailed, and the four or five men in the crew who had sailed with him before noticed a change in him. He was moody and sullen and fault finding, and there was a change in his voice, which grated harshly. Instead of overseeing things, he retired to his cabin, and it was only when we were clear of the river that he came on deck. Then he had very little to say to his mates, and his conduct was so unlike him that there was a good deal of talk fore and aft.

This was my third voyage in the Arab. I had been entered on the first as cabin boy and on the second and third as an apprentice, although I still had certain duties to perform in the cabin. I thus saw more of the captain than any one else, and perhaps had more speech with him. We were scarcely out of sight of land before I found him weeping. An hour later he detained me to hear a droll story, and he laughed over the climax with seeming heartiness. His sleep was broken at night, and during the day he prowled about like a caged animal. I couldn't make him out at all, and others were equally puzzled, and we passed three very uncomfortable days and nights before anything particular happened to explain matters.

On the morning of the fourth day, as the men of the morning watch were washing down the decks and as a large ship was approaching us from the south, Captain Johnson came on deck only half dressed, and without a word to any one he ran up a signal of distress with his own hands. Then he ordered sail reduced and the bark brought to the wind, and when Mr. Samples asked what was wrong he received no reply.

The stranger, who proved to be an American, was brought to the wind within a cable's length of us, and Captain Johnson went off to her in a boat. He told the American that his mates had threatened his life and he wanted protection. The stranger returned with him, questioned mates and men and advised that the Arab return to Calcutta. It was his opinion that Captain Johnson was crazy, and a continuance of the voyage would be almost certain to lead to disaster. The advice was good, but the trouble was to follow it. The captain of a man-of-war could have acted according to his judgment, but when it came to the mates taking possession of the ship and restraining their superior officer it was a different case. Unless a court decided that the captain was really insane such action on their part would land them in prison. The person of a captain at sea is about as sacred in the eyes of the law as that of a king on his throne.

While Captain Johnson did not hear what the American proposed, having retired to his cabin as soon as he returned aboard, he suspected that he was being plotted against. He called me down to him and said that the mates intended to take his life and then turn the Arab into a pirate craft. An old woman had put him on his guard when ashore, and he had prepared for trouble. He ordered me to get out a box which was stored in his room, and when I had opened it I found that it contained six revolvers and a thousand cartridges to fit. By his direction I loaded all the weapons, and he placed two of them in his pockets and said he would kill the first man who laid hand on him. We went on deck together. The American had resumed his course, while our own craft was lying to. The captain took out one of the pistols and walked up to Mr. Samples and quietly said:

"I am master of this craft. She is bound to Liverpool, and to Liverpool she will go. I have my eye on you and all others, and the first move made against me will result in the death of every man aboard. Get the bark on her course, sir, and say to the crew that the conspiracy is discovered and my preparations made to take care of myself."

There was only one thing to do—obey. The yards were running, the Arab headed on her course, and after promenading up and down for an hour the captain went below and locked himself in his room. While I watched at the companionway, the mates and two or three of the oldest men forward held a conversation. While all were agreed that the captain was "queer" in his conduct, it was also agreed that he could not be interfered with unless his actions menaced the safety of ship and crew. There was hope that he might grow better, and it was understood that he was not to be interfered with unless he became a positive menace. The next four or five days passed without incident of importance. The navigation was left entirely to Mr. Samples. During most of the day Captain Johnson stuck to his cabin, sometimes sleeping for three or four hours at a stretch and again sitting with folded hands and gazing into vacancy. At night he would pace the deck for hours at a time, walking with bent head and stooped shoulders and seeming to be utterly oblivious of all surroundings. He spoke to no one, and no one addressed him. He ate his meals regularly, but did not have much appetite. On the eighth day of the voyage, soon after midday, a British man-of-war coming out of the gulf of Aden hove into view, and Captain Johnson ran up a signal of distress and lay to as before. As the stranger came down on us and prepared to answer the signal, the Arab was suddenly headed on her course by order of the crazy captain.

This maneuver excited the ire and suspicion of the man-of-war, and a gun was fired as a command for us to lie to. No heed was given it, and then came another, and a third, and then she spread all sail in pursuit and followed us until midnight before giving up the chase. During the first hour of the chase Captain Johnson chuckled and laughed and was greatly pleased, but by and by he went to his cabin and threw himself down for a nap. Some of the crew demanded of Mr. Samples that he reduce sail and permit the bark to be overhauled and the captain's mental condition investigated, but he refused to take the chances.

The ninth and tenth days passed without incident. If there was any change in Captain Johnson's condition, it was for the worse. He no longer spoke to me or seemed to notice my presence in the cabin, and, though he sat down to his meals as before, he scarcely tasted of them. He never went on deck without his pistols, and they were always within reach as he lay in his berth or sat at the table.

On the forenoon of the eleventh day we sighted a Dutch brig, and the captain ran up the signal of distress and stopped her. He called for two men to row him aboard, and he took with him four of the six revolvers. As soon as he was aboard of the stranger he commanded her crew to go below. He recognized her as a noted pirate, he said, and had sworn to capture her single handed if he ever fell in with her. He was at first laughed at, but when it was realized that he was in earnest a rush was made to disarm him. He at once opened fire and killed two men and wounded three, and he might have exterminated the crew had not one of the men who rowed him aboard resorted to a ruse. He called to the crazy man that the Arab was making ready to sail away without them, and the next moment the captain was down in the boat and urging them to row for their lives. It was feared that he might use his weapons as soon as he got aboard, but he went directly to his cabin, washed his hands and combed his hair and seemed to have forgotten that anything unusual had occurred.

Mr. Samples got the bark on her course without orders, but when he had learned the full particulars of the tragedy aboard the brig he decided that something must be done. I was set to watch while the men concocted a plan. It was finally decided to seize the captain as he came on deck after supper, which was his usual custom. A man was stationed on either side of the companion, and I was to get hold of the pistols if I could and empty the chambers. When I entered the cabin with this object in view, the captain sternly ordered me out and locked and barricaded all the doors and windows.

Here was a new complication and a bad one. No one dared move against the cabin, and the mates were hurried out of their quarters. No chart or instrument could be got at, and the time had come when the law would back us in any step we might take. Mr. Samples was a very cautious man, however, and after a long consultation it was agreed to wait and see what the morning would bring forth.

It was well that such an understanding was reached. About sunrise the next morning we were overhauled by a Russian man-of-war, and as she came up we signaled our distress. Mr. Samples went off to her and reported, and she sent an officer and ten marines aboard to secure Captain Johnson. He had not once been heard from during the night, and some of our crew believed he had committed suicide. As the marines came over the rail the captain suddenly rushed on deck, pistols in hand, and he fired two shots and killed two men in their tracks. Then he rushed back to the cabin and called out that he would defend himself to the last. The Russian officer returned to his ship for instructions, and a paper was drawn up and signed by every man of our crew. Then the marines were ordered to attack the cabin and shoot Captain Johnson down if he refused to surrender. The crew of the Arab went aloft to be out of the way, and at about 10 o'clock the attack began.

The first shot was promptly replied to, and it wounded a marine and sent him out of the fight. Ten minutes later one was killed, and soon after that a second was wounded. Then six more men were sent for, and when the fight had been going on for nearly two hours a sudden rush burst open the cabin doors. The mad captain stood there, defiant as ever, and fired a shot which dropped a man, but ere he could pull the trigger again he was riddled with bullets and the reign of terror was over. The Arab was conveyed back to Madras and the case went to the courts. We were cleared by the verdict after weeks of delay, and it was the opinion of medical experts that poor Captain Johnson had been attacked by what is familiarly known in India as the "jungle madness." Instead of betraying itself as a fever it took the form of insanity, and it was considered surprising that he did not attack his own crew and wipe them out to a man.

How Long Will This Piano Last?

The above question is asked by almost every piano purchaser before making a decision.

If you are discussing a Chickering Piano there is an emphatic answer.

No matter what YOUR age rest assured the piano will outlive you.

There is no one living who has ever purchased a Chickering piano AND WORE IT OUT.

Think of the number of children to-day practising upon Chickering pianos purchased by their grandparents.

There are thousands of Chickering pianos so purchased and so used.

Perhaps, they are not as good as they were 50 or 60 or 70 years ago, but the marvel is that they are in use at all.

The majority of pianos by other makers are worn out in a third the period.

These are simple Chickering facts.

FROST and FURS and FOLKS

All co-operated on our behalf to make Xmas Week THE BEST we have known in our history.

We start the "New Year's" selling now, and none too early, as its but a step from holiday to holiday. The "New Year's" happiness must be looked after. Furs make the most comfortable, durable and pleasure-giving return gift one can possibly select. We have what you want.

Whatever is also needed in Furs for personal adornment and comfort is here.

A few lines were sold out but we are having them replaced at once from our workshops—The Largest and Finest Stock of Furs in Central Ontario is now at your disposal. Come and make an early selection.

We Wish All "The People" a Very Happy and Prosperous New Year.
